Rangers Clipped By Bruins Boucher Sidelined As Irvin Steals Leaf Formula

By JACK SULLIVAN, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Conn Smythe should sue Dick Irvin for plagiarism. The Toronto Maple Leafs president would have a good case if he wanted action following Irvin's disciplinary measure Wednesday night of leaving Captain Emile (Butch) Bouchard at home as his Montreal Canadiens left for a Thursday National Hockey League date with Chicago Black Hawks. Irvine's reason: Butch is anywhere from seven to nine pounds overweight. Dick, who has been knocking around the big leagues for a long time, should know this is old stuff. Didn't Smythe take the Leafs off the sports pages and land them smack on the news pages with his slimor-else ultimatum to Goalkeeper Turk Broda two years ago?

It was a monumental fight, known as the "battle of Broda's bulge" with newspaper reporters relaying to a feverish public the great fight the Turk was putting up to meet Smythe's standards. The Turk trimmed his waistline after missing one game and led the league in shutouts that season.

Bow to Bruins

The Irvin edict hit the sports pages on a comparatively dull evening for the NHL. Only one game was on tap and it had a sad ending for 10,737 New York Ranger fans as the Blueshirts lost 3-1 to Boston Bruins in their 1951-52 home debut.

It broke a last-place deadlock between the two clubs and left the Blueshirts five points off the pace set by the almost-unbeatable Detroit Red Wings. Rangers now have one victory and one tie in five games.

The fans who filed into Madison Square Garden for a look at the 1951 edition of the Rangers had hardly taken their seats when Don Raleigh pushed one past Sugar Jim Henry on passes from Nick Mickoski and rookie defenceman Hy Buller. But it was a short-lived lead.

Less than a minute later Dunc Fisher passed to Hal Laycoe who was stationed in front of Chuck Rayner and the former Ranger evened the count. Johnny Peirson made it 2-1—and the game—before the first period ended.

Adam Brown made sure of a Bruin victory in the third session on a solo rush the length of the ice.

The Montreal-Chicago clash is the only game scheduled for tonight.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Adam Brown, aggressive forward playing his first season with Boston Bruins after a tour with Chicago last year, joined the scoring leaders in Wednesday night's only National Hockey League game.

Brown scored an unassisted goal and helped on another as Bruins downed New York Rangers 3-1. That gave the husky winger six points, enough to put him at the top with George Gee of Chicago and Bert Olmstead, Maurice Richard, and Elmer Lach of Montreal.

Richard was forced to share his goal-scoring lead with Johnny Peirson of Boston who added a goal to his three in Wednesday's tilt. Olmstead and Lach have the most assists—five.

Barrie Bows To Marlboros, Fourth Drubbing

By The Canadian Press.

If the early season is any indication of what's to come, then the race for top place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League will be a hot one.

And it looks like Barrie Flyers, who won it all last year, may not be around for a share of the first division.

The Memorial Cup champion Flyers took their fourth defeat in six starts Wednesday night in Toronto as Marlboros kept their unbeaten skein intact with a 3-1 win.

Waterloo Hurricanes moved into fifth place by walloping winless St. Catharines Teepees 7-1 in Waterloo, the only other game played Wednesday night.

A cheduled game between Oshawa Generals and Galt Black Hawks in Oshawa was postponed. Generals "begged off" Wednesday night in order to prepare for an exhibition clash with Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League tonight.

Head Mainstay

Rookie netminder Don Head was the mainstay of the Marlboros in their victory. A small crowd saw Marlies build up a 3-0 lead then fade a bit before the hard-skating Flyers.

Wally Maxwell opened the scoring at 2:55 of the first period for Toronto. Second period goals by Eric Nesterenko and Parker MacDonald raised the count to 3-0 before Don McKenny tallied Barrie's lone counter in the finale.

Hurricanes started slowly, spotting Teepees a 1-0 lead in the first on a goal by Buddy Boone. In the second Jim Connelly, Johnny Wood and Jack Armstrong sank the goals that gave Waterloo a lead they never relinquished.

Armstrong accounted for another pair of markers in the third period. Larry Gibbs and Paul Oliver scored the others.

The result left Teepees with five losses and a tie in six starts.

Guelph Biltmores or Marlboros can take over first place from Kitchener Greenshirts with a win Friday. The teams clash at Guelph Friday. Both have nine points, one less than the leading Shirts.

Oshawa and Barrie will meet in a second division battle at Barrie and Galt will visit St. Catharines in other games Friday.

Bears Subdue Syracuse 6-3

By The Canadian Press.

Hershey Bears took over sole possession of first place in the eastern division of the American Hockey League Wednesday night, downing Syracuse Warriors 6-3.

In other games, Cleveland Barons outscored Buffalo Bisons 5-3 to go into a tie for third place with Indianapolis Capitals in the western division and Cincinnati Mohawks blanked Providence Reds 1-0.

At Hershey, the Bears walloped Syracuse in a rough-and-tumble battle to score their first win on home ice this season.

Arnie Kullman, speedy Bear winger, turned in a three-goal performance for the second time in less than a week.

Kullman and Harry Pidhirny scored in the opener to leave it all even at the buzzer. Jerry Toppazzini, Kullman and Real Chevrefils added three markers in slightly more than four minutes in the second period and the Warriors edged up when Leo Curick scored just before the bell.

Dave Creighton and Kullman scored for the Bears in the final and with one minute of play Armand Lemieux gave the Warriors a goal.

Great Days In Old Curling Club When W. G. Morrow Was Playing

In the records of Peterborough Curling Club, the W. G. Morrow Cup is listed as having been won by a W. G. Morrow rink in the district bonspiel here in February 1925. That is correct, but in the final game the skip was ill and had to turn his rink over to his vice-skip, Wm. H. Taylor.

Peterborough bonspiel in those years, with four trophies in competition, became a test of endurance for rinks that were winning in more than one of the four series of games. Those draws were run off almost simultaneously for the old Peterborough Challenge Cup, and three others: Matthews-Blackwell, Waddell and Morrow. As rinks lost in the early rounds of one, they concentrated on the opportunities that remained to them in the others.

W. G. Morrow had presented his trophy to the Curling Club, about the same time the Waddell and Mattews-Blackwell were received as gifts from their donors, one from the late R. M. Waddell and the other from T. Frank Matthews in the name of his company.

In the Morrow Cup games, "W. G." defeated John Steele of Millbrook, 17-11, in the preliminary round; and then took the next four rounds from W. M. (Pete) Lang by 10-9; Billy Oke of Port Hope, by 11-8; Dr. Harvie of Orillia by 18-3 and George Hill of Peterboroug by 13-7.

That left him the final round against Alex Kay. Change in the weather suggested postponement of the deciding game.

Too Ill To Curl

It was arranged for Feb. 20, and that day Mr. Morrow was not well enough to leave home.

His bonspiel rink had been: Manson Comstock, lead; Archie Moore, second; Wm. H. Taylor, vice-skip, and W. G. Morrow skip. In the final, Taylor took on the skip's job, and Harry Foote replaced him as vice.

The Kay rink in the final was slightly changed when the skip delegated the tee to his vice, Walter Oke, in a transposing of position, with D. Larmer as second and Leo Ackford lead. The score was 20-12 for the Morrow rink, but the game was an anti-climax to the bonspiel in the ultimate absence of the skip in the winning of his own cup.

In the bonspiel draws Morrow had also reached the semi-finals of the Matthews-Blackwell cup games, some of them running late at night. In the four-round, Morrow took his first defeat in those series from Ross Dobbin's rink by 13-9. The final game for the M.-B. trophy saw the defeat of Dobbin by Bob Edmunds of Millbrook 12-11, in a great finish.

Frank Carew of Lindsay took home the two other cups, the old Peterborough trophy and the Waddell. After the presentation of the prizes, the Lindsay four grabbed a late CNR way freight for home. That's an indication of the mode of winter travel back in 1925.

The members of Alex Kay's rink at the outset of the bonspiel were: Leo Ackford, Bill Montgomery, Walter Oke and Mr. Kay.

Curling In Toronto

At the same time, Ray Best and Jim Connal were in Toronto for the finals of the Ontario Tankard. Peterborough lost to Owen Sound by three shots in the deciding round.

The zest with which Mr. Morrow entered into curling recalled in his exclamation to W. H. Wood of Lindsay whom he had beaten in the third round of the Matthews-Blackwell: "Boys oh boys, that was the best curling I've had this winter. Be sure and come back next year."

"We'll be back if we're alive," Wood said. Frank Carew more than made up for the setback of the other rinks from his Lindsay club.

"W. G." was keen about curling, and he dearly liked to win. Opinion in the gallery, No. 8, often dubbed him the luckiest man in the club.

One night in the scheduled games he was faced with a shot that had to be perfect, and it looked mighty tough from behind the glass. But, he made it with groans from the 'I told you so chorus' behind the glass. One of those skeptical spectators tossed on to the near end of the rink a horse shoe some one had brought in.

It can be imagined that this reflection on the skip's proficiency nettled him, but Mr. Morrow passed it over in silence. The horseshoe was retrieved from the ice, and was nailed over the centre doors facing out on to the playing sheets. It remained there for years.

Those were great winters in the Charlotte St. rink, but there are few of the old guard left, veterans like Ray Best, Alex Kay, J. W. McDermid, Bill Taylor, Herb Martin, Alex Archibald, Ross Dobbin, and Ross Downey who was then in his sweeping days as lead and has now become one of the elders of the Curling Club.

Kitchener Gets James Farelli

KITCHENER, Oct. 25 (CP) — The feud between Galt Black Hawks and Kitchener Greenshirts of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series over the services of James Farelli of Capreol, Ont., ended Wednesday with an announcement that the 19-year-old defenceman will join Greenshirts immediately.

Centre of a major row between the two teams, Farelli was ordered to report to Kitchener by Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, to whom he belongs. Instead, he turned up in Galt.

When Kitchener officials tried to get in touch with him, he disappeared. Galt, meanwhile, appealed to the OHA and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to Grant Farelli a release from Fort William, where he played last year.

Tuesday, Red Hamill, coach of the Galt team, charged that Kitchener police had "frightened the pants off" Farelli in a telephone conversation. The charge was flatly denied here.

Canadiens persuaded the defenceman to visit Montreal for a talk about his hockey future. Farelli Wednesday announced from Montreal that he would be in Kitchener in a day or two.

He'll probably line up with the Shirts against Galt on Saturday night.

Broadway Critics Hail Ontario Actor's Role

NEW YORK, Oct. 25—(CP)—Broadway's critics today hail the two-player performance of Hume Cronyn and his real-life wife, Jessica Tandy, as the pleasantest comedy of the season.

Some of the pundits go further; some have reservations.

But they agree that the London, Ont.-born actor and his wife create, in "The Fourposter," a professional, polished and pleasant evening's entertainment.

The play itself is rated from "thin" to a "human and sentimental chronicle." But the critics agree that any lack of depth is more than offset by the performance of the stars and Jose Ferrer's direction.

The plot revolves around an ancient fourposter bed—the "symbol rather than the centre of married life." The Cronyns are the only players on-stage as the bed witnesses and backgrounds their 35 years of ordinary but tender relationship.

Brooks Atkinson in The New York Times extols the couple's "literate and professional work" and remarks that "no one else is needed" to bring out the best in Jan de Hartog's script.

Though the plot may be thin, it "never seems spurious or forced."

Vastly Entertaining

Cronyn's "rapture, his anxiety, his petulance and his bewilderment are all vastly entertaining ...his wonder over the diabolical complexity of a woman is uproarious."

The Herald Tribune's Walter F. Kerr likes the players, but the "small and gentle cartoon ..is just a shade too plain and a shade too familiar for a thoroughly winning evening in the theatre."

John Chapman in The Daily News says: "Here were two players with enough grace, skill and wit to hold a stage—and the audience—all by themselves... they are continuously endearing .."

The Mirror's Robert Coleman terms the acting "fascinating to watch ..has warmth and glow."

Arthur Pollock, drama critic of The Daily Compass, says the vehicle is "a sweet play, a little play, sometimes appealing, never genuinely moving." But, he says, the Cronyns "do please, though nothing that takes place during the evening is in any way memorable."

Urges Rescue

TAIPEH, Formosa, Oct. 25.—(Reuters)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek said today on the sixth anniversary of Formosa's return to China: "We should rescue our compatriots on the mainland in the same spirit as they rescued us with blood and sweat during their eight years' war against Japan."

Marks 50 Years In Priesthood

MARMORA, Oct. 25 (ENS).—Members of Sacred Heart church congregation united with those of St. Frances de Sales church, Smiths Falls, in congratulating Right Rev. J. T. Hanley, DP, VG. pastor of the latter church who celebrated the golden jubilee of his ordination.

Monsignor Hanley, who received high tribute at the jubilee functions, was born at Read, Ont., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Hanley and received his early education at Read Separate school. He took his BA and LPh degrees at Ottawa University and his theological course at Grand Seminary, Montreal. Following ordination he served for brief periods as an assistant in Kingston, Prescott, Brockville and Gananoque. In 1903 he was appointed pastor of Toledo church where he remained for 17 years. His next parish was Marmora then Tweed, and in 1928 he was appointed pastor of St. Francis de Sales church, Smiths Falls, and dean of Smiths Falls Deanery. In 1949 he was named Domestic Prelate by His Holiness Pope Pius XII and a year later was appointed Arch Diocesan Vicar General.

QUICK-EASY DISHES

WI Groups Meet To Hear Speaker

HAVELOCK, Oct. 25 (ENS).—Despite the rainy weather, representatives from Norwood, Trent River, Westwood, Belmont and Havelock branches of the Women's Institute attended a district conference in the Havelock town hall on Tuesday, when Miss Irene McBride of the Women's Institute Branch of the Home Economics Service, Toronto, was the speaker.

Miss McBride's topic was "We Call It Human Nature." She said we hear a lot about the conservation of soil but the biggest job today is the conservation of human personality for if we are not growing straight as individuals and as a nation we are not going to get very far, and the best way to insure that the kind of people we develop will be straight and normal is to have a broad conception of their needs at all stages of life.

She dealt with the necessity of emotional security at all stages of life from babyhood to old age to bring about a proper balanced life. A background of insecurity, she said, has been the reason for much of the criminal behavior in our land.

The latter part of Miss McBride's address was given to illness from emotional causes. The situation would be much simpler, she said, if we would all react sensibly but we still become angry and afraid, and these two emotions create much trouble to our physical well-being.

Refreshments were served during the intermission by the Havelock Women's Institute.

Denise Darcel Not Bitter About Marriage

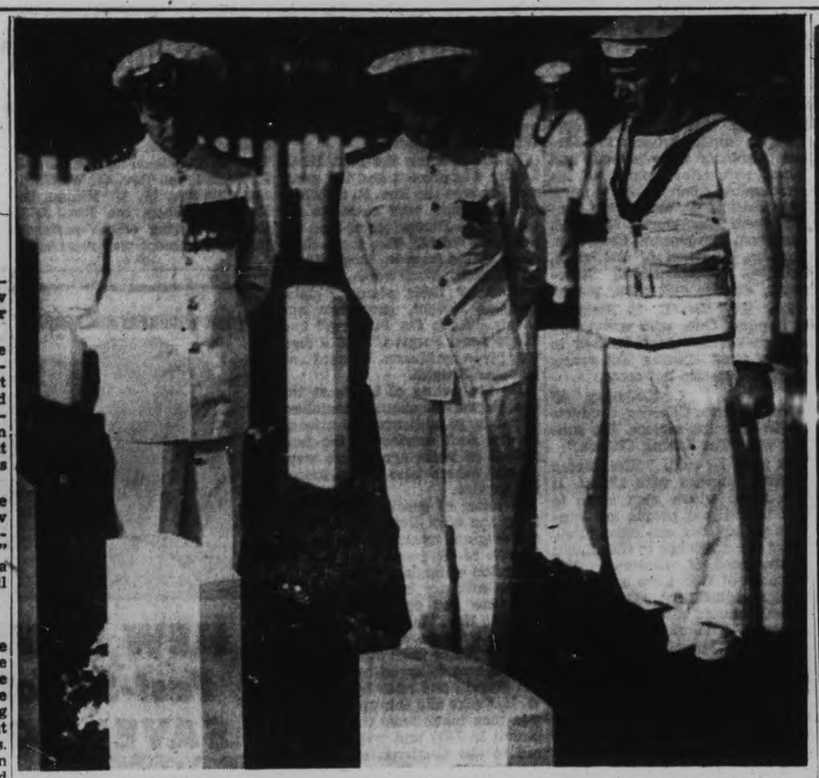
By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 25 (AP)—The men may be happy to know that Denise Darcel is not bitter about marriage.

The French bombshell told me that marriage is a great institution. This despite the fact that her own marital bliss washed away when her mate, Peter Crosby, splashed a glass of whisky in her face in a New York night club. I said I thought it was champagne.

"It was not champagne," she corrected. "That shows you how stories can grow; I guess champagne sounded more glamorous."

Today, many weeks and a Mexican divorce later, she is still mellow about marital bliss.



Misses Marriage

"I miss married life," she sighed. "It's so nice to be alone with another person and to share all your thoughts. But next time I willt ake my time about getting married. The French are right about having long engagements. You should have time to learn everything about a person and know if you are going to be able to get along with him."

But she favors American customs in other regards.

"The French court a girl in the old style, with flowers and candy and tender words," Denise remarked. "But once they have won her, she becomes very unimportant. Her wishes are not considered.

"But the American men—Ah! They make a woman feel as though she is somebody. Sometimes they do not have as much time for women, because they are busy making money to buy Cadillacs and garbage disposals and other things. But that is all right, too, because they also can buy mink coats."

Children's Day Held At Apsley Church

APSLEY, Oct. 25 — (ENS)—Youth and children's day was observed in St. George's Anglican church Sunday evening.

Sunday school pupils were in the chancel with the choir and the junior pupils sang a number, "Jesus Bids Us Shine."

The full choir sang "Fairest Lord Jesus".

Derek Hester read the lesson while Murray McColl led in the reading of the Psalms.

10 Outdoor Rinks To Be Built For Winter

A sign that winter is just around the corner is the decision by the Recreation Commission Tuesday night to have 10 outdoor hockey and skating rinks this year in the city parks.

At commission meetings since last winter the members have discussed the 1951-52 rinks several times, trying to decide if the project is worth the effort. During the past two winters conditions have been poor for outdoor rinks.

But Tuesday night the commission decided to go ahead with plans for the coming winter by placing the same number of rinks this year as last. The ice cushions will be at: two rinks each at King Edward, Stewart and McDonnel Streets, Riverside, and Turner Park; one each at Inverlea and McKellar playgrounds.

Where there are two ice surfaces, one will be for skating and the other for hockey. On the single surfaces there will be separate hours for hockey and skating.

DRESSED LIKE MEN from Mars, three earthling students climb aboard the school's Norseman aircraft that will take them aloft to 1,200 feet for a practice parachute jump. Cpl. A. M. Smith, one of the instructors, assists his charges aboard. Lending a helping hand is Nursing Sister, Flying Officer Anne Peden, Victoria, as Flying Officer Marion Neily looks on. Nurses on the course are first women in Canada to take the rugged training.

Four Nursing Sisters Receive Para-Rescue Badges

EDMONTON, Oct. 24—(CP)—Four nursing sisters and 11 air force doctors and medical orderlies have been taught to parachute into the wilderness and save lives.

They will receive the air force's para-rescue badge from Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, chief of air staff, at graduation ceremonies here today.

The graduates comprise the first all-medical group to complete the RCAF's 14-week para-rescue course. The four nursing sisters are the first women to go through the rugged training.

They now are ready and fit to climb a mountain, aid victims of an airplane crash, leap into heavily-timbered country, or deliver a baby. Each graduate has completed 10 parachute jumps—six into open country and four into timbered areas.

Training was taken at Henry House airfield, a seldom-used base near Jasper in the Rocky Mountains.

The nursing sisters graduating include FO. J. I. Thomson, North Bay, and FO. M. F. Neily, Middleton, NS.

Men receiving the para-rescue badge include Cpl. H. W. B. Campbell, Chatham, NB, and Cpl. J. H. Ferguson, Sydney Mines, NS.

One nursing sister who started the course, FO. Muriel J. Beaton of North Bay broke her leg on a practice jump. She'll try again in the next course.

Has One Object

Fitting into the nation-wide search and rescue organization co-ordinated by the RCAF, the course has but one object, to train men and women to parachute into the wilderness to save lives. Trainees are selected volunteers, chosen on a basis of general fitness and mental alertness. On graduation they are ready to cope with situations ranging from climbing a mountain, to aid victims of an aircraft crash, to leaping into heavily timbered country, to deliver a baby.

Actually, according to air force officials, RCAF para-rescue teams have so far been spared this last task, but it's a possibility, and they're able to do it if they have to.

Henry House airfield makes an ideal outdoor classroom for this highly specialized training. A seldom used airfield, it is close to terrain suitable for instruction in jumping into both open and timbered country, mountaineering, ice field techniques, canoeing or rafting, and general bush technique.

Most spectacular part of the training at the school is the actual jumping. Each graduate does ten jumps before he wins the coveted RCAF para-rescue badge. Six jumps are made into open country and four into heavily timbered areas. Trainees present a weird appearance when dressed in full jumping kit, which includes hard helmets, heavy wire mesh masks, specially designed protective clothing, and two parachutes, one for reserve in case of an emergency. Also carried is a handi-talkie radio, ration kits, ropes knives, and an axe.

Thorough Training

An intensive 65-hour program of physical fitness prepares the students to equal the demands of the job. Instruction is also given in special landing techniques for open or timbered country. The jumpers often find themselves dangling 50 feet above the ground, their parachute tangled in the upper part of a tree. At Jasper they learn to pull themselves up by the shroud lines of their chute, run their nylon let-down rope through a ring of their harness and let themselves down to the ground. Synthetic trainers such as scaffolds, towers and swings familiarize students with the chute's opening shock, the sensation of descent and the landing impact before ever taking to the air.

The academic side of the training includes lectures on the machanics of the trade and familiarization with equipment and tools. Each student learns how to pack, inspect, repair, and carry out routine maintenance on his or her parachute. They learn the language of radio signalling, 'Morse' code; how to use a signal lamp; a handi-talkie radio, and the international code of ground rescue signals. They learn bush lore, what roots and vegetation are edible and what are not. How to snare and shoot small and big game, woodsmanship, trail blazing and the many uses of an axe.

Bush lore is an important part of the para-rescue school training, and the trainees learn how to look after themselves—and others—in the wilds.

Canadians Reject Occupation Role

OTTAWA, Oct. 25 — (CP) — Canada has informed her allies the 27th Brigade is not going to Germany to fill an occupation role even though the occupation of Germany still is in effect.

This has resulted in legal complications and efforts are being made now to work out some system to cover the status of the Canadian troops in the period between now and when the occupation ends.

The Canadian stand is said to be that the brigade's role has nothing to do with the occupation of a beaten Germany but is solely concerned with defence of Western Europe against Communist aggression.

The 27th Brigade—its movement has started—will be serving with the British occupation troops but will have the same rights, privileges and immunities as British occupation troops.

They said Wednesday the situation has been under discussion in Bonn with occupation authorities and probably with German authorities but expressed surprise at reports that Canada has been seeking a direct Canadian-West German treaty or to circumvent the occupation heads.

That, they said, would be out of the question while the occupation continues.

Oak Heights United Church Celebrates Diamond Jubilee Service

WARKWORTH, Oct. 25 (ENS)—Oak Heights United church held their 60th anniversary services on Sunday when many former residents were present and joined with friends from all the surrounding communities to mark the occasion. Friends were present from Warkworth, Dartford, Castleton, Morganston, Centreton, Norham, Codrington, Baltimore, Cobourg, Campbellford, Roseneath, Fenella and other places.

The Rev. Dr. R. T. Richards of London, Ont., who was a former pastor, had been invited to be the guest speaker but owing to his illness did not come.

The Rev. E. C. Kellaway of Trinity church, Cobourg, conducted the morning service. His subject was "The Living Church."

In part, he said: "'The Living Church' pulsates with Christ. It is a place where men come to find Christ and people are conscious of his love and redemption. There is a challenge to the church of the need of mankind. The churches of God have a tremendous responsibility. 'The Living Church' should meet the need of mankind. The church seeks to meet the claims of men. See to it that the church does meet the need of men."

In the morning the local choir of young women was in attendance, with Mrs. L. Tucker, the church pianist and special music was given by a visiting male quartette composed of Messrs. Louis Roberts, W. Dowler, M. Macklin and A. Kelly with their pianist, Mrs. L. Roberts. They gave three numbers, "Brightly Beams Our Father's Mercy," "We have heard of a land on a far-away Strand," and "Peace, Peace, Wonderful Peace."

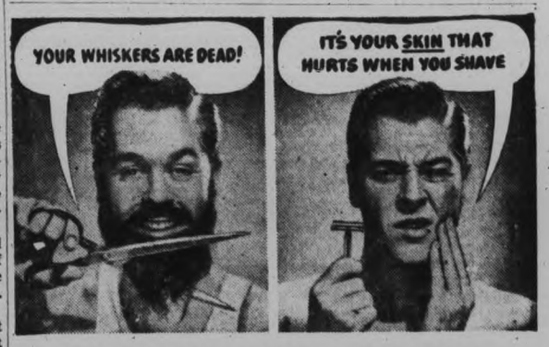
In the evening the Rev. H. G. Lester was present and the guest speaker was the Rev. R. C. White of Roseneath, who chose as his topic "The Blueprints of God for a Better World." The male choir of 14 voices from St. Paul's United church, Warkworth, accompanied by their pianist, Mrs. Douglas Knight, gave two anthems, "Keep On Praying," and "Dear Lord Forgive," and a duet was given by Messrs. Richard and Douglas Knight.

By a showing of hands at the evening service about 10 members of the large audience had attended the first service in the new church 60 years ago. There were several others also at the morning service.

A letter of greetings was read from the only living member of the original trustee board of the church of 60 years ago, C. W. Thurston of Regina, Sask.

The minister on the circuit at the time the church was built was the Rev. M. E. Wilson, pastor of the Norham circuit. He remained pastor until June 18, 1893 and he was followed by the Rev. Dr. Marvin and later by the Rev. W. H. Peake and this appointment was then taken from the Norham circuit in 1897 and was transferred to the Castleton circuit and the Rev. Henry Thomas was the first minister for this appointment after it joined the Castleton circuit.

Other ministers followed in the following order: the Rev. George Robinson the Rev. W. A. Bunner, the Rev. C. W. Barrett, the Rev. A. H. Foster, the Rev. W. H Spargo, the Rev. W. H. Dafoe, the Rev. R. T. Richards, the Rev. J. E. Beckel, the Rev. G. W. Gardner, the Rev. M. L. Hinton, the Rev. A. Bishop, the Rev. J. E Griffith during whose pastorate this appointment was transferred to the Warkworth circuit this year, July 1, 1951, with the Rev. H. G. Lester the new and present pastor.



One of the highlights which marked this special occasion last Sunday was the new electric lights recently installed and used for the first time on this anniversary occasion.

President of Barbers

OSHAWA, Oct. 25 (CP)—B. T. Borne of Kitchener Wednesday night was elected president of the Ontario Barbers Association. Other officers are: James White of London and L. J. McKerral of Woodstock, vice presidents; Ed. Wark, Toronto, secretary; R. J. Mountjoy, Toronto, treasurer.

Plenty of Deer

FORT FRANCES—(CP)—Prediction that deer herds will increase again in a few years was made by R. C. Passmore, Ontario government biologist who conducted a wide survey of this area. He said the Fort Frances area at present averages about seven deer per square mile.

Women's Missionary Society Rally Held In Springville

SPRINGVALE, Oct. 25 (ENS)—The WMS sectional rally was held in Springville United church on Friday. Mrs. Owen Murray, president of Springville WMS, welcomed the guests. She explained that Mrs. A. B. Preston, who had arranged the program was unable to be present owing to the illness of her son. Mrs. Murray outlined the purpose of the rally—to tell of successes, to ask questions about problems, to gain information and inspiration.

The roll call was answered by the following societies telling of their best meeting: Bailieboro, Bensfort, Bethany, Cavan, Fairmount, Fraserville, Springville, Mt. Pleasant.

The wroship servcie was conducted by the Bethany society.

Report of the schol for leaders and the presentation of the study book "From Lakes to Northern Lights" was given by Mrs. C. W. Seymour of the Fairmount society. She said the new study book opens windows picturing every type of church and need across the Dominion. It demands a daring Christianity to reach and save the 70 nationalities in Canada. The dramatization of "Gratefully Yours" from the Mission Digest followed with Mrs. E. Downes, Mrs. H. McBain, Mrs. Wm. Edgerton and Mrs. C. W. Seymour taking part.

Mrs. Yarr of Bailieboro led in the closing prayer of the morning session.

Springville Women's Association served a chicken dinner at noon in the basement. During the noon hour there was a literature exhibit and report by Mrs. D. Bruce Gordon of Peterborough.

The afternoon session opened at 1:30 p.m. with a short worship period conducted by the Millbrook society. Then greetings from the Peterborough Presbyterial were brought by Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe. She introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. E. Laing of Toronto, former secretary of Christian citizenship for the Dominion Board.

Mrs. Laing spoke on Christian citizenship. She asked several questions—Do we still live in a jungle or are we producing people who are willing to give their best and to meet their difficulties with high-hearted courage? What are our standards of value? Do we measure people by what they have instead of what they are? Are we trying to get a ride on the world's bus without paying our fare? Christian citizenship demands that we take our share of responsibility in correcting the evils that are abroad in the world today.

"Alcohol is an anaesthetic," putting the brain to sleep and it takes four hours to rid the system of alcohol in one bottle of beer, she declared.

The Fraserville Society took the offering. Then "Twenty Qustions" was conducted by Mrs. C. W. Seymour with Mrs. A. E. Clarke, Mrs. E. Downes and Mrs. Harold Rehill, the experts taking part in this contests of wits.

Fewer Tourists

OSLO (CP)—Preliminary estimates made by the Central Bureau of Statistics reveal that for the first eight months of 1951 persons visiting Norway from other Countries totalled 396,387 compared with 413,849 in the corresponding period last year.

UNDER SUSPENSION — A man known as Surgeon Lieut. Joseph Cyr, of Edmunston, NB, is under suspension in the destroyer Cayuga off Korea and a joint Naval and RCMP probe is trying to decide whether he actually is a doctor even though he performed a number of successful major operations. He probably will be flown home soon to facilitate investigation.

RCAF Squadron 410 To Sail November 3

OTTAWA, Oct. 25—(CP)—The first squadron of Canada's eventual 11-squadron air division in Europe leaves late next week for England.

The RCAF's No. 410 Fighter Squadron, equipped with F86E Sabre jet planes, will go to Britain aboard the aircraft carrier Magnificent. The carrier will sail Nov. 3 from Halifax and is due in Glasgow Nov. 13.

The squadron now is stationed at St. Hubert, Que.

Canada now has one fighter squadron in England—No. 421, known as the Red Indian Squadron. It will not become a part of the European Division and is due to come home in December.

Eat Bread At Fair 50 Folk Go Mad

CALCUTTA, Oct. 25—(AP)—Some 50 villagers of Muzzaffarpur, 400 miles northwest of here, went mad Tuesday after eating bread bought at the village fair.

Some stripped, some leaped through into trees and others became violent.

The outbreak appeared similar to one in France in August. That epidemic was blamed by doctors on ergot,a fungus growth, which appeared in rye flour. Ergot in large doses paralyzes the nerve ends.

Indian officials quickly rounded up the crazed villagers and dosed them with sedatives.

A WEEKLY INFORMATION SERVICE

MONTREAL, Oct. 25th—I changed my mind about instant coffee when I tasted INSTANT CHASE & SANBORN COFFEE! I've never, never tasted instant coffee quite so good! The flavour's there—and the body and the real lift. That's because Instant Chase & Sanborn is made by real coffee people—it's the only "instant" backed by over 85 years' coffee experience. Try this!—give it the hardest test of all . . . serve it to your husband. I'm willing to wager that he'll get a real kick out of this latest Chase & Sanborn success! And he'll appreciate the money it saves you, too. Costs less than ground coffee—and the jiffy-quick, one-or-ten-cup method of making it means no waste.

I'm Sure you've already discovered dozens of kitchen-uses for your C-I-L SPONGES. Let's compare notes! I always use a C-I-L Cellulose Sponge for dishwashing, don't you? It's so soft when it's wet—kind to your hands and your finest china. And its square shape makes it easy to clean the insides and bottoms of glasses and jugs. Then, for wiping off the kitchen table and drainboard—mopping up spills—cleaning the stove and refrigerator, there's nothing like those C-I-L Sponges! I like their five handsome colours, too. There's one to go with your kitchen colour scheme. Ask for C-I-L Sponges—a handy size for every purpose. You'll find them at grocery, drug, variety, hardware or department stores.

BEAT INFLATION—BUY CANADA SAVINGS BONDS!

No Wonder these soups have such a *High "P.Q." For, after all, HEINZ CONDENSED SOUPS are made by soup-making experts for your enjoyment. Yes, "Soup of the Evening . . . beeyootiful Soup" means Heinz around our house. There are so many varieties to choose from—all of them just as delicious as they can be! Don't wait even a day to give your family the flavour-treat of Heinz Condensed Soups! Serve them as a first course—or in dressings—meat loaves — rarebits — casseroles. They're the flavour heart of many a dish. Ask your grocer for Heinz Soups first thing tomorrow . . . you know they're good because they're Heinz.

* "Popularity Quotient".

"I Do Like Pretty Shoes, but for a while I was afraid I'd have to give them up — my feet were bothering me so!", my friend Jane said the other day. "Then" she said, "I remembered all I'd heard you say about the new BLUE-JAY Corn Plasters with Phenylium! . . . Aren't my new shoes pretty?—and so comfortable, too!". Yes, if you're suffering from p-a-i-n-f-u-l corns or calluses, try Blue-Jay with Phenylium. It's the quickest working, most effective remedy for these miseries yet invented. Took the Blue-Jay folks ten years to perfect it—then it was proved to be effective in 95% of the cases tested! Ask your druggist for Blue-Jay with Phenylium—for happy feet!

All Three Of 'Em are good as good can be! I mean those scrumptious recipes on the QUAKER CORN MEAL package! If your family hasn't yet had the flavour-treat of Hasty Pudding, Golden Corn Muffins or hot, crusty Corn Bread . . . it's high time to delight them with these Quaker Corn Meal recipes! Versatile Quaker Corn Meal is not only delicious in dozens of dishes . . . it's better than bread or cracker crumbs for breading fish, cutlets or oysters. Yes, Quaker Corn Meal is a "must" when you're cooking. Of course, with the famous Quaker name behind it, it can't be anything but "tops" in taste and quality!

I'd Like You To Try the "Tissue Test"—for I'm sure that 'til you do, you won't believe there's such a difference in cleansing creams! Lovely Alexis Smith took the "test" and discovered that there's a big difference. She cleansed her face "thoroughly" with her regular cream, then cleansed it again with WOODBURY COLD CREAM and when she looked at her facial tissue, she found that Woodbury had loosened hidden dirt so it was easy to wipe away. Why is Woodbury so different? Because it contains Penaten, a new miracle ingredient that actually penetrates deeper into your pore openings—lets Woodbury's cleansing oils loosen every trace of dirt. Penaten helps Woodbury smooth your skin, too! Ask for Woodbury Cold Cream—23c to $1.15.

Three Wonderful Things about Blue Bonnet margarine! . . . it gives you flavour, nutrition and economy in full measure . . . yet it costs less! Just compare the price of BLUE BONNET margarine with the price of other spreads. Compare its delicious, country-fresh flavour with the flavour of any spread you can think of. And—remember—Blue Bonnet's vitamin content is high every month of the year. No wonder so many women feel they get so much for so little when they buy Blue Bonnet. Which reminds me, Blue Bonnet's YELLOW QUIK bag is now even stronger than ever. It's the easiest, fastest way I know to colour margarine!

Some Blustery October Evening, try this "warm-you-up" dish for dinner. It's flavoured with the beefy-goodness of BOVRIL—m-mmm!—wonderful! Yes, whatever you make, Bovril makes it better . . . so add lots of Bovril goodness to this Red Flannel Hash.

3 cubes or 1 tbsp. Bovril
6 medium beets, cooked
4 medium potatoes, cooked
1 c. chopped beef
Salt and pepper
2 tbsp. butter
1 tbsp. cream

Dissolve Bovril into 1/4 c. boiling water and season with salt and peppes. Chop beets and potatoes, mix with chopped beef and Bovril. Melt butter in heavy frying pan and add the mixture. Cover and cook slowly until meat is cooked and browned. When nearly ready to serve, add cream, brown quickly and serve. Serves 4.

Can't Wait to "dig into" those luscious bowls full of smoo-oth 'n' flavourful "Cream of Wheat"! That's the way most husbands feel about this most perfect of breakfast foods when it comes piping hot from the pot. And they aren't kept waiting long for delicious 5 Minute "CREAM OF WHEAT"—for it cooks to complete digestibility in just 5 minutes of boiling. And this wonderful "Cream of Wheat" is not only goo-od—it's good for you . . . for it provides Iron for good red blood, and Calcium and Phosphorus for diets deficient in these elements. That's why "Cream of Wheat" is such a good family habit to get into!

It's Old-Fashioned and p-a-i-n-f-u-l to try to RUB away rheumatic aches or muscle soreness. So why not learn the modern, SLOAN'S LINIMENT way to get rid of the aches 'n' pains of neuralgia, rheumatism or sore muscles? All you do is just pat Sloan's Liniment on the sore spots. In seconds, you can feel Sloan's soothing, penetrating warmth going deep to bring wonderful relief. Why spend a night, or even an hour, suffering from pain that Sloan's can get rid of in minutes! Sloan's Liniment costs just 50c for the small-sized bottle—90c for the large—at any drugstore.

"Better Late Than Never"—That's how a friend of mine expressed herself when she finally got 'round to buying a box of those delightful FACE-ELLE "EN PASTELS" tissue handkerchiefs. Apparently she had always been a 'habit' buyer . . . asking for her old familiar brand without a thought as to whether or not there were any better tissues available! And, since the Face-Elle people make the only tinted tissues in Canada, her habit-buying kept her from enjoying coloured hankies. So be sure you don't miss out on Face-Elle's extra values . . . the exclusive THREE-ply softness, strength and absorbency! Next time you buy tissue handkerchiefs say "Face-Elle, please" and get deluxe quality at an 'everyday' price!

Did You Know Alice In The Walt Disney Picture "Alice in Wonderland" had a very marvellous mushroom? If she ate one side, she would shrink. If she nibbled at the other, Alice would shoot 'way up tall. Well, I know a way to help the kiddies in your family to grow tall, and sturdy—that is to have plenty of milk-rich food like JELL-O PUDDINGS for dessert. And Jell-O Puddings certainly offer more variety and are more tempting than Alice's marvellous mushroom. They're so delicious to eat, the kiddies will be begging for all flavours—Vanilla, Chocolate, Butterscotch and Caramel. And don't forget the wonderful Jell-O Tapioca Puddings too, They are as good as they are good for you.

Jolliffe Outlines 12-Point Plan Of Municipal Subsidy, Housing Aid

By The Canadian Press

E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario CCF leader, Wednesday outlined his party's program for holding the line on the cost of living and bringing about "a better Ontario."

In his keynote speech of the Nov. 22 Ontario election campaign, he pledged his party to start a housing plan, putting in a hospital insurance program, granting a special municipal subsidy equal to 10 per cent of this year's taxes, putting into effect Royal Commission recommendations on forestry and conservation and establishing a scholarship plan for 3,000 university students.

He also promised to help the farmers by strengthening the Farm Products Marketing Act and the Milk Control Act, supporting a plan for a central marketing agency, encouraging co-operatives, facilitating pool arrangements and extending agricultural department services.

He said he would bring about improvements in labor relations, co-operate with the federal government and New York State on the St. Lawrence Seaway and power project, provide a bonus for pensioners, set up a low-cost automobile insurance plan and establish an anti-racketeering board.

His 30-minute speech was broadcast from Toronto over an Ontario network of the CBC.

The broadcast was one of a series of CBC free-time political broadcasts during the election campaign.

Frost Outlines Policy

Premier Frost discussed Progressive Conservative labor policy at a Lincoln riding nominating convention in Beamsville which again chose Labor Minister Daley as candidate.

Mr. Frost said his government's labor legislation protected the interests of unorganized labor through "basic laws" dealing with such matters as vacations with pay, workmen's compensation, maximum hours of work and equality of pay for women.

At the same time, it provided administrative machinery for organized labor to bargain collectively with employers and work out their own problems. However, the government had "wisely" refrained from legislating in the field of collective bargaining.

He said Ontario labor legislation "now is being treated as a model for labor relations in all sorts of jurisdictions in North America."

Politician's Holiday

Liberal leader Walter Thomson took a politician's holiday by giving a non-political speech to the annual convention of the Ontario Barbers' Association at Ottawa in his home constituency of Ontario.

Mr. Joliffe, in his speech, listed what he described as "twelve steps toward a better Ontario."

1. Municipal subsidy — Payment to all municipalities in 1952 of a special emergency subsidy amounting to 10 per cent of all 1951 municipal taxes; and the holding of a series of provincial-municipal conferences to negotiate in good faith a fair sharing of responsibility and income between the two levels of government.

2. Agriculture — Strengthening of the farm products marketing Act and the Milk Control Act; support of a plan for a central marketing agency which the 80,000 hog producers seek to set up; encouragement for co-operatives, including health co-ops; facilitating of pooling arrangements and extension of departmental services as recommended by the Ontario Federation of Agriculture.

3. Labor — Implementation of changes recommended by the Roach Royal Commission on workmen's compensation; improvement of conciliation services; extension and modernization of factory inspection as recommended by organized labor.

4. Conservation—Adoption and implementation of the recommendations of the Legislature Commitee on conservation, dealing with such matters as soil conservation, flood control, water supply and reforestation.

5. Forestry — Introduction of changes recommended four years ago by the Kennedy Royal Commission report with respect to Crown lands and forest management.

6. St. Lawrence project—Full co-operation with the federal government and with New York State to undertake and complete the St. Lawrence hydro and seaway project.

11. Education — Establishment of a new scholarship fund from which to maintain or assist at least 3,000 qualified young persons in the colleges and universities.

CLERGYMAN - MAYOR — Canada's—and probably North America's only clergyman-mayor—the Rev. Lloyd Henderson Saturday was re-elected chief magistrate of Portage La Prairie, Man., in one of the largest votes ever accorded a mayoralty candiate in the city. The fiery Presbyterian pastor quoted passages from the Bible during his campaign.

The first recorded abdication of a sovereign was that of the Roman dictator Sulla in 79 BC.

Tobacco Export

OTTAWA, Oct. 25 (CP)—Canada exported 23,354,584 pounds of all types of tobacco worth $13,308,420 in the first eight months of the year, a parliamentary return showed Wednesday. The United Kingdom was the biggest buyer of Canadian tobacco, mostly flue-cured, it was disclosed in replies tabled in the Commons by Secretary of State Bradley. The UK imported more than 18,000,000 pounds valued at $10,500,000.

Sunny Skies Predicted For Opening

Program To Start At 2:30 p.m. To Open City Hall

A cheerful prediction from the weatherman of warm and sunny skies lays a hopeful foundation for a gala day for the opening Friday of Peterborough's new city hall.

Sunny weather predicted for today had not materialized by noon, although clouds were beginning to break in the early afternoon.

Program at the city hall will start at 2.30 pm Friday, after a brief motor-car parade up George St. from the Empress Hotel. Bleacher seating for 500 citizens on George St. will be set up by noon.

Those taking part in the ceremony will be seated on chairs on the cement walk leading to the main entrance. Included are the municipal representatives of the three Peterboroughs, Hon. R. F. McWilliams, Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa and others.

Golden Key

After a program of short addresses, the golden key to the new municipal building will be presented to Mayor Max J. Swanston. The royal salute will follow, and Hon. R. F. McWilliams and J. G. Hungerford of the National Trust Co., Toronto, will speak.

Mayor G. R. Chamberlain of Peterborough, England, will receive the key from Mayor Swanston and officially open the main door of the building.

After inspecting the building, women of the official party will be entertained at tea by Mrs. Swanston, and the men will be guests of Mayor Swanston at the Peterborough Club.

A civic dinner at 6.30 pm will conclude the day.

Drama Festival Set For April

Peterborough and District's third annual Drama Festival will be held April 24-26, next spring. This was decided at a general Festival committee meeting held at the city buildings Wednesday night and attended by fifteen representatives of six play groups in the city, and of the Recreation Commission.

Represented were Knox Theatre Group, the Peterborough Little Theatre, St. James YPU, PCVS Dramatic Society, the Blue Triangle Club and All Saints' players. The newly-organized Community Theatre of Port Hope, which has a permanent professional director, was represented by proxy.

Peter McCombe, chairman of the Festival committee, presided. W. A. Brown read the treasurer's report showing a substantial balance with which to launch the next drama festival.

Public Health Supervisors To Meet Here

Public health supervisors from 30 centres in northern and eastern Ontario will attend a work conference in Peterborough Dec. 3-7.

The five-day conference is being held to promote the development of public health nursing services in the provinces. A similar conference will be held in Brantford for supervisors in the southern and western centres of the province.

The Peterborough conference will be under the direction of Miss Edna Moore, director of public health nursing for the province of Ontario.

These two work conferences are a part of a federal plan to assist nurses in training and other special projects in the field of health. A specific amount, $15,500, out of federal health grants has been earmarked by the health department to be used in this plan.

CIVIL DEFENCE COSTS

Civil defense costs should be a three-way responsibility of federal, provincial and municipal governments, Ald. J. A. Dewart said Monday night at the board of works as the council members rejected a Stratford resolution that Ottawa should assume all expense. "We'll get more interest and value by municipal participation," he said.

Paul Thompson Elected President Of Young PC's

Paul Thompson was elected president of Peterborough Young Progressive Conservative Association at the association's second annual meeting held in the Kawartha Room of the Empress Hotel Wednesday evening. Other officers included in the slate submitted by the nominating committee and approved by the meeting are: David Rogers, first vice-president; Robert Faulkner, second vice-president; Miss June Fraser, secretary; John Foote, treasurer.

In outlining the program of the local young PC's during the past year, retiring president, Mrs. Mary Rogers said, "It is hard to compete in the political field. People are so busy these days. There is plenty of interest when there is the excitement of an election but year in and year out, the same people take part in our organization."

During the election of officers and for the remainder of the meeting, Pete LaBranche, acted as chairman.

Following his election as president, Mr. Thompson, paid tribute to the past president Mrs. Rogers "whose zeal and drive had much to do with keeping interest alive." He warned against "over optimism in the coming provincial election. Due to the calibre of our candidates," he said "we may think the election is in the bag but an election is never in the bag until the votes are counted."

Walter Dinsdale

Walter Dinsdale, who brought the riding of Brandon, Manitoba into the PC camp in a federal by-election June 25, was the main speaker of the evening.

"It is unfair for an institution of higher learning to restrict an individual's freedom of action," declared Mr. Dinsdale in attacking Brandon College and the University of Manitoba for firing himself and his opponent in the by-election who was on the faculty of the University of Manitoba.

"I had to win after accepting the nomination," said Mr. Dinsdale who was a lecturer at Brandon College.

No Apologies

Mr. Dinsdale said he had no apologies to make for coming down from the rarified atmosphere of his "ivory tower" to do a bit of politicing on the hustings for a cause he believes to be very important to Canada.

This is the young air force veteran's first foray into the political field and he observed "I am learning it is no sinecure if you want to be conscientious."

Terming his address "the impressions of a novice in the field of practical politics," the speaker said that the future success of the party in the provincial and federal fields depends on the enthusiasm and initiative of the younger people.

Mr. Dinsdale used his recent election as an example to back up his statement that "the flexible voting population can be appealed to if the right approach is made." Seven thousand votes were swung to the PC side in this by-election said Mr. Dinsdale.

Outlining the history of the "agrarian protest" movement which originated in the prairie provinces following World War I and which gradually evolved into the Progressive Party of the early 20's then broke up into the present day Progressives of Manitoba, CCFs of Saskatchewan and Social Crediters of Alberta, Mr. Dinsdale said that a "healthy democratic state such as ours must have a two party system."

The speaker said that an editorial in a leading Winnipeg newspaper stating there was no alternative to the Liberal party had lead him to enter politics as a Progressive Conservative in the Brandon by-election.

"If we can appeal to the youthful, flexible voting population, there are great hopes for the party," he added.

Birth Of Baby May Delay Trial

Birth of a baby boy Wednesday night may prevent Mrs. Lillian Thompson, 35, from standing trial next week on a charge of murdering her husband.

The baby, weighing six pounds, 13 ounces, was delivered at 8.45 pm by Dr. Herbert Young. Both Mrs. Thompson and the baby are doing well.

It is believed to be the first time that a woman awaiting trial in Peterborough county has had a baby while in custody.

Mrs. Thompson was committed for trial Sept. 24 on a charge of shooting her husband Roy after an argument over him taking the family car. A bullet from a 22-calibre rifle pierced the heart of her husband, a scrap-metal dealer and veteran of the Sicilian and Italian campaigns.

The accused woman was scheduled to stand trial at the criminal assizes that open Monday, but the birth of the baby will probably prevent her from appearing in court.

If so she will have to await the Supreme Court jury sittings, usually held in February.

Mrs. Thompson has been in custody two months. A delay in her trial will mean that she will have to wait another two or three months. She is being defended by T. J. Carley, KC.

Mrs. Thompson is the mother of five children. The other four are Roy 15, Kenny 14, Betty 12, and Nancy 11. She was confined to hospital Oct. 20 with police matrons guarding her room.

Harwood Man Dies Of Burns

WARKWORTH, Oct. 25 (ENS) —Severely burned Monday when a derrick touched a 2,200-volt hydro wire, Corporal Floyd A. Harvey, 32, of London, Ont., formerly of Harwood, died Tuesday in a London hospital.

Cpl. Harvey was working temporarily at a construction job in London when the accident took place. He was guiding a steel beam with his hands as it was being moved by a derrick. The top of the crane touched the high tension line.

He had been stationed at Wolseley Barracks, London.

An army veteran of the Second World War, Cpl. Harvey was born in Harwood, a son of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Harvey. His widow is the former Inez Covert of Warkworth.

Surviving are his widow and four children, Marlene, 10, Eleanor, 9, Leslie, 4, Peter, 2. There are three brothers, Cecil of Peterborough, William of Wellington, Gerald of Toronto and two sisters, Mrs. George Spears (Mildred), Peterborough, and Marion of Oshawa.

A military funeral was held Wednesday in London and the body was brought to Warkworth Wednesday night. Service will be held Friday in Warkworth United church, with the Rev. H. A. Mellow of Oshawa, formerly of Harwood, officiating, assisted by the Rev. H. G. Lester of Warkworth. Burial will be in Centenary cemetery.

Senator Duffus In Hospital In Danville, NY

Senator J. J. Duffus, former alderman, mayor and Member of Parliament, will not be here for the civic ceremony Friday. He is in Danville, N.Y., recovering from an illness that kept him in hospital there during September.

Senator Duffus was a member of the Morrow council, an association that deepened a business acquaintance into an understanding which the Senator always prized. Incidentally, Mr. Morrow bought his first automobile from him, and G. A. Gillespie taught him to drive it.

In recalling what manner of man was he whose memory is being honored Friday, it may not be betraying unduly a confidence to relate an incident once mentioned by Senator Duffus. Some days after a federal election campaign that was won by the Liberal candidate, Mr. Morrow called at the Duffus office on Water St.

After expressing his congratulations and his personal satisfaction in the result of the elections, he got around to the main purpose of his call. In effect he said, "Well, Joe, do you need any help? Is there anything I can do? What about your expenses?"

Mr. Duffus replied that everything was pretty well paid up "and taken care of".

"There must be some odds and ends left," Mr. Morrow persisted.

Advertising Paid For

Mr. Duffus hesitated about mentioning his advertising account which was still outstanding because he had not received the bills.

"There is the advertising," he said, "I don't know how much it will amount to, but that is about the main item left."

Mr. Morrow's reply was: "When you make it up, just send me a note or telephone me and I'll take care of it."

There was no suggestion of favor then or any other time subsequently. It was freely given help from a fellow Liberal, and there was the tacit understanding that nothing would be said of it.

Senator Duffus mentioned it once as a grateful recollection after the death of Mr. Morrow, and in the feeling that he wanted to tell some one of an esteem and an episode which remained fresh in his memory and sentiment.

US Tourists Spent Nearly $1 Million

Real Total Believed Much Higher For Whole Season

American tourists spent more than $950,000 in US currency in Peterborough and district in June, July and August.

This figure was released today by Jim Fraser, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, as announced by clearing-house officials.

This amount was cleared through eight Peterborough banks.

"This is a very conservative estimate, Mr. Fraser said. Our Federal government urges American tourists to convert their dollars to Canadian funds as soon as they cross the border. Taking that fact into consideration and also that September was not included in the total, I believe about one and one half million dollars were brought into Canada by American tourists coming to the Kawarthas.

"This only helps to prove that this was one of the best years for the tourist industry in Kawartha history."

Empty Car Slides From Bank Into Canal

LINDSAY, Oct. 25. — A car owned by Hartley Graham, Fenelon township slid off the bank into the canal in Fenelon Falls last week.

Mrs. Graham drove the car into the village, parked it on Water St. The brakes failed to hold and it slid into the canal. Wreckers pulled the car out and damage consisted mainly of water damage to the upholstery and motor.

Ice Cream Price Jumps 3 Cents

Silverwood's Dairy today announced a three-cent increase in the price of ice cream bricks. This brings the price of an ordinary brick to 38 cents, special brick to 48 and the pint bulk packs to 33 cents.

Price of bulk ice cream by the gallon was also increased. What effect this may have on the price of ice cream cones has not yet been assessed.

J. E. Weir, manager of the dairy said that the cost of milk had gone up 70 cents a hundred since the last increase in the price of ice cream. That and half-a-dozen minor increases in other ingredient prices were more than could be absorbed.

There is as yet no indication that other ice cream companies will raise their prices. The Silverwood's increase brings their prices into line with the prices set by other ice cream companies.

$600 Damage Done As Two Cars Collide

Damage estimated at $600 resulted when two cars collided at the intersection of Reid and Charlotte Sts., Wednesday noon.

Robert J. Tully, RR 2, Peterborough told police he was driving north on Reid St., and after stopping at Charlotte St., had started across the intersection when his car was in collision with an auto driven by Seymour S. Heard, 490 Albertus St.

Mr. Heard was proceeding west on Charlotte St.

The left side of Mr. Heard's car was dented and scraped by the collision, and the gears were out of order after the crash. The damage was estimated at $300.

The Tully car was also damaged to the extent of $300.

Constable Robert Menzies who investigated the accident reported it was raining at the time.

E. A. OUTRAM

Lead Province In Buying Payroll Bonds

With an average of $105.74 per employee the Victoria, Haliburton, Peterborough district is leading all other divisions of Ontario in the sixth series Canada Savings Bonds. Total to date is $1,895,250. with every indication that the payroll drive will pass the $2,000,000. mark. In the last figures sent out for the province only four divisions have passed the one million dollar mark Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa and Peterborough.

In the fifth series one year ago the Peterborough division subscribed $1,955,900 according to William Reid the division organizer and he says this year there has been a noticeable increase in the amount of bonds each subscriber is taking. With the $105.74 in the Peterborough division the next area to come near is Kent with $88.20.

The Canadian General Electric Co. with $1,178,800 leads the Peterborough division but many other industries are surpassing all past records.

Clare Collins Elected Association President

MONTREAL, Oct. 25 — Clare Collins of Peterborough was elected president of the Canadian Shoe Retailers' Association Wednesday at a meeting of members of the Canadian footwear industry.

Mr. Collins is head of the R. Neill shoe store chain.

UK Institute Honors E. A. Outram

City Clerk Elected Fellow of Institute Of Secretaries

City Clerk E. A. Outram received notification from London, England, Wednesday of his election as a Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Secretaries.

Apart from the honor of receiving this recognition from a British association and its Toronto branch who nominated Mr. Outram last May, there is his option of using the designation "Chartered Secretary", and the letters "F.C.I.S."

In this country there are three branches of the Institute, in Montreal, Toronto and London. Membership of the Toronto branch is about 150.

It was from that source Mr. Outram was invited to submit an application for membership. The privilege was open for a limited number of persons who had held positions of secretary or assistant secretary or equivalent thereto for the last three years in outstanding commercial, industrial, educational or public corporations without the necessity of writing required examinations.

The degree of Fellowship was granted to those who qualified.

Welcome Letter

In his letter of welcome to membership, Mr. C. B. Bell, secretary of the Toronto branch wrote: "We shall be glad to have you at the various meetings of our branch which are held from time to time".

Mr. Outram was delighted with this news from England, and remarked its timely aspect in relation to the visit of the party from Peterborough, England, and his part in the preparations for their reception.

Citizens are cordially invited to attend the ceremony of the official opening and dedication of the new City Hall, which will take place on Friday afternoon, October 26th, 1951, at 2.30 o'clock.

His Worship Mayor G. R. Chamberlain of Peterborough, England, civic officials of Peterborough, New Hampshire, and civic representatives of Ottawa, Toronto and Montreal will be present. The Peterborough Citizens Band will be in attendance and a loud speaker system assures that the proceedings will be easily heard. Seating accommodation will be provided for the citizens.

Following the opening ceremonies the out-of-town guests of the city will inspect the building. On the afternoon and evening of Monday and Tuesday, October 29th and 30th, special arrangements have been made for the inspection of the building by Peterborough citizens, who will also be served refreshments in the Mayor's Parlour.

It is hoped that as many citizens as possible will exercise the opportunity of making their inspection of this notable civic building on either Monday or Tuesday afternoon or evening. Mayor Chamberlain will be in attendance in the Mayor's Parlour on Monday afternoon and evening, and a special welcome is extended to Old Country citizens for this occasion.

MAX J. SWANSTON,
Mayor

In Service For Men Women Who Served

The annual church parade of the Canadian Legion will be held this year on November 4. Members planning to attend are reminded that they will fall in at 10:30 am at the Legion Hall, and from there march to George Street United Church. The Rev. Arnold Mathews and his congregation have been kind enough to ask the Legion to join them in this service, and the Legion feels sure that the veterans of this city will turn out in good numbers to help to make this day a huge success.

As most of you know there is another branch of the Canadian Legion in the city. This branch is known as the Elizabeth Smellie Branch No. 452, and its members are the women who served so well in the past wars. This branch received its charter in 1947 and named its half in honor of Miss Elizabeth Smellie, CBE, RRC, LLD. The ladies could not have made a better choice as Miss Smellie's notable record revetals. She was the chief superintendent for the VON from 1924 to 1947, except for four years during World War II when she was Matron-in-Chief (Canada) of the army nursing service.

Composed as it is entirely of ex-service women from both World Wars, Branch 452 has taken its place with branches from coast to coast in promoting the aims and ideals of the Canadian Legion. Although small in numbers (its total less than 30) the Elizabeth Smellie Branch has in four short years accomplished a great deal. Not only has this branch formed a united comradeship among its members, but also it has extended a helping hand to the sick and needy ex-service men and women, Branch 452 also works in close co-operation with the welfare and poppy fund committees of Branch 52 and their reasoning and advice has been a real help in the administration of this important work.

Along with campaigning for the re-enlistment of women in the armed services, these women have done a great deal of work on the city memorial centre by sorting, typing, and indexing the servicemen's names of this city. Each year at Christmas you will find these women busy making Christmas stockings for orphanages in Peterborough and overseas. The Canadian Legion university fund and the TB veterans' camp always find donations in the mail from this fine club. Along with all this work they still find time to edit and publish their own monthly bulletin, "Comrades' Chitter Chatter."

This year Branch 452 is holding its first Remembrance Day dinner at the YWCA on Saturday, November 10. The guest speaker will be the branch padre, the Rev. Walter Gilling, and the guest soloist will be Miss Jean Wilson from Whitby. All ex-servicewomen desiring tickets to this dinner please contact the president, Miss Irma Allen (dial 22341). I am sure you will agree that this branch of the Canadian Legion is doing a wonderful job and deserves all the support they can get.

The 4th Anti-Tank re-union is being held on October 26, 27 and 28. A church parade will be held on October 28, and all veterans in the city are invited to attend. This should be a great day for the boys from the 4th Anti-Tank, and we offer them at this time all the success in the world.

Well, Comrades, that just about winds things up for this week; so till next Thursday, just let me remind you once again about the Legion church parade to be held on November 4 to George Street United Church. Plan to attend this memorial service and don't forget to buy a poppy on Poppy Day, November 10.

Ordered Acquitted

TORONTO, Oct. 25 (CP)—Roy E. Cormack, building contractor and former councillor of suburban Scarboro, was ordered acquitted Wednesday by appeal court on 11 charges of theft involving $11,225 that had been advanced to him for the building of homes in Scarboro township. He was committed for trial Dec. 15, 1950 on 13 charges of theft and was convicted June 20 by Judge Robert Forsyth on 11 charges and sentenced to one year in jail.

Planning Survey

TORONTO, Oct. 25 (CP)—The Ontario Society for Crippled Children Wednesday announced that it intends to conduct an investigation of Ontario mental hospitals to determine the number of cerebral palsy patients in these institutions. The announcement followed a report by a United States expert on cerebral palsy at the American Academy of Pediatrics. The expert said a large number of cerebral palsy patients in the US were in mental hospitals for custodial care when they should be receiving active treatment.

Civil Defence Scheme

BROCKVILLE, Oct. 25 (CP) — This eastern Ontario centre of 15,000 Wednesday night staged an "absolutely first rate" civil defence scheme. It was blacked out from 8 to 10 p.m. as the city came under theoretical enemy attack. Federal, provincial and New York state civil defence officials were on hand as well as 500 members of the local defence organization.

3 Women Killed

NIAGARA FALLS, NY, Oct. 25 (AP)—Three elderly women were injured fatally Wednesday night when they were struck by an automobile as they were crossing a highway side by side. Police said the victims were: Mrs. Josephine Cipriono, 66; Mrs. Grace Ladalpha, 70 and Mrs. Theresa Russo, 71.

Supports Eisenhower

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP) — Mrs. Ogden Reid, president of The New York Herald Tribune, announced Wednesday night that the newspaper will support Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the Republican presidential nomination. The paper identifies itself politically as Independent-Republican.

ACCUSED "SPY" — Charles E. Davis, expelled from Switzerland for allegedly spying on U.S. diplomats for Sen. Joseph McCarthy, arrives in New York from Geneva. He is expected to be called to testify in Washington.

Will Subpoena Kennedy In Milk Hearing

TORONTO, Oct. 5—(CP)—Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, will be subpoenaed to testify before Chief Justice J. C. McRuer in the appeal of the Toronto Milk Distributors' Association against an Ontario Milk Control Board order which in August increased the price paid milk producers by Toronto dairies.

The late-summer 35-cent boost brought the Toronto milk price to $4.20 a hundredweight.

The move to bring Mr. Kennedy before the hearing now in progress will be made because the minister had not been properly notified of a public hearing May 1 when the Milk Control Board sat as an arbitrary body in an attempt to settle the dicpute between the dairies and the farmers. Joseph Sedgwick, counsel for the distributors, claimed yesterday that failure to notify Mr. Kennedy violated a provision in the Milk Control Act.

The milk distributors contend that the Price Control Board was without jurisdiction when it awarded the 35-cent-hundredweight increase to the producers.

Chief Justice McRuer suggested that the Agriculture Minister be called into the case.

Before the hearing adjourned Wednesday Chief Justice McRuer gave Mr. Sedgwick permission to subpoena, in addition to Mr. Kennedy, Judge A. B. Currey, chairman of the Milk Board, Mayor Hiram McCallum of Toronto, consumers' representative, M. G. Hart, distributors' representative, and John E. Houck, secretary-manager of the distributors' organization.

140 Pay Fines

TORONTO, Oct. 25—(CP) — More than 140 persons appeared in county magistrate's court Wednesday, charged with failing to have radio licenses. They paid fines totalling 450. Each offender was fined $3 and $1.75 costs.

Beaver Touch

NORTH BAY, Oct. 25—(CP)—Civic officials announced Wednesday that Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh will be presented with a pair of beaver gauntlets and a beaver hat, respectively, when they visit here Oct. 29.

Ginger Beer Contest

GLASGOW, Scotland—(CP)—University students here decided to hold a beer-drinking contest to raise funds for a students' farewell dinner, but when officials heard of it the menu was changed to ginger beer. A brewery had intended presenting 600 bottles of beer.

50-Year Dream

IPSWICH, England (CP)—Herbert Cole, 81, before leaving for Australia with his family said that ever since he left "down under" 50 years ago he had dreamed of the day he would return to find a hill of gold. "My dream of the hill was so clear that I shall know the place the moment I see it," he said.

Helps Bedridden

WINNIPEG. — (CP) — A ceiling projector whereby bedridden patients may read books shown on the ceiling, a page at a time, has been donated for use in Winnipeg hospitals by the overseas club of Winnipeg, composed of former members of the Red Cross Corps who served overseas. The patient operates the machine by push button.

High-Priced Hog

BRANDON, Man. — (CP) — Malcolm McGregor of Brandon paid $395 for a pure-bred boar here, record price in the sale of pure-bred swine sponsored by the Manitoba Winter Fair. The boar won the reserve championship at the annual exhibition.

Ontario Election Most-Costly

TORONTO, Oct. 25 — (CP) — Ontario's general election Nov. 22 is expected to be the costliest in the province's history. It will involve the work of more than 60,000 persons in 12,000 polling divisions.

Major Alex Lewis, chief election officer, estimates the cost at $2,500,000.

This will be the fifth election Major Lewis has run in Ontario, and it has some new jobs for him.

Under the new Election Act he is responsible for seeing that voters in rural as well as urban ridings are enumerated. In former elections municipal lists were used for farm voters.

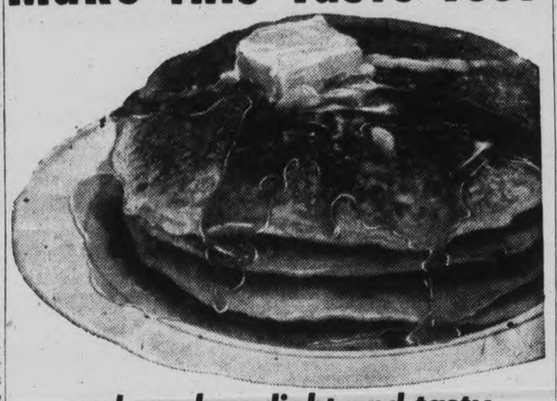
Enumerators in Northern Ontario make their rounds in isolated areas in Ontario Lands Department aircraft.

Major Lewis expects a sizeable increase over the 1948 voting list which contained 2,625,281 names.

Seize 72,000 Tickets

BAYFIELD, Ont., Oct. 25—Seventy-two thousands tickets on the Quebec Army and Navy Veterans lottery were seized by the Ontario provincial police anti-gambling squad in a raid at the home of Gordon M. Galbraith, police said Wednesday night. Galbraith, scheduled to appear in court at Goderich, Nov. 1, was not at his Bayfield district home at the time of the daytime raid Sept. 18, police said.

Port Perry Drys Win



PORT PERRY, Oct. 25—(CP)—This community voted Wednesday to extend its 35-year year dry spell. Balloting on the question of the sale of beer was 511 in favor and 485 against. A 60-per cent vote in favor is required for establishment of a beer store. The nearest outlet is at Oshawa, 16 miles away.

Chinese Students

SASKATOON—(CP)—The Saskatoon Public School Board is establishing a class in basic English and in Canadian citizenship for 20 Chinese boys and one Chinese girl, all of whom arrived in the city during the last year.

MAP SHOWS the 104-mile course of the vital Suez Canal that Great Britain has bottled up at both ends, pending the outcome of Egypt's efforts to throw out all British armed forces. A British cruiser is on guard at Port Said, two other warships have sealed up the southern terminus at Port Taufiq, tank-supported troops have seized railroad stations outside Suez and troops are pouring in from England and Cyprus to reinforce those that have already cut off the canal zone from the rest of Egypt.

Faces Second Accident Charge

WINDSOR, Oct. 25—(CP)—A 55-year-old Tilbury man, John Watson, was committed for trial Wednesday in county police court after a preliminary hearing on a charge of manslaughter.

It was the second time in five weeks that Watson had faced the same charge in connection with the same accident. On Sept. 10 he won acquittal on charges arising out of the death of Mrs. Louise Bully, 75, of Tilbury, a passenger in his truck when it was involved in an acident near Comber Aug. 3.

That charge was dismissed by Magistrate J. A. Hanrahan when the Crown failed to prove that Mrs. Buly was in the truck at the time of the accident or that Watson was the driver.

Watson was charged Wednesday with responsibility for the death of Mrs. Dorothy Clark, 40, also of Tilbury, a second passenger in the truck.

This time, the Crown called two witnesses to testify that they had pulled Mrs. Clark from the wreckage of the truck. Provincial police testified that Watson had admitted driving the truck when they questioned him after the accident.

Report Lunan Freed From Pen

MONTREAL, Oct. 25—(CP)—David Gordon Lunan, convicted in 1946 of spying for Russia, was reported by the Montreal Gazette Wednesday as having been released from penitentiary.

The Canadian Press in reporting this said erroneously that Israel Halperin had been convicted on a similar charge. This was incorrect. Mr. Halperin was acquitted.

Lunan was said to have been released Saturday. His term was five years for conspiring to communicate confidential information to Russia and an additional year for contempt of court, imposed when he refused to testify at the Halperin trial.

The Canadian Press regrets any embarrassment its error may have caused Mr. Halperin and is glad to make this correction.

Gets Deer Hard Way

TITUSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 25 (AP)—Robert Ewing, 33, bagged a deer Tuesday the hard way—with a bow and arrow and on crutches. Undaunted by a pair of ailing ankles, Ewing had a friend drive him into the forest. He flushed a 115-pound buck which ran straight for him. Ewing's single arrow pierced its neck.

Ute Indians Receive Part Of Big Settlement

FORT DUCHESNE, Utah, Oct. 25 (AP)—Ute Indians Wednesday received the first payment on a multi-million dollar settlement made for land which was wrested from their ancestors 70 years ago.

About $414,000 was paid to 1,679 Utes from the Uintah-Ouray reservation in Western Utah.

The Redmen, many attired in colorful tribal costume lined up before government cashiers at five locations on the 1,000,000-acre reservation. Payments ranged from $50 to nearly $1,000. The average was $500. Many of the Indians did not draw their full amount.

The cash distribution yesterday is partial payment for lands taken by the white man in Western Colorado in the 1880s. The Utes later moved into Utah and for nearly 250 years fought their claim in the courts. The $31,983,-67? settlement was reached in July, 1950.

Hold Pot Luck Supper At St. James

A very appetizing Pot Luck supper was enjoyed at the regular Tuesday meeting of the St. Jame's Y.P.U. with a good attendance of guests and members.

The evening worship service was directed by the fellowship missions with Bill Piercy giving a talk on faith in God when in distress.

The announcements which were pertaining to the Bay of Quinte conference this weekend, October 26, 27 and 28 was given followed by the discussion on a variety show which St. Jame's Y.P.U. is presenting November 7. Ron Davis was nominated and elected as cultural convener.

Everyone took part in recreation with acting games, ping-pong, and crocinole.

New members were introduced. After a short lunch the meeting was adjourned.

Joint Committee Of C of C Discuss Many Problems

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce, a parliament of Canadian business men, meets in Quebec next week, and, in ordinary course a great deal will be published concerning its proceedings.

One of the most important of the Chamber's activities, however, will take place this week, and probably not much will be said about it.

It will be the meeting of the joint committee of the Canadian and United States Chambers of Commerce, on Friday and Saturday.

Not much will be said about it because it will be just a group of Canadian and American business men sitting down together in private sessions to see what they can do about problems in the relations of Canada and the United States.

In the past, they have talked mostly of trade. But this year they will also discuss integration of defence production; the St. Lawrence Seaway; natural resources development; international public relations; Canadian stock promotion across the border; restriction of the sale of Canadian dairy products in the United States, and so on.

Can Only Discuss

The joint committee can discuss these things, but they can't decide them; they are neither the whole publics nor the governments of the two countries. They are just citizens, but informed and influential citizens, and they carry their agreed-upon views back home.

Perhaps a recent statement by one of the American members gives a good idea of the committee's work. It was by John Jay Hopkins, president of Electric Boat Company of New York and Canadair, Ltd., Montreal, and he was speaking of efforts being made to increase Canadian sales in the United States. He said:

"The subject is one which logically and properly comes within the purview of the Canada-US committee, and the members of the Canadian section, under the chairmanship of Gordon Cockshutt, of Brantford, and now of Bruce Hill, of St. Catharines, have been indefatigable in presenting the Canadian viewpoint.

"The committee as a whole, being made up of practical and experienced men of affairs in the business fraternity of both countries, is uniquely equipped to appraise the merits of the issue as a practical problem.

Advocate Adoption

"At its meetings at Asheville, NC, in April, 1950; at Banff, Alta., in September, 1950; and at Irvington, Va., in April, 1951, the committee adopted resolutions in favor of implementing the integration of the defence efforts of our two countries which subsequently were approved by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and became the official policy of that organization. The United States Chamber has with full force and vigor advocated their implementation in all appropriate quarters.

"It is difficult to measure cause and effect, but I can assure you that the work of the US Chamber in this area was productive of much good and was appreciated by the government authorities.

"Indeed, the whole story is one of constructive co-operation, and representative of the best that can be accomplished by men of good will who serve in a just cause. But the situation is still such that the business groups of both Canada and the United States must keep constantly on the alert."

Members of the Canadian section of the joint committee meeting this week include:

Mr. Hill, chairman; F. Homer Zwicker, Lunenburg, NS; L. W. Simms, Saint John, NB; F. J. Cunningham, C. C. Thackray, Col. R. D. Harkness, E. C. Wood, Maj.-Gen. G. B. Howard, D. L. Morrell and W. J. Sheridan, Montreal; D. P. Cruickshank and Kenneth Wilson, Ottawa; R. A. Bryce, J. G. Crean and J. R. White, Toronto; J. E. Brownlee, Winnipeg; Francis G. Winspear and H. E. Pearson, Edmonton; W. J. MARY MOORE SAYS:

Making An Angel Food Cake

October holds autumn in its palm
And it's cozy and rosy and glorious
But I could dispense
With cold, old winter without a qualm
If June should commence
And be hot and happy and uproarious.
Mary (Madhouse) Moore

Murder has been attempted for less murderous rhyming, but I feel so good today I'm taking a chance.

It's all because we're all going to be home together this weekend and my brother's family is coming for dinner on Sunday. It will be a birthday party for my sister-in-law.

The comments that reached me after I gave you Party Angel Food were all so full of praise, that I'm thinking it is time another angel food recipe of the same calibre appeared. There seems to be a rash of entertaining breaking out, in the wake of the Princess' visit. The heart and soul of entertainment at home is food—food of high-quality. This is so high it is heavenly.

Perfect Angel Food (Large Size)

One and one-half cups cake flour measured after sifting, 2 cups sugar, 1½ cups egg whites (these should be room temperature), ½ teaspoon salt, 1½ teaspoons cream of tartar, 1½ teaspoons vanilla, 1 teaspoon almond flavoring. Measure sugar and divide in 2 equal halves. Add ½ half of the sugar to the flour and sift the two of them together 4 times. Sift the remaining sugar 4 times. Add salt to egg whites in very large bowl and beat until foamy by hand or electric beater Add cream of tartar. Continue beating until whites are stiff, but not dry. Use a rubber scraper to wipe down whites from sides of bowl as you beat. Add 1 cup of sugar slowly, beating all the time.

Do not use electric beater to add flour. With a wire whisk egg beater fold in the flour and sugar mixture, but fold in with an over-top of the whites, 2 tablespoons at a time, Do not liff whisk from mixture, but fold in with an over-and-over motion. Pour into ungreased very large tube pan. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 60 minutes. Invert on cake cooler until cold, then coax cake from pan by pulling it away from the sides with tips of fingers.

Angel Food With Fruit Custard Filling

Make a custard as follows; Beat 3 egg yolks slightly, and add to them ¼ cup sugar and one-third teaspoon salt. Slowly stir into them 2 cups scalded milk, and stir over simmering water until custard coats spoon. Chill custard. Just before ready to serve stir into this 1 cup heavy cream whipped, and 3 tablespoons fine chopped candied fruits (cherries, pineapple, ginger) and ¼ to ½ cup blanched almonds.

Enlarge the opening in the centre of the angel food cake. Break the pieces you have taken away up into small bits and fold into the custard. Now pour this into the opening and over the top surface of the cake, allowing some of it to trickle down the sides.

If desired the crumbs removed from centre may be dropped into the hole left by the tube pan. This gives you more custard for spreading over the top and for trickling down the sides.

Note: If desired hole in cake may be enlarged, filled with ice cream and this custard sauce poured over all.

These amounts will serve from 12 to 16 people.

DOROTHY DIX

Younger Brother Suffers From Family Reputation

DEAR MISS DIX: Should a younger brother be penalized because other boys in the family have earned poor reputations by drinking heavily and keeping the wrong company? I am 16 and very fond of a boy slightly older who is very nice, considerate and every inch a gentleman. He has two brothers who are just the opposite. Consequently, no one respects the older boys and my friend, Keith, is grouped with them in everyone's mind. I should hate to lose my own good name by going with Keith, but still I like him very much and do feel he should have a chance to prove he is different. I go with other boys, too, but he is the one I like most.

Dorothy Dix

J. L. E.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You are young to form an opinion on so weighty a matter as a boy's reputation; suppose you talk this matter over with your mother, or some other adult who has your confidence.

He Can Earn Respect

Since Keith is so different from his brothers, most assuredly he should be judged on his own merits, and though it might be harder for him to convince people of his good intentions, it is not impossible. With the exception of a few malicious gossips, you'll find most people inclined to see the best in others, and if Keith really keeps his character above reproach, he'll earn the respect of his neighbors.

You are so right to safeguard your own reputation. If, after due consideration and consultation, you feel Keith really is worthy of your regard, go out with him. But, make sure you keep good hours, choose your mutual companions carefully, and stay away from questionable places of amusement. If Keith shows discernment in the dates he offers, and you conduct yourselves in proper fashion, both reputations will be enhanced.

DEAR MISS DIX: For the past two years, since I was 16, I have been going with Larry, whom I have known since childhood. I loved him very much, but he

President Lloyd Starke conducted the business, also a lively sing song with Shirley Starke at the piano.

Worship service was conducted by citizenship convener Miss Hazel Wilson, who offered prayer and read the scripture. She then showed some pictures taken on her trip through the United States to California. Dorothy Leslie conducted recreation, after which refreshments were served by the citizenship group.

Room Mothers Told They Are Public Relations Officers

Room mothers of the Prince of Wales Home and School Association were entertained at tea Wednesday afternoon by the executive. President Mrs. W. E. Baggs, in a brief address, told the guests that they are considered the public relations officers of the association, and that the executive depends on them to foster goodwill toward it. They were greeted at the door by Mrs. M. C. McCartney, who is membership convener. The tea table was charmingly arranged with centrepiece of bittersweet, pine and yellow 'mums. The event was convened by Mrs. W. Garner, assisted by Mrs. C. Murkar, Mrs. C. Stone and Mrs. A. Smith, and other members of the executive assisted with serving.

Fete Bride-to-Be

NORWOOD, Oct. 25 —(ENS)— On Saturday evening Mrs. Jim Moore and Mrs. Leonard Hannon were joint hostesses at the latter's home for a miscellaneous shower for Miss Doris Hannon, whose marriage to Thomas Monteith takes place Saturday.

Highlight of the evening was a mock wedding, the bridal party entering to the strains of the wedding march played by Mrs. Leonard Hannon. Miss Ruth Davey played the part of the bride. Mrs. Dora Davison, the bridesmaid, Mrs. Gordon Ferguson, the groom, Mrs. Trevor Colby, the groomsman, Mrs. Wesley Chamberlain the minister. Mrs. Jim Moore played the part of the usher and the bride was given in marriage by her father Miss Mazie Windsor.

The dining room was decorated with pink and white streamers and bells.

The bride-to-be was seated in a large decorated chair, while two children Cathaleen Hannon and Douglas Andrews drew in a decorated wagon loaded with gifts.

The bride-to-be thanked all for their lovely gifts.

Mission Band Meeting

Nettie McKenzie Mission Band met Wednesday afternoon in Knox Church Sunday School Room, with 17 present. The meeting opened with Glen Crawford in the chair and the members' purpose was repeated. Treasurer Marilyn Morrison gave a report. A temperance story was read by Larry Scott. A sing-song was conducted with Mrs. A. Parker at the piano. The short worship was led by Mrs. G. James, with the candles being lit by Elaine White and Lillian Mark. Scripture was read by Gordon Sarginson. Mrs. James pointed out to the children the value both to themselves and others of being friendly to neighbors and helping whenever possible. The offering was taken by Betty Jean Jacque and Marilyn Morrison and dedicated by singing "Father, bless the gifts." A short study period followed with leaders Mrs. W. McCracken and Mrs. A. Parker. A Hallowe'en treat was given the children. Next meeting will be a work period, November 7.

THESE YOUTHFUL CLOTHES have just the right touch of sophistication. Strapless dress (left) with smooth-fitting bodice is rayon taffeta, has a crushed cuff of the fabric accented by black velvet ribbon. It has its own crinoline. Shepherd check (centre) in novelty rayon taffeta is for informal parties, has scoop neckline, a shaped patent belt, very full skirt. Corded stripe (right) is crisp, is worn over crinoline petticoat. Ruffled sleevelets are worn high on the upper arm. All designs are in junior sizes.

British Women Enjoying New Shaggy Look Styles

By MURIEL NARRAWAY.

LONDON (CP).—With early fogs reminding them of last year's long, wet winter British women are making a beeline for the coat racks and "the shaggy look."

Popular demand thus supports the designer's choice of long-haired wools, fur fabrics and caracul weaves for this season's chilly days. British stores find the new deep-pile, shaggy-surfaced styles sell as fast as they appear on the racks. Thick velours, with their closely-knit surfaces come close second.

Both London and Paris show a wide range of shaggy materials fashioned for the most part in wide, swinging tent styles with big sleeves and collars. The cosy look to these garments is their own sales promotion.

This is the first time since the war that so much preference has been shown for fur fabric materials—or what is known as "the poor man's fur."

Popular during the war, this fabric is coming back into town after a post war lapse. Present materials however, give a slinky glamor that has little in common with its somewhat mousy wartime equivalent.

Like Phantom Beaver

It now is possible, for instance, for an ombre beaver fur fabric coat to look so like the phantom beaver on which it is styled that the difference is perceptible only at close quarters. Not only that, but there is no longer the meanness of line that once characterized these coats. They have a swinging fullness that, with the right accessories, can add style to the wardrobe of most salaried women.

One choice that gives a smart touch to a black office dress is a shaded grey Indian lamb fabric coat selling at £25. With big cape collar and deep cuffs it has a swinging fulness that fits easily over a winter suit.

For those who don't like fur fabrics there are smooth silky velours in the new thunder greys, charcoal brown and new greens. One of the loveliest of recent colors is hunter, or piper green. Tent coats of varying fulness created in a fabric of this shade have neat circular cape collars often trimmed in ocelot or leopard skin. Fur is also used on the cuffs which are generally small and tight, giving wide sleeves a balloon or melon drape.

Beaver lamb is also used with these coats but the tawny shading of the spotted furs is a lovely challenge to the deep mid-green.

Many coats in the deep-pile fabrics cost around £13 to £15 and are smartly styled. Take for instance a mustard velour coat contrasted by a deep, softly-draped cape collar in black velvet, wide black cuffs and black buttons in diagonal line. This costs £13 6s. 8d.

B & P Club's Tea Affected By Rainy Weather

For some mysterious, unknown reason the Business and Professional Women's Club of Peterborough does not stand in the good favor of the weatherman. So it has to bear the result of rainy weather Wednesday afternoon when the annual tea was being held. The effect is a smaller crowd than usual and smaller proceeds to go to the Club's fund for welfare work in the city.

Decorations in the YWCA green room for this occasion were gathered from the out of doors. Deep bronze leaves, orange bittersweet berries and fruit centred the lace-covered tea table, with bouquets of yellow and bronze 'mums at either side. Leaves and flowers in the same colors were also used to decorate the mantel and piano top. Miss Mina Edwards was responsible for these effects.

There was considerable interest in two draw prizes, a hostess ham and three pairs of nylons, on which tickets had been sold by all members, and were selling during the tea by Misses Helen Lytle, Florence Hutchinson and Jean Horsfield.

Miss Myra Baird was asked to make the draws and she selected Mr. E. O'Brien, 529 Bolivar St., as winner of the nylons, and Miss Florence Hutchinson, Sheridan St., of the ham.

A table of home cooking was convened by Miss Jean Gillespie and her assistants were Miss Ethel Blewett, Miss Ethel Miller and Mrs. H. Dunsford. The candy booth was convened by Miss Jane Saunders and Misses Ann Deyell and Vi Walsh assisted her with sales. Candy baskets had frilled orange and white paper covers.

Tea cup reading was, as it usually is, the biggest attraction of the afternoon.

Tea pourers for the opening hour were Miss Elsie Bennett and Miss Mary Dawson and they were replaced by Miss Sarah Eastwood and Mrs. Lyda Telford, both past presidents. The plates were filled by Miss Amy Bowles, Miss Mabel White and Miss Ann Jamieson, assisted by tea table convener Miss Vera Heyes. Mrs. L. Yeotes, Miss Mabel Moore, Miss Olga Haskill and Miss Helen Moore were serving, with other members assisting when necessary.

President Mrs. Jean Watson was assisted in receiving by vice-president Miss Alice Hardwicke and the cashier was Miss Jessie Martin.

Miss Mary Dawson was general convener of the affair and all club members gave assistance.

Can. Cancer Soc. To Hold Work Conference

Volunteer workers from all over Canada and from New York State will attend the first Canadian work conference of the Canadian Cancer Society to be held in Toronto, November 1 and 2, at the Royal York Hotel.

This conference is being arranged by the Toronto Branch of the Canadian Cancer Society, and will be under the direction of Mrs. Egmont L. Frankel, Toronto president, and members of her committee.

Volunteer workers will lead discusions on lay education, club contacts, speakers' panels, information centres, cancer dressing groups, hospital services, needs of the cancer patient, home visiting and asistance, etc.

At the Thursday luncheon Mr. Jack Brockie, director of public relations, T. Eaton Co. Ltd., will be guest speaker; Dr. W. G. Cosbie will address the Thursday dinner meeting on the subject "A Trip to Europe in Search of New Ideas," and on Friday Mrs. Marrietta Vincent, director of Recreational Therapy, Cancer Memorial Hospital, New York, will be the guest speaker at luncheon.

The two-day conference will close with a reception and tea being given by His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, and Mrs. Ray Lawson in honor of the visiting delegates and volunteer workers.

Whitina-Darling

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 25 (ENS)— At Lakefield United Church parsonage Saturday afternoon Zelma Catharine, daughter of Mrs. Frank J. Darling and the late Frank Darling was united in marriage to Sidney Thomas Whiting, son of Mr. C. C. Whiting of Vancouver, BC, by the Rev. Walton Tonge.

The bridge wore a heather tan suit with green accessories and corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Harry Northey of Toronto was her attendant and wore a grey suit with black accessories and corsage of red roses.

Harry Northey attended the groom.

Following a reception at the bride's home the couple left for a trip through western Ontario. They will live in Lakefield.

HISTORIC CANAL

The Forth and Clyde canal, 40 miles long, was built in 1791 to connect the river Clyde with the Firth of Forth.

Nursing Sister Head Busy Traveller

REGINA (CP)—"Join the navy and see the world," or so the saying goes. Major Edna E. Andrews, who calls Carrot River, Sask., home, chose to see the world with the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps—and she did it.

The trim, dark-haired, blue-eyed Miss Andrews, head of the nursing sisters of Canada, has travelled from Dundurn, Sask., across the Dominion and the Atlantic to England, over the choppy English Channel in the wake of the troops that landed on Normandy beaches on D-Day and through almost every European country occupied by Canadian troops in the Second World War.

The cessation of hostilities failed to dampen her roving nature. Since the end of the war she has been stationed first in occupied Germany and later with almost every army hospital in Canada.

Now a tour of inspection of army hospitals is taking her practically from coast to coast in a succession of alternative train and plane rides.

Army orders probably had a great deal to do with her army wanderings but she seemed to have a foot-loose attitude even before her nursing career.

Stationed In Ottawa

Miss Andrews was born in Miami, Man., went to high school in Tisdale, Sask., and trained for a nurse in city hospital at Saskatoon, Sask. She is currently stationed in Ottawa.

Miss Andrews considers her present garb an improvement over the uniforms issued during the last war. The hat in particular is "much smarter."

"We used to wear brimmed affairs worn straight on the head," she said. The new headgear is a smart little beret called a "balmoral," pulled down jauntily at one side and dressed up with a gleaming bronze insignia.

And the army finally surrendered to the call of fashion leaders and lengthened both skirt and jacket.

Bethel W.A. Guests Of Omemee

OMEMEE, Oct. 25 (ENS). — Bethel United Church WA were guests of the WA and the WMS of Omemee Trinity United, Tuesday evening. Mrs. H. Deyell presided.

The speaker of the evening was Mrs. Henry Parnell of the Peterborough unit of the Salvation Army. Other interesting features were Mrs. J. B. Hough's presentation of the topic, "The Great Supper," a vocal duet by Misses Joan Whitmore and Joan Saulter, "Love Divine"; and a piano duet by Mrs. I. Connell and Miss L. Race.

Mrs. Hough, in dealing with the parable of "The Great Supper," said there were 1,000 excuses, but not one good reason for refusing to comply with God's invitation to work in His church. She urged that we accept our duty and cease making excuses about lack of time and ability, saying that we have time for what we want to do, and that our ability is God's problem.

Mrs. Parnell, who was introduced by Mrs. L. Casey, based her message on the text "Ye Are God's Building." The use of each room of a house was given a special application to the spiritual requirements of the soul. The plans were drawn up by God and we are the contractor for our own building whose foundation is Jesus Christ, she said, and the heating, Christian zeal. The living room is for the fostering of loving hospitality, the bed room for relaxation, the renewing of spirit and the place of privacy to put on the robe of righteousness, the bathroom for cleansing and the dining room for partaking of spiritual food.

Mrs. Graham, WMS president, expressed her appreciation of Mrs. Parnell's thought-provoking address and thanked others who assisted in the program.

A get-together was enjoyed after the meeting while lunch was served by the committee in charge.

On behalf of the Bethel ladies Mrs. J. W. Wellman thanked the Omemee societies for the pleasant and profitable evening.

Trio of Conveners Arrange George St. Mothers' Tea

The Mothers of the Baby Band at George St. United Church deplored the drop in attendance at their Chrysanthemum Tea due to the wetness on Wednesday afternoon, though there was not a great loss financially since they had been busy for weeks in advance selling about 300 tickets. Receipts were increased by the fact that many of those who attended were cash customers.

A trio of conveners, Mrs. S. J. Rowe, Mrs. Archie Clysdale and Mrs. P. Wellwood, was selected from some 40 active members of the auxiliary, which has a total membership of more than 70.

Mrs. Clysdale did the tea table, using pink and American beauty as her color scheme, and the effect was greatly admired. Chrysanthemums in white and tinted pink and wine were arranged in a homey, cheery fashion in a crystal bowl and matching candelabra held pink tapers. Pink tulle laid around this centrepiece was crossed with ribbon and bows in the deep wine shade. The tea cloth was white linen with cutwork.

Mrs. Wellwood took charge of the tea room where the honorary president, Mrs. W. H. Morton, was a gracious hostess.

Tea pourers were all special guests, Mrs. Gerald Whitney having come from Havelock to preside the first hour with Mrs. J. Wishart, president of Murray St. Mother's Club. Mrs. K. O. Birkin of St. John's and Mrs. Robert McIlmoyle of St. Paul's replaced them.

Serving were Mrs. R. Nicholls, Mrs. W. Barnard, Mrs. J. Weaver, Mrs. E. Beatty, Mrs. E. S. Kingdom, Mrs. Robert Miller, Mrs. D. Brown, Mrs. S. Thompson, Mrs. D. Lawless, Mrs. J. Miller, Mrs. J. Telford, Mrs. G. Gatfield, Mrs. W. Ward, Mrs. R. K. McKee, Mrs. Reg. Kingdom, Mrs. D. MacDonald, Mrs. D. W. Kingdom and Mrs. Wm. Greatrix.

The plates and tea pots were replenished by Mrs. Don Douglas, Mrs. R. W. Cann, Mrs. H. Gray, Mrs. J. H. Higgins and Mrs. L. Edwards.

Soft background music throughout the afternoon was played by Mrs. Arthur Black, Mrs. I. Ellicott, Mrs. Arthur Bacon and Mrs. S. James in turn.

Third convener, Mrs. Rowe, took charge of the candy table in an adjoining room where there was also a home baking table, display of the magazines which the auxiliary sells subscriptions for throughout the year and several tables on which were shown parts of the 15 layettes the mothers hope to complete this year.

Mrs. Rowe was assisted at her table by Mrs. R. Colmer, Mrs. O. Spencer and Mrs. G. Gordon. Selling the cooking were Mrs. Art Long, Mrs. J. M. Lowes, Mrs. R. Kelcey and Mrs. A. Black. Mrs Eric Mason was taking the magazine subscriptions.

Mrs. Ray Parnell, president, greeted the guests charmingly, assisted by Mrs. Arnold Mathews. The tickets were taken by Mrs. Lloyd Wells, assisted by Mrs. Otto Mackey.

Important roles, in fact perhaps the most important, were played by those supervising the nursery for they made it possible for others to assist with the tea. assisted by Mrs. Wm. Scott, Mrs. Mrs. Robert Kingdom had charge, R. Delahaye, Mrs. R. Lawrence, Mrs. H. Carver, Mrs. R. Healey and Mrs. J. Edgerton.

6—In Memoriam

BUGG—In loving memory of Mrs. Agnes Bugg, who passed away Oct. 24, 1948.
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered, since we lost you
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear mother
That we do not think of you.
—Sadly missed by husband and daughter Margaret.

Bailieboro Woman Missing Now Denied

A report that a Bailieboro woman was missing Wednesday night after being released from St. Joseph's hospital in the afternoon turned out to be a false alarm, it was learned today.

Hospital officials reported that Mrs. Dorothy Brady, 27 of Bailieboro was released about 4 pm Wednesday afternoon and left the hospital with her sister-in-law.

Through some misunderstanding, an alarm was turned in and an announcement was read over CHEX, urging anyone knowing Mrs. Brady's whereabouts to contact Peterborough police.

Thursday morning, Mrs. Brady's physician stated he knew Mrs. Brady was not to go home but was released from hospital on the understanding she was to be taken to the home of her mother, about three miles from Bailieboro.

Dorothy Dix:

constantly disappointed me, breaking dates, going away for weekends without giving me a chance to make my own plans and pursuing hobbies in which he was more interested than he was in me. We had many arguments, and finally broke up. Then I met another boy, Ray, who is wonderfully considerate and shares the same hobbies and interests as I do. So we became engaged. I love him very much but not with the ardent love I had for Larry. Do you think I should marry him?

ANSWER: The ardor of first love can never be recaptured; the man who first wins a woman's heart leaves an imprint upon it that nothing ever removes, even though he turns out to be worthless. So no matter how much you love your fiancee, don't ever expect to forget Larry entirely.

Larry certainly does not have the material from which a good husband is made, and you were right to break off with him. Your fiance's consideration and congeniality do indicate a potentially fine husband. You and you alone can tell which one you will be happier with—dashing, selfish Larry, or steady, thoughful Ray. You'll be miserable with Larry, happy with Ray, provided you can remove the aura of romance from Larry's head. Don't marry at all until your position in regard to both men is absolutely clear. At 18 you have plenty of time to make up your mind; don't run the risk of a bad marriage.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am heartbroken over my boy friend's neglect. He lives sixteen miles from me and though he can't drive a car, I think he might at least write. I am 15, he is a year older, and I know he likes me.

LILY H.

ANSWER: A 16-year-old boy with a penchant for letter writing is a rarity indeed. At that age, boys shun pen and ink much as they avoided soap and water six years earlier.

You are making entirely too much of your blighted romance. Instead of mooning over an inaccessible boy, why not go out with someone closer to home? If your absent beau really cares for you, eventually he'll write or come calling. Until then, cheer up and stop moping!

OBITUARIES

JOSEPH VINCENT McGARRITY

In his 80th year, Joseph McGarrity, a retired farmer, died suddenly Wednesday. He was born in Otonabee township, the son of the late John McGarrity and Johannah Sheehan.

Mr. McGarrity is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Michael Geary (Mary) Ennismore, Mrs. James Fitzgerald (Johannah), Wisconsin, Mrs. Frank O'Donoghue (Agnes), Peterborough, and three brothers, Thomas, Francis, both of Peterborough and John, Edmonton.

The funeral will be held from the Duffus funeral home Saturday to Immaculate Conception church for requiem mass at 9 a.m. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery, Douro.

Guilty Of Theft Of Sun Visor Man Fined $45

Found guilty of theft, Roy B. Davis, 22 of 43 Lansdowne St., was fined $45 and $2.50 costs or in default 15 days in jail, by Magistrate W. R. Philp in police court today.

"I think I'll give you one chance," said Magistrate Philp as he gave Davis a stern warning and sharp lecture and added "ordinarily a person guilty of theft goes to jail."

Davis pleaded not guilty to a charge of stealing a sun visor from a car on a used car lot just after midnight, the morning of October 23, when he appeared in police court Tuesday.

Remanded on $100 bail, Davis was found guilty on the evidence Wednesday and held in county jail overnight pending completion of evidence on another charge of stealing automobile ornaments from the car of Donald Fitzgerald, of Otonabee township, Oct. 6.

Ornaments

Davis pleaded not guilty to stealing the ornaments which were produced in court Wednesday. They had been removed from Davis' car by Detective Sergeant John Stevenson, and Fitzgerald identified them as his.

Today, Davis produced a witness Jack Shannon of 1013 Water St., who backed up Davis' story that he had bought them from a workman at the city hall for $5.

On the charge of stealing the sun visor, valued under $25, Davis did not question the evidence of arresting officer Constable Dennis Traynor who watched Davis hide the visor behind a pile of sand the morning of the alleged theft, but did claim he had decided not to take it after removing it from the car.

Magistrate Philp in finding Davis guilty on the charge said "It was stolen when you carried it any distance." Today, His Worship warned Davis it was "not wise for anyone to rely on technicalities of laws to get out of a jam. In many cases you will find no law of any assistance because law is based on common sense."

Second Charge

Dismissing the second charge, Magistrate Philp said "all the accused is expected to do is to give an explanation that could be true and on this basis the accused should be given the benefit of the doubt. It is hard to believe you could be as slow reacting as you attempt to appear in court. I don't see how you could work for a transport company (Davis is employed by a local transport firm) and act as you have."

Crown Attorney J. A. Bradshaw said he "did not believe Davis' story" about obtaining the auto ornaments but agreed with the magistrate's decision.

After Magistrate Philp's decision, Mr. Bradshaw said he wanted the accused and the public to know that he didn't offer the information that Davis had been placed on suspended sentence for bicycle theft when he was 16 or 17. All down the line, the consideration is what will benefit the accused," he said.

Collecting Clothing To Aid Jamaicans

Co-operating with Y's Men's clubs in the United States and Canada, the Peterborough club is collecting light clothing in reply to an appeal from Jamaica for assistance after the hurricane ripped across the small country in August.

By letter each Y's Men's clb in Canada and the United States received the appeal for light clothing and financial assistance from the president of the Jamaica Y's Men's club.

Peterborough is collecting light clothing, suitable for wear. Already a large container in the lobby of the YMCA has been filled twice and the collection will continue for another week.

Mrs. L. Maguire

Pallbearers at the funeral Tuesday of Mrs. Lawrence L. Maguire, 610 George St., were W. E. Meagher, Gordon Puffer, John Madden, Jack Johnston, P. J. LaBranche and Leonard Bearne.

Mrs. Maguire, the former Dorothy Merlin, died Oct. 21 after an illness of several weeks. She was born in Halifax but was a resident of Peterborough for 28 years. She was a former police matron and a board member of the Children's Aid Society.

The funeral service was at St. John's Anglican Church, Archdeacon W. P. Robertson officiating. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

Mrs. J. Richardson

The funeral for Mrs. Joseph Richardson Wolfe, St., who died Monday, was held Wednesday from the Nisbett funeral home. The Rev. M. P. Poole of All Saints' Anglican Church conducted the service.

Pallbearers were: Gordon Copperwaite, Jack Livingston, Harry Richardson, Bob Noble, Howard Bradley, William Bartlett. Burial was in Hillside cemetery, Lakefield.

Have Near-Riot

TOKYO, Oct. 25 — (Reuters) — Fist fights and a near-riot marked a 23-hour meeting of Japan's Socialist Party Wednesday, splitting it in two over support for the Japanese Peace Treaty and the American-Japanese Security arrangement. Left-wing delegates later held a rump session at which they voted to oppose both treaties when they are introduced in the diet.

Visiting Mayor Entertained In Montreal

In conversation with his head office Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Ford Warren, manager of the Bank of Montreal, learned that plans for the reception of the arriving party from Peterborough, England, were carried out as arranged.

Superintenden P. O'Shea, representing the Bank, met Mayor G. R. Chamberlain and Ald. E. V. Martin at the boat, and took them to the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. They were entertained at dinner Wednesday at the St. James Club, and at lunch today they were guests of Mr. G. R. Ball, general manager of the bank.

There were other incidents between times, and the Peterborough party left on the 3.30 p.m. train today for Port Hope where they will be met this evening by members of the council at 8.30.

Welcoming Party.

The welcoming party will be Ald. T. D. Miller, Ald. E. C. Braund and Ald. J. A. Dewart and their wives. The visitors are being accompained By Mr. Joseph Bolton of the Bank of Montreal.

The greeting of the two members of the council of Peterborough, England, and their wives was suggested to the Bank of Montreal from the city hall, virtually as a request from an old customer. The proposal was immediately accepted by the Bank who assumed the welcoming duty for this city in Montreal.

Slight Damage Done As Two Cars Collide

A minor two-car collision at the corner of Rubidge and Charlotte Streets, Tuesday noon, resulted in slight damage to the vehicles involved.

Harry P. Blackmore, 328 Charlotte Street, told police he was driving west on Charlotte Street when a car coming north on Rubidge Street, turned west on Rubidge Street, and the two cars collided.

The second car driven by John McDonald, 314 Clonsilla Avenue, received damage estimated at between $24 and $40.

Mr. McDonald told Constable Andre Dalton who investigated the crash, that he stopped for the stop sign at Charlotte Street.

The car driven by Mr. Blackmore received an estimated $116 damage to the right front fender, hub cap, and running board.

The Princess was so intrigued with the necklace the Duke had to remind her "Betty, it's time to leave."

Scott Raised Log Prices Lifted Revenue $3½ Million

By raising rates for pulpwood and sawlogs, the Department of Lands and Forests has boosted its revenue from $4,890,000 in 1943 to an estimated $8,400,000 for the current year, 1951-52.

Hon. Harold Scott gave these comparative figures in an address to the annual meeting of the Peterborough Young Progressive Conservative Association Wednesday night in the Empress Hotel.

Replying to opposition candidates who charge that his department should be a "revenue producer," the lands and forests minister said "The Department of Lands and Forests is charged with the administration of renewable resources." Mr. Scott declared that it is essential to plough back a considerable amount of the revenue of the department into reforestation projects and conservation measures to ensure that "a greatly enhanced heritage of forests, rivers, and wildlife will be handed on to future generations."

Price Up

Quoting a newspaper clipping in which a Toronto lawyer charged that in 1950 only $1,000,000 had been turned into the provincial coffers by Mr. Scott's department and that the reason for this was that sale prices of timber had not been increased, Mr. Scott said that in 1943, spruce pulpwood sold for $1.74 a cord. Today, it sells for $3.14.

Rates for jack pine have increased from .53 cents a cord in 1943 to $1.53 and for poplar, the rates have been hiked from 54 cents a cord to $1.14 said Mr. Scott.

Turning to sawlogs, Mr. Scott quoted percentage increases of from 31 per cent since 1943 for pine to 54 per cent for "other varieties of logs."

In 1943 when the Progressive Conservatives came to power, the provincial charge for fire protection of timber tracts was $6.40 per square mile. It has since been raised to $12.80 per square mile.

New communities are springing up throughout the north as the result of power projects and newly developed timber and pulpwood concession continued Mr. Scott. Four firms alone, now employ 7,275 men in communities that were non-existent in 1943 he said.

New Town

"In 1943, there was nothing at the present town of Marathon. Today, 2,300 men are employed in the mill and at the townsite. There are 346 new housing units plus 64 family apartment units in the town."

These new housing developments require, electrical apparatus, such as stoves, refrigerators and clocks, many of which are manufactured in Peterborough, added Mr. Scott. He then named a list of the generators supplied by the local CGE plant to recently develop power sites and pointed out this equipment was produced by Peterborough workers.

Expenditures of the department on forest protection; lands and recreational areas, reforestation; timber management and fish and wild life have increased from $3,344,765 in 1943 to an estimated $10,750,000 for 1951-52, an increase of 221.3 per cent continued Mr. Scott. "Expenditures on research alone have increased from $12,100 in 1943 to $218,600 for the current year."

Must Compete

Answering charges that his department should contribute "$6,000,000 to provincial revenues", Mr. Scott warned that "it must always be borne in mind that you can't get more than the traffic will bear. Other provinches are competing to attract pulp and paper industries and our rates must strike a happy balance so these companies will be able to operate economically."

Mr. Scott said that his department operated on a four point program:

(1) to protect forests and wildlife from fire, insects, disease and men.

(2) to manage timber leases so the operators won't cut everything they want.

(3) to improve the resources by research.

(4) to restore resources where they are depleted.

CCF Choose Cavan Farmer To Seek Election In Durham

ORONO, Oct. 25 — Ontario is 25 years behind western Canada in its attitude toward the old, the sick and the blind, because "We have elected governments who are in power to protect the wealth of their friends", William Temple (CCF High park) charged in an address delivered at a CCF nomination meeting in Orono town hall last night.

Commonly referred to as High Park "Giant Killer", the speaker termed the Frost government a "one-man government", where the premier is "afraid to let his ministers make a statement on an important issue." 'I haven't seen such an incompetent group of men in one spot in my lifetime", the CCF member said.

The Durham county nomination meeting elected Spencer W. Cheshire Cavan township farmer and CCF party member since 1933, by acclamation. He will be opposed by Major John Foote, reform institutions minister seeking re-election, and Liberal candidate, George Walton, Warden of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham.

Unifying Force

Accepting the candidacy Mr. Cheshire called for unstinting suport in the campaign. He referred to the CCF party as "a unifying force in Ontario", and stated that the present election issues of both opposition parties were CCF policies years ago".

Echoing the program by CCF leader E. B. Joliffe the Durham candidate said a CCF government would initiate a hospital plan similar to that presently in effect in Saskatchewan. Mr. Cheshire is a conservation enthusiast.

William Temple substantiated the CCF candidate's statement prior to commenting on the present high prices in Ontario.

"If you want a hospital plan", he said, "Elect a CCF government who knows hof to put it into effect".

In Mr. Temple's opinion, "We are reaching a capitalist cycle of over-production and high prices". He said capitalism offers a choice of war or poverty and suggested that without defence contracts, the nation would be in the midst of a drastic depression attributable to the profit system.

Public Utility

Again referring to Saskatchewan, Mr. Temple said the Bell Telephone system in Ontario should be operated as a public utility. "By its nature, the Bell is a monopoly and should be publicly owned," he states. He said the Ontario Government has taken over and is presently operating telephone systems in rural areas that were not making money. "If the people on Ontario are going to be saddled with the losing end of the telephone business, let's take over the Bell and get into the business", he said.

Stockholders in the Bell would be "Paid off" by the CCF government, he said, in reply to a question from the floor.

When the CCF is called upon to form a government in Ontario, he concluded, they will initiate an automobile insurance scheme similar to that used in Saskatchewan. "High selling costs and overhead will be eliminated," Mr. Temple said. "When a car owner applies for his license plates, the small amount he pays (estimated between $4.50 and $11 depending upon the type of car) will cover automobile insurance.

Thieves Rob Dairy Of $42

LINDSAY, Oct. 25 — (ENS)— Thieves broke into the Fenelon Dairy Milk Bar in Fenelon Falls, Thursday night and escaped with $42 and a quantity of milk tickets.

The dairy owned by Hugh Graham, was broken into through the back door. A cash register containing milk drivers' pounches was rifled.

Losses were discovered Friday morning.

A breakin was also attempted Thursday night at the Lyons Service Station. Two of the rear windows were broken, but evidence indicates that would-be thieves failed to make entry and left empty-handed.

Invited To Lunch

SALEM, Ore., Oct. 25 — (AP)— Lt.-Clarence Burke, 36, parachuted to safety Wednesday, then lunched in the farm house which his flaming plane damaged as it crashed. Burke bailed out after his plane caught fire. He parachuted from 3,000 feet and saw the plane explode in the back yard at the James Jackson farm. As soon as he landed, he ran to the farm house and found the only damage to the house was a hole in the roof. The Jacksons, just starting to eat lunch, took the nerve-wracking experience calmly and invited Burke to join them.

TOTEM FOR ROYALTY—Gift of a miniature Indian totem pole from Beverly Jack, a North Vancouver Indian student, brought a delighted smile from Princess Elizabeth during the weekend. She received the gift at Stanley Park where the Royal couple spent 20 minutes with North Vancouver school children. Mayor Fred Hume is beside them.

Warrant Issued

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 25 — (AP) — A warrant was issued today against a 29-year-old mailman who said he left 517 pieces of mail in the homes of two friends because his load "seemed kind of heavy." John C. Moten told postal authorities he had "dropped off" the mail one day and "just never got around to picking it up."

Edward Harding Nominated To Oppose Frost

LINDSAY, Oct. 25 — Edward Harding, Minden restaurant proprietor, received the nomination for Liberal candidate for Victoria and Haliburton Counties in the coming election, on Thursday.

Mr. Harding was nominated by Frank Welch, Minden. The candidate in his nomination address accused the Conservative government of not being fair to the farmers. He also said that the government had neglected the tourist industry in Haliburton and parts of Victoria County.

Three other candidates were named before Mr. Harding received his official nomination. They were: David Thomson, Lindsay barrister; Frank Welch, Minden funeral director; Dr. W. D. Thomas, Bobcaygeon.

Crippling Strike

SYDNEY, Australia, Oct. 25 — (Reuters) —A strike of 103 coke oven men at Newcastle, New South Wales, steel works Wednesday night may make 5,000 employees idle. Industrial leaders said the whole of Australian industry would be hit by the loss of steel. The oven men struck when management refused to give them help in cleaning up spillage at the ovens.

Services Mark Church's 118th Birthday

SPRINGVALE, Oct. 25 (ENS) —Special anniversary services were held by Springville United Church congregation on Sunday. This congregation dates back to the year 1833 and the present church building (70 years old) was filled for the morning service when the Rev. A. E. Larke, preached a sermon on the subject "Privilege and Responsibility."

In a world sadly out of joint morally and spiritually, the people of this part of rural Ontario are inheritors of privileges denied to the multitudes, he said. For the Christian such privileges involve responsibility. We are called to be stewards of life whether we possess ten talents or only one. Only the acceptance of responsibility will bring to the world harmony, happiness, brotherhood and peace.

Often it takes a crisis in our lives to make us aware of our privilege and responsibility. This awareness may come through the birth of an innocent child, through the crisis of suffering or death, or as one stands at the threshold of a Korea.

Henry Batten, of George St. United Church, was guest soloist and Mrs. A. E. Larke and Miss Myrna Larke sang a duet. The choir was assisted also by Mr. and Mrs. J. Duncan Seymour of Cobourg.

At the evening service, another large congregation greeted the Rev. Henry Cotton of St. Andrews Church, Peterborough. He took as his topic "The World is Hungering for God." Out of his experiences in Europe as a prisoner of war and his experience in missionary and social work, he was persuaded that the world is hungering for the peace and security that comes to those who are fully surrendered to the Lord.

Miss Myrna Larke sang an appropriate solo at the evening service.

Next Sunday, Springville Church will hold Sunday School as usual but the morning church service will be withdrawn so that the congregation may worship with the Mt. Pleasant congregation on the occasion of their anniversary.

On the following Sunday, the Springville congregation will withdraw their morning service again, this time to worship with the Fairmount congregation at their special anniversary service.

TORRANCE, Calif., Oct. 25—(AP)—When Engene Adkins, 29, entered hospital Tuesday he had an official escort of five firemen, one policeman, two ambulance attendants, and a laundry truck. That's what it took to move Adkins' 682 pounds. He is paralyzed from the waist down.

Backache, Rheumatic Pain So Bad–Nerves All On Edge

Couldn't Get Proper Sleep, Always Tired, Suffered Indigestion, Bad Headaches. Says Syntona Gave Her Grand Relief.

MRS. MOLLY FREDERICK

Mrs. Molly Frederick, 520 Hill Street, London, Ontario, is glad to pass her recent experience along to others for she is so pleased to have found in Syntona a remedy to relieve health troubles that had bothered her almost constantly for the past six years. Here is her experience:

"I had backache so bad and my limbs, joints and muscles were so sore with rheumatic pain that my nerves were all on edge and I felt tired-out and irritable all the time. I got so that I couldn't get my proper sleep at night, had no appetite and food that I did eat gave me indigestion. Often I would get such bad headaches I couldn't do my work.

"One day I was in the drug store and wa stold about Syntona. Well, I decided to try this medicine and after taking the first bottle felt some better, so I got some more and took it regularly. Now I feel like my old self again. It's almost too good to be true, but the pain has all left my back, limbs and joints. My appetite is improved and I can eat without having indigestion afterwards. Also, my nerves are calmed down and I am free of headaches, so I sleep more soundly at night and have ever so much more ambition to do my work."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. Find out how this pure herbal medicine can help you too. (Advt).

Dental Health Film Shown Norwood H & S

NORWOOD, Oct. 25—(ENS)—October meeting of the Norwood Home and School Association was held in the school room Monday evening. The president, Mrs. Gerald LaBrash, was in the chair.

Following the secretary's and treasurer's reports, Mrs. Earl Armstrong reported that the booth on field day had been successful. Mrs. Goodswan reported that the H & S float had won first prize at Norwood Fair parade. A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Goodswan for their work on the float. Arrangements were made to hold a euchre party in the town hall on October 29 to raise money.

There were two questions in the question box to be dealt with: fire escapes for the school. (It was decided to send a letter to the school board regarding it) and what should our daughters wear to school (slacks, skirts or tunics)? It was decided to leave it up to the parents 'judgment.

A Home and School crest, made and donated by Mr. and Mrs. Goodswan, to be given to the room with the most parents present at the meeting, was won for October by Kenneth Trumper's room.

Mrs. Gordon Stackhouse, program convener, then took charge and asked Mr. Sinclair to introduce the guest speaker, Dr. Cameron Craig, who gave a talk on the care of the teeth and a film, "Something to Chew On," was shown.

Edgar Clark moved a vote of thanks to Dr. Craig.

Lunch was served by the following: Mrs. Arthur Spring, Mrs. Donald Audas, Mrs. Earl Armstrong, Mrs. Allen Baker, Mrs. Archie Aldred, Mrs. Mel Andrews, Mrs. Fred Tredree, Miss B. Borland and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Clark.

Quick Thinking

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., Oct. 25 (AP) — A quick-thinking bus driver and a schoolboy Tuesday prevented what might have been a major tragedy when a bus carrying 25 kindergarten children caught fire. The driver, George Anderson, and Bruce George, 14, calmed the youngsters and led them out just before flames shot into the interior from the motor.

Marmora News

Mr. and Mrs. Bakker visited friends in Oshawa over the week-end.

Find Baby Smothered In Carriage

Firemen Attempt To Revive Child But Efforts Fail

A nine-month-old baby was pronounced dead at 9:40 am today more than an hour and a half after it was discovered smothered in its carriage.

Firemen using a respirator fought to revive the child at its home but when they failed, the baby was rushed to St. Joseph's hospital where doctors and nurses tried desperately to revive him, but finally gave up.

The baby, Carl, son of Able Seaman George Croft and Mrs. Croft, 557 Rose Ave., was found in his carriage this morning with his head completely covered with blankets.

His grandmother, Mrs. Nellie Weir was the first to discover the child's condition.

Head Covered Up

"His head was covered up," she said. "I lifted him up. He was stiff and wasn't breathing."

Visibly shaken, Mrs. Weir said she came down from her upstairs bedroom about 8 am. When she went over to pick the baby up cut of his bunny bag, she found that he wasn't breathing and that he had been sick, sometime through the night.

"That was the first I knew that there was anything wrong. He didn't cry and he was alright when I came down during the night. I called the fire department immediately."

The baby's mother, Mrs. Croft, said that the baby was alright when she gave him his bottle before she went to bed.

No Heartbeat

Fire department members, Eddie Post and Victor Barry, gave respiratory treatment for three-quarters of an hour, but couldn't detect a heartbeat.

Dr. Warren Gamble arrived at 8:40 and immediately ordered the baby taken to St. Joseph's hospital.

The baby's father is stationed with the Royal Canadian Navy at Nanaimo, British Columbia. Mr. and Mrs. Croft have three other children: Linday, 3; Douglas, 4; and Norman, 2.

Conservative Party Finds Majority Slim, In Same Position As Labor

LONDON, Oct. 26. (CP)—The Conservatives emerged victorious today in the British general election ousting Labor after six years of Socialist rule and the King formally asked Winston Churchill to form a new government. Both the Conservative leader and Clement Attlee, Labor leader who will continue as prime minister until the new government is formed, were received by the King at Buckingham Palace. They were the first political visitors the King has had since his lung operation Sept. 23. Attlee was a solitary figure, slumped back in the seat of his limousine, as he drove to the Palace to hand in his resignation. He was with the King 25 minutes. Only a handful of people—about 100 or so—looked on as Attlee, unsmiling and looking straight ahead, left 10 Downing Street to step into his car. Others watched as he left the palace and Churchill arrived, smiling to get the formal go-ahead to form the first government of which he was elected head.

At 4:30 pm GMT (11:30 am EST) Morgan Phillips, Labor party chairman and its chief strategist, conceded the election to the Conservatives.

By late afternoon, counting of votes in Thursday's general election had given the Conservatives 313 seats assuring them of an over-all majority in the 625-seat House of Commons. A Conservative spokesman had said earlier they expected a majority of 25. But the exact size of the majority is expected to be somewhat less.

In Same Boat

With the Tory margin a slender one, possibly leaving 300 seats to Labor, Churchill's followers will not be much better off than their labor predecessors.

The result brought to a climax six years of grim, unrelenting struggle by the old wartime prime minister against the Labor party, which imposed government control over much of Britain's industry and private enterprise. However, the Tories are not expected to change things much except turn back the iron and steel industry to private ownership.

Churchill was jubilant—and grateful. Speaking to his constituents at Woodford, where he was re-elected, he said:

"You have given me wonderful support. It never reachd a higher pinacle than it did today."

Churchill told voters during the campaign that putting an end to the cold war with the Communist world is "the last prize I seek to win." This effort, and the modification of socialist strictures on business and industry, undoubtedly will engage his attentions immediately.

He may then step out of office in favor of his closest associate, Anthony Eden, who is reported slated for his former post of foreign secretary. Rumors to that

Extend Viscount Alexander's Term Of Office Remains As Governor-General Past April 12

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 (CP). — Viscount Alexander's term of office as Governor-General of Canada has been extended several months beyond next April 12, it was learned today.

It is the second extension of the popular Governor-General's term, which originally was to have expired last April but was set forward one year. Traditionally, the King's representative in Canada holds office for five years.

An official announcement of the latest extension is expected to be made shortly by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

It is understood the extension was agreed upon after consultation between Prime Minister St. Laurent, the King, and Viscount Alexander.

Previously, the Viscount had planned to return to England in the spring. He now likely will stay in Canada until late summer.

Hunter Lost In Dense Bush Treed By Moose, Only Food Raw Partridge

TIMMINS, Oct. 26. (CP)—Conrad Parisien, 33-year-old Timmins gold miner, lived on breast of partridge for four days and didn't like it. It was raw. Home Thursday after being lost in the bush since he went partridge hunting Sunday, Parisien told his story. He strayed from the beaten track and his companion while hunting and got lost 20 miles northwest of Timmins. A giant moose treed him for 2½ hours. As darkness began to fall he tried to drive the animal away with his .22-calibre rifle. The maddened moose charged the tree three times but finally departed.

At dusk wolves began to howl. Parisien climbed another tree in the dense bush and slept there.

Next day a steady downpour of rain ruined his matches. Unable to light a fire he ate the breasts of partridge raw.

No Landmarks

He could see no landmarks for the trees and tried to guide his course by watching the sun when it came through the clouds.

Late Wednesday, he came upon a prospector, Albert Dick Sautellier, in Massey township more than 10 miles southwest of the point where he became lost.

The prospector fed him, soothed his swollen feet with mustard baths and gave him a welcome bed. Thursday they walked 17 miles to a lumber camp.

The lumbermen directed him to a tote road leading to the Kamiscotia road to Timmins. On the highway Parisien hitched a ride with a truck driver and rode into town.

Search parties were still in the bush when he arrived home on Thursday.

Parisien says he does not intend to go hunting partridge again.

Allied Pilots Down 2 Planes

US EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Oct. 26 (AP)—Allied jet pilots today shot down two Russian-made MIGs and damaged three others in the sixth straight day of aerial dog fights over Korea. On the ground UN infantrymen advanced in hand-to-hand combat.

The Navy reported a United States cruiser and destroyer were hit last week by Red shore fire and one man was killed and six wounded.

The Fifth Air Force said all its Jets returned safely from three separate air battles in which 68 Allied planes tangled with 121 MIGs.

All told, UN fighters sighted between 150 and 160 jets in MIG Alley over Northwest Korea and near the North Korean capital of Pyongyang. But some of the Reds fled.

United Nations' infantrymen attacked against stiffening resistance northwest of Yonchon in the west and in the area southeast of Kumsong on the central front, an Eighth Army communique said. It was quiet on the eastern front.

Attacking units threw Communist defenders off high ground in minor gains in both the west and centre.

The two enemy MIGs were shot down in a five-minute battle in the Sinanju area Friday afternoon.

Approve Peace Treaty

TOKYO, Oct. 26 (AP)—Japan's house of representatives today approved the peace treaty and the United States-Japan security pact. The vote was 307 to 47 on the treaty and 289 to 71 on the pact. Both documents go to the house of councillors (senate).

Reject Truce Zone Plan Reds Asked Heartbreak Hill

MUNSAN, Korea, Oct. 26. (AP)—The Allies today quickly rejected a Communist buffer-zone proposal that the United Nations give up such bitterly-won Korean areas as Heartbreak Ridge, the Punchbowl and the iron triangle. The Reds wanted UN forces to withdraw as much as 15 miles. Their proposal countered Thursday's Un suggestion for a buffer zone generally along present battle lines.

Maj.-Gen. Henry I. Hodes told the Reds their proposal bore "no relationship to the military line of contact and did not offer truce protections."

At Second Meeting

The Red offer and UN rejection came at the second meeting of sub-committees trying to agree on a cease-fire line. The meetings are held at Panmunjom.

Under the Red proposal, they would keep Kaesong, former site of truce talks two miles south of the 38th parallel. They would withdraw from part of Ongjin peninsula on the west coast, an area the allies describe as militarily unimportant.

The sub-committees meet again at 11 am Saturday (9 pm Friday, EST).

The UN spokesman, Brig. Gen. William P. Nuchols, said the Communist offer was "the first departure from the hitherto adamant stand (by the Reds) on the 38th parallel and only the 38th parallel."

The UN-proposed line is virtually all north of 38. The allies offered to withdraw from about 200 square miles of territory in the east.

Ask Belgium Drop Restrictions

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 — (CP) — Canada has asked Belgium to drop its restrictions against imports from dollar-area countries, it was learned today.

Formal objections against the restrictions, which Canada declares violate the terms of an international agreement on trade, were made at a meeting of the general agreement on tariffs and trade, now in session at Geneva.

Belgium is Canada's third best customer, purchasing about $66,000,000 worth of goods annually. Imports from Belgium amount to about $23,000,000 annually, giving Canada a healthy surplus of about $43,000,000.

Recently, however, Belgium decided to impose restrictions against goods from Canada and the United States in order to focus her importers' attention to European markets where Belgium has achieved large credits.

A-Bomb Drop Called Off

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Oct. 26—(AP)—A scheduled atomic bomb drop was called off today with planes in the air, presumably ready to loose their nuclear weapons.

The Atomic Energy Commission said storm conditions over the big testing range northwest of here failed to improve as rapidly as had been expected.

The commission had scheduled the second of a series of tests here after rains and high winds subsided last night. But officials felt today conditions still were too unstable to risk the possibility of atomic radiation being carried over Las Vegas and other populated areas. Las Vegas is 75 miles away.

British Must Leave Before Mediation

CAIRO, Oct. 26 —(Reuters)—The Egyptian foreign minister said today there can be no question of mediation in the Anglo-Egyptian dispute before British troops are evacuated from Egypt and the Sudan.

But the possibility of Egypt joining western organizations "may be subject to consideration after Egypt's demands are fulfilled," he said.

St. Lawrence Shipping Tie-up

MONTREAL, Oct. 26 (CP)—The Empress of France was the only ship to leave port here today as thousands of tons of shipping remained bottled up in the upper St. Lawrence river.

River pilots who walked off their jobs Thursday to attend a conference in Three Rivers, Que., had not returned to work and there was no indication when they would.

Capt. Leonce Gendron, president of the Montreal United Pilots Association, said an exception was made of the Empress of France because she was carrying mail and other important cargo. He said other ships would not be furnished with pilots today as meetings were still being attended by members of the association.

No reason for the walkout is given. Capt. A. Levesque, superintendent of pilots here, said a number of them came into his office Thursday and announced they were leaving for a conference in Three Rivers. He said he did not know why they had walked off their jobs.

Two other pilotage districts, from Montreal to Kingston and from Quebec to Father Point, Que., so far have not been affected.

Broadcast Attack By Pats In Korea

WINNIPEG, Oct. 26—(CP)—Broadcast of a Canadian attack on the Communists main line in Korea will be heard today on trans-Canada network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. The broadcast is scheduled for 5:40 pm CST (6:40 pm EST).

The Canadian attack—by members of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry—was taperecorded in Korea by Norman McBain, CBC correspondent in Korea, and sent to Winnipeg for broadcast.

Election Standings

LONDON, Oct. 26 — (CP) — Returns from 617 of 625 constituencies in the British election showed the following party standings at 6:15 pm GMT (1.15 pm EST):

Ram Into Truck 1 Dead, 5 Hurt

WINDSOR, Oct. 26 (CP)—One youth was killed and five other persons were injured Thursday night when their panel truck rammed into a parked truck, careened into an oncoming automobile and continued on for another 140 feet before ending up on a lawn.

Carl Babington, 17, of Windsor, died shortly after the crash. Ranie Lanarden, 17, also of Windsor, the driver, was severely hurt.

Discharged from hospital after treatment of minor injuries were Ted Custovitch, 17, of Roseland; Ted Bec, 16, Windsor, and Albert Paul, 17, Windsor. The driver of the car, Clarence Paddon, was only slightly injured.

Bec was riding in the front seat with Lanarden; the other three were in the back. Babington was pinned in the wreckage and ambulance attendants tore off the roof to extricate him.

Police said the panel truck, owned by a wholesale tobacco firm, was travelling south on Howard Avenue, when it smashed into the rear of the dump truck, owned and driven by Ray Young, 23, of Windsor.

The impact drove the dump truck ahead 45 feet over a curb.

Lanarden fell out as his vehicle travelled for 348 feet before smashing head-on into Paddon's car.

Royal Couple Resume Tour

VICTORIA, BC, Oct. 26 (CP)—It was back to the grind today for Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

After a three-day rest, two of them spent at posh Eaglecrest Lodge 106 miles north of here, the royal couple started their journey eastward with a visit to Nanaimo.

From there they were scheduled to embark on the destroyer Crusader for the 38-mile trip across Georgia Strait to Vancouver, arriving there about noon.

Then it was on to New Westminster and small centres up the Fraser valley and canyon. They are scheduled to reach Edmonton 2 pm Saturday.

It was a relaxing day yesterday, including horseback riding, a drive to Sproat Falls to take pictures of leaping fish and a visit to a lumber camp.

In the evening, British election returns were relayed to them.

The twin cities of Port Alberni and Alberni, 30 miles from the lodge, had only a few minutes' warning that the Royal couple would pass through on their way to Sproat Falls. Then thousands turned out to line the streets, emptying stores, mills, schools and homes in almost nothing flat.

Philip was at the wheel, driving with one hand and waving with the other as the convertible needled its way through the throng. The Princess wore a mink coat and was hatless, her chestnut hair tossed by the cool autumn breeze.

Back at the lodge, the Princess rode a mare named Julie while the Duke handled a high-spirited horse called Honey.

Ex-Convicts Sought In Doctor's Abduction

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 26—(CP)—Police, continuing a province wide search for the two men who abducted Dr. Olive J. Stewart here Wednesday night, are checking the movements of persons recently released from Kingston penitentiary, it was learned today.

But they reported "nothing new" in their search so far.

Dr. Stewart told police the men spoke of having been "in Kingston". This was taken as an indication of the possibility that they had served time in the penitentiary.

Killed In Ambush

MANILA, Oct. 26 (AP)—Two Americans were killed Thursday night in an ambush sprung on the United States naval reservation at Olongapo, 50 miles northwest of Manila. Two Filipino women were wounded seriously. The Philippines army blamed Communist-led Huks.

Shoot 25 Rebels

HONG KONG, Oct. 26 (AP) — Communist authorities in Shanghai shot 25 more counter-revolutionaries Oct. 20, the first such executions announced there in October. The announcement was carried in the official "Liberation Daily."

Summary Of Gains

LONDON, Oct. 26 (Reuters)—A summary of gains by parties in the British general election, based on results at 5 pm GMT (noon EST) from 612 seats:

Conservative from Labor, 20.
Conservative from Liberal, 2.
Liberal Conservative from Labor, 1.
Labor from Liberal, 2.
Liberal from Labor, 1.
Irish Labor from Ulster Unionist, 1.
Unchanged, 585.

UK Communists Shut Out Fail To Win Single Seat

LONDON, Oct. 26—(Reuters)—British Communists were shut out today in their bid to win party representation in parliament.

All 10 Communist candidates fighting the general election in specially-selected areas, were defeated and lost their £150 deposits for failing to obtain one-eighth of the total votes in their constituencies.

In the 1950 election the Communists put 100 candidates in the field. None won a seat and 97 lost their deposits.

In three constituencies this year the Communists tilted at election "giants" in token resistance against national leaders whose policies they disapprove.

In each case they failed to get enough votes to claim any popular support in their private "wars".

John Ross Campbell, 67-year-old editor of the party organ, The Daily Worker, polled a mere 871 votes against Conservative leader Winston Churchill in Woodford, Essex.

John Mahon, 49-year-old Communist who opposed Herbert Morrison Labor foreign secretary, in the London constituency of Lewishman South, polled 578 votes.

David Bowman, 38-year-old member of the Communist party's Scottish committee, fared best of the trio.

He polled 1,508 votes against John Strachey, Labor war minister, at West Dundee. But he was still bottom of the poll in a three-cornered fight.

The other seven Communist candidates fought in urban areas where party leaders thought they were sure of a good part of the vote.

Churchill Declared MP Amid Cheers and Boos

WOODFORD, England, Oct. 26 (Reuters).—Winston Churchill — virtually certain to be Britain's next Prime Minister.— returned triumphantly to his suburban constituency here today and for the seventh time since 1925 heard himself proclaimed member of parliament.

Bareheaded, with his wife by his side, he stood on the steps of a red brick schoolhouse while the mayor of Woodford announced he had polled 40,938 votes.

His nearest opponent, Labor candidate William Archer, had 22,359 votes.

Cheers—and boos—burst from the mixed political crowd packing the school playground. There were cries of "Good old Winnie" "God bless you, Winnie," and "Sock 'em, Winnie."

Then, as the Labor candidate joined Churchill on the steps, a Conservative supporter yelled "You're not the masters now."

"No, the Yanks are on top," was flung back from a man in the crowd, whose further words were drowned by angry protests from Churchill supporters.

Churchill wearing a dark blue overcoat and a white scarf, smiled, gave his famed V-sign, and looked pale and grave as he declared:

"This election has been a model and has maintained the high level of political work which our British tradition embodies.

"We have all felt we have a great deal in common, and now perhaps there may be a lull in our party strife which will enable us to understand more of what is good in our opponents and not be so very clever about each other's shortcomings."

Immediately afterwards Churchill drove back to his London home.

Hydro Opens First Steam Plant

TORONTO, Oct. 26 (CP)—The Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission's first steam generating plant, largest in Canada, was officially opened today by Premier Frost.

The Richard L. Hearn plant, a $67,000,000 project on Toronto's waterfront, eventually will produce 400,000 kilowatts to meet the climbing demands for electricity from southern Ontario industrial and home consumers.

Begun in 1949, the plant, named for hydro's general manager and chief engineer, is the 10th major power supply added to the Ontario network in the last four years. The first generating unit, opened today, will produce 88,000 kilowatts.

Premier Frost termed the opening of the new plant "a very dramatic moment for hydro and the province." He said the power from the station, located in the heart of Ontario's heaviest load centre, points the way to still greater progress.

Pays Tribute

Hydro Chairman Robert Saunders paid tribute to Richard L. Hearn and other engineers who contributed their talent to the new structure. He described Mr. Hearn as "one of the continent's most brilliant engineers."

Mr. Saunders said the three remaining units of the new plant will be brought into service progressively—in December of this year, November, 1952, and the spring of 1953. The plant also has provision for a fifth and sixth unit should the power demand become heavy enough.

The new plant stands on a 57-acre site along the city's waterfront. It has facilities for storage of 800,000 tons of coal.

The four steam generators are fired with pulverized coal, each consuming 40 tons an hour when operating at capacity.

See Market Prices Dip Sharply Today

TORONTO, Oct. 26 — (CP) — Stock Market prices dipped sharply today in mid-session and settled lower in early afternoon dealings. Industrials opened strongly but turned abruptly downward during the first hour.

Volume for the first three hours was 1,803,000 shares.

Consumers Gas provided industrials' feature as it jumped $9.50 on a proposed 10 for one stock split. Banks and retail stores formed the market's strongest sections. Utilities, foods and liquors weakened while papers, constructions, refining oils and miscellaneous industrials slipped steadily.

Western oil losses outnumbered gains about four to one. Canada Southern, Anglo-Canadian, Calvan Consolidated, Devon-Leduc, Gridoil, Pacific Petroleum and Scurry posted declines to 60 cents.

Base metals weakened steadily. Market leaders inc'uding Consolidated Smelters, Falconbridge, Hudson Bay, International Nickel, Noranda, Quemont and Waite Amulet dipped fractions.

Senior golds showed losses to about 40 cents. Giant Yellowknife, Kerr Addison, Lake Shore, Malartic and Teck Hughes eased. Secondary issues posted a majority of moderate declines.

Annoyed Actress

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP) — A 29-year-old jobless elevator operator was charged Thursday with annoying film star Elizabeth Taylor with telephone calls at her hotel. The man, John Marsh, posed as a Federal Bureau of Investigation agent and told Miss Taylor her life was in danger, said the assistant United States attorney, Martin Klein. Klein said seven years ago Marsh was sent to a mental hospital for three months because he annoyed actress Kathryn Grayson.

Election Excitement Keeps King Up Late Listens To Late Returns On BBC Broadcast

LONDON, Oct. 26 (AP).—Election fever kept the King up late Thursday night — the first time he has sat up late since his lung operation five weeks ago.

The King listened to results being announced over the BBC in his own apartment. The Queen and Princess Margaret stayed up after the King had retired, listening to broadcasts in the Queen's apartment.

The King will be given an up-to-the-minute analysis of the election when he awakes this morning.

Both Prime Minister Attlee and Conservative Leader Winston Churchill were keeping abreast of the returns. Churchill listened to the results in his Hyde Park home in London.

Both men were re-elected.

Canada's Exports Exceed Imports For Second Time

OTTAWA, Oct. 26. (CP)—Canada's exports during September outpaced imports to give her the second monthly surplus this year. In a preliminary statement, the Bureau of Statistics Thursday estimated September shipments at $323,500,000, a $40,000,000 jump from $282,700,000 last year.

Imports, at $311,800,000, climbed only $32,000,000 from last year's $279,700,000, leaving a surplus of $11,700,000.

The only previous monthly surplus this year was in July, when domestic exports of $378,600,000 outclimbed imports of $370,600,000, resulting in a favorable balance of $8,000,000.

September's surplus reduced the overall deficit for nine months of trade to $324,100,000—still one of the highest in history.

Another major development in September's trade was a sharp reversal in Anglo-Canadian-American trading trends.

Canada's exports to the United States dropped about $6,000,000 from a year ago, but shipments to Britain climbed more than $20,000,000, helping Canada jump the balance hurdle to the surplus side.

Shipments to the US were estimated at $189,500,000 compared with last year's $195,900,000 while imports increased to $212,800,000 from $177,400,000.

In trade with Britain, Canada exported $52,800,000 worth of goods, a sharp jump from $30,600,000 last year. But her purchases from that country fell sharply to $28,600,000 from $36,200,000, giving Canada a surplus of $24,200,000.

Conservative Party

effect were current in London before the electioneering began.

Leader of Opposition

Attlee now becomes the leader of the opposition, a position held by Churchill for the last six years.

While a new government is being formed, Attlee and his ministers will keep nominal control but will not make policy decisions without consulting Conservative leaders.

Once Churchill formally takes on the task of forming a new government, he will immediately begin giving final shape to the Conservative cabinet which has been on paper for weeks.

It will take in most of the members of the Churchill "shadow cabinet" which has been in existence since the Conservatives were defeated in the 1945 election.

Besides Eden, members of the shadow cabinet include: Richard Butler, Churchill's wartime education minister and subsequently Labor minister in the 1945 "caretaker" government; Oliver Lyttelton, wartime trade minister; Harold MacMillan, air secretary in the caretaker government; Walter Elliot, former health minister; Robert S. Hudson, former agriculture minister; Duncan Sandys, Churchill's son-in-law and former works minister.

Churchill was busy on his plans early this morning, after sitting up till after 4 am studying election results.

He snatched a few hours sleep. He appeared to have thrown off the cold he caught a few days ago at Plymouth where he spoke on behalf of his son Randolph, an unsuccessful Tory candidate.

Principals Re-Elected

All the principal Labor leaders were re-elected, even though the party as a whole was defeated.

Attlee, Herbert Morrison, Aneurin Bevan, and a large group of erstwhile Cabinet ministers and officers in the Labor government have been returned to the House. Depending on the size of the final Tory majority, Labor may find itself in approximately the same position as its opponents were until parliament was dissolved.

That is, the "working majority," so vital to a government, will be as difficult for the Tories to maintain as it was for Labor.

The popular vote gave an accurate reflection to the sharp cleavage in public opinion over the success or failure of the great experiment in Socialism.

With virtually all the ballots counted, the Conservatives were running behind Labor by nearly 200,000 votes.

Probably the deciding factor that threw the election to the Conservatives was the absence of Liberal candidates in more than 300 of the 625 districts. The Liberals ut only 109 candidates in the field.

In those areas where a straight Tory-Labor fight developed, it appeared that most of the Liberal votes went to the Tories. An analysis of the figures indicated about two out of every three Liberals voted for Churchill's party.

Even so, it was neck-and-neck race right down to the wire.

30-Seat Lead

Slightly more than half the ridings count the votes and announce returns on the night the polls close. When those results were totalled at 4 am today, Labor held a 30-seat lead over the Conservatives.

Later this morning, returns from the other districts began to roll in. Many came from predominantly agricultural ridings. A majority of them were won by the Conservatives in the 1950 election, and were considered secure for the Tories in this election.

Within a few hours, the returns from these districts erased the Labor lead, then put the Tories in front, and at one point had them nearly 50 seats ahead of the Laborites.

Then, shortly after noon, the tide began to turn and the Conservative lead dropped below 40, then 30 and finally held about 22. Ten of the districts still to come were Conservative in the 1950 election, three with small Tory majorities.

Announce Victory

The Conservatives announced victory at 4:22 pm, (11:22 am EST) with the majority of 313 clinched. Lord Woolton, chairman of the party, announced the "glorious victory" to party workers.

The Conservatives showed a net gain of 23 seats and a loss of 1; the Laborites a gain of only two seats as against a loss of 22, in returns from all but 19 constituencies.

Communists candidates got the thrashing of their political careers. Only 10 Reds stood for parliament. None came within miles of winning.

The Tories, for the most part, held the constituencies they captured in 1950, but Labor lost in many of the ones it took in the last election. Most of the Conservative candidates regained their seats by larger majorities than they had in 1950.

FISH AND GAME MEETING

Monthly meeting of the Peterborough Fish and Game Association will be held Monday evening at the Public Library at 7.30 p.m. Conservation films will be shown.

Quints Practising Curtsies For Princess

NORTH BAY, Oct. 26 (CP). — Five identical curtsies by five young ladies in new blue suits will greet Princess Elizabeth when she visits here Monday.

The five, Yvonne, Emilie, Annette, Cecille, and Marie Dionne, have been practising their little "bob" for days.

Canada's quintuplets don't remember much about their first obeisances to royalty when they met the King and Queen in Toronto 12 years ago.

They were five years old at the time. Instead of tailored suits with red accessories, they wore organdy dresses with puff sleeves.

The quints have some presents for Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip. Her Royal Highness will receive beaver mittens with blue suede leather palms, and her husband, a beaver hat.

Want Higher Pensions–MP's

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 (CP)—Personal income and corporation taxes are to be increased to help finance pensions of $40 a month for Canada's 700,000 citizens 70 and over.

Mr. Abbott spoke after Health Minister Martin had introduced the legislation under which the pensions will be paid to everyone 70 and over, regardless of means, provided they have lived in Canada for at least 20 years. A resolution to the pensions bill was adopted and the bill itself was introduced and given first reading.

Spokesmen for the three opposition groups unanimously endorsed the proposals in principle, but said higher payments were desirable. The method of financing the program also was criticized.

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) said the pension was too small and should be increased to at least $50 or $60 and there should be no limit on the annual contributions of those in the high income tax brackets.

F. D. Shaw (SC—Red Deer) said many members felt that $40 a month was not enough but had supported it because they were convinced that the government would not have supported a higher figure.

Alongside the program for those 70 and over will be a federal-provincial plan under which $40-a-month pensions will be paid to the needy between 65 and 69 in those provinces which conclude agreements with the federal government. The payments are also scheduled to start next January.

Jammed In Hoist, Man Has Knees Dislocated

Garnet Hartwick, 19, is in St. Joseph's Hospital with two dislocated knees and a fractured leg, as a result of an accident Thursday night.

Hartwick, an employee of the Quaker Oats Co. became jammed in a man hoist at the plant at 8:30 pm. He was discovered by fellow employees who called a doctor and Hartwick was rushed to the hospital.

Hospital officials report his condition as fair. Both legs are in casts.

Hartwick's home is in Mount Pleasant, near Kingston. He has been working at the Quaker plant since August and boards at 302 Townsend St.

Ask Truman Declare National Emergency

NEW YORK, Oct. 26—(AP)—President Truman today was urged to declare a national emergency and invoke federal law to end the costly, 12-day-old strike on the US east coast.

In the face of the abandonment of federal mediation efforts to settle the wildcat strike, the New York Board of Trade telegraphed the President:

"Every lawfully negotiated labor contract in the country is in jeopardy unless New York pier strike is stopped immediately."

The appeal asked for "armed forces to protect" the piers, and prevent strikers from interfering with the handling of cargo.

Fortune For Humanity

RENO, Oct. 26 (AP) — Max C. Fleischmann left his huge fortune to humanity when he took his life at Santa Barbara, Calif., last week. The fortune, estimated at $50,000,000, will go almost entirely into the Max C. Fleischmann Foundation of Nevada. The foundation must be used within 20 years after Mrs. Fleischmann's death for furthering "the public welfare . . .or well-being of mankind."

Will Recover

SANDPOINT, Idaho, Oct. 26 (AP)—A 47-year-old prospector, accidentally locked in a railroad freight car and imprisoned more than a week, was dragged out alive and is recovering in a hospital. Fred S. Howerton, of Pratt, Kas., said he crawled inside the car at Troy, Mont. "I hollered and hollered but no one heard me," he said.

Missionaries Leave

HONG KONG, Oct. 26 (AP) — The last 47 foreign missionaries of the China Inland Mission are being gradually withdrawn from Communist China, Bishop F. Houghton, general director, said Thursday. The mission at the first of this year had 637 foreigners in China. The Communists have been carrying on a campaign to drive out all foreign missions.

The pound sterling was $2.93 15/16, up ⅛ from Thursday.

Milk Strike Settled 24 Hours After Start As Peace Terms Reached In New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP).—New York's milk strike was settled Thursday only a little more than 24 hours after it began.

The peace terms are expected to be linked to a federally approved price increase for milk.

Mayor Vincent Impellitteri made the announcement that an agreement had been reached in the dispute which affected supplies for some 12,000,000 residents of the metropolitan area.

The men will resume work at once, he said. An industry spokesman said deliveries would be practically normal tomorrow morning.

The strike involved 15,000 AFL teamsters in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut.

Dairy farmers faced an estimated loss of $140,000 a day as a quarter of a billion pounds of fluid milk began backing up in the five-state milk shed that feeds the metropolitan area.

Two Hunters Rescued On Lake

CHATHAM, Oct. 26—(CP)—Two Windsor duck hunters are safe after being tossed by 14-foot waves on stormy Lake St. Clair for more than 30 hours.

Joe Campeau, 26, and Paul Brick, 28, said here they were spotted Thursday from a hunting camp and rescued from their waterlogged and disabled 20-foot boat just at nightfall.

Brick told an interviewer Thursday:

"We had given up hope of being found today and were prepared to spend another terrible night on the lake. Thank God for the man who spotted us from Al Shain's hunting and fishing camp at Mitchell's Bay. He came out and towed us the five miles to shore."

The men said that as they drifted across the Great Lakes shipping lane Wednesday night, they used a spotlight to try to signal a passing freighter. But bad weather cut down visibility. At midnight the battery which operated both their boat's pumps and the spotlight gave out. The men bailed frantically for several hours.

"We waved and signalled to a plane today," said Campeau. "But the pilot didn't see us."

Federal Mediators Give Up Attempts End Dock Strike

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP). — Federal mediators have abandoned efforts to end New York's crippling wildcat dock strike, amid claims by insurgent union leaders that the walkout will spread to still more east coast ports.

The four-man mediation panel returned to Washington Thursday night after top conciliator Clyde M. Mills announced:

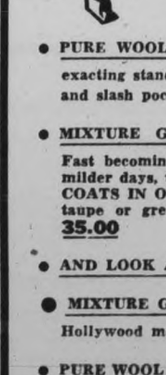
"We're giving up. . . This is a dispute which must be resolved within the union. This situation is intolerable and must be ended immediately."

The mediators withdrew after Joseph P. Ray, president of the International Longshoremen's Association (AFL) pulled his non-striker group out of the peace talks, saying:

"We're not getting anywhere. We're leaving."

Strike leader John (Gene) Sampson told reporters:

"That means Philly and Baltimore will be tied up, too."



In Philadelphia Thursday night four locals voted not to work any ship cargoes diverted there from New York, effective today.

The 12-day-old waterfront walkout has crippled the vast port of New York—including piers in New Jersey—and also has closed down docking operations in Boston.

The port of Albany, NY closed for two days, reopened Thursday after the men voted to return to work.

Union rebels struck over their demand for re-negotiation of a recently-approved wage contract with east-coast shippers. The contract calls for $2.10 an hour, a 10-cent wage boost. The rebels want a 25-cent-hourly raise.

The demand was turned down by Ryan.

Drys Confident Of Victory In Liquor Vote

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 26 (ENS).—Harold W. Pierce, campaign manager for the Campbellford drys, said on Thursday that his committee is confident of a 'dry' vote. "We are working quietly and under cover. We are not waging any vigorous campaign, and are not looking for any publicity," he said.

When questioned about what his committee contemplated regarding the town's many bootleggers, Mr. Pierce said: "The bootleggers will always be with us." He said in other towns in which Government stores are located bootlegging is flourishing, despite the fact that brewers' warehouses and Government liquor stores were doing business. Mr. Pierce predicted an amount of $75,000 to $100,000 annually would be spent on beer and liquor if the vote goes through. These purchases, he claimed, would cause a decline in what he termed legitimate business, and said merchants of the town would suffer greatly. "The outside business that would come in as a result of Government stores being located here would not compensate for the decreased spending locally," he said.

The 'dry' committee has a window display in a Front Street store, urging citizens to vote dry. In the display is a 26-ounce bottle of whiskey with its cost, $3.90, plainly marked. Beside this is a pile of groceries that can be purchased for the same amount.

The vote for a brewers' warehouse and Government liquor store will take place on Wednesday, October 31. A heavy vote is expected.

Jack King Sentenced To 5 Mos. Reformatory

Jack King, 51, no fixed address, was sentenced to five months in the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph by Magistrate W. R. Philp in police court today on a charge of being intoxicated in a public place.

King pleaded guilty to the charge and requested the reformatory sentence. It was his third conviction on a drunk charge since May 7 of this year.

There is a possibility King may spend the last month of his sentence taking treatment for alcoholism at Mimico. Crown attorney J. A. Bradshow asked that King be committed to hospital for treatment and told King the treatment at Mimico takes one month.

Magistrate Philp warned King that it would be impossible to cure himself of alcoholism unless he wanted to be cured. If you rely entirely on drugs to be cured it will not succeed the magistrate said.

Claim Fish Re-stocking Far Short Of Requirements

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 26 — (ENS)—The regular meeting of the Campbellford Fish and Game Protective Association was held in the Parish Hall on Thursday evening, with only a small attendance.

F. M. Rutherford of the Rotary asked the Association for its support in sponsoring a boys' hockey team in the town circuit this coming winter. There was much discussion with some members of the opinion the Association should remain a rod and gun club and stay out of hockey. A motion to sponsor a team, and to set aside the sum of not over $50 to provide sweaters or jerseys was carried. It is hoped Russel Ayrhart will act as coach and manager. There will be six teams in the local circuit.

6,500 lbs. of Fish Frozen

Doug. Maybee reported on the number of 'lunge and trout fingerlings placed in local waters during the past season, and intimated this was far short of the requirements. Bert Taylor also reported on the amount of fish frozen this season at the local locker, and this figure showed 6,500 pounds, which is about 1,500 pounds short of the 8,000 pound figure of last year. Most of the fish frozen were pike and pickerel.

Much discussion followed as to whether the club should endorse the proposed $1 per year rod licence now under discussion by many clubs. Many members thought that fishing is the only heritage that is not taxed and that it should remain that way, while others thought that most fishermen would gladly pay the sum of one dollar for the privilege, and that the dollar could be used by the Department of Lands and Forests to further its conservation programme and to improve fishing conditions. No vote will be taken until next meeting, when it is hoped there will be a larger attendance.

A sound film, "Meet the Ducks" will be shown at the next meeting, and reservations to secure additional films are to be made shortly.

It was also announced that the local president, J. H. Smith and officials of the local club, together with officials from the Cobourg club, were responsible for having action taken by the Department of Lands and Forests at the Codrington fish hatchery. Conditions at the hatchery have been deplorable but now permanent cement tanks will be installed, a number of buildings repaired, and conditions generally improved. The club commended Mr. Smith and the other officials on this long needed action.

MONTREAL — (CP) — Mrs. Ernest Hebert was treated for an unusual bite on the farm. The provincial laboratory identified the attacker as a non-venomous scorpion commonly found in Central America, probably reaching Mrs. Hebert's home in a bag of imported fruits or vegetables.

Back To Normal

KAMSACK, Sask. (CP)—Owners of boats located on Madge lake have been warned to make sure their craft are high and dry. The lake now is higher than it has been for six years, and snow this winter will raise the lake to its proper level which hasn't been reached for some time.

CLIFFORD CARMICHAEL, 36, of Belleville, Ont., driver of the truck, crawled out of his crushed cab after an accident in Montreal without apparent serious injury. He was taken to hospital for observation.

The New City Hall

The opening of the new City Hall today is an important milestone in the history of Peterborough and, as we have said before, the building which is so new to us will be a landmark for a century, and perhaps longer. There is room for expansion on the site, and we may assume that it will be the centre of Peterborough's civic business for a long time. We in Canada are not yet accustomed to thinking of the cities in which we live in terms of history; the 130 years or so which comprises the life of Peterborough has been a time of building, tearing down, and re-building. But our city is now taking shape, and we may be proud that our civic centre stands in an area which has parks on either side; fifty years from now that position will be even more important.

* * *

It is to be hoped that the new City Hall will direct the attention of the people of Peterborough toward a new taste in architecture. We have, in the Civic Hospital, the addition to Queen Mary School, and in the new Nashua Paper building, as well as in a number of houses which have been built since the war, good examples of the newer feeling in architecture: the City Hall, though traditional in many respects, shows a considerable modern influence also. Let us hope that future building in Peterborough, public and private, will benefit by these examples. It is not that we exalt the modern at the expense of what it good in the older styles of building—far from it; but good examples of the older architecture are by no means common in the city, and if Peterborough is to have any distinctive architectural character, that character will have to spring from the newer models.

* * *

This is a proud day for everyone who has had a hand in the planning and completion of the new City Hall. Undertaken at a time when building is not easy, it has been carried through with exemplary speed and good management. In it the generosity of the late W. G. Morrow has a lasting monument, and the city of Peterborough a focus of civic pride and loyalty.

The Princess And The Real People

The royal visit to Canada affords us some unusual opportunities to observe our democracy at work; upon the whole, it works well and is a credit to us. But there are flies in the ointment, rifts in the lute, and hairs in the butter.

For instance, we read again and again the complaint that the Princess and the Duke are not being given a chance to meet the real people of Canada. From one city after another, as the royal train has puffed Westward, have been heard moans that only a few (this means anything from ten to several hundred) "officials" have been presented to the Princess, and that these "officials" have monopolized her. Time and again the suggestion is made that the Princess should break away from these "officials" and drive through the streets for miles and miles, so that the real people could get a look at her, and so that she could get an equally refreshing look at them.

There is some justice—not much, but some—in all this complaint. Official personages have not been backward in displaying themselves before the presumably ravished eyes of Princess Elizabeth. One alderman in Niagara Falls arranged things so that he was presented to the Princess three times; doubtless his interesting countenance is burned forever into her brain, and if she ever needs an ash-man at one of her official residences, she will send for him immediately. But we feel impelled to point out that all of these officials who have been meeting the Princess were elected by the very people who are complaining, to do official work. Meeting the Princess is official work, just as much as wrangling with City Councils or defending an unpopular tax-rate.

People who are elected to office must have the sweets of power as well as its burdens. And people who are elected to office are just as "real" as those who stand in the streets when the Princess drives past. It is simple stupidity and jealousy which maintains that a man in an official position is ghostly, a stuffed shirt—in a word, unreal—as compared with a man who has never sought public office, and could not discharge its duties if he did. In democracies, as elsewhere, those who carry the heavy burdens get the large rewards.

The Soke Of Peterborough

We welcome today to Peterborough the Mayor of Peterborough, England, and a Councillor, who have come with their wives to assist in opening the new City Hall. When one thinks of local government in Peterborough (counties of Huntingdon and Northampton), one thinks of the Soke of Peterborough. However, Mayor Chamberlain and Councillor Martin can be absolved of responsibility for the Soke; they are administrators of the Corporation of the City; the Soke is a different matter.

The Soke of Peterborough does not get its name from either the weather or bibulous inhabitants. It is an honest Middle English word, derived from a medieval Latin term meaning much the same as it does in English—a right of local jurisdiction. The Soke can be described as the Liberty of Peterborough. The original liberty was the area within which the abbot of the monastery of Burgh St. Peter (i.e. Peterborough) exercised all jurisdictional powers and was entitled to the profits of jurisdiction. In the middle ages it embraced eight 'hundreds' (which are something like our townships) within the county of Northampton, but in the time of Henry VIII the area was reduced to its present size. The County of the Soke has an area of 53,464 acres and a population at the last census of 46,960 most of it (39,552) within the city boundary.

The Soke is a separate administrative county. The Marquess of Exeter of Burghley House (Queen Elizabeth bought the Soke from the Bishop and gave it to her Lord Burghley in 1576) is the Lord Paramount of the Liberty of Peterborough. It has a council consisting of ten Aldermen and thirty Councillors, twenty of whom represent electoral divisions in the city and borough. The city itself, as a separate corporation, has a Mayor, seven Aldermen and twenty-one Councillors.

The local government of City and Soke seems to an outsider to be highly complicated, but we are assured in the Official Guide to Peterborough that in practice "the administration is conducted in an efficient and economical manner and the rates bear favourable comparison with those in other parts of the country." Perhaps during today's ceremonies Mayor Chamberlain and Mayor Swanston will have time for a little confidential comparison of the tax rates of Peterborough (Eng.) and Peterborough (Ont.), with some joshing from the representatives of the small, rural Peterborough (New Hampshire).

Paying For The Pensions

The universal old age pensions at the age of 70 and the pensions to those in need aged between 65 and 70 are not free. Somebody has to pay for them, and who and how has now been revealed by the Government.

Again the easy device of an indirect tax is to be used to finance a major part of the pension costs: a fifth of the present ten percent. sales tax will be earmarked for pensions—in other words, a two percent. sales tax. This is the 'universal' part of the paying process. Everybody buys processed food, clothing, household articles and the like. Every time he buys an item, two percent. of the cost is the contribution he is making towards his own pension. This is probably the most easily handled way of making a levy on everybody. But it is nevertheless a kind of hidden tax. People will soon forget that they are paying for their own pensions every day of their lives; if the tax had been a direct levy on their weekly pay, which they themselves had to take out of the pay envelope and send to Ottawa, they would always know how much they were paying and for what they were paying it. However, such a direct levy would have been unwieldy, and moreover, politically bothersome. In extracting its universal payment for the universal pensions the Government has taken the easiest, least upsetting way.

The other two methods by which the pension money will be raised are direct taxes on a discriminatory basis. As could have been expected, one is a tax on income—a two percent. personal income tax. People with lowest incomes will pay little if anything, people of higher incomes will pay in proportion to their incomes. The other direct levy is one on corporation profits—a two percent. tax. This will vary in amount with the size of profits. Whether or not this will affect the price of the products produced by the corporations (and thus be paid by the consumer) remains to be seen.

So, at last after many months of Government calculation, Canadians have learnt what they are going to have to pay for the privilege of getting $40 a month from Ottawa when they reach the age of seventy.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A fighting worm has been discovered on a South Pacific island. One that has turned, presumably.

A Gatineau farmer, we read, paints COW-VACHE on all his stock during the hunting season. A splendid idea, and if someone will paint MAN-HOMME on all hunters the forests might be made fairly safe.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

SIR: Is old Queen Mary still alive? You don't hear anything about her these days.

ANSWER: You haven't been reading your Examiner very thoroughly. This spring, for instance, Queen Mary paid a visit to the Festival of Britain centre on the South Bank of the Thames. She is still vigorous and alert, and manages to find time to see a couple of movies every week. At the Festival Exhibition she walked around for a while, and then, for ease and speed, took to a wheel chair.

Victoria Mary Augusta Louise Olga Pauline Claudine Agnes, the Queen Mother, Queen Consort of George V, grandmother of Princess Elizabeth, is a remarkable dowager. She is exactly as old as Canada. She was born in 1867.

This revered Queen of the famous hats was reared to be a Queen. She, daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Teck, was betrothed in 1891 to the Duke of Clarence, eldest son of Edward VII and therefore heir-apparent. A month before their wedding was to take place, the Duke of Clarence died. His younger brother, the Duke of York (later George V) became heir-apparent. The following year the Princess of Teck's marriage to the Duke of York was announced. They were married in the same year, 1892, and became Prince and Princess of Wales after the accession to Victoria's throne in 1901 of Edward, the Duke's father. In 1911 they were crowned King and Queen.

Like her grand-daughter Princess Elizabeth, Queen Mary rarely smiles in public.

SIR: There are Martello towers in Kingston. I wonder why they are called that?

ANSWER: These are massive round towers built for coastal defence at the end of the eighteenth and beginning of the 19th centuries in England, and at Kingston and other Eastern Canadian points after the war of 1812, as defence against the Americans. They are modelled on a tower at Martella Point in Corsica. This tower very much impressed the English because it withstood the bombardment of the English Fleet under Lord Hood in 1794. Martello towers are ordinarily forty feet high. They are, of course, completely obsolete, even in Kent, where the first British ones were built.

DEAR ALPHA: In the Examiner last week in your want-ads was advertised a bachelor apartment for a business girl. Does this mean that a man goes with the apartment?

RESPONSE: That's a genial thought.... The current euphemism of "bachelor girls" and their "bachelor flats" indicates how socially acceptable bachelordom is compared with spinsterhood. It's time that "bachelor girls", many of whom are feminists, asserted themselves as a group, insisted on being called spinsters, and elevated their social status as spinsters. Perhaps the prestige of spinsterhood could become so great that bachelors would live in "spinster flats"—even without spinsterly cohabitation.

DEAR ALPHA: Recently, cars of 1925 or earlier manufacture were officially classed for import and sales tax purposes as antiques. Isn't this rushing the poor things into antiquity in a hurry?

ANSWER: It officially confirms what I have long suspected: that cars get old before their time. A model aged three years is "that old car"; one a decade old is a "rattletrap"; a car fifteen years old is junk, and those that manage to wheeze past the junk heap and become full of 25 years are antique.

Let us not scoff at the antiques. What car of this year's manufacture will last a quarter of a century? Some of the antiques of 1926—yes, and even of 1920—were so sturdily built that they still deck our streets and rural rides. A very serviceable "Star" whips up Water Street almost daily, and Model A and Model T Fords carry gay youth to dance halls and work, country folk and their produce to town, and some sedate local personages, high and stately, to shops and churches.

Despite their official antiquity, it was Only Yesterday, as Mr. F. L. Allen reminds us in his book of that name, that the efficient Model-T was the pride and joy of businessman and bouregois home. Think back from your sleek impersonal chromium gearless 'job' of today to the high and mulish Lizzie which was your first family car: a thing of so many individual moods that it was both household pet and a personal foible.

Father, setting out for business in the morning climbs in by the right-hand door (for there is no left-hand door by the front seat). He reaches over to the Wheel, sets the spark and throttle levers at ten minute to three (spark at ten, gas at three—not too much spark, for that makes the crank kick and an uncle once broke his arm cranking). Then around to the front to crank. Right hand on the crank (keeping the thumb on top, not dividing the hand around it, lest there be a vicious kick) and left forefinger through a wire loop which controls the choke.

At last the engine roars, after a few tremendous yanks, and Father leaps to the left side of the car, reaches in to pull down the spark and retard the gas (25 minutes of 2 the levers now read). Perhaps he has been too late in getting the spark lever down; the engine has coughed only in ridicule and gone silent. After several such tries, Father may summon his wife or a delighted youngster to come and sit behind the wheel, ready to jerk the spark lever down and the gas lever up whenever his crank rouses a mechanical cough.

At last the engine agrees to come to life. Father gets behind the wheel. Hand brake off: left foot against the low-speed pedal. The neighbours hear the car rumble down the street. Then out goes the foot to put the auto into high gear. Then onward at a steady speed of ten or fifteen miles an hour (the speed limit in town)—and Lizzie dependably wheels along from that year to this; grinding up hills, running away down them—but all three pedals will slow the car: low gear at left, reverse in the centre, brake at right. Jam both feet on all three and she is sure to come to check.

THEN there were the happy family trips—all day journeys to Port Hope and back (28 miles distant), with the entire family and half the neighbours piled in—youngsters sitting on orange crates between the back and front seats. Picnic lunch by the roadside near Port Hope. A visit to the farm most of the afternoon until, about four o'clock, autumn shadows tell it is time to hit the road back, so that at least Springville can be reached before lighting-up time. With luck there will be only two flat tires on the entire trip. At Springville the car is stopped and somebody gets out to light the coal-oil tail lamp (at the rear). Climbing up the hill after Springville the motor roars and the lights grow bright; coming down the Watertrough hill the speed (if it is allowed by the driver) is thrilling, but the lights go so dim that it is hard to see the gravelled roadway. And the bumps blow out the tail light. Backseaters are always being instructed to look out and see if the tail lamp is still alight.

Oh! the wooden foot-ruler to dip into the gas tank under the front seat, to measure the depth. And the shiny brass front. And the side-curtains, to be pinned on if the day really become cold. Sometimes on those long trips from Port Hope in the late autumn afternoon a couple of hot bricks are wrapped and put on the car floor for the women folk in the back seat to warm their feet.

One has many and fond recollections of the old Model-T, and all the nuisances and exasperations have faded from memory. Antique? Perhaps; but one of the antiques which is still usable: solid and substantial even though it lacks the modern chromium grill—the dollar grin.

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR THE RECORD: Today the new City Hall is being opened with Peterborough pomp and circumstance—the mayor of Peterborough, England officiating as guest of this city. The cost of building it was $643,062—the contract price, and the builder from the Marani and Morris (Toronto) design was the local general contracting firm of Mr. J. Hubert Eastwood, which also built the Civic Hospital. The contract prices does not include the cost of landscaping (done entirely by the city Parks Department), nor the cost of the site. This has not been fully settled yet, financial arrangements following expropriation not having been completed. The east side of George Street fronting the new City Hall is, incidentally, the first underground wired street in Peterborough. The architect's design called for underground wiring, and so the Utilities Commission put the wires underground with despatch, no fuss and complete success.

What A University Is Not

(From the installation address of Dr. W. A. Mackintosh, Principal of Queen's University)

THERE are some things which a university is not.

It is not a reform school in which all the mistakes of parents and school teachers can be corrected. It is not a recreation club—if it were there are some obvious economies in organization and staff which could be made. It is not a community centre though I hope it can be of service to its community. It is not a place for conditioning young people to a docile and conforming citizenship or employment. It is not a graduates' club, much as I value the interest and support of graduates. It is not a collection of trade schools adding to the prestige and privilege of various occupations.

It is, or should be, a society of scholars (not too precious in their scholarship, "not too bright or good for human nature's daily food") devoted to the education, the presumably advanced education, of the young and to the preservation and extension of human knowledge. It is a human institution continuing over the generations in its struggle to remove part of the penalty of man's mortality.

NO parents or teachers are quietly confident about the education of a younger generation. How many complain that subjects and methods which in their day were deemed important have fallen into decay! How many are intent on correcting vicariously what they think were the mistakes of their own youth!

If a person is to be considered even moderately educated he or she must be able to use at least one language with clarity, without ambiguity and with economy. If in addition it can be used with taste and distinction, so much the better. It is not easy to repair the deficiencies left by the home, the school and the street. It is still more difficult to make really important in the minds of young people what has hitherto been classed as unimportant.

Language is not merely a mode of communication. Over much of the field of knowledge language is the indispensable tool of thought. The heart may be too full for words but the mind can be only too empty or too confused for words. There is of course a danger here. The social menace of the inarticulate pales before that of those whose tongues outpace their thought and knowledge.

OF course, universities have no monopoly of education. A truly educated person may never have been near a university or he may have been asked to leave. But we are committed to the belief that, despite the brilliant exception, the universities are still potent and fruitful institutions. By no means all their graduates are truly educated. Much of their time and resources is spent in merely avoiding failures but it is proper that much should also be spent in the hope of now and then turning out a finely educated mind.

There is an often expressed concern that university education may become too vocational in character. It is a concern which is well based but ill defined. Universities have always been vocational. A vocation is a big part of a person's life and universities cannot ignore life.

None was more vocational than the mediaeval university. When men were educated to be gentlemen, being a gentleman was a vocation. The great art in teaching is to arouse consuming interest and the relating of knowledge to a vocation often arouses it. One cannot draw rigid and precise boundaries. I am sure Osler's bedside teaching was education at a high level.

Reuben, thou art my firstborn, my might, and the beginning of my strength, the excellency of dignity, and the excellency of power: unstable as water, thou shalt not excel. (Gen. 49: 1, 3, 4.)

A double minded man is unstable in all his ways....

Let no man say when he is tempted, I am tempted of God: for God cannot be tempted with evil, neither tempteth he any man: but every man is tempted, when he is drawn away of his own lust, and enticed. (James 1: 8, 13, 14.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Draw nigh to God, and he will draw nigh to you. Cleanse your hands, ye sinners; and purify your hearts, ye double minded. (James 4: 8.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting. (Gal. 6: 7, 8.)

Unconsidered Trifles

Two ex-servicemen were discussing the forthcoming marriage of a third.

"He's getting a wonderfully accomplished girl," said one of them. "She can swim, ride, drive a car, play tennis and golf, pilot an airplane—she's a real all-round girl."

"Yes, they should get along fine," declared the other. "You remember, Ben learned to cook in the Army."

✧ ✧ ✧

The oldest inhabitant was being interviewed by a newspaper reporter.

"And to what do you attribute your longevity?" he was asked.

"Eh?" queried the old man, who was rather deaf.

"Your longevity," repeated the reporter.

"Oh, so far as I can remember," was the reply, "I've never had one."

Sales Psychology

(Wall Street Journal)

The other day a woman went into a shoe store to purchase a pair of pumps, but proved very difficult to fit. The bored clerk explained it to her by saying, "Madam, one of your feet is larger than the other."

She didn't buy.

In the next store the task proved equally arduous, but here the smiling, alert clerk smoothed the woman's still ruffled feelings by remarking, "Madam, did you know that one of your feet is smaller than the other?"

He sold her two pairs of shoes!

THE GAMBLER'S GRAB

Scientist Makes Northern Trek

REGINA. — (CP) — Detectives of fiction have nothing on Dr. Richard S. MacNeish, Dominion government anthropologist. He has spent years ransacking Canada's northland for clues to the centuries-old migration of American Indians from Asia.

Each spring he gladly drops the fancy trappings of civilization and travels to some lonely corner of the north to pursue his elusive search. Each fall when the geese sound a warning honk heading south, he folds his tent and makes his way back to the land of motorcars and indoor plumbing.

Dr. MacNeish was here recently on his way back east, behind him many miles of travel from Fort Simpson to the Arctic coast. Fit and tanned, he planned to stop over around Carberry, Man., to explore the remains of old beaches where a lake flowed many centuries ago.

He's had various adventures on the lonely trails. This summer he went north to Fort Simpson by air to meet an Indian on the Rat River, to go on from there in a power-canoe. The Indian failed to show up, so MacNeish and his guide fashioned a raft from driftwood and went on their way.

He believes the work on the ancient migration route may be bearing fruit. Recent evidence found in the Lake Superior region suggested that one group of early emigrants went that way into the east, but the long search for evidences of migration across what now is the Behring Sea continues.

TOUGH PONIES

The Basuto pony, well known for his hardy qualities, is bred in large numbers in Basutoland, native African encalve.

INDIAN CEREMONY—Ritual dances and songs of Vancouver Island Indians featured visit of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh Sunday to Thunderbird Park. Royal couple is seen in the stands as braves danced in ancient masks carved and painted to represent lightning snake and thunderbird, figures in tribal mythology.

Scientists Would Revise Aid To Eskimo Groups

OTTAWA—(CP)—A slim, dark, 31-year-old French anthropologist en route to Paris from Canada's Arctic thinks Canada could do a lot better by her Eskimos. But most of his ideas would save Canada money.

Jean Michea, back from two months among the Keewatin district Eskimos—the Eskimos "who live by the big lakes," in the area north of Churchill—acquired several theories. He found that among this most primitive of Eskimo groups, family allowances, for instance, are one of the white man's ideas which, while fine in theory, don't seem to be doing the Eskimos much good.

Michea, working for the national French museum, is a part-time lecturer at the University of Montreal and is working towards his Ph.D. degree.

He has made five sorties into the eastern Arctic, covering Baffin Island, the Arctic archipelago, northwest Greenland and Ungava. He doesn't believe in "expensive" expeditions. His first trip in 1945 lasted 18 months and cost $400.

Must Live With Them

He is a man who believes that you can find out about Eskimos only by living with them and that this doesn't cost much money. He believes it takes more understanding than money to help the Eskimo adjust to new circumstances as the white man moves north.

Family allowances, for example: the average Canadian recognizes them as being for the children and as something he gets back in return for paying taxes. The Eskimo does not understand this. He thinks: "The white people are looking after me." He tends to relax his fight against the ancient rigors of the north.

This, says Michea, would lead quickly to making the Eskimos "degenerate" instead of the proud, strong people they are.

His solution would be to make family allowances more subtle, so that the Eskimo understood he was not getting a handout, but that he had to work to get the extra money. He would also base payments on actual need.

More Small Planes

The Parisian expert doesn't believe in expensive "mercy flights" which have developed in recent years.

"The air force flies a large plane from Churchill, or from here in Ottawa, many miles on such a mission. They say, 'we have spent perhaps $20,000 to save the life of one Eskimo.' That is good, but it is unnecessary."

One or two planes—they could be the comparatively small but Arctic-tested Norsemen — could do a better job, Michea believes.

If such a plane could visit the isolated Eskimo bands two or three times a year, it could provide the best help to the Eskimo. It could help him when he was in danger or sick, move him to better hunting grounds, help him spot the Caribou, and transport surplus Caribou hides from points of good hunting to points where the hunting was bad.

It could be paid for by the Northwest Territories Administration, with missionaries and RCMP personnel paying a nominal sum for services used. But it should be stationed in the north country, not in Churchill or Winnipeg or Ottawa.

He stressed also that the people who have to deal with the Eskimo must know him well: not just the Eskimo as a group but his name and his habits. He should know which was the good hunter, which the lazy man, and be able to deal with him accordingly.

Cites Example

As an example, he cited the case of a good hunter who turned up at the Hudson's Bay Company post with a fine collection of skins. The post manager paid him and in addition, gave him a special allowance for his ailing mother.

"That man didn't need the extra money," Michea said. "He could support 10 people."

In another case, a deserving wife whose husband had been killed in a storm "almost starved to death" because of wireless delay in obtaining authorization for government aid.

Fur Prices Puzzle

He thought the government should peg the price of furs to the Eskimo. The Eskimo couldn't understand why his furs brought him $20 a pelt in 1945 and $2 in 1950. Fluctuations of world fur prices did not affect the fact that he had to trap furs, and they were his only living.

A specialist in studies of the Caribou population, Michea said Caribou are scarce in many parts of the Arctic but still plentiful in the Keewatin district. They provide the Eskimo with a major source of food and clothing.

"But wolves kill more Caribou than the Eskimos," he said.

Across the border from the Northwest Territories, in Manitoba, there was a bounty of $10 a pelt on wolves. North of there, there was no incentive to kill a wolf, and the Eskimo was not giong to waste valuable ammunition shooting wolves.

Won't Use Own Bullets

If a bounty could not be given, the Eskimo would gladly shoot wolves for a few free boxes of bullets, "at a cost of a few dollars to the government. But he won't use his own ammunition on wolves."

Above all, the Eskimo is unique, said Mr. Michea, explaining he was confining his remarks to the Eskimos of the Keewatin area. The Eskimo has no "tribe" in the anthropological sense. His unit is the family, and this is an independent unit. In other parts of the eastern Arctic he has visited, the Eskimos are closer to the white man and more used to his ways.

He hopes to make another trip to the Arctic next summer, before writing his doctor's degree thesis on "A Human Study of the Hudson Bay Region."

Big Lobster Revenue

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Although the catch was lower than previous years, Newfoundland shipped 631,120 pounds of lobster to the United States last season, according to reports at a meeting of several lobster fishermen's societies. In the last 10 years a total of 8,230,671 pounds of live lobsters were shipped.

Improved Tickets

MONTREAL (CP) — Modern railway tickets with consecutive serial numbers owe their origin to Thomas Edmonson, an English station master who died 100 years ago. O. A. Trudeau, of the Canadian National Railways, told a meeting here that Edmonson not only started numbering tickets but invented the first machine to print them.

Aid For Pensioners

CAPE TOWN (CP).—Opening a new radio station here the South African Minister of Posts and Telegraphs, Joseph Naude urged that cheap radio sets costing about £5 should be provided for pensioners.

Drop Suits

WINDSOR, Oct. 26 (CP)—Two Supreme Court damage actions for false arrest, brought against Ford Motor Company of Canada, were dropped suddenly by the plaintiffs Thursday. Gordon C. Williams and Keith A. Jacobs asked, through their counsel, John Reycraft, that the actions be dismissed without costs.

Reserve Decision

OSHAWA, Oct. 26—(CP)—The Ontario Municipal Board reserved decision on an application of Oshawa Railway Company for an increase in city bus fares from four tickets for 25 cents to three tickets for 25 cents. Oshawa District Labor Council protested the proposed increase, saying workers were packed into buses "like sardines."

SPS Juniors After Title Short-Handed

Injuries plague St. Peter's High Saints for the last junior "B" Lake Ontario district game Saturday against Cobourg High in the lakeshore town.

Practices and the five games played have sidelined altogether seven players this season. And probably three will be definitely sitting out the Cobourg game.

Coach Johnny Lynch has three star backfielders hobbling around; John Hickey, veteran quarterback, has a back injury, Murray Byrne, a sprained ankle, and Dick Foley, still bothered by a dislocated hip suffered in the opening game with Lindsay.

One Of Line Out

Lineman Jim Hull, out with a torn ligament will be the only lineman absent. Carl Simmons, another regular lineman, is working back into shape after dislocating a shoulder three weeks ago.

Byrne, a plunging half, is expected to see action Saturday in spite of the sore ankle. If Hickey is still out of action, Byrne and fleet Bob O'Rourke will likely be calling the plays.

So far the Saints have a winning streak of 11 games in the 1950 and 1951 seasons. In the past two years they have been defeated only once, the first game last year to Cobourg 6-5. The Saints went on to win the next six.

A Fine Record

This year the Saints have had only two touchdowns scored against them in five games, both coming in the two exhibition games, the Saints have won 37-0 and 16-0. In the Cobourg game, an off-day for St. Peter's, the Saints won 11-0.

A win Saturday will give the Saints the Lake Ontario district championship for the second straight year. They will likely enter the junior "B" COSSA semi-finals against the winner of the Bay of Quinte.

An American coach by the name of Gnup
Drove our gridiron Orfuns up,
Till now they're full o' fight and boasts:
Which bodes no good for Cobourg's Ghosts.

It's a fact, folks, and the cocky Galloping Ghosts of Cobourg will see for themselves at 8.15 tonight when they clash with Orfuns in ORFU competition at Morrow Park. Orfuns have got down to brass tactics since Frank Gnup took over (as witness their win o'er Raiders in Oshawa) and the're out to smash the Cobourg grid jinx this eve. It'll be a top football tilt, of utmost importance to both classy clubs, so don't pass it up.

Collegiate here has consistently come up with fine senior high school football squads. The Garnet and Grey rode high in the days when Carl Browne was coach, through the tutoring times of Ernie (Red) Legon, later again with Harv Bamforth and, in more recent years, with the present coach, Bev Goulding. Others, too, but names of these capable coaches come readily to mind. Yet no coach can go out there during a game and call signals nor throw a pass. It's strictly up to the gridiron gladiators once the kickoff whistle goes. And so it's up to the PCVS pack this e'en when they tackle Kirkland Lake in the Red Feather tourney opener in Toronto. Go to it, gang!

Third Ontario Crown

Third provincial title to come to Peterborough this autumn was that brought here by the UEW soccer club. Strictly an amateur team in every sense of the word, this crew enjoyed a highly successful season and must be regarded as one of the top teams in local soccer history. No individual stars, it was probably the best-balanced side to perform for this city. The council no doubt will recognize the achievement. After taking the Eastern Loop title, they went on to win the Ontario intermediate crown, as well as going to quarter-finals of the Ontario section of the Dominion Cup playdowns. And played in the first floodlight soccer game in raising $210 for the Mayor's fire fund.

* * * * * *

The club used 16 players, and had no serious injuries. The executive expresses thanks to all who helped make the season a noteworthy one, and hopes to do even better next year. UEW played 22 games, lost two and tied none. Scored 98 goals with 20 against, and had no less than 12 shutouts. Good defence work and goaltending there. Scorers were: R. Strong 33, A. Smith 30, J. Robertson, 7, W. Holroyd 7, E. Cotton 6, G. Smith 5, J. Holt 5, J. Craig 3, F. Mundy 1, A. Ward 1. The team was fortunate, also, in having a strong set of officers. Home games were played at Morrow Park and at King Edward Park. Our congratulations to the champions.

Six In Lasses' League

Six teams make up the Girls' City Basketball League this semester, Lindsay, Black's, CGE, Normals, Nurses and Neill's, with an all-star hoop squad entered in LOBA competition. Officers are: President, Amy Curtis; vice-prexy, Barbara Luther; secretary, Marjorie Owen; treasurer, Pauline Stewart; with club representatives on the committee. They play twin bills each Friday evening in the YWCA gym, opening at eight tonight with Neill's vs. Nurses, and Normals vs. CGE. Other two teams get their chance next week. Schedule has been drawn up and will be published shortly. Lots of lively cage action by the lasses from now until playoff time in the spring.

* * * * * *

Already the Quebec Senior Hockey League has discarded the new icing the puck rule adopted this season by the CAHA. The NHL didn't even try it. Perhaps the OHA will give it up, too, ere long. The new rule called for players to shoot from inside the enemy blue line to avoid icing the disc. Last year you could shoot from inside the centre red line into the enemy area. Players now can go into a defensive role by stringing four men across at their blue line and this made for more icing of the puck, meant too much whistle-tooting and slowed down the game. That's what the QSHL figured, so they've reverted to last year's ruling in this case. We'll wait and see how it works here.

Wings Subdue Oshawa 9-3

OSHAWA, Oct. 26 (CP).—The league-leading Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League breezed to a 9-3 victory over Oshawa Generals in an exhibition game here Thursday night. The two clubs interchanged players to strengthen the Oshawa squad, which plays in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A group.

Detroit defencemen Bob Goldham and Zeidel and forwards Glen Skov, Johnny Wilson and Tony Leswick, lined up with the Generals while Doug Moore, Jack Durston, and forwards Foster, Pete Hudson and Bob Holden were with the Red Wings.

Johnny Wilson, a former Windsor Spitfire junior, scored the first goal of the game on a pass from Tony Leswick and made the count 2-2 before the first period ended when Freddie Glover and Marty Pavelich had each notched one for the Red Wings.

Ted Lindsay's goal broke the deadlock midway through the second stanza and then Holden tallied twice. Herve Dejordy scored Oshawa's final goal in the second period and Gordie Howe in the final period tallied two goals. Moore and Pavelich each added another before the period ended.

Caps Work Overtime To Beat Providence

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 26 (CP)—Indianapolis Capitals worked overtime Thursday night for their first home victory of the American Hockey League season, beating Providence Reds 6-5 before 3,692 fans.

Bert Hirschfeld's long angle shot at 2:18 of the "sudden death" overtime brought the victory.

Vic Stasiuk scored three goals for the Caps, two of them early in the third period to put the home team on top, 5-3. Ray La Plante and Chuck Scherza equalized them, the tying goal coming at 15:03.

Jack Stoddard started the Reds in front, but Enio Sclisizzi and Stasiuk made it 2-1 at the end of the first period. Roger Bedard tied it for Providence and Donat Deschenes put the Reds ahead, but Hirschfeld squared it before the second period ended.

Woodcock Leads

A. Woodcock rolled high three of 788 in the Major Bowling League this week as A. Hunter hit top single of 331. Clapper's led in pinnage with 3439 and had best single game of 1217. Six points were taken by Mowry, Crowley, Clapper's Bickell and Sun Life respectively over B & E, Darling, Selkirk, Examiner and Revenoors. The others were 4-2 wins for Wood, Herb's, Plaza, Lillian's, Stud. Champs, Odeon and Cherney over Brewers, Kingsmen, Wonder, UEW, Kawartha, Campbell and McLeod.

Other good scores were: W. Harris 777, C. Milheron 754, A. Hunter 753, R. Suddards (307) 751, W. Stanbury 743, H. Killen 739, A. Mason 725, A. Hall (308) 722, R. Foster 722, A. Basciano 716, R. Pearson 708, D. Abraham 707, W. Martin 707, A. Mattucci 702, A. Pilling 702, and singles of 306 by K. Mills and G. Walton, and 301 by F. Blair.

Swimmers Go To London For Big Meet

Peterborough swimmers will compete in London this weekend for two Ontario championships and several Western Ontario events against swimmers from Toronto, Hamilton, London, Stratford, Windsor, Galt and other centres.

Practising only once a week since early in September, the boys have been worked into top shape by Coach Gord Minty. All the swimmers are thoroughly experienced in championship events.

Representing Peterborough YMCA in the Ontario championship events will be Donald Wood in the senior 440 yards free style, and Scott Pearton, Jim Starr and Elwood Palmateer in the 120-yard medley relay. Pearton will be swimming backstroke, Starr breastroke, and Palmateer, free style.

In Free Style

In the junior 200 yards free style, the YMCA swimming club will have Wilton Tranter, Pearton, Starr and Palmateer.

Coach Minty has three entries swimming in the class for under-14-years swimmers. In the 40-yard free and 40-yard breaststroke will be Alec Baptie and Ross Dobbin while Terry Reid will be swimming in the 40-yard free-style only.

Two swimmers, Peter Wood and Michael Triggs, have been entered in the 40-yard free and the 40-yard backstroke in the class for boys under 12 years.

Most of the swimmers in the club this year will find the competition tougher, because they are swimming in older-age classes.

Louis Tangles With Marciano

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP). — Aging Joe Louis, who wants another shot at the heavyweight crown more than anything else in the world, risks that chance tonight when he faces young, undefeated Rocky Marciano in a Madison Square Garden 10-rounder.

This is the big comeback test for the 37-year-old Brown Bomber and he knows it. A loss to the 27-year-old Brockton, (Mass.) belter means the end of the trail for one of the ring's all-time greats.

The betting professionals believe Louis is approaching the end. They have established him as a slim 6-to-5 favorite—the shortest odds in all of jarring Joe's career.

The lowest price ever on Louis was the 9 to 5 odds for his second fight with Max Schmeling.

Central Triumphs

Central edged out King George 1-0 in an intermediate Public School Soccer League fixture yesterday in neat play. King George dominated play early but Central had the better of it toward the last part of the first half with Simpson scoring the only marker. Central carried play through most of the second half but could not count again. Dinsdale, Simpson and Armstrong went well. Teams:

King George — MacDonald, Lamers, Ernie, Crowder, Barclay, Cullen, Smith, Dorrington, Innes, Dixon, Nurse, Rose, Chute, Pollard:

Central—Hayman, Pollock, Tetlock, Chalmers, Armstrong, Findlay, Dinsdale, Sorrie, Simpson, Menzies, McInroy, Barber, Birkhof, Lang.

McGill Keens Track Supremacy

TORONTO, Oct. 26 (CP) — A loose-legged McGill University track and field team retained their supremacy in the college ranks Thursday as it won the 44th annual intercollegiate track and field competition at Varsity Stadium.

The Redmen from Montreal chalked up 74 points on seven firsts, eight seconds, three thirds and three fourths in the 15-event program. University of Toronto placed second with 59 points while McMaster from Hamilton was third and the University of Western Ontario trailed in fourth. McMaster earned 17 points and Western 15.

Two senior intercollegiate records were broken. Slim Don MacFarlane, a smooth-pacing sprinter from McMaster, knocked one-tenth of a second off the existing 100-yard mark set by Toronto's J. H. Russell in 1926. MacFarlane's time was 9.9 seconds. Don Blair of McGill broke his own high jump record when he pushed the bar to 6 feet 2¾ inches.

MacFarlane was also the recipient of the Hec Phillips Memorial Trophy as the most valuable athlete to his team in the meet's proceedings.

Fans Like To See Roughriders East Or West Capture Grey Cup

By JACK SULLIVAN,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Three years ago people said it would be a wonderful thing for football if Calgary Stampeders, who waited 37 years for a crack at the Grey Cup, should take the booty. Well, they did and the game's popularity zoomed to crazy heights in eastern and western Canada.

Toronto Varsity Stadium, site of the championship game, added another 7,000 seats in a major remodelling job to bring its capacity to 27,000.

Persons whose only dealings with horses probably amounted to feeding the milkman's nag after a night out dressed up in spurs and high boots and travelled east to add color to the east-west rivalry. The ticket scramble, despite a steady increase in prices was akin to the rush for candies at an orphan's picnic.

Now, the situation is the same except for the names of the leading characters. The cry in many quarters is: "Yeah Roughriders." It doesn't make much difference, whether it's the Ottawa or Saskatchewan brand.

Again, the reason is: it would be good for football.

A Nice Change

Ottawa won the cup last in east-west competition in 1925 (they won it in 1940 but the west didn't challenge that year) and the Roughriders, Saskatchewan variety, are still waiting to have their names inscribed on the base of the 56-inch-high trophy.

Of course, those Ontario Rugby Football Union stalwarts, Sarnia Imperials and Toronto Balmy Beach, would poll a large vote for eastern representative at Varsity Nov. 24 but their supporters know they are whistling in the dark. It would be nothing less than a miracle if an ORFU club got past a Big Four team for eastern honors.

Rough Rider clubs have a chance of going to Toronto in late November. The western Riders' chances are a trifle rosier since they won a bye into the western Canada finals against the winner of Saturday's sudden-death semi-final at Edmonton with Eskimos against Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Ottawa's Riders are in a three-way first-place tie in the Big Four with Toronto Argonauts and Hamilton Tiger-Cats, with two games remaining of the schedule. Ottawa meets the Bengals at Hamilton tomorrow with the Riders holding a 2-1 edge in games between the two this year.

Play In Montreal

The other Big Four game is scheduled for Sunday at Montreal with the also-ran Alouettes and the up-and-coming Toronto Argonauts. Argos, seven-time winners of the cup, are given the nod in this one on the strength of a double victory in their home-and-home series last weekend after dropping a close 8-6 decision in the teams' first meeting of the year at Toronto Sept. 3.

Sarnia Imperials and Toronto Beaches meet Saturday at Sarnia to decide first position in the four-team ORFU schedule wind-up. The winner has choice of grounds in the first of the two-game total-point playoffs Nov. 3.

Windsor Royals, still looking for an entry in the win column, go to Hamilton for a tiff with McMaster University.

The intercollegiate race turns into the home stretch with winless Queen's at Toronto and Western at McGill. Toronto Varsity leads the circuit with three straight victories and a win tomorrow will just about clinch the collegiate title for the Blues.

HISTORIC CASTLE

Cardiff castle, one of the principal buildings of the Welsh port, was built in the 11th century.

Rematch Zorra And Layton

Lord Athol Layton and Zorra, the French Tarzan, have been rematched in what should be be the mat classic of the current wrestling season.

This pair will headline next Tuesday's card at the Brock. Fans insisted on this bout after witnessing the wild melee staged here two weeks ago that had plenty of the customers in action.

The match itself was a gem, with Layton and Zorra giving a masterful exhibition of speed, skill and science and many think Zorra, who is one of the smoothest matmen to appear here, can take his lordship. Layton won the deciding fall when Zorra failed to get back in the ring at the count of 10.

Supporting the main event will be Chief Suni War Cloud and Toar Morgan in the semi-final and Lou Sjoberg and Pat Flanagan in the opener.

Canadiens and Black Hawks Battle To 2-2 Draw; Habs Point Behind Wings

By The Canadian Press

Wild Bill Ezinicki, a fair country golfer who had little hope of paying caddy fees out of his earnings, has decided to make his chip shots on the ice where he is more at home. And, incidentally, where the pay is such that he is sure of three meals a day. Ezinicki, the National Hockey League's bad boy, made his belated decision Thursday, just a few hours before Montreal Canadiens and Chicago Black Hawks squared off at Chicago in the only NHL game of the night.

That game ended in a 2-2 draw, leaving Canadiens one point behind the pace-setting Detroit Red Wings.

Wild Bill's action had a familiar ring to it.

Last season, when he was with Toronto Maple Leafs, he roamed Winnipeg fairways during the pre-season training, reported Oct. 10, was chased to Pittsburgh, a Leaf farm club in the American Hockey League, and early in November was traded to Boston Bruins for four players.

Falls Into Line

Ezzie went back to his golf clubs after the hockey season and was still chasing golf balls when the NHL started its 1951-52 campaign. But a talk with general manager Art Ross at Boston on Thursday ended with Ezinicki signing a contract and agreeing to go to Hershey, Pa., a Bruin farm club, to get in shape.

The NHL house now is in order except for captain Emile (Butch) Bouchard who was left behind when Canadiens headed for Chicago. Coach Dick Irvin read the riot act to Butch and told him to trim seven to nine pounds off his six-foot-two frame.

Canadiens held the edge against the Hawks until the third period when Bill Mosienko, with assists from Doug Bentley and Pete Boreck, rapped Chicago's second goal past goalkeeper Gerry McNeil. Jimmy McFadden counted Chicago's first goal, with assists going to Pete Babando and Gus Bodnar, midway through the second session.

Maurice Richard gave Canadiens a 1-0 edge at 10:57 of the first period—the 297th goal of his career and his fifth of the season. Paul Masnick made it 2-0 at 9:51 of the second and the Hawks stormed in to get the split on points.

Senior OHA Opening Series Tonight

By The Canadian Press.

The Ontario Hockey Association's major series, which enjoyed a brief and not-too-successful stand last year, will be nothing but a memory as the six-team OHA senior A league opens tonight on three fronts.

The league, with teams from Owen Sound, Hamilton, Sarnia, Stratford, Kitchener - Waterloo and Brantford, will be the only senior A series in the OHA this year. The winner will advance into Allan Cup competition.

Kitchener - Waterloo Flying Dutchmen and Hamilton Tigers have entered the Allan Cup hunt after spending last season in the major series, abandoned in Ontario this year.

The 50-game schedule opens with games at Brantford, Stratford and Hamilton.

The defending Allan Cup champions, Owen Sound Mercurys, meet the Tigers at Hamilton; Sarnia Sailors play Brantford Burtols and Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen visit Stratford Indians.

Same Team

With the exception of three wingers and a centre, Owen Sound will have almost the identical team that brought Owen Sound its first Canadian senior hockey championship last season.

Hamilton Tigers are standing pat with the bulk of last season's team.

New additions to Tigers include Whitey Prokop, a Hamiltonian who has been playing in the United States the last five years, Bud Kemp, former Pittsburgh and Toronto Marlboro player, and Nick Cinor, last year with New York Rovers of the now-defunct United States Hockey League.

Sarnia Sailors have come up with many changes, notably in the management and coaching, from last year's International League team.

Norm Tustin, who played for several years in the American Hockey League, and who had a brief fling in the National Hockey League with New York Rangers, will handle the coaching.

Back In Senior A

Stratford is back in senior A company after an absence of three years. Coach Pat Wilson, last year with Toronto St. Michael's seniors, has obtained the services of Billy Flick, Mickey Roth and Dinny Flanagan from K-W, leading scorers in the OHA major series last winter.

Brantford is building its team around players from Brantford Burtols, OHA senior B champions last year.

Playing coach Bill Simpell and former NHL player Jack Sewchuk will form a formidable defence pair. Brantford's prize acquisition will be Keith Woodall, former Edmonton Flyer and Glace Bay goalie.

Additions to the Kitchener-Waterloo club include Jack MacKenzie, Ed Stankiewicz and goalkeeper Pat Boehmer from Toronto Marlboros, Harry Psutka of Toronto St. Michael's and Bobby Schnurr, formerly with Hershey and Tulsa.

There will be two league games Saturday, with Stratford at Sarnia and Hamilton at Owen Sound.

Canadian Team Threatens Jumping Title

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 26—(AP).—A much improved Canadian team today threatened the United States' attempt to retain its low score jumping championship at the Pennsylvania National Horse Show.

The Canadian team was well within striking distance of the leading Americans going into the final of the three-event low-score competition. The United States was low with 12½ faults in the first two events whereas Canada has 20.

Canada pulled even with the US in blue ribbons at the week-long show Thursday night as Robert Ballard won the "in and out" event on Reject, his nine-year-old chestnut gelding.

Coupled with Tom Gayford on Skip Across, faultless through the first two days, Ballard gave the Canadians a good chance of catching the Americans.

Irish Next

The only other team within striking distance of the most prized title of the show is the Irish army team, which has only 25½ faults. The Mexican army team with 96 faults, and Brazil with 56¼, are virtually eliminated.

The first US all-civilian team proved to be the surprise of last year's show when it snatched the low-score title from the Mexican army team, which had won the event the previous two years and needed only one more victory to retire the President's Trophy.

Ballard's triumph Thursday night in the "in and out" was the first time the Toronto business man had won a ribbon in the eight-events held here so far. He did it with the only faultless performance of 18 entries in the difficult nine-obstacle event.

Arthur McCashin, a former airlines pilot from Pluckemin, NJ, took second place on Totilla with three faults. Totilla broke stride just before the last obstacle and crashed into it. He was penalized three faults.

Tied for third place with a single knockdown each were Canada's Skip Across, with Gayford up, and Mexico's Arete, ridden by Col. Humberto Mariles.

DUKE AT WHEEL—The Duke of Edinburgh took the wheel of a rancher convertible for 100-mile drive to Eaglecrest, where Princess Elizabeth and he spent a three-day Vancouver Island holiday. Cheering crowds lined the road at Duncan, B.C., 40 miles north of Victoria as the royal couple drove to the holiday spot.

Coroner's Jury Clears Driver

BANCROFT, Oct. 26 —(ENS)—Roy White of Fort Stewart, driver of the car that killed Bayliss Evans of Dungannon township on Oct. 19 was exonerated by a coroner's jury on Wednesday afternoon.

The findings of the jury were "that on the Detlor-Hermon Road adjacent to the home of Harry Foster in the Township of Dungannon on Friday, October 19 at about 10.45 a.m., death occurred by injuries being accidentally struck by an automobile driven by Ray White and the jury hereby absolve the driver of any blame".

The investigation was conducted by O. W. Anderson, coroner, and Assistant County Crown Attorney, S. G. Robinson. The jury consisted of Dr. R. Y. Harvett, foreman, Roy Foster, Robert Kellar, Alfred Burns and Terrance Mahoney.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Mc Master Marauders have decided to withdraw from the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union after completing their first season in it. They say they consider themselves over-matched.

They now are in third place in the four-team loop, trailing Sarnia Imperials and Toronto Balmy Beach.

Ivor Wynne, McMaster director of athletics, said Thursday night at Hamilton:

"It isn't that we expected to win, nor do I want to do any axe-grinding. But I hate to see our kids take the physical beating they do from imported pros."

Wynne described the action of Toronto Balmy Beach in signing six imports as a "breach of faith." He said the Beach club had assured him at the beginning of the season that it would use only one or two American players.

Wynne had no complaint against Sarnia Imperials who again fielded an all-Canadian team.

The McMaster athletic director said that should he fail again next year in a bid for a place in the senior intercollegiate league the Marauders will either return to intermediate intercollegiate competition or play a series of exhibition games.

Three former basketball players of the University of Kentucky under arrest for conspiracy and bribery in shaving points of the final score of one collegiate game Thursday admitted receiving $500 each for keeping down the score of another game, District Attorney Frank S. Hogan reported.

The three players, Alex Groza, Ralph Beard and Dale Barnstable, now out on $1,000 bail each, testified freely for several hours before the New York County Grand Jury Thursday, Hogan said.

The District Attorney quoted the three men as saying the "deal" was arranged by Nick and Tony Englisis, and Saul Feinberg, three men held under indictment as fixers, and also by Nat (Lovey) Brown, currently held as a material witness in the basketball investigation.

At New York, promoter Jimmy Murray Thursday announced the signing of light heavyweight Joey Maxim and former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles for a 12-round non-title bout in the San Francisco Cow Palace, Dec. 12. Charles won all four previous fights with Maxim.

A major player trade is brewing between Brooklyn and the Cincinnati Reds whereby Ewell (The Whip) Blackwell may go to the Dodgers in exchange for one of their top-flight outfielders.

Brooklyn vice-president E. J. (Buzzy) Bavasi Thursday at New York admitted he had discussed possible trades with Gabe Paul, new general manager of the Reds, but said nothing concrete had come out of the talks as yet.

The Reds reportedly asked for either Duke Snider, Carl Furillo or Andy Pafko—in that order—in return for The Whip.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats took a 13-point lead in the two-game, total-points Big Four junior football final by whipping Brantford Barons 19-6 at Hamilton on Thursday night. The second game will be played in Brantford Saturday.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Maurice (Rocket) Richard scored his fifth goal of the season in Thursday night's only National Hockey League game to move into a first-place tie with two teammates in the individual scoring race.

The five goals, best so far this season, added to two assists give Richard seven points. Also at seven are Bert Olmstead and Elmer Lach, both leading in the assists division with six each.

HOSPITAL FIRE CONTROLLED—An emergency crew transfers seriously ill patients from St. Paul's Hospital, Dallas, Tex., to litters for movement to other hospitals during a five-alarm fire. The blaze burst through the roof of the building, but was brought under control with no casualties.

14 Cases In Bancroft Court, $305 In Fines

BANCROFT, Oct. 26—(ENS)—Fourteen cases handled by Assistant County Crown Attorney S. G. Robinson, in the court of Magistrate J. B. Garvin on Wednesday afternoon resulted in total fines of $305. All charges were laid by the local detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police.

Convicted of driving while ability to do so was impaired by alcohol, Thomas Deedy, of Maynooth, and Donald Welsh, of Maple Leaf, each paid fines of $50 and costs, the high for the afternoon.

Speeding cost Gordon Grant, of Maynooth, $15 and costs.

Because they did not have drivers' licences, Cecil Spence, of Maynooth, Earl Spence and Ronald Tryon, of Bancroft, each paid fines of $10 and costs. The same sum was paid by Ernest Town, of Fort Stewart, Vernon Patterson, of Cannifton, and Vernon McQuigge, of Havelock, for having liquor in a place other than a residence. Careless driving cost Stanley Parks, of Hybla, and Donald Shields, of Maynooth, the same, $10 and costs. A failure to signal that resulted in an accident was responsible for George Smith, of Lake St. Peter, also paying $10 and costs.

Ambrose Craftchick, of Princess Lake, and Kinley Scott, of Maynooth, both paid $10 and costs for causing a disturbance in a public place.

Tories Too Rowdy Morrison Won't Talk

LONDON, Oct. 26 (AP). — Herbert Morrison folded his arms, took a few defiant puffs at his pipe and refused to extend the traditional thanks to his local elections officials Thursday. He said the Tories were too rowdy.

Morrison, Foreign Secretary in the Socialist government, got back into parliament as representative from Lewisham. The announcement of his victory set off a noisy demonstration at Lewisham town hall.

The tough little man with the heavy mop of hair got up to speak, and the cheers died down but not the boos. Morrison just folded his arms and waited.

"Unless you give order, I will say nothing at all," Morrison said angrily.

"Hooray," the booers shouted back.

OBITUARIES

MRS. CLARA SMITH

MARMORA, Oct. 26—(ENS)—Mrs. Clara Smith, widow of Arthur Smith, died suddenly on Thursday evening at the home of G. W. Steenburgh where she resided. She had been in poor health for some time with a heart ailment. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Boyd and spent her whole life in this district. In younger days, she was an accomplished horsewoman and took several prizes at Marmora Fair in driving contests. She was a member of St. Paul's Anglican Church and also of its Ladies' Guild for a number of years.

She is survived by one son, Roy, of Marmora, and one daughter, Mrs. Norman Leal, of Windsor.

The funeral service will be held in St. Paul's Church on Saturday afternoon, folowed by burial in Marmora Protestant cemetery.

MRS. MARY MORTON.

BONARLAW, Oct. 26 (ENS).—After an illness of several months, Mrs. Mary Morton, 88, died at the home of her son, William Morton, ninth concession of Rawdon township.

Mrs. Morton was formerly Mary Irwin, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Irwin, Seymour east. She lived her entire lifetime in the county where she died. She was a member of the Plymouth Brethren. Her husband, John Morton, predeceased her several years ago.

She is survived by her five daughters and three sons: Mrs. Fred McKeown (Algina), Springbrook; Mrs. Arthur Reid (Augusta), Springbrook; Mrs. J. Hailstone (Etta), Madoc; Mrs. J. Reid (Essie), Rawdon; Mrs. Clifford Anderson (Annie), Campbellford; William Morton and Richard Morton, ninth line of Rawdon township and Mr. George Morton of Beeton, Ont.

The funeral was held Sunday from the home of her son William Morton at 2:30 pm to Gospel Hall for service by Mr. Shantz of Peterborough, assisted by Mr. Fox of Belleville. The pallbearers were six grandsons, Leslie McKeown, Arthur Reid, Ted Hailstone, Glenn Morton, Merton Reid and Douglas Morton.

Burial was at Rylstone cemetery.

NATO ENGINEER—Brig. W. B. (Basil) Wedd, of Toronto, assistant to the president, Massey-Harris Company, Ltd., has been loaned by the company to the North Atlantic Defence Production Board. He will be chief of the Engineering Division, with responsibility for over-all planning for production of engineering stores and equipment for North Atlantic armies under General Eisenhower.

Marmora IODE Plans Bridge Party

MARMORA, Oct. 26—(ENS)—The Marmora Chapter IODE met in their club room on Monday, Mrs. W. M. Regan presiding.

The treasurer's report was given by Miss M. Savage. Mrs. R. G. Walsh, educational convener, stated that 500 tulip bulbs, along with a flag, had been purchased and delivered to the new high school.

Mrs. John Reynolds, welfare convener, read a letter from a needy family, and assistance will be given immediately.

Mrs. A. F. Fraser was appointed to look after the purchasing of substantial card tables for use in the club room. Tickets are being sold on a box of chocolates, the proceeds to be used to purchase teaspoons. It was decided to sponsor a mixed bridge party in November. Mrs. B. W. Hughes was appointed as general convener. The regular bi-monthly bridge tournament began on Wednesday in the club room.

It was decided to hold an "old time" costume dance in the town hall in November with Mrs. H. Brady as general convener assisted by Mrs. A. Fraser. One new member was received into the chapter. The quilt on which tickets are being sold is to be drawn for at the "old time" costume dance.

Mrs. Regan urged all members to attend the Memorial Day service on November 11, when a member will place a wreath, and she again reminded members that each one is asked to donate a cup and saucer.

Roseneath News

The sympathy of this community is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Luther Harvie and family in the sudden death on Tuesday in London of their son, Mr. Floyd Harvie. Floyd was born in Alnwick Township and spent the greater part of his life here.

Mrs. Frank Cowie has returned to Colborne following a visit with her sister, Mrs. Leslie Sherwin.

Mrs. George Hoover is a patient in Civic Hospital, Peterborough.

The senior room of Roseneath school has been closed for the past two weeks owing to the illness of the teacher, Mrs. Ira Merriam.

Art, Industry Get Together In Exhibition

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

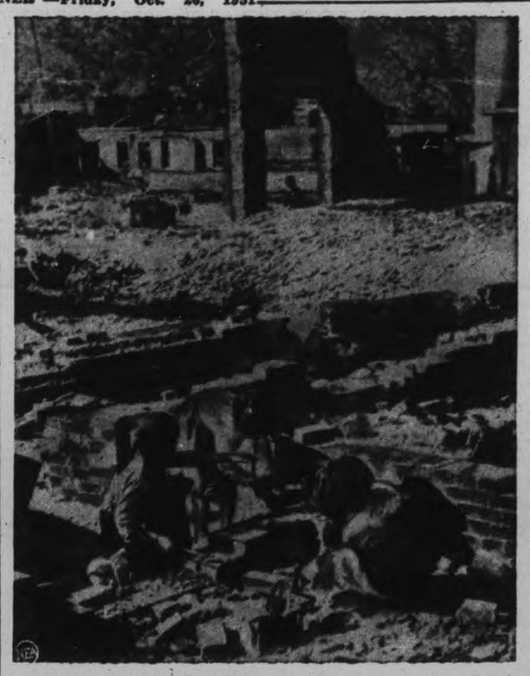
Art and industry got together Thursday.

The Toronto Art Gallery put on an exhibition of six paintings by six Canadian artists showing landscapes of Canadian forest growth — spruce, balsam, jack pine, eastern hemlock, western hemlock, and poplar.

The artists—Thoreau MacDonald, A. Y. Jackson, A. J. Casson, Albert Cloutier, Charles E. Comfort and Franklin Arbuckle—were commissioned to do the work by the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association.

The exhibition will continue until Nov. 18, and then will be taken on tour, with a special emphasis on showings in smaller communities and schools.

It consists of the original canvases, the preliminary oil sketches, silk screen reproductions in quadri-color, and black and white line drawings.



An accompanying booklet explains that directly or indirectly, "The forests generate at least a quarter of the income of all Canadians."

25-Year-Olds

Gutta Percha and Rubber, Ltd., Thursday night welcomed employees into its 25-years-of-service club in seven cities—Halifax, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Edmonton, Vancouver, and London, England.

M. O. Simpson, president, in an address to the Toronto gathering which was read in the other cities, commented:

"At the moment, there seems to be a bit of slowing down in business generally.... however, the future for Canada was never brighter....Our currency is financially sound and with the development of natural resources now taking place; new businesses and people coming to Canada; power development; and all that is going on — I cannot become 'panicked' by any temporary slowing down of the business tempo."

SALVAGE DAY IN SEOUL—Children roam the bomb-blasted ruins of Seoul, Korea, salvaging bricks and other material. The youngsters, a common sight in the battered city, have earned the nickname "Wolf Children".

Character Witness

CHICAGO, Oct. 26 — (AP) — Actress Janet Blair appeared as a character witness Thursday for one of three defendants in an abortion trial. Miss Blair, appearing in Chicago in the stage play "South Pacific," testified she considered the reputation of orchestra leader Louis Basil "very good." Basil, 42, Dr. Harry Heiss, a physician, and Doris Nanni, Dr. Heiss' receptionist, are charged with conspiracy to commit an abortion on a 17-year-old girl.

Royal Pair Consulted

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Thursday he was sorry that some Canadians would not be able to see Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh during their tour, but that was inevitable in a country the size of Canada. He told the Commons the arrangements for the cross-country tour had been made in consultation with the Royal couple.

Back From Korea

VANCOUVER, Oct. 26—(CP)—Twenty-one Canadian soldiers, veterans of fighting in Korea, returned to Canada Thursday night by plane from Tokyo. The men will start paratroop training after leave. The group included CQMS. W. N. McKerracher, Thamesville, Ont.; Cpls. L. H. Costello, North Bay, C. G. Wilkins, Woodville, Ont., and L. Cpl. B. O. Woodcock, Oshawa.

Belated Lesson

CLINTON HILL, Surrey, England—(CP)—When she was 87 Elizabeth Allen learned for the first time to cook by gas instead of on an oil stove. Now 90, Miss Allen still does her own housework and can even run after a bus. The local vicar describes her as a "wonderful old lady."

Omemee Minister Speaks At Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 26 (ENS)—The Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt of Omemee was guest speaker at the anniversary services at Lakefield United church on Sunday.

At the morning service, Mr. Zufelt gave a talk on "The Individual's Responsibility to God."

Mrs. George Johnston of Brampton sang "He Shall Feed His Flocks," and Mrs. Raymond Jackman sang "The Lord is My Light."

At the evening service "The Church Christ Founded," was the topic which Mr. Zufelt chose.

Mrs. Don Hendren sang a solo, "The Voice in the Wilderness." The choir sang at both services. The music was directed by Quirt McKinney with John David Grylls, organist.

Lakefield News

Over 700 persons enjoyed a turkey dinner at the United church Monday evening. The supper, an annual event, was convened by Mrs. Sherman Northey and Mrs. Alex Graham.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Brown and son Andy, and Mr. Andrew Young of South River were weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Richardson.

Mr. and Mrs. George Johnston of Brampton spent the weekend with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Northey.

Mrs. C. B. Sharpe of Toronto was a weekend guest with Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Grylls.

Friends of Mrs. T. E. Rath will be pleased to hear she is recuperating at her home following her recent illness in Peterborough Civic hospital.

It was decided to hold a series of euchre parties during the winter months, beginnig on November 9.

Lunch was served and a social hour enjoyed at the close of the meeting.

Thomson Plans Special Care For TB Patients

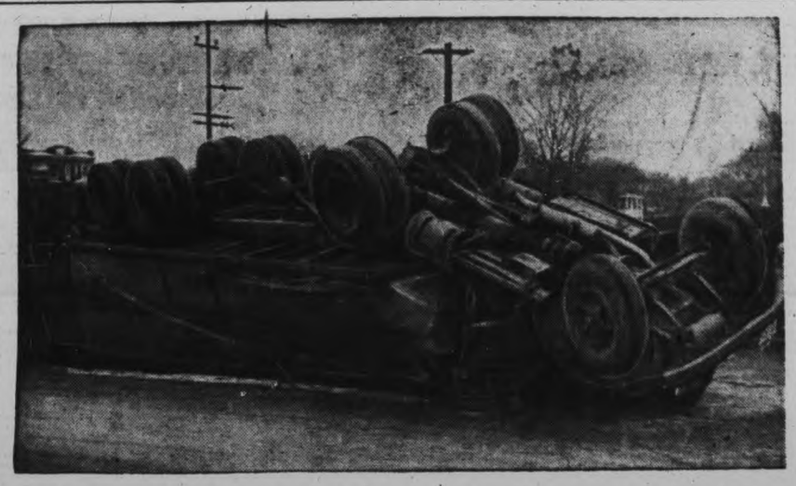
By The Canadian Press

Walter Thomson, Ontario Liberal leader, says his provincial hospital care plan has special provisions for tuberculosis sufferers.

He told an Ontario general election campaign meeting in Toronto Thursday night that he will help persons who leave sanatoria to find their way back to places in the working force. If necessary, they will be given an opportunity to change their occupations. The entire program will give patients "a will to get well."

E. B. Joliffe, leader of the CCF, launched his campaign swing through the province with a Hamilton speech in which he criticized the government's policy on workmen's compensation and said Premier Frost "does not deserve the vote of a single worker in Ontario."

The Premier himself was silent Thursday night—he has scheduled a radio speech for tonight—but his cabinet ministers were in action in various parts of the province.



Get Real Start

At Walkerton, Health Minister Phillips recalled a promise by Mr. Thomson to study British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan hospital plans and incorporate their best features into a scheme for Ontario. He said the government "has been doing just that" for more than a year—"and that is a head start Mr. Thomson could never hope to overtake."

Mr. Joliffe pledged that, if the CCF is elected, it will adopt in full the report of Mr. Justice W. D. Roach on workmen's compensation. The CCF leader said Premier Frost had refused to accept 12 of the 18 recommendation in the report.

The CCF favors broadening the list of industrial diseases covered by compensation, increasing the rates of disability pensions, and giving the compensation board final authority over all accident prevention work, Mr. Joliffe said.

Nominations included that of Fletcher S. Thomas, recently-appointed Works Minister, in Elgin. The Labor-Progressive (Communist) party nominated Peter Boychuck in Welland, bringing the number of its candidates chosen so far to four.

THIS HUGE TRANSPORT TRUCK went out of control and turned over on the Metropolitan boulevard near the railway and street car crossings at Ville St. Pierre, Que., recently. Police said a wheel of the truck had apparently struck the shoulder of the road and went out of control when the driver tried to swerve back onto the highway.

Head-On Collision

JOLIETTE, Que., Oct. 26 (CP)—Two men, including the sheriff of Joliette, were killed Thursday night in a head-on collision between two automobiles at nearby St. Jean De Matha. Killed were Sheriff Wilfred Boisvert, 52, and Philippe Champagne, 43. Two other men, including Sheriff Boisvert's 20-year-old son, were taken to hospital.

Snow Spoils Crop

EDMONTON, Oct. 26 — (CP) — Millions of bushels of grain—the difference between the West's greatest crop and an ordinary yield—are buried under heavy snow on the Prairies this fall. It is questionable whether any appreciable amount of this grain will be harvested before next spring. Normally, all of the Prairie crop would be off the fields by now.

Recover Bodies

WINNIPEG, Oct. 26 — (CP) — Searchers who battled snow, wind and ice on a lake near Armstrong, Ont., Thursday, recovered the bodies of two men who drowned last Saturday. The men—Johnson Lindsay Gregg, 34, of Hanley, Sask., and George Hummerson, 31, of St. Vital, Man.—were lost when their canoe capsized on a fishing trip on Lake of the Flats, five miles east of Armstrong.

Old-Timers Celebrate

MACLEOD, Alta—(CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Marry Maunsell, the second couple ever to be married in Lethbridge, have just celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary. Mr. Maunsell is 92 and his wife is 87.

United Church Laymen Hear R. C. Young

Ralph C. Young, field secretary for the United Church Men's Groups for Canada, urged men to organize men's groups within the church. In speaking last night, to more than 100 men representing the United churches in the Peterborough Presbytery he outlined the activities needing men's leadership.

Introduced by H. M. Winter, president of the presbytery laymen, Mr. Young emphasized the potential of the men in the church and outlined the work done throughout Canada. He was thanked by Thomas Taylor, Knox United church.

Of the 28 churches in the presbytery all but three were represented, from Havelock on the east to Millbrook on the west, from Apsley on the north to Bailieboro on the south.

The Rev. B. S. Morwood, Mark Street Church, spoke briefly on the help the laymen can give the ministers.

The Rev. J. E. Griffith, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference, brought greetings and congratulated the group on the excellent attendance.

Robert Aspinal sang two solos which were part of a singsong led by Charles Forsyth and Charles Allen.

Melville Johnston, Springville, thanked the women of George St. Church for the dinner.

Springville WMS Meets At President's

SPRINGVILLE, Oct. 26 — Springville WMS held their October meeting at the home of Mrs. Owen Murray and was attended by 25 ladies.

Prayer offered by president Mrs. Owen Murray. Plans were made for the sectional rally.

Mrs. Dunford offered her home for the November meeting. Mrs. Larke accepted the Chirstian Stewardship office left vacant by Mrs. Linstead.

Mrs. Whitefield, program leader, introduced a guest, Mrs. Marion Whittington, who sang two solos during the program which were much enjoyed. Mrs. Harold Rowan read the scripture, Mrs. M. Cathcart led in prayer. Mrs. Lytle, a new member, addressed the gathering on the text "Now Thank We All our God."

Mrs. Whitfield thanked Mrs. Lytle and Mrs. Cullen played an instrumental solo.

Mrs. Rowan moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Murray; Mrs. Lytle, speaker; and Mrs. Whittington guest soloist.

The meeting closed with prayer and a social hour was enjoyed.

Obituary

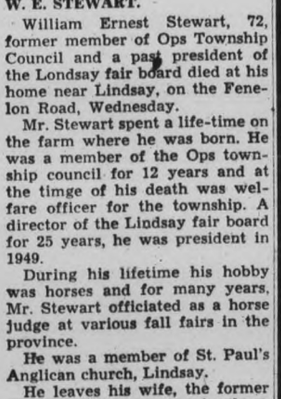
W. E. STEWART.

William Ernest Stewart, 72, former member of Ops Township Council and a past president of the Londsay fair board died at his home near Lindsay, on the Fenelon Road, Wednesday.

Mr. Stewart spent a life-time on the farm where he was born. He was a member of the Ops township council for 12 years and at the timge of his death was welfare officer for the township. A director of the Lindsay fair board for 25 years, he was president in 1949.

During his lifetime his hobby was horses and for many years, Mr. Stewart officiated as a horse judge at various fall fairs in the province.

He was a member of St. Paul's Anglican church, Lindsay.



He leaves his wife, the former Florence Thurston; two brothers, Alvin. Richmon Hill; Roscoe, Midland; three sisters, Mrs. Harry Hickson (Annie), Reaboro; Mrs. R. I. Moore, (Ruby), Lindsay; Mrs. George Hickson (Gladys), Lindsay.

The funeral will be held Saturaday afternoon at the Mackey Chapel. Burial will be in Riverside Cemtery.

F. L. Galloway Buried

The funeral for Frederick Lewis Galloway, Otonabee township, who died Tuesday was held Thursday at the Comstock funeral home. The Rev. B. S. Morwood of Mark St. United Church conducted the service.

Pallbearers were Jack Comstock, Gordon McIntyre, Dr. John A. McNeil, Dr. G. R. Penhall, Ed Butler, Wilbert Milne. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

BEHIND IRON CURTAIN—Eric Adams, former employee of the Bank of Canada and acquitted in the 1946 spy trials, is reported living in Prague, Czechoslovakia. Friends of Adams say he has been there with his family for some months and will remain there permanently.

TRUCE TALK TENT—This large tent, erected in Panmunjom, Korea, will be the scene of the full scale armistice talks. The tent served as the meeting place for UN and Communist Liaison Officers.

Marjorie Honey Wins Speaking Contest

DARTFORD, Oct. 26 (ENS). — Miss Marjorie Honey won first place in the Percy township speaking contest held at Masonic Hall, Warkworth, Wednesday evening. She was awarded the William Fraser Trophy.

Marjorie is a pupil of Mrs. Raymond Richardson, at Dartford school (SS No. 5 Percy) and will compete in the county finals to be held at Colborne November 9th.

Her subject was "The Bee." She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Honey, Dartford.

Favor New Flavor

JOHANNESBURG (CP) — Because smokers overseas dislike the flavor of South African cigarettes, a big drive is under way to produce a leaf which can be exported. Thousands of tobacco farmers are being taught how to grow the new leaf.

Building Road In Wilderness To Aid Stranded Salmon

PRINCE RUPERT, BC, Oct. 26—(CP)—The first winter snows today delayed—until spring at least—construction of a wilderness road which will be used to save the valuable sockeye salmon run in the Babine River.

At the appointed time in their cycle of life, the salmon return to the river where they were spawned themselves to spawn and die.

If they survive in the sea, they must still elude the fishnet, the angler's hook, the Indian spear, the paw of the bear, the claw of the eagle and the teeth of the otter in their struggle upstream.

The rivers, too, are a hazard for the salmon must climb the rapids and fight their way through the boiling water.

Last summer, thousands of dead salmon were found floating down the Skeena. By plane, fishery men found a massive slide had partially blocked the Babine, a tributary of the Skeena. The salmon had died, flinging themselves against the jagged rocks in a desperate attempt to get by the obstruction.

Some Survived

Some did survive this final ordeal in the long journey to the spawning beds but 70 per cent of the run was lost.

The wall of the Babine canyon had broken down, cascading thousands of tons of rock into the river at a point about 40 miles north of Hazelton and some 200 miles northeast of here.

It was the worst disaster for the salmon since 1913 when a slide blocked the Fraser river at Hell's Gate.

Fish ladders were built in 1945 to enable salmon to pass the cauldron of Hell's Gate after conservation men had finally won over the Canadian and United States governments.

There are no roads along the Babine. Fisheries men realized immediately something would have to be done.

A 40-mile road is planned from Hazelton to the slide so that heavy equipment can be moved in to clear the rock.

There could be no help for the sockeye this year. Next spring aid may reach the courageous creature who brought more than $40,000,000 to British Columbia canners and fishermen this year.

Golden Dome Shimmering As Stage Set For Opening Of City Hall

Men Laid Sidewalk, Made Ready Far Into Night, Early In Morning For Colorful Ceremony In Front of Hall

With its golden dome shimmering in the sun that broke through an early morning mist about 1:30 and flags fluttering in a warm breeze, the stage was set for the formal opening of Peterborough's new city hall at 2:30 this afternoon. In a busy whirl of last-minute preparations, workmen have been busy since 7 o'clock placing temporary bleachers in front of the main entrance, removing boards from the sidewalk (laid only last night) and doing the thousand and one other jobs that had to be done before the ceremonies began.

Rain stopped construction work Thursday and the last concrete was poured at 10:30 at night.

The bleachers were moved by the Parks Department from Riverside Park to seat about 2,000. Five hundred guests invited by the city occupied the centre section directly in front of the main entrance where the opening ceremonies took place. The other two sections were expected to be filled by interested spectators and the first onlookers arrived well before the Citizens' Band started playing at 2 o'clock to make sure they would get a good seat.

Bleachers Up

Parks Superintendent Armar Butcher had 10 men on the job erecting the bleachers and cleaning up the grounds all morning. Four loudspeakers were hooked up so everyone could hear.

All power in the City Hall was turned off until Mayor G. R. Chamberlain of Peterborough, England, inserted the golden key in the main door. Then at a given signal, the main switch was thrown, and every light in the building went on.

During the ceremony, the radio in the police station was temporarily connected with the Library to maintain contact with police cruisers and the public address system was also connected with the Library.

In a running interview with Caretaker Earl Hope, it was learned that he had had 12 men working until midnight Thursday night, and although it had been quite hectic to get everything done, "things are shaping up as well as could be expected," he said.

From noon until the ceremonies were over, George Street was shut off between Murray and McDonnel Streets, and Murray Street was closed from George Street to Water Street.

Chief John Thompson said 16 of his men were on the job, handling the crowd and directing traffic. He said four men handled the big turnout at the welcome to the lacrosse team a couple of weeks ago, so he did not expect any difficulty today.

Late Polishing

At noon, workmen were still busy polishing the brass rails on the stairways leading from the main lobby and office workers were tidying up their desks before leaving for lunch.

Outside, chairs were arranged on the walk in front of the main entrance for visiting dignitaries and prominent people from Peterborough and nearby centres who took part in the opening.

Flanked by a Canadian ensign on either side, a Union Jack hung over the front entrance where the speakers stood. At the southeast corner, another Union Jack flew from the top of a white flagpole.

The only detracting note from the neat appearance of the newly sodded lawn and recently planted shrubs in front of the City Hall was the blue iron poles and loose rope along the sidewalk to keep the crowds from ruining the grass.

Driver Dies At Wheel, Car Hits Rock

William Edward Huff, 69, of Bonarlaw, died of coronary thrombosis Thursday night while driving his car on the Gooderham-Bancroft road, a mile south of Highland Grove.

The car went out of control as it rounded a curve and crashed into a rock cut. Mrs. Huff received chest injuries, a cut under one eye, and a bad shaking up, but she was not hospitalized and returned to her Bonarlaw home early today.

For the last two years Mr. Huff, a farmer, has had a bad heart. This summer he had an extra burden of work on the farm as his son was injured.

The fatal attack came suddenly.

Wiped Windshield

Mrs. Huff had reached over to wipe off the steamed-up windshield just before the car came to the sharp turn. Mr. Huff remarked that he could see much better and then, apparently, he suffered the attack.

The car smashed into the rock cut, badly damaging the front end.

They had been visiting their niece, Mrs. Dorothy Hogan, who lives near Highland Grove, and were returning to their daughter's home in the village when Mr. Huff was stricken.

Besides his widow Mr. Huff leaves a son Kenneth at home, and two daughters: Mrs. Clinton Robbins, Bonarlaw (Edna) and Mrs. Phyllis Bone, Highland Grove; a sister Mrs. William Covert, Westwood; and a half brother Thomas Caldwell, Bonarlaw.

Mr. Huff was born in Bonarlaw, son of the late William H. Huff and Ellen McInroy. His widow is the former Adelia Covert.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

No Flags

Few people or store owners thought today's opening of the city hall an occasion for flying flags. On downtown streets the T. Eaton Co. flew two flags. The tattered remnant of a flag flew as it does every day from the mast on top of the post office building. But that appeared to be about all—except of course the four at the city hall itself.

Caviar, Kittens In Weekend To Entertain You

What do you like?

Do you like children and kittens or Winston Churchill? Are you interested in caviar or Yvonne DeCarlo?

You'll find them all in this week's WEEKEND in Saturday's issue of the Examiner.

Color pictures of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh's visit across Canada are presented along with many intimate formerly unpublished pictures of the royal couple who are capturing the hearts of Canadians. Probably the most impressive is the color photograph showing the princess and the duke at the Canadian war memorial at Ottawa.

Winston Churchill's detailed third installment of his fifth volume in his history of the Second World War, Closing the Ring is carried this week. In it Churchill tells how Nazi Germany was isolated and assailed on all sides.

The first big three meeting is planned, including talks with the Chinese at Cairo. Stalin is host at Teheran and agreement is reached with the Russians.

Hallowe'en

Did you know that Hallowe'en hijinks had a devilish start? Well they did. WEEKEND staff writer Alma Houston tells what started the tales that Hallowe'en is one night in the year when all spirits, good and bad roam the earth.

In a picture story, WEEKEND relates how radio auditions are made, how talent is found and how a new singing star is started on her way.

Few things are more fascinating than watching a young child learning his way around the world. When it's a two-year-old boy getting his first pet—a kitten, and learning to care for it without "squashing" it, the story told in pictures is one you'll remember.

Canadian Caviar

You may have thought that caviar was strictly a Russian product. But a North Bay man, Harry L. Donaldson, has made himself the caviar king of Canada. He started in 1946 to experiment with the roe of Canadian sturgeon and in time developed a caviar that could compare with the Russian product.

In a penetrating survey and study, Jacqueline Moore, WEEKEND staff writer, asks, "Can we stop the menace of the sex criminal?" You will want to read what judges and sociology workers have to say about how sex criminals can be treated and what are the chances of reducing sex crimes.

These features and others in WEEKEND, along with the regulars, including 16 pages of color comics make this Saturday's Examiner another issue to look forward to.

Cars Hit At Corner

Approximately $100 damage to both cars resulted from a minor accident on Otonabee St. at Armour Rd. at 5 p.m. Thursday.

Gordon Smith, RR 8, Peterborough, was going west on Otonabee St., and a car ahead driven by Vincent Doherty, RR 6 Peterborough was just making a left turn at the Orange Hall when the two vehicles collided.

Both drivers said they were travelling slowly at the time of the accident, Constable Cecil Bowyer reported.

US Visitors Impressed By All City

US Peterborough 212 Years Old, Population 2,525

"If I were a young man, I think I'd come up here," mused Forrest C. Mercer, chairman of the board of selectmen of Peterborough, New Hampshire.

Mr. Mercer had just finished a tour of the city, and said he was very much impressed with it. His position in the New Hampshire town corresponds more or less to the position of mayor in a Canadian city.

A short, stocky man, with a full head of greying hair, Mr. Mercer is a man of Republican sentiment with a fondness for Calvin Coolidge and Herbert Hoover, two of the less popular Republican presidents of US history.

Of Peterborough, Canada, he feels it is a city with a prosperous future. But as a warning to the city in general, he said "don't start resting on your laurels, joining a country club and start to play golf. You've got to keep going."

Diversified Industry

"You have diversified industry here; I saw that on my trip this morning. You haven't any slums, and there are plenty of good residential districts."

Mr. Mercer had words of approval for the parliamentary system of Canada. "I'm sure it's better than the one we have."

Peterborough, New Hampshire, is a town of 2,525 people nestled in the White Mountains. "It hasn't changed in population more than 100 either way since 1850, when there were 2,520 people there," said Mr. Mercer.

His job as chairman of the board of selectmen is not exactly the same as the position of a mayor in Canada. There are three selectmen on the board, and invariably the senior member is appointed as chairman.

"I've been on the board two years, and that's why I was named chairman," he said. "If I run again, I'll drop down to third place. The man second on the list at present will be chairman."

212 Years Old

His Peterborough was settled in 1736, chartered in 1739, and first incorporated in 1763. In 1939, the town celebrated its 200th birthday.

Since 1917, Mr. Mercer has been in the auto selling business, which he started after a fling at dairy farming. He recalled the days when he used to go to Flint and Lansing in Michigan to pick up cars and drive them to New Hampshire.

That was shortly after the First World War, he said, when the railways were shy on freight equipment. Usually, he drove back through Windsor and London, Ont., crossing back to the United States at Niagara Falls.

On this, his first visit to eastern Ontario, he was impressed by the agricultural development along the shores of the St. Lawrence and of Lake Ontario from Cornwall west. Mr. Mercer was born in Ohio and lived on his parents' farm until he was 18, when he went to New Hampshire. "I do know a bit about farming, you see," he remarked.

Taking a critical view of the cream in his coffee this morning, he said that he thought a fellow could make some money if he brought in a good herd of Guernsey cattle and sold the milk from them.

It's so much richer looking than Holstein or Ayrshire milk, he said, that it would be popular.

Mr. Mercer will be leaving here early Saturday morning to return to Peterborough, NH. Monday is meeting day for the board of selectmen, and Mr. Mercer doesn't want to miss it, though he said he was reluctant at the thought of leaving Peterborough, Canada.

FILM COUNCIL.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Film Council scheduled to take place tonight has been postponed until next week. The meeting was postponed due to the opening of the new City Hall today.

Worker Trapped 20 Minutes As Excavation Caves In

Trapped for 20 minutes by a sewer cave-in at Park and McKellar Sts., Roy James, 64, of 425 Bethune St., was uninjured outside of minor bruises to his legs. James, a board of works employee for 40 years, was working in the excavation with Joe McMurray, Caddy St., who was untouched by the fall of wet sand.

McMurray said the sand fell without warning, shortly after he and James had checked the jacks holding the shoring boards at either side of the hole. "A big truck might have driven by and shaken it loose or it might just have been the pick Roy was working with," he said.

James' face was covered by the sand only long enough for him to get a mouthful of it. He cleared the loose sand away from his face and, aided by Fireman Budd Cruikshank, dug himself out.

Twenty minutes after the cave-in, at 3 pm, James was out of the hole and walking around. He said he felt no ill effects from the accident, but Dr. R. A. Kelly, city MOH, predicted he would have stiff legs by morning.

"If they're stiff, I'll stay home," said James. At first he refused an offer by Constables Andre Dalton and Art Beardsmore to drive him home, but later accepted. He felt that "fresh air'll do me as much good as anything else."

Two Men Join 25-Year Club

S. B. Cummings was elected 1951-52 president of the quarter century club of the Peterborough Utilities Commission at the club's fourth annual banquet held at the Empress Hotel Thursday.

James Cumming was elected vice-president and A. W. Spencley, secretary.

The banquet was attended by 70 members of the club and their wives and representatives of the commission.

Two new members were initiated into the club and presented with pins and cheques. They were Frederick Board and Leslie F. Dyer. Gordon F. Matthews, chairman of the Utilities Commission presented the two new members with cheques and George A. Macdonald, also member of Utilities Commission, presented the 25-year pins.

During the evening, tribute was paid to the late James Curran, employee of the Commission who died Nov. 1950.

Cars Collide At Curb

One hundred dollars damage resulted when two cars collided at the corner of Simcoe and Water Sts., at 5.20 Thursday afternoon.

Ivan Payne of Warsaw was driving south on Water St., and was about to swing right on to Simcoe St., when his car collided with a car pulling away from the east curb of Water St., which was driven by W. J. Hepburn, 279 Mark St.

Hepburn told police he looked in the rear view mirror before pulling out from the curb and saw nothing before the collision.

Damage to Payne's right front fender, and running board was estimated at $75. Hepburn's left front fender and grill were damaged to the extent of $25.

3 Cars Crash One Hits Pole

One car went out of control, crashing into a hydro pole, and another wound up backwards in a ditch when three cars were involved in an accident at Monaghan Rd. and Howden Ave., at 1 p.m. Thursday.

There was $275 damage to the two vehicles and nobody was injured.

Glen Hamilton, 562 Cameron St., told police he was travelling south on Monaghan Rd., and passing a car driven by R. W. Davies, 526 Monaghan Rd. Just as they were approaching Howden Ave., a car driven by Arthur J. Foucher, 575 Howden Ave., swung north on to Monaghan Rd., and Hamilton and Foucher collided.

Hamilton's car continued south on Monaghan Rd., until it struck a hydro pole at the north east corner of Monaghan Rd., and Arndon Ave. damaging the steering gear, right front fender, right door and grill to the extent of $175.

The car driven by Davies also continued south on Monaghan Rd. and went out of control after Hamilton and Foucher collided, winding up backwards in a ditch on the west side of Monaghan Rd.

Damage to Davies' and Foucher's cars was estimated at $50 each.

Constable Wilfred Perry who investigated the accident, reported it was raining heavily at the time.

Mayor From England Thanks Peterborough For Help During War

"We Have Not Forgotten": G. R. Chamberlain Party Arrives In City For Official Opening Of New City Hall

For awhile at the Empress Hotel last night in conversation with The Examiner, Mayor George R. Chamberlain of Peterborough, England, seemed more concerned about the figurative opening of his heart, than about the symbolic opening of the city hall. It was the memory of those parcels for Peterborough, during the war and after. "Now that I am actually here in this Peterborough of Canada, I want to thank the people for their remembrance of us during those trying years," Mayor Chamberlain said.

"And I am afraid I may not be able to find the words I'd like to use for my thoughts. So, the first thing I'd like to say through your paper is that we of Peterborough, England, have not forgotten that you were so thoughtful and helpful, and wanted to stand by us at that time.

"I am bringing a message of thanks from our people and on my own part I would like to say that we have not forgotten it. A great number of your citizens must have contributed to your fund. There is no way of thanking them individually, but your paper can tell them how much we appreciated their kindness and also how much we appreciate this new and splendid evidence of your friendship for us in this invitation."

Mayor Chamberlain said he was trying not to forget that he was here as the elected mayor.

Feeling Of Unity

"This invitation was new evidence of your interest in us and your feeling of unity with us, and again I am afraid I can't do justice to my thoughts. We had a wonderful reception in Montreal. Mr. O'Shea of the Bank of Montreal came aboard and met us.

"He had an automobile at the dock, and it was placed at our disposal during our stay. We saw a great deal of Montreal. I must say that your bankers are wonderful people, Mr. O'Shea, Mr. Bolton, and others, and especially Mr. B. C. Gardiner, the president. I understand you asked them to meet us, and I wish to tell you that they were perfect hosts.

"Dinner Wednesday night, and finally lunch Thursday in the bank's dining quarters with the president!

"Maybe you can understand something of our feelings in coming to this young Peterborough. And we have just met some Peterborough, New Hampshire, friends, and they have asked us to go down there before we leave for home."

War Veteran

Mayor Chamberlain said that as a veteran of the first World War (he was with the 60th London Division) he could never forget an occasion in Nov. 1916 "when the Canadians relieved us in front of Vimy."

"Naturally you don't forget an experience of that kind, the memory of them swinging along going in, as we were coming out. The Canadians took Vimy at Easter in 1917.

"I think it is all right to mention that I am bringing a gift from our city. It is a casket containing a scroll. I think you call it an illuminated address. It is signed by all the members of our council speaking for our people, and we shall be happy in knowing that it is going to be here in your new city hall to remind you of our appreciation of all you have been to us."

Mayor Chamberlain said the invitation to open the city hall had made a deep impression at home, "and I can only say I haven't words enough to express my feelings."

Councillor Edward V. Martin said: "When it was finally decided that we were coming here, some of my friends told me very emphatically that they envied me the trip. They said the Canadians were most hospital people and that we would be given a very fine reception.

Understatement

"I may say that their predictions have been sheer understatement. That was a wonderful reception in Montreal. Really, the Bank of Montreal people we met from Mr. Gardiner down, were most hospitable, and Mr. Bolton of the Bank came on with us to Peterborough."

Councillor Martin said that during his term of mayor about 1949 Mrs. Groombridge from this city called at the city hall in Peterborough, England.

"She mentioned that gift of a Peterborough citizen for a city hall building, and that the council was preparing to proceed with its erection. I showed her around our building, and Mrs. Groombridge was interested in who our architect was. I remember that she said: "I hope you'll come to our opening." I told her that if it was at all possible I'd be most happy to come.

"That was the first time I heard of it, and when we learned your city hall was to be completed in October. Your invitation came to

CGE Staff Set New Mark With $1,232,950 In Bonds

Employees of the Canadian General Electric Co., Peterborough works, set a new record in the sixth Canada savings bonds campaign by subscribing more than one million and a quarter dollars. The final total, as announced today by Tom Glover in charge of the canvass in the plant, is $1,232,950, which is $153,250 more than one subscribed in the fifth loan of one year ago.

Sixty per cent of the employees purchased bonds and in making these purchases they simply went to stations set up in the plant and bought their bonds. There was no canvassing of employees, W. A. Reid, who is in charge of the Peterborough, Northumberland, Durham division, said. Some 2,772 employees subscribed for an average of $445 per application and $280 per plant employee.

One year ago there were 2,719 subscribing $1,079,700 for a total of $397per application.

Ideal physical features is strength of udder attachment, fore and rear, with length, width and moderate depth. With the branding vein system these are indications of heavy milk production and long period of usefulness.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

First Farm Forum Broadcast of the New Season Monday, Oct. 29, at 8.30 pm—F. C. Paterson Invites Samples for Testing—H. H. Hannam Dinner Friday, Nov. 2, at 6.45 pm—First Sale of Maple Breeders' Artificially Begotten Cattle.

The rural year is taking a new and familiar turn with the beginning Monday, Oct. 29 of the national Farm Forum broadcasts, Ottawa Winter Fair Oct. 31 to Nov. 6; and the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto Nov. 13 to 21.

Most of the 1951 field work is done, and the season of sales is indicated in posters and advertisements, all the way in value from the individual farm dispersal of stock and implements to the special cattle sales in larger centres all across the nation.

The first Forum series is focused on co-operatives in three successive weekly subjects, presented as questions: Are they—efficient, democratic and finally are they socialistic, with review night Monday, Nov. 19.

The Forums are broadly established as a valuable medium of educational and social development in the rural community extending from Newfoundland to British Columbia. That is the national stage, but coming down to the district of which Peterborough is the centre, there are sill many localities which have not yet formed Forums.

It is true that the increase in their number has been encouraging, but as the county Federation of Agriculture and their field man, Harold Lewis, see it, blanks remain in the Forum map which should be filled.

Co-operatives have been discussed so often that their principles, ideals and methods of operation should be generally known by this time. However, the fact that Forum devotes the first three sessions of the season of 1951-52 to phases of practical co-operation indicates a realization that their position should be reviewed.

Forum suggestions of procedure for the guidance of groups emphasizes the importance of the discussion period. That is when the chairman takes charge, and if there is one detail of method to be remembered it is this: "He keeps the discussion on the question".

If there are more than nine persons present, the chairman arranges them in groups of five to nine persons. Each small group appoints a member to lead the discussion and another to take notes. It is essential that all persons should be vocal, and that the presenting of ideas or the debating of them should not be monopolized by one or two persons.

The objective of Peterborough Federation for this winter is 25 branches or Forum clubs. It could be acomplished if everybody made a special effort to stimulate interest, particularly in helping small communities to get started.

JUDGING TEAMS HERE

Livestock judging teams from Hastings, Prince Edward and Lennox-Addington counties were in Peterborough Thursday for coaching classes in beef cattle and hogs. They judged Shorthorns at the farms of M. H. Pimmett & Sons, and Fred Carpenter in the morning, and hog carcasses at Canada Packers in the afternoon.

ADVISES SOIL SAMPLES

"This is the right time to get soil samples," F. C. Paterson said yesterday. "If farmers will bring in samples we'll send them to Guelph for test. There are about two weeks left to do this little chore. The results will be valuable information as to the kind of fertilizer that should be used for next spring's crops."

JUNIOR DIRECTORS

Directors of Peterborough Junior Farmers are meeting Monday night for the election of officers and completion of their plans for the season.

The newly-appointed directors are: Mary Wood, Velma Garbutt, Doris Jopling, Jean Bolton, Dorothy Chambers, Archie Davidson, Allan Stewart, Orland Brown, Francis Walsh and Glen Stark.

And the other directors are: Elaine Savigny, Blanche Quinn, Marjorie Edmison, Dorothy Kidd, Mamie Bell, Keith McIntyre, Jack Matchett, Reg Ferguson, John Edmison, John Stewart, Don Chambers.

WOOLLY WORDING

Co-Operative Wool Growers Ltd. discusses in a recent bulletin the attitude of some Canadian sheep men to that organization. From the beginning there was no suggestion that an individual or group would be guaranteed the top price of the season.

"Rather, the hope was expressed that by the development of a national grading system and by intelligent and orderly selling, the men who kept sheep would get a higher yearly return than they could expect under the old system."

The wool co-op estimates that it is handling 65 to 70 per cent or more of the annual clip reaching the open market.

Readers will have to do more than peruse these two long sentences, but they will probably arrive at the point that is stressed—the arranging of seasonal pools for the protection of regular and prompt customers.

There are 112 words in the second sentence, the writer of which apparently ran out of periods.

"Perhaps most of the faulty thinking on the part of growers lies in the fact that they do not bear in mind the point that their co-operative does not buy wool. Quite a number seem not to have made a sufficient study of co-operative marketing to grasp the primary principle that the best the managament can do is to get for them the average of the maximum obtainable by selling for them their part of what is disposed of in a given period. Under ordinary conditions this average can be figured on the total volume of special types handled in a season but when price-changes are frequent and wide, as has been the case in 1950 and 1951, it has been considered only fair and equitable to arrange seasonal pools of such special types in order to protect members who have developed the habit of delivering the clip promptly after the sheep are shorn, against the "in-and-out" speculators or gamblers who use the facilities of the co-operative only when they have become alarmed at their failure to accept the top price when it was available to them through other outlets."

AUCTION OF MAPLE "GET"

The auction sale at Oakville this week of 57 artificially bred Holsteins consigned by members of the Maple Cattle Breeders' Association is a significant development in this new branch of the dairy cattle industry. It applied the test of the sales ring.

Top price was $1,100 paid by J. E. Houck of Brampton to Pickering College, Newmarket, for the four year old P.C.N. Polly Texal. Second highest was $935 by George Jackson of Downsview for a three year old consigned by R. J. Darlington, Maple president.

Fifteen milking females averaged $592, and 23 bred heifers brought $505. Eight heifer calves average $358.

✦ ✦ ✦

THE HANNAM DINNER

Members of the Federation are reminded of the dinner at the Empress Hotel Friday, Nov. 2, at which Dr. H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, will be the guest speaker.

This is a joint meeting with the Chamber of Commerce who are stressing the event in their bulletin issued this week. Mr. J. M. Fraser's announcement remarks: "The Fedreation sold 40 tickets before they were printed, so when your committee representative calls you, please arrange to pick up your ticket immediately. They may be hard to get later... Ladies are especially invited. Tickets are $1.50."

Peterborough Plowmen decided this week to forgo their annual dinner, usually held about midwinter. That is an intimation that rural social affairs in the coming season may be few. In that respect it looks like a lean winter, with the probable exception of the Holstein Breeders' banquet.

President W. W. Dawson said today that tickets will be available at the Forum meetings Monday night.

"We are allotted 200 tickets," he said, "and I feel certain they will all be taken. So our members should get their tickets at once. We are lucky having Dr. Hannam as our guest. Federation secretaries at Brockville in September passed a motion proposing to him that he should not attend these county functions because his time is greatly taken up by the work of the Canadian Federation and IFAP.

However, he accepted out invitation and we are delighted to have him. The dinner is at 6:45 pm".

HERD IMPROVEMENT MEETING

If a farmer has a property investment of $20,000 or even less, he can take a loss of $1,000 a year for a while and still be able to carry on, said Dr. H. L. Patterson, director of the economics branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, here Wednesday night. But it eventually hits him.

Accompanied by Cliff Morrow, fieldman for the livestock branch, Dr. Patterson was discussing the report published recently of the operations of the Peterborough Dairy Herd Improvement Association for the year ending Nov. 30, 1950.

Of Peterborough's 26 members, only thirteen were present, but the meeting reflected not only interest but also hearty approval of this beginning of the herd improvement plan.

Figures and facts of the year were reviewed, and some general observations were quoted. One of them was that the larger herds showed relatively more profits. The dividing line mentioned was 18 cows. It was also brought out that good roughage is the cheapest food that can be grown.

Dairymen who did not feed their cattle extravagantly with grain or other concentrates averaged the most money. However, certain conditions should be considered, such as the man with good pasturage, good roughage and also good stock, but used moderate or sparing ration of grain or concentrates. He might not get the highest yield of milk, but his costs were down, and he was in the group making money.

Herd gains were outstanding in crops that received the most fertilizer. Test feeding of beef cattle on the Ontario department's supervised lots on the Weldon farm near Cambray in Victoria county was cited. They were in three sections, a check lot, another was a field that had been fertilized, and the third was broken up and reseeded. The dividing fence wires were not set up until June.

This was the actual result before that: "They couldn't get any steers to go on the check lot. They all went for the fertilized field."

These beef animals were attracted by the palatability of the fertilized grass.

Another expression by Dr. Patterson was that the mechanics of milking may be changed but first requirement is "that we must change our thinking". He cited as one example, the installation of a milking parlor, but it was being operated by two men who were getting in each other's way, because the new milking method required only one man.

They had changed the technique, but the thinking had not been changed. Dr. Patterson also gave instances of the importance of barn arrangement in efficient operation.

Discussion branched out into many topics. One was regularity of milking. Cows like to come home at the same time. On a good R.O.P. dairy farm there was a judging competition in the afternoon. At 5 pm the owner and herdsman started milking as usual without regard to whether any of the competing fellows had finished their judging.

Then there was the story of a crop of oats and Soudan grass and when the cattle were turned into the field, the farmer was plagued with telephone calls informing him that his cattle had got into the oats. It was a cheap source of feed. Oats planted in the later part of August were ready for cattle after the first frost, and it had been found that grains were better after the crop was nipped.

First year's report was delayed, Dr. Patterson said, by the fact that instead of ten counties taking up the herd improvement program, the total was 50, swamping those who were in charge of it.

FILLED CHEESE CONTRACT

The announcement that Ontario Cheese Producers have fulfilled their contract for the supply and sale of 20 million pounds of cheese to the United Kingdom Canadian cheese overseas. Preaging news to farmers.

Canadian Federation of Agriculture stresses the accomplishment as "the first time that a producers' marketing board, acting directly on behalf of the producers, had negotiated and carried out a contract for the sale of Canadian cheese overseas. Previously such contracts had been negotiated by the Canadian Government.

Ontario Cheese Marketing Board, constituted only this year, entered into the contract this summer, and have now announced that it has been met in full."

Frank Paterson Advises Seeding With Red Clover

Frank C. Patterson, agricultural representative, recommends some "moderate extravagance" in sowing red clover next year.

His suggestion is that the clover be seeded down with the spring grain as much as possible, and even that it be sown early on the fall wheat.

"I think they should decide to make use of this abundant crop of red clover seed with the object of plowing in a large part of it. It is a big crop, the price is moderate, and it is a good time to consider this opportunity of building up organic matter in the soil for more effectual use of fertilizers, and to get increased yields from successive crops."

Mr. Patterson said he could not make any prediction about the clover seed market and the price trend.

"I understand there are United States buyers in the province, and it is likely that there will be considerable export business. However, I cannot speak about that aspect of it. Our farmers who have harvested red clover should look into the market situation as best they can, and make up their minds about what they are going to do.

They should see that they keep ample supplies for reseeding their own fields. Those who have none, should get an ample supply of seed as early as possible."

The volume of seed appeared to advise some "extravagance" in getting much land as possible in shape for spring grain and clover next season. And, eventually to be plowed down and increase the humus content of the soil, it would pay off later in improved soil texture, thereby increasing the benefits of fertilizing policy.

Mr. Patterson said he hoped Peterborough farmers would give his suggestion "serious thought".

Japanese Seek US Funds To Help Build Up Trade

By THOMAS A. BOYNTON

NEW YORK (AP)—The Japanese leader in world trade says his countrymen "are filled with hope for tomorrow."

Tetsuzo Maeda, managing director of Daiichi Bussan Kaisha, Ltd., one of Tokyo's biggest import export-houses, outlined here a broad plan for Japan's possible future position in the society of nations.

Among other things, he said, Japan wants to sell whale oil to Germany, seafood and wire to Hong Kong, textiles and canned fish to the United States, metal products to Britain and all sorts of manufactured goods to the world.

To do it, Japan has an abundance of manpower waiting to work, Maeda said in an interview. But she needs four things first—open, two-way commerce, capital investments, raw materials and technical training.

Given those four, Japan more big objective, Maeda said. That is to teach technicians in other heavily populated Far Eastern countries the lessons she learns herself. Then new industries of the East could help supply the West.

Team of Nations

A goal would be to have Japan become part of a team of Asiatic nations making things other democratic countries want to buy, Maeda said. Also on that team would be the Philippines, Indonesia, Indo-China, Burma, Malaya, India, Pakistan and "maybe later, China."

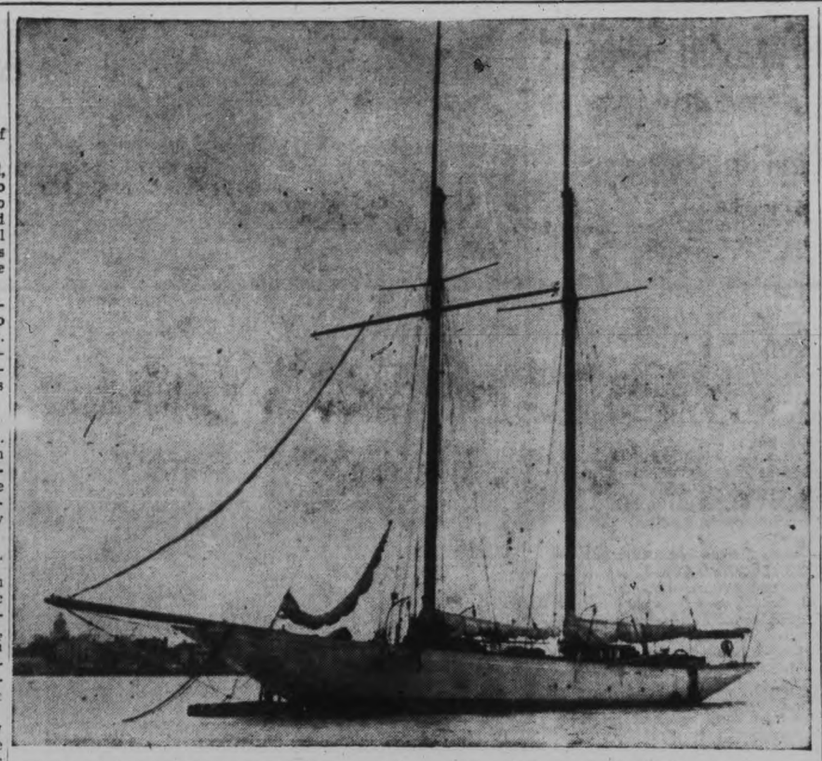
Maeda said his firm—largely staffed by former officers of the once-great Mitsui combine — is making a big contribution toward the speeding of Japanese recovery. Daiichi is making ready to do more now, he said.

"Millions of dollars in new investments may result from a study now being made by Bache," he said. Bache & Company, a New York financial concern, owns one-fourth interest in Daiichi. The interests of Daiichi cover manufacturing, investment and shipping as well as world trade, Maeda said.

Harold Bache and Robert Hall, Bache executives, are visiting Tokyo to survey possibilities for development of new industries. On their return to New York, they hope to attract Americans to invest "many millions of dollars in building new Japanese plants," the Daiichi executive reported.

Making Contacts.

Meantime, Maeda is on a world tour to make contacts and find out what type of goods merchants of the non-Communist countries of the west and east would like to buy from Japan—particularly those products now short in supply."



He said he's going to Bonn to try to sell west Germany 27,000 tons of whale oil which Japanese whalers hope to get from two 1951 expeditions.

Maeda said he'll visit London to try to interest buyers in metal and machinery, other European countries for assorted products, Pakistan to sell machinery and cotton sheeting, Hong Kong to sell seafood, mushrooms, textiles, cement and wire.

From each of the countries on tour, Maeda said he is seeking two-way trade.

"We want to be a good salesman of fine products at fair prices," he said. "We also want to be a respected customer.

Maeda said Japan needs large quantities of wheat, barley, cotton, coal, iron ore and other raw materials from America and other world markets. "We have to export to create exchange balances and the best chance of exports is in finished goods. That is why we need early and big capital investments for industry."

OFF TO TREASURE TROVE—The good ship Lamorna with a band of young adventurers set sail this week from Gosport, Hampshire, England, in search of a legendary treasure said buried by Capt. William Kidd on a small island about 200 miles south of Siam. Capt. Kidd, 17th century pirate, was hanged in 1701, and the treasure is said worth £1,200,000 in present-day currency. Three Canadians—Geoffrey Taylor, Outremont, Que., John Fry, Westmont, Que., and Ian Rogers of Ottawa—are among the crew of 12 who seek the hoard.

Faulty Hearing Retards Study

TORONTO — (CP) —For the first time, hearing impairment—one of the most insidious causes of pupil failure—is being tackled systematically in Toronto elementary schools.

A team of Toronto Public Health Department workers, using modern scientific equipment, has embarked on a program by which, by the end of this school year, every elementary school pupil in the city will have been tested for hearing deficiencies.

The hearing survey, sponsored by the Federal Health Department, is now half over. It has brought to light a significant fact: of the pupils tested, four to five per cent have some sort of hearing disability.

Children who show a hearing loss are given special attention which often brings immediate results in much-improved grades If the defect can be remedied, the child is referred to his family doctor.

The hearing survey replaces previous hit-or-miss methods of discovering hearing disabilities. Previous testing was done with a ticking watch. The Health Department workers are using an Audiometer which registers losses of hearing exactly and indicates what frequencies of sound are not heard.

Federal By-Election

OTTAWA, Oct. 2 5(CP)—The federal by-election in Calgary West will be held Dec. 10, the prime minister's office announced today. The seat was left vacant by the resignation due to ill health July 5 last of A. L. Smith, Progressive Conservative member. It is the only vacancy remaining in the 262-seat House of Commons.

Humane Assoc. Makes Nine Awards

HAMILTON, Oct. 26 (CP). — Acts of heroism by nine Canadians were recognized by the Royal Canadian Humane Association in awards made today. All were awarded the association's parchment certificates.

Allan Walker Kitteringham, Vancouver, was honored for the rescue of Carol, Edna and Gordon Dalziel from their burning home on Jan. 20.

The following awards were made for bravery in aquatic accidents:

Gordon Dyke, 18, Pool's Island, Bonavista, Nfld., for the rescue of Frederick James from drowning at Pool's Island, Sept. 3, 1950.

Malcolm Kempton, Maitland Bridge, NS, for the rescue of Eugene Lewis, from drowning in Minard's Lake, July 23, 1951.

Michel Audet, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que., for the rescue of Yvette Savoie, from drowning at Disraeli, Que., July 31, 1950.

George Shook, Jr., Welland, for the rescue of Donna Coulter from drowning in the Welland Canal, June 1, 1951.

Norman Yerkins, 11, of 24 Third Avenue, Dauphin, Man., for the attempted rescue of Geraldine Geddes from drowning in the Vermillion river, Dauphin, June 30, 1951.

William Irwin Munro, Winnipeg, for the rescue of a woman from drowning in the Red river at Winnipeg, June 2, 1951.

Theodore Lennox, 503 McConnell Road, Chilliwack, BC, for the rescue of Ernest Semko from drowning in Cultus Lake, BC, June 17, 1951.

F. G. Copeland of the light station at Carmanah Point, BC, for the rescue of the crew of the seine boat, Delmar, two miles west of Carmanah Point, Nov. 2, 1950.

UN Only Hope For Peace G. K. Fraser Tells Kiwanians

The United Nations organization is our only hope for world peace Gordon K. Fraser, MP, told the Peterborough Kiwanis club at its luncheon meeting Monday.

Mr. Fraser presented highlights of the operation of the UN as he saw them in New York last year as a parliamentary advisor to the Canadian delegation to the UN.

"I believe this organization to be our only hope for peace because when people are talking, they're not fighting," Mr. Fraser said.

The speaker summed up the two main duties of the UN—to settle disputes between countries and look after the need of underprivileged countries.

"As for the present critical situation," he continued, "I say what I said five years ago— trust in God, trust in the UN and keep our powder dry."

He stressed that Canadians should know more about the UN. Canadians paid 3.2 per cent of the total cost of the UN during 1950. They should know what their money is being used for and what it is accomplishing.

Mr. Fraser was introduced by Charles Hurst, president of the Peterborough United Nations association and thanked by Ralph Standish.

New Officers Put On Board

SHAWVILLE, Que., Oct. 26 — (CP)—A quiet but determined meeting of 500 district residents Thursday night installed new officers on the board of the community hospital here.

The action climaxes several months of strained relations in this Western Quebec community.

Only one of the former board members, S. Wyman Mackenzie, was re-elected. Two of the six new members are doctors.

Dissatisfaction with the administration of the former directors was said to have started last December when hospital superintendent Isabel Haskin was summarily dismissed. Mrs. Irene Benny, a graduate of Belleville hospital and with previous supervisory experience, took on the job but was dismissed in June with no reason given for the action.

This precipitated a brief strike by members of the nursing staff with at least moral support from the hospital's doctors.

Numerous stormy meetings followed with a committee of doctors and other citizens spearheading a drive to overhaul the hospital.

Professor Gives Corrected Story On Clay Deposit

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. Ernst A. Hauser of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology takes exception to comments ascribed to him in connection with a northern British Columbia clay deposit for which curative properties are claimed.

Dr. Hauser, professor of colloid chemistry at MIT and visiting professor of colloid chemistry at the Worcester Polytechnic Institute, says that statements made by him and by Dr. A. H. York of Chilliwack, BC, in August, 1950, were used in a Canadian Press story of Aug. 4, 1951, as if they had been made currently. Further, Dr. Hauser says that some of the statements ascribed to him are wrong.

In an article last December in the publication, Canadian Chemistry and Process Industries, Dr. Hauser supported the curative properties of the clay as reported by Dr. York and Dr. K. D. Panton of Vancouver and offered a scientific explanation for them. He made a specific point of stating, however, that his findings at that time were based on research of comparatively short duration.

February Report

In February he reported in same publication that the natural deposit is not of uniform composition and that some of the products which then were already on the market and were using this clay as a base were not comparable in their composition to the product he was referring to in his December article. At the same time, he pointed out that the product he was using and was referring to had gone through a purification process developed by him which, Dr. Hauser says, has not so far been put to use by the present owners of the deposit.

In the same Aug. 4 story, The Canadian Press gave the impression that statements attributed to Dr. York were made at the time. Further, the CP story erroneously reported that Dr. York had used the clay successfully to treat mastitis in cattle in the Fraser Valley.

Dr. York advises that the report he gave more than a year ago concerned only his successful work in treating scour in pigs.

Dr. Hauser found it inexplicable that the CP story did not mention Dr. Panton's "contributions in the treatment of arthritis, ulcers and other ailments with the use of this clay in its refined condition—and sometimes in combination with other chemicals which make the clay even more reactive." (Omission was due to necessary condensation of the dispatch.)

Awarded Damages

TORONTO, Oct. 26 — (CP) — Alex McDonald Thursday was awarded $552 damages, plus costs, in a lawsuit against the Western Iron and Metal Company and Alfred Giroux, one of its drivers. The suit arose from a traffic accident. McDonald said the mishap interrupted a trip to Hamilton to obtain race track clocker's figures which he planned to use in betting. He said he made $125 a week from wagering on the races, and claimed damages for loss of earnings.

Bury Crash Victims

NANAIMO, BC, Oct. 26 (CP)—Nine unidentified victims of the Oct. 17 plane crash on nearby Mount Benson were buried Thursday in a mass grave scooped out by a steamshovel. All 23 persons aboard the Queen Charlotte Airlines Canso aircraft perished in the crash. Bodies of 14 were identified.

Abadan Closure Turns Spotlight On Haifa

By PETER JOLIFFE

TEL AVIV, Israel — (CP) — Closure of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's refinery at Abadan has British oil men here thinking of Haifa as an alternative.

Seventeen Britons and about 650 Israelis are keeping the Middle East's second largest oil plant operating here at less than quarter production.

Owned by British Consolidated Refineries, the Haifa plant could prodluce at short notice 4,000,000 tons of oil—one-sixth of capacity of the now-idle Anglo-Iranian operation.

The Haifa plant employed about 2,000 men when working at full production in 1947. Today only one refining unit of the three is in production.

But if, and when, the whole unit was set to work Haifa's total refining capacity would be brought to 9,000,000 tons a year.

Chief snag to all-out production is that the 621-mile, 12-inch pipeline from the Kirkouk oilfields in Iraq has been hermetically sealed since mid-May, 1948, because of Arab disputes with Israel.

So far as Haifa is concerned, the Suez Canal is similarly sealed, cutting off the refinery from alternative crude oil sources at Kuwait.

The sudden gap caused by the loss of 24,000,000 tons of refined oil from Abadan makes the chances of an early revival at Haifa appear brighter.

London Negotiations

Two Israeli officers now are negotiating in London in an attempt to find a solution to Haifa's crude oil problem. They are David Hurovitz, director general of the Israeli treasury, and his fuel advisor, Israel Kosloy.

Prospects of a revival have brought new life to the refineries where a second refining unit now is being overhauled.

Refinery officials have refused to confirm or deny reports in the local press that the two hitherto idle refining units are being prepared to process crude oil purchased by Britain from Romania. But increased activity at the plant points to such a development being possible.

Hint In Agreement

Indication that Haifa may be partly fed by Romanian crude oil was contained in an agreement between the Israel government and Consolidated Refineries Limited which was initialled in Jerusalem last May.

Reports here said the agreement provided for refining from crude oil to be imported directly by the Israel government at its own expense and from whatever source it chose.

The present negotiations in London are believed to revolve around the same subjects although the urgency caused by the close down at Abadan probably strengthens the position of the Israeli negotiators and may widen the scope of the agreement, according to usually informed suorces here.

On the outcome of these talks and of finding a way to bring crude oil to Haifa depends the future of the giant plant constructed 12 years ago.

MP's Experiment With New Hours

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 (CP).—The Commons will carry experimentation with sitting hours a couple of steps further during the next two weeks.

A special committee decided on Thursday to try thse new hours:

Week beginning Monday, Oct. 29—Monday, Wednesday, Friday, 2:30 to 6:30 pm; Tuesday and Thursday, 2:30 to 11 pm, with a dinner recess between 6:30 and 8 pm.

Week beginning Monday, Nov. 5—Monday, Tuesday and Thursday, 2:30 to 10:30 pm; Friday, 2:30 to 7 pm.

This week, the chamber is sitting from 2 to 10 pm, with a recess from 6 to 8. Last week, it sat from 1:30 to 7 pm with no break. Its members are seeking to get away from late evening hours.

In London, the British Commons sits continuously from 3 to 10 pm with no mealtime adjournment Monday to Thursday. Friday, proceedings start at 11 am in hope of an early weekend adjournment.

In Washington, Congress meets from noon until adjournment, which usually comes well before 6 pm.

Suez Canal Focal Point Of Strife

By RICHARD KLEINER

Trouble and Suez are two words that have been linked since the time of the Pharaohs.

Down through the centuries, the idea of a connection across the Isthmus of Suez between the Mediterranean and Red seas has captured the imagination of men. Since it came into being, in 1869, the Suez Canal has been a focal point of international strife.

There was a grand opening on Nov. 17, 1869, with many of Europe's crowned heads attending.

That night there was a festive ball at Port Said, and Emperor Franz-Josef of Austria-Hungary sat smoking "rose-scented tobacco from a hookah studded with diamonds." The strains of a Viennese waltz soared through the starry night across the desert to where the canal lay, narrow and muddy, but ready for business.

11,751 Ships In 1950

In its first year, only 10 ships paid to pass through. In 1950, a record year, 11,751 vessels sliced across the desert wastes in the historic canal. Most of these—64 per cent—were oil tankers, riding high in the water on the southward trip but full of oil and deep in the water going north.

It took Ferdinand de Lesseps, the man who built the canal, 10 years and cost $150,000,000. It wasn't a difficult engineering feat, because the canal is really a channel dredged through sand. It is virtually straight, with only five gentle curves in its 101 miles.

The canal has always been a private enterprise. It is run by a company that is predominately French.

Never Owned By Britain

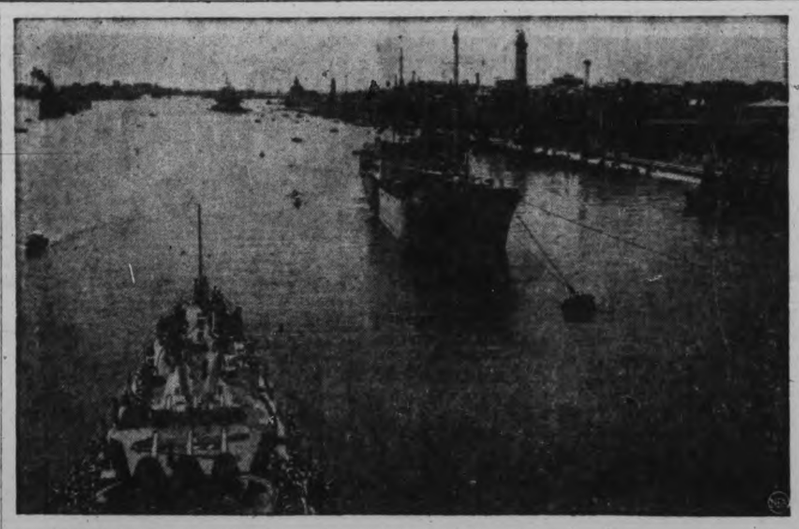
It has never been owned by Great Britain although Britain today owns 44 per cent of the stock. That came about when the Khedive of Egypt in 1875 had to sell his holdings to meet his personal debts. England's Disraeli was far-sighted enough to buy them for his country.

Britain's active participation in the affairs of the canal dates from 1882, when the British troops came to to suppress the Arabi Pasha revolt. Egypt was still nominally Turkish territory then, and remained so until 1914, even though British troops were continually in occupation.

From 1888 on, the canal has been technically open to ships of all nations in war and peace. This has actually been violated several times.

During both wars, it was closed to Germany and her allies—not by ruling, but by the equally formidable device of a tight blockade. Since the Palestine war, Egypt has defied the UN by refusing permission for Israel-bound ships to pass through.

During World War I, the canal was seriously threatened. A German-inspired and German-directed attack by Turks ploughed across the Sinai Peninsula, with guns and pontoons lashed between camels. On Feb. 2, 1915, the attackers reached the canal's edge. In a two-day battle, they were turned back. ⇒



After Mussolini invaded Ethiopia, in 1934, the Egyptians were terrified that they were next on his conquest calendar. Their fear led to the Anglo-Egyptian Treaty of 1936 — the one Nahas Pasha and Egypt just abrogated—which allowed England to station troops and planes there as "collaborators" with Egypt in the defense of the canal.

Egypt, incidentally, will automatically come into possession of the canal in 1968 without any trouble. The original agreement, between de Lesseps and Egypt, was for 99 years and then, upon payment of "due compensation," the canal becomes Egyptian property.

Hitler cast covetous eyes on the canal, and it was the prime object of Rommel's dash across the desert. He reached El Alamein, slightly more than 200 miles from Suez, before he was halted.

The Suez Canal Zone, today, is a strange place. It is only a few hundred yards wide, but side by side along its 101 miles run the canal itself, a railroad, a well-surfaced highway, electric cables and a fresh-water canal.

It is this strip of land that has become the vital link of Britain's lifeline. And once more, the Suez Canal is a scene of international tension.

COMMERCE AND STRIFE — At Port Said, entrance to the Suez Canal, the crowned heads of Europe celebrated the opening of the man-made waterway 89 years ago. Today warships mingle with freighters in the troubled waters, and armed troops march along the shores.

AMHERST, NS (CP)—Annual meeting of the Canadian Guernsey Cattle Breeders Association will be held during the Maritime Winter Fair opening here Nov. 1. The first national meeting ever held during this show, the event brings Guernsey breeders from all parts of Canada.

Rebuild St. Brides' In Heart Of London

LONDON —(CP)—Plans have been drawn for the rebuilding of St. Bride's church in Fleet Street, long considered one of the finest designed by Sir Christopher Wren.

The church was burned out in a German fire-raid Dec. 2, 1940. Fleet Street veterans vividly recall how St. Bride's famous spire became a fiery torch and how newspapermen gathered for an impromptu sing-song on a rescued harmonium after the all-clear.

First records of St. Bride's date back more than 800 years. The plans of the present building, drawn by Wren in 1680, will be followed in the restoration. War damage grants will cover part of the cost.

Work is expected to start in 1953.

The church will be so reconstructed as to harmonize with plans for remodelling Ludgate Circus, the well-known square into which Fleet Street runs.

Belmont Girl Best Speaker

HAVELOCK, Oct. 26—(ENS)—Donna Steenburgh, grade eight pupil from Victoria school, Belmont township, won first prize in the oratorical contest open to pupils in grades seven and eight in Havelock and district held in the town hall Tuesday night. Donna's topic was "A Story of Time" and she was the unanimous choice of the judges. Two pupils were tied for second place. They were David Newman, grade eight, Havelock school, whose topic was "Logging on the Ottawa River" and Ronald Munroe, grade eight, of South Lake school with the topic "Bambi." As there could be no ties, the judges reviewed their decisions and came to the conclusion that David Newman had a slight edge on the voice tone and to him they awarded second prize with a total of 78.67 points. Ronald Munroe thus received the third prize with 78.33 points.

There were 10 contestants, six from Havelock, two from Victoria and two from South Lake. The other contestants and their topics were: Havelock school: Arnold Adams, The Buzz Bomb from Fairyland; Neil Shotton, The War of 1812 at Queenston Heights; Fred Michaelson, The Adventure of Printing; Reggie Scott, The Woodchuck; Gail Sanderson, Canada's Wheat. Victoria school: Dorothy Ellis, The Wonder of a Piece of Silk. South Lake, Russell Pollock, Water and its Uses.

The contest was jointly sponsored by the Havelock Women's Institute, the Belmont Women's Institute and the Havelock Home and School Association. The prizes were: first, $5.; second, $3; third, $2. All the other contestants were given an award of $1.50. The prizes were presented by Mrs. H. Pollock, Mrs. H. Anderson, and Mrs. E. Barker. Mrs. Bert Jewell on behalf of the organizations that sponsored the event, thanked the judges, teachers, contestants and Miss Barbara Pollock who entertained with piano accordion selections while the judges were arriving at their decisions. The judges were R. Boyce, Toronto; Mrs. W. Corneil and Mrs. C. McMillan of Havelock. Principal H. Hunter of Havelock school was chairman.

Presents For Royal Children Piling Up In Canadian Tour

By KAY REX

TORONTO, Oct. 26—(CP)—It should be just like Christmas around Clarence House when Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip get home late in November. They've got all kinds of things for little Prince Charlie and his one-year-old sister.

An Indian suit, a cowboy suit, baseball bat, even some maple sugar are among the surprises in store for the young Prince who is not quite three.

There are bunny blankets and moccasins for Princess Anne. And miniature farm implements. The toys—in a steel box—actually are for both youngsters. They are from the children of Swift Current, Sask., and were presented to Princess Elizabeth when she visited there Oct. 17.

Ottawa's Mayor Charlotte Whitton gave Their Royal Highnesses maple sugar to take back to their children. It was encased in a box of bird's eye maple.

Princess Anne's bunny blankets also came from Ottawa. They are spun from Canadian wool and bear Royal infancy's coronet.

Prize Package

And just wait until Prince Charles sees that Indian suit! It was given to his mother when she visited Calgary. The buckskin coat was made by the Blackfoot tribe and the chaps by the Bloods. The Peigans fashioned the gauntlets and the Sarcees the buckskin moccasins. There even is a porcupine headdress made by the Stony Indians.

The cowboy outfit also came from Calgary. It includes a big hat, silk tie and a gun-belt complete with pistol.

A baseball bat also will be among Prince Charles' presents, the gift of the children of Chatam. Both he and Princess Anne also will receive moccasins of caribou hide, made in Saskatchewan.

The Princess and her husband will also have souvenirs of their own. Jewellery and paintings, books and a telephone, are among the gifts they have received so far.

The telephone came from Brantford, home town of the inventor of that instrument, Alexander Graham Bell. The books include a leather-bound copy of the history of Hull, Que., presented by that city.

Other Gifts

Toronto's gift was six sketches of Ontario at different seasons of the year. There also was a diamond-studded brooch for the Princess and matching cuff-links for her husband.

Furnishings for Clarence House include a sterling silver punch bowl from Vancouver. When the Princess visits Rimouski, Que., Nov. 5, she will receive a pottery vase.

There are the practical gifts, Canadian dollars to be turned over to British charity. Some of these have come from centres helped by Britain during crises. From Manitoba, where flood-torn Winnipeg received British help in the spring of 1950, came a cheque for $5,000.

Regina gave a voucher for 500 bushels of No. 1 hard wheat or its cash equivalent. Applegrowers around St. Thomas have forwarded a hamper of McIntosh Reds and Cortlands to Clarence House. Residents of Salmon Arm, BC, contributed a cheese wrapped in gold foil and tied with purple ribbon.

Finally, there have been gifts given with a twinkle in the eye—such as the green and white polka-dot bow-tie Prince Philip received at Windsor from Governor Mennen Williams of Michigan, who likes to wear bow-ties himself.

CHIN CHIN dictates a letter to his mistress and secretary, Mrs. A. T. Stikeman, general chairman of the S.P.C.A.'s Animal Shelter Fund, informing Fala, pet of the late Franklin Delano Roosevelt, of the need of a larger shelter in Montreal. The two-week campaign, devoted to raising $100,000 for a larger, more adequately equipped building in Montreal, opens with a Tag Day this Saturday.

ROYAL TRAIN STAMP—Of interest, and eventual value to stamp collectors, will be this special cancellation mark applied to all letters mailed aboard the Royal train on its journey across Canada.

Try New Method In Oil Search

CALGARY (CP)—A new method of locating oil and gas fields —longo—is attracting attention in Alberta. The new method proposes to determine the actual presence of oil or gas through the operation of electrical currents. This contrasts to seismograph operation, which can at best locate structures favorable to oil accumulation.

The method has been developed by Dr. F. W. Lee, former chief of the geophysical survey section of the US bureau of mines. He organized the bureau's division of geophysical exploration in 1928.

Dr. Lee's method works the same as electric logs in wells already drilled. But he claims to be able to tell by the electrical resistivity method in advance of any drilling whether any gas or oil are present.

With an imposing scientific record behind him, Dr. Lee is beginning to attract considerable attention in Alberta where the location of stratigraphic traps is still a hit or miss proposition.

Several independent oil companies are using the Lee survey and some report results that have proved predictions.

Should the new method establish all that is claimed it could revolutionize the oil search in Canada. It would reduce the cost of exploration and would be reflected in the price of gasoline.

BIG BREEZE

The largest underground fan in the world is used to force fresh air into a coal mine at Sydney, NS, which extends under the sea.

Mackenzie Highway Now Important Link

EDMONTON. — (CP) — The Mackenzie Highway, a vital link with Canada's northland, reached farther into the northwest territories than any other highway in Canada.

Only the Alaska highway extends farther north, but it enters the Yukon without touching the Northwest Territories, and doesn't link with important industries of the area.

The all-weather Mackenzie highway stretches across muskeg, forests and farmlands for 384 miles from Grimshaw near Peace River in Alberta to Hay River on Great Slave Lake in the Northwest Territories.

It is a vital supply route for northern industry, carrying mining machinery, provisions and supplies to the north and shipments of fish, grain, fur and lumber to the rail port of Grimshaw. It is also an important outlet for gold from Yellowknife and uranium from Port Radium on Great Bear Lake.

Truck Fleets

Large trucks now deliver supplies to the doorsteps of traders who once waited weeks for them to be freighted along the Peace River or carried by winter tractor-train. The truck cargoes are moved on to Yellowknife and points on the Mackenzie River by boat from Hay River.

Homesteaders in Alberta's far north use the highway to carry harvests to elevators. Areas around Manning, Keg River and Fort Vermillion have become increasingly important as agricultural centres and last year alone marketed more than 600,000 bushels of wheat and 200,000 bushels of coarse grain.

Great Slave Lake is Canada's greatest supplier of fresh-water fish. Last year about 8,000,000 pounds of whitefish and lake-trout, valued at $612,000, were hauled from Hay River down the Mackenzie highway while only about 1,000,000 pounds were carried by the water route.

Now Fish in Winter

Formerly limited supplies of fish were taken only in summer from the northern lake and transported by water down the Slave and Athabaska Rivers to waterways on the Athabaska River.

Married At 15, Told Divorce Is Final Resort

DEAR MISS DIX: Should I get a divorce now or postpone it until later? I am only 22 and have been married to George for seven year. I have always been in doubt as to whether or not I loved my husband. We have accomplished a lot together, building up a business of our own and a home, but I am not happy with him. Not long ago he began an affair with another woman, but instead of asking for a divorce, tried to get me to leave him. Then, although I had never before looked at another man, I went out on one date. When I told George he said he was willing to give up the other woman and start all over again. I was sure then that I loved my husband and no one else. Now I'm afraid if we stay together he'll repeat his performance of infidelity. I also worry that I won't ever be able to trust him again.

WINNIE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Why think of your solution only in terms of divorce? Adopt a constructive, rather than destructive, attitude and see what you can salvage from a marital situation which is precarious but by no means hopeless. A divorce, in your case, would solve nothing. You'd still be faced with the problem of whether or not you loved your husband with the probability that as soon as you lost him you would decide he was the one man in your life! You can put your marriage on a sound basis only through a show of strength, not weakness, and nothing is so great a proof of weakness as a quick trip to a divorce court.

You Married Too Young

Of course you married too young—as did your husband—and now you both have reached the point or resenting the loss of fun, good times and romance that should have been your lot as carefree teen-agers. Now, at still a comparatively young age, you are married folks of long-standing and must face the problems and responsibilities incurred. Having pledged his troth to one woman, George should accept his marriage vow and stop going out with other women, using as an excuse the fact that "he was philanderer." He can change, too! You must rebuild your trust; convince George of your faith and determination to stick to your marriage. Above all, no matter what hubby does, don't continue the risky procedure of trying to make him jealous. It worked once, but might prove disastrous a second time.

Stop doubting your own love for your husband. Perhaps you let your doubts be too evident, hence his interest in other women! Don't be vacilliating! Adopt the certain course that you do love him, you are going to make a success of your marriage, as you did of your business together, and make your asurance contagious. A good marriage does not come through chance; it is more often the result of hard work and constant effort. Exercise both!

DEAR MISS DIX: Is there a chance of love, marriage and children (adopted if necessary), or is it too late for me at this stage? I am 29 years old (look younger) and for the past six years have been in the T.B. san. With God's help, the doctor's feel I'll be able to go home within a year or so and will be able to resume a normal life again.

Before I became ill, I had very little to do with boys as I have always been rather shy. Please give me your earnest opinion as to whether you think there is a chance for happiness in the only field I care about—namely, housewife and mother.

ANSWER: If you would send me your name and address, I would be glad to give you a list of books narrating the marvelous comebacks of former T.B. patents. With your doctor's assurance that your recovery is imminent, you can fact the future with courage and confidence.

Your physical limitations are, a matter for the doctor to decide; emotionally, you may find a little difficulty in adjusting to the outside world after the cloistered atmosphere of a sanatorium but the old life and the new will soon be bridged.

Your age will certainly not be a barrier to romance. No age is! Many women marry, and for the first time, in their thirties. What you have to offer is the important issue; courage, a cheerful disposition and the ability to accept hardship with faith are the qualities that will bring what you wish from life.

DEAR MISS DIX: Having broken off with a boy I dated for seven months, should I return his gifts even though he doesn't want them? He says he bought them for me and doesn't want anyone else to have them.

P. D.

ANSWER: Your ex-beau is right! Since these gifts are not costly, and were bought especially for you, you should keep them. If your present steady doesn't wish to be reminded of your former attachment, pack the presents away, but they are rightfully yours to keep.

Eastern Star LOBA Has Success With Annual Tea

The Eastern Star Loyal Orange Benevolent Association, No. 525, held a very successful afternoon tea on Thursday, realizing more than $100 from the affair. Setting was the YWCA Green Room where the tea table was beautifully arranged with bronze and yellow 'mums and yellow candles and an Italian cutwork tablecloth.

Feature was the sale of draw tickets on a hamper of groceries and the winner was Mrs. Baker or RR 2, Ida. Mrs. C. Clee was in charge of the draw and selling tickets at the tea.

There were also tables of home made cooking, candy and fancywork for sale. Mrs. A. Maynard and Mrs. O. Smith attended the bake table, Mrs. A. Baker the candy booth and Mrs. I. Lowe and Mrs. F. Bell the fancywork. Practically all of the goods was sold by close of the tea.

Guests were received at the door by Mrs. R. Hill and Mrs. S. Deyman and Mrs. A. Rosborough was at the treasurer's table.

Pouring tea were Mrs. J. Price and Mrs. G. Benton and servers were Miss L. Reid, Mrs. V. Carr and Mrs. H. Youngs. The plates were re-filled by Mrs. F. Brown and Mrs. G. Leeson. Piano music was played during the tea by Mrs. Pickering.

Mrs. M. Moncrieff was the general convener of this tea.

IODE President Urges Action DefendDemocracy

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Oct. 26.—Urging positive action on behalf of democracy, Mrs. Cecil L. Brown of Hamilton, president of the Provincial Chapter IODE, addressed the semi-annual meeting which opened here Thursday.

Mrs. Brown compared democracy to the perilous stunt of going over the Falls. She stated that democracy in the world today is a frail craft launched into a whirlpool of conflicting and destructive forces that may well cause it to disintegrate unless we continually recognize its weaknesses and rebuild its strength.

"Just recently," said Mrs. Brown, "there has been an outstanding example of freedom carried to a ridiculous and absurd conclusion." Mrs. Brown referred to the incident of a convicted political criminal, who was previously accepted within our own society, and within our own government, and who is now liberated and in a position to once again carry on his nefarious work. "Our jurists," she said, "sit impotent to do anything because it would interfere with his constitutional liberties." The speaker commented that the Kremlin must certainly laugh about that.

At noon a wreath was placed on the Soldiers' Monument; in the afternoon the delegates were guests of the eight IODE chapter at tea in The Refectory, Queen Victoria Park. Last night Louis Blake Duff of Welland spoke at the convention banquet in the Hotel General Brock.

Church Groups Meet At Roseneath

ROSENEATH, Oct. 26—(ENS) —Rev. J. A. Patstone, rector of St. James' Anglican church, was in charge of the devotional period at the October meeting of the WA held on Thursday afternoon in the township hall with Miss Elizabeth Coyle as hostess.

The president, Mrs. Earl Braithwaite, presided. An appeal for assistance toward the building fund of the Anglican Women's Training College was made and the society decided to give a donation. The treasurer, Mrs. James Brown, reported a balance on hand of $168.55.

Plans were made to have a missionary rally at an early date. Rev. A. Richmond, Omemee, has been invited to be the guest speaker and sister organizations will be invited to attend.

A quilt was quited during the afternoon. Prayer was offered by Mrs. T. S. Coyle for Canon C. R. Spencer, a former rector, who is ill at his home in Port Hope. Christmas cards were distributed among the members.

During the program period, Mr. Patstone carried off the prize for the word-making contest sponsored by Mrs. Ray McCracken. Mrs. Earl Braithwaite conducted a quiz. The singing of the National Anthem closed the meeting.

Lunch was served by the hostess.

WMS Meets

"The offering at the annual thank-offering service of the WMS was $52.80," reported Mrs. J. A. Nichol, treasurer, at the October meeting held on Tuesday, October 23, at the home of Mrs. J. W. Pacey. Mrs. Nichol also reported having sent $156 toward their allocation, to the presbyterial treasurer.

The president, Mrs. J. M. Lovelace, presided over the worship service and business period with Mrs. C. H. Varcoe pianist. Mrs. Delbert Brisbin was appointed secretary pro-tem owing to the unavoidable absence of the secretary, Mrs. Fred G. Lewis.

Planning to entertain the members of the Baby Band and their mothers at the November meeting was the highlight of the business period. Mrs. Isobel Brown is superintendent of the Baby Band. The meeting will be held in the township hall and lunch will be served.

"Christian Stewardship" was the subject of an address given by Mrs. R. C. White, outlining some of the responsibilities of a christian steward.

Mrs. A. J. Campbell presented a portion of the study book, "From Lakes to Northern Lights".

The meeting closed with prayer. The hostess served refreshments.

LINCOLN HEAD OF SAPPHIRE—The world's largest polished sapphire was carved into the likeness of Abraham Lincoln, and is on display in New York City, with proceeds going to the Damon Runyon memorial fund for cancer research. Here, the head, valued at $300,000, is compared with a rough stone of comparable size. The jet-black sapphire weighs 1318 carats, and required two years to carve.

Soroptimists Get History Of 4 Other Service Clubs

Soroptimist Club of Peterborough has this year a program which has proved of much value in just two meetings. The first, in September, was titled "Know Your Own Club," and the second, for the monthly dinner meeting Thursday evening, "Know Other Clubs."

The latter was attended by four presidents of other service clubs in Peterborough: Mr. Sidney J. Black, Rotary; Mr. Gordon Hancock, Kiwanis; Mr. Joseph Barnard, Y's Men's Club; Mr. Harley Weir, Kinsmen.

Each man told the 20 members of the sister club the history of his club, its principles, projects and methods of raising funds for service work. During each short address, three men listened as intently as did the women, for they were finding the facts revealed both interestng and valuable to their own club purposes.

It was suggested that similar meetings should be held each year with incoming presidents in attendance, or that there should be a joint meeting of all service clubs where such facts could be revealed to the membership of each.

Soroptimist Mrs. Eva Brackenridge introduced all the speakers and they were thanked by Soroptimist Miss Myrtle Sargent.

Rotary Oldest Club

Mr. Black represented the oldest service club, for Rotary was founded in 1905 in Chicago by a struggling young lawyer, Paul Harris, who was lonesome and badly in need of friends. The name came from the rotation of meetings at members' places of business. The first international club began in Winnipeg in 1910 and the circle now includes 83 countries, he said.

Rotary's community service began with the installation of a rest room in Chicago. The principle work in Peterborough City and County is looking after crippled children, and the local club last year spent $5,000. It also looked after to some extent children crippled by polio, receiving water therapy treatment at the YWCA.

Ideals of this club, which members must practice, include "high ethical standards of vocational service." To the public this means square and honest dealings and value for money spent in transactions with a Rotarian.

As a monument to its founder this club has a fellowship fund for outstanding students who wish to study in other countries. Mr. Black said it is hoped to bring to Peterborough either a girl from Austria or a boy from Peru who are now studying at the University of Toronto under this scheme.

Rotary was particularly interesting to the Soroptimists as their own club is an outgrowth of it. Both use the classification system of membership so that a cross-section of the community life is represented, and both stress the value of fellowship from which comes service.

Mr. Black quoted the international president of Rotary having said recently: "If service clubs had been in existence sooner we might not have had the two world wars."

Golden Rule Guides Kiwanis

Kiwanis, said President Gordon Hancock, began in 1914 in Detroit as a club to bring business men and merchants together, and the name is derived from an Indian word meaning "We have a good time; we make a noise." The first Canadian club was formed at Hamilton November 1st, 1916, and there are now 3,325 clubs in North America.

The code of ethics for Kiwanians starts with recognition of the Golden Rule. They must be honest, have pride in their occupation and conduct business on the highest ethical plane. They aim to higher social and business standards and to making enduring friendships. It is among their principles to expose and combat Communism; to seek to eliminate causes of juvenile delinquency.

Peterborough Kiwanis Club is proud of its two Key Clubs, St. Peter's and PCVS, members being boys from the three top classes in secondary school. Several members attend each Key Club meeting in an advisory capacity.

Assisting underprivileged children is done by this club in a variety of ways. There is the annual Music Festival, which costs about $1,500 per year. The 1st of July Sports Day is expected to be an annual event to give entertainment for those unable to get out of the city, and it is hoped to keep it self-supporting, Mr. Hancock said. A Safe Driving School for boys was sponsored this year, and will likely be repeated. About $4,000 has already been spent on Hamilton Park, making a city beauty spot with swimming and wading pools where up to 700 kiddies were congregated this summer. Treats are also provided for orphans in the city.

Recent laws now prohibit both Kiwanis and Rotary from raising money by lotteries or games of chance. Kiwanis this past year held a Rose Day, selling 700 dozen roses, sponsored the four-man ball team, and the Little Olympics —a field meet for public school children held last Saturday. The "shop in Peterborough" days, presently in progress, are also Kiwanis sponsored.

Y's Men Serve

Mr. Barnard explained that his club's service is mainly to the YMCA and the movement has remained comparatively small during its 27-year existence because it is limited to Y members. The local Y's Men's Club will be 25 years old next March and it has about 30 active members. Memberships in the YM boys' department are given to deserving boys and the club also supplies leadership. Some financial assistance has been given on mortgages.

The Kawartha Boys' Camp on Clear Lake is the best known of this club's projects and assistance in the form of about $1,000 a year is given by the Rotary Club. Operating the camp costs the Y's Men an additional $1,500 or so per year and a great many hours in repairing and building. A boat house is now under construction by the members, Mr. Barnard said.

Annual money-raising events are a summer carnival, sale of Christmas trees and the Cinderella Ball in February.

Kinsmen All Canadian

Kinsmen Club began as a social club after the First World War when Hamilton returned soldiers began meeting regularly in a restaurant. More clubs were formed as these chaps moved to other cities and there are now 189 clubs across Canada. Peterborough Club was formed 23 years ago, past president Harley Weir advised, and cut its teeth during the Second World War with the service project "Milk for Britain". It had been found that a social club would not stand up so service was added. The local club and those in eastern Canada have since the war been aiding cancer research and western clubs aid polio research.

Service work of this club is chosen from the needs of the community and here it is the Peterborough Eye Clinic. Glasses are supplied to those in need and about 200 pairs are given to deserving children each year. The Club has just recently decided to take on the pensioners and it is expected to look after about 50 cases.

The equipment at Inverlea Park, costing $5,000 was provided by the Kinsmen Club Mr. Weir reminded. There are no restrictions on how the money is raised so lotteries and games of chance mostly support the service work.

Soroptimist president Alice Curtis presided.

Marmora Nuptials

MARMORA, Oct. 26 (ENS). — Before a background of yellow bronze and white chrysanthemums in tall standards, a pretty wedding was solemnized Saturday in St. Peter's Presbyterian church, Madoc, of Mary Lamoine Kernohan, Madoc, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Kernohan, to Gordon Lavender, son of Mr. Joseph Lavender of Wellington and the late Mrs. Lavender. The Rev. M. W. Heslip officiated. Wedding music was rendered by Mr. Ronald Robertson.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a gown of white chantilly lace over satin with finger tip veil caught to a headdress of matching lace trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of pink carnations and white baby 'mums.

Mrs. W. J. Scott of Belleville, was matron of honor for her sister, gowned in pink taffeta with black accessories. She carried a bouquet of white 'mums.

Mr. Everett Lavender of Wellington, brother of the groom, was groomsman. Walter Lewis and David Kernohan, Jr., both of Madoc, were ushers.

The wedding reception was held in the assembly room of the church, with St. Peter's Women's Club as caterers. The bride's mother received, gowned in smoke grey faille, with black accessories and corsage of red roses. She was assisted by the groom's aunt, Mrs. M. Lavender of Marmora, who wore cinnamon brown crepe with corsage of white roses.

For travelling to Windsor and points west, the bride chose a violet velvet dress, with black accessories and corsage of yellow roses. Mr. and Mrs. Lavender will live in Madoc.

Out-of-town guests were present from Detroit, Picton, Wellington, Toronto, Tweed and Marmora.

Study Group Plans Civic Candidates Meeting Nov. 27

Study Group on Civic Affairs regular meeting was held Thursday evening in the YWCA, Mrs. W. E. Fanning presiding.

Miss Margaret McCulloch, convener for the meeting of candidates for civic office, to be held under the group's auspices on Tuesday, November 27th, reported on the arrangements.

Observer's reports for October were given by Mrs. H. C. Turner for Board of Education, Miss May Grady for the Council, and a report prepared by Mrs. C. C. Pilon on the council meeting in the new City Hall was read in her absence by Miss C. McCarthy.

During a discussion of reports Mrs. Paige Rowell queried whether adequate protection is being provided for school children at street crossings by the part-time civilian guards now employed for this purpose.

Answering a request made at the June meeting, Miss McCarthy reported on the cost of the Park St. drain.

Mrs. Fanning conducted an impromptu session to test the memories of members with regard to information on civic elections given them last year by city clerk E. A. Outram.

November meeting will see the presentation of annual reports and a new slate of officers. Mrs. J. Hornal, Mrs. D. B. Rogers and Miss C. McCarthy are retiring from office.

Chapter News

COL. AGNES NEIL CHAPTER

Meeting of the Col. Agnes Neil Chapter, IODE, was held Tuesday evening in the YWCA green room with regent Mrs. H. G. Shaw presiding.

A letter is to be sent to the Canadian Legion advising that the chapter wishes to purchase a wreath to be placed on the cenotaph, November 11. After Remembrance Day, the wreath will be transferred to the grave of Col. Agnes Neill, the chapter's honorary regent.

As the chapter wishes to purchase a library for its adopted school, SS No. 1, Belmont and Methuen, a letter of inquiry is being sent to headquarters re the procedure required for such a purchase.

Mrs. Gordon Vallery announced that she and Mrs. L. Routly coconveners of overseas boxes, had sent two boxes overseas during the month and that arrangements are being made for the Christmas boxes.

Miss Isobel Shearer, post-war convener, advised that a work meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. E. K. McLellan, 243 Wolsely Street and the chapter members would be notified when a definite date had been set. Miss Shearer collected the articles of good used clothing brought in at the meeting for shipment overseas. The girls have started another post war service project, that of knitting an afghan and work was commenced on it Tuesday evening.

Mrs. J. Cranfield, child and family welfare convener, read a letter of thanks received from the YWCA sending two Peterborough girls to camp during the summer vacation.

Miss Jean Hamley discussed two funds of the order, "The Lucy Morrison Memorial Fund" and the "National Shipping Fund" which was most informative. The chapter is planning to discuss the different funds to which it contributes in order to familiarize members with the work the Order is doing.

Mrs. Shaw congratulated the girls on a very successful "Autumn Bridge" which was due to the efforts of Mrs. R. Ballantyne and her group and social convener Mrs. R. Beck and Miss E. Jobbitt.

Final arrangements were made for the Stardust Ball on November 2nd. Chapter members will be contacted prior to the dance re decorating, etc.

At the close of the meeting lunch was served by Mrs. S. Adamson and her group.

What kind of person are you?

As you get older, any faults of personality (selfishness, hot temper, talking too much) become more ingrained, more obvious to others.

But you can change these defects —and you can cultivate traits that win love, respect, happiness, say Dr. Smiley Blanton and Rev. Norman Vincent Peale in November Reader's Digest. And they point out how.

Royal Visit Topic Of WA Program

ROSENEATH, Oct. 26—(ENS) —"We are members one of another," was the theme of the devotional period in charge of the president, Mrs. Silas Sherwin at the October meeting of Centenary WA held in the church.

The treasurer, Mrs. Reginald Timlin, reported during the past month, $35 had been sent to the M and M fund and $50 had been donated to the church treasury. Mrs. Timlin reported a balance on hand of $69. Mrs. Arnold Elder was organist.

Letters of thanks were read from recipients of good cheer parcels, by the secretary, Miss Emma Sherwin.

Plans were made for the November meeting when the annual election of officers will be held.

The program numbers were in keeping with the Royal visit. Those assisting with the program were: Mrs. Silas Sherwin, Mrs. Dawson Timlin, Mrs. Ernest Burrison, Mrs. Arthur Elder, Mrs. Walton Lean. Mrs. Bruce Arthur conducted a quiz won by Mrs. Dawson Timlin and Mrs. Walton Lean. The meeting closed with prayer.

The men folk, husbands and brothers of the members, were guests of the society for lunch. The committee in charge of the lunch were: Miss Jessie Sherwin, Mrs. Ernest Burrison, Mrs. S. A. Sherwin and Mrs. Arnold Elder.

Fashion Flashes

The fabric is the star performer of many evening clothes, with cut and details subordinated. No trimming at all on a calf-length strapless dress of palest beige lace threaded all over with matching cellophane for a beautiful sparke. Deep neckline and tiny on-or-off sleeves.

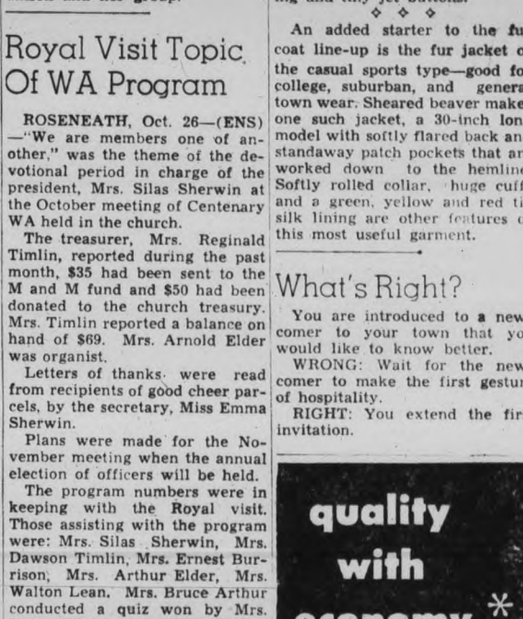
✧ ✧ ✧

Changes are very apparent in the newest skirts, both separate and suit skirts. Blue flannel is used for a suit made on softly tailored lines. The skirt has a high, molded waist and very arched hips.

✧ ✧ ✧

Year round use of cotton is becoming more obvious each year. This fall there are dresses, blouses and skirts of heavy cotton fabrics that are most attractive and washable, too. Heavy cotton, with a woollen "feel," is used for a softly detailed shirt-waist type of gray and purple tattersall checks with double-breasted closing and tiny jet buttons.

✧ ✧ ✧



An added starter to the fur coat line-up is the fur jacket of the casual sports type—good for college, suburban, and general town wear. Sheared beaver makes one such jacket, a 30-inch long model with softly flared back and standaway patch pockets that are worked down to the hemline. Softly rolled collar, huge cuffs and a green, yellow and red tie silk lining are other features of this most useful garment.

MOVIE COLUMN

Judy Holliday Insists On New Roles

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 26 (AP)—You've seen the last of Billie Dawn, Judy Holliday says.

Judy is working in Hollywood for the first time since she won the Academy Award for her role as the squeaky-voiced Billie in "Born Yesterday." Miss Holliday said she will never again play the same type of role.

"Six years was enough," she remarked. (She played "Born Yesterday" that long on the stage and for the movies.) "If you're a performer—that is, if you don't mind performing the same act all the time—then it would not be so bad. But if you have ambitions of being an actress, as I do, there is no future in repeating the same kind of role indefinitely."

Dramatic Drop

Judy is going far afield in her first movie since "Born Yesterday." The picture is "The Marrying Kind," and she describes it as a "drama with comedy overtones." She has dropped her voice an octave or so from the previous film and uses nearly her normal tones.

Despite her dumb-blonde portrayal, she is the studious type and is intensely serious about her career. She refuses to live in Hollywood and is eager to escape to her New York home when the picture finishes next month.

She has done revivals in summer theatres, but she has not yet found a script to follow "Born Yesterday." She is proud of her record of turndowns, however. "Every play I refused was either closed out of town or only ran a few performances in New York," she said.

What about doing television?

She shook her head. "The advantage of doing plays is getting the audience response. The advantage of movies is being able to do retakes until scenes are the way you want them. Plays don't have retakes and movies don't have an audience response. Television doesn't have either."

Talk of the Town

The raves over "An American in Paris" . . . The police pinch of stripper Lili St. Cyr at a Hollywood night spot—in the interests of purity or publicity? . . . The prospect that Princess Rita will go before the movie cameras soon . . . . . Jack Benny's complaint on his air show: "Joan Crawford didn't even name me in her 10 sexiest Hollywood men list."

FROM CALIFORNIA comes these 1952 swim suits. Strapless suit (left) is one-piece bird's-eye pique with lapel cuffs and bloomers of gingham check. A two-piece denim (centre) has matching beach coat with bandana collar and pocket trim. Pastel floral trim lends fragile look (right) to one-piece suit that has matching floral parasol in water-proof plastic. Colors are clear and bright.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Coronation Pear Salad Is Easy At This Time

QUESTION: I guess the interesting thing in our paper is your column "Food for Thought" (or whatever you call it anywhere). Every housewife who loves to cook and make something different is the same as I. Now my problem is Bridge Club. There are only 12 of us but we all try to have something different and all expect me to have because I am always trying something new. By the way, your Party Angel Food was made by one member and it went over big. I would like something different in a salad, small cakes or cake. I live in a small town where it just is not possible to get everything as in a city. I'll do just as you say. —Mrs. G. M.

Have you tried that nearly-sliced-through loaf with cheese sprinkled between the spread slices and baked. This is good with garlic butter too.

We are having a run on pear salads since this pear month and like this one tremendously.

Coronation Pear Salad

Use ripe Bartletts. Pare and core and dip in half and half mixture of lemon juice and water to keep them from browning Place on well-cupped bed of lettuce—two halves to each serving. Mix together genuine mayonnaise and white cream cheese or crumbled Roquefort (or Roquefort-type cream cheese) until it is creamy. Force this through pastry bag and tube around rim of each pear half (cut side of pear should be up). If you do not have pastry bag and tube, use strong brown paper in pointed-bag shape, cut off the tip to give you an eight-inch opening, fill with cheese mix, fold open and over snugly, and squeeze at point to make ribbon of cheese come out where you want it.

Place a maraschino in centre depression in pear. Stick toasted almonds into the pear around the inside rim, above the cherry and inside the fluting of cheese. Or use slivers of candied ginger in place of the almonds.

Serve with this salad.

Cheese Tea Biscuits

Two cups sifted cake flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 6 tablespoons best quality shortening or butter, 2/3 cup milk, ½ cup old dry sharp cheese. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt; cut in shortening until mixture is fine, then add cheese. Quickly stir in milk. Knead mixture for 30 seconds. Roll out to ½-inch thickness. Cut into small biscuits. Bake on ungreased baking sheet at 450 deg. Fah., for about 10 or 12 minutes.

Have ready to pass quince sauce or mint or spiced grape jelly. This makes a beautiful little repast.

QUESTION: I tried your Baked Chicken Supreme today, and while we all pronounced it delicious, I had my usual trouble with it that I have with any baked meat dish using milk (or cream) in basting. The milk, along with the dredging flour and butter simply more or less curdles. That is the appearance at any rate. The butter floats but the flour and milk seem to thicken and while it doesn't stick solidly to the bottom or burn, it certainly doesn't remain in a sauce form. My oven was at the desired 350 deg. Fahr., and then lower, I used the required amount of liquid and basting regularly.

Need I say I enjoy your column? I find it seems so personal and the type of information an average homemaker can use to such good advantage.

RUTH D.

ANSWER: I know exactly what you mean but Southern cooks like that feature, but it happens to me too, and in the best of cooking circles—where it is not so well liked. This dish is sometimes known as Chicken Maryland and is served with popovers, as you know. To avoid curdling, the chicken may be baked in a combination of hot water and butter only—for basting purposes. At serving time add 1 cup hot thick white sauce made of cream (2 tablespoons each flour and butter or chicken fat and 1 cup cream) to the drippings in pan. Mix well and serve over the hot chicken (and popovers if used) on hot platter.

Thank you for a pleasing letter.

Mission Rally Held In Norwood

NORWOOD, Oct. 26—(ENS)—A missionary rally was held in Norwood United Church Monday evening. Supper was served to about 80 by the ladies of the Women's Auxiliary. The pastoral charges of Havelock and Hastings as well as Norwood were represented in the gathering which was sponsored by the Missionary and Maintenance Committee of the Peterborough Presbytery.

There were introduced to the gathering the Rev. Walton Tonge of Lakefield, the Rev. John Kitchen, missionary from China, and the Rev Arthur Kewley of Toronto.

Appreciation for provision of the splendid supper was moved by S. S. Breckon, chairman of the Norwood Missionary and Maintenance Committee, and suitable reply was made by Mrs. Armar Weir, president of the WA.

The open meeting after the supper, consisted of a brief worship service led by the minister, the Rev. H. K. Wright, an address by Mr. Kitchen, and the showing of a missionary film.

Mr. Kitchen spoke out of 32 years' experience as a missionary in China on "The Things That Remain." In spite of war and the onward march of Communism, the church remains, God remains, and the need remains.

Mr. Kewley spoke briefly on a more effective presentation of the missionary challenge to the people and showed a colored film entitled "Cape Breton Heritage."

Mr. Tonge, Presbytery convener of missionary and maintenance work, urged the people to do their very best and commended them for having done well in the past.

Special music for the evening consisted of a male quartette made up of Earl Hamblin, Earl Bongard, William Stares, Ronald Webster, and a solo by Mrs. John Knox. Mrs. J. H. Caskey played for the service.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Storage Plan Can Reduce Living Costs

By KAY REX

Food storage is one way to cut living costs, says the National Council of Women. And the Council doesn't necessarily mean renting a deep-freeze locker or buying one for the kitchen.

A cellar will do—just as long as it's cool. The Council., now sponsoring a country - wide "thrift" campaign, says this is just the place to store root vegetables—the potatoes, beets, carrots, parsnips and turnips that are so plentiful these days.

While temperatures should range from 30 to 40 degrees Fahrenheit, there should not be any danger of freezing. High humidity, ventilation and protection against light are necessary.

Vegetables should be permitted to cool off overnight before being placed in storage. All damaged specimens should be removed.

Potatoes, says the council, should be kept in bins, bags or boxes. However, as ventilation is important, orange-crates are best —or any other container made of slats.

Keep Out Light

Cover the spuds so the light cannot reach them. Examine them periodically, removing any which show signs of decay. Remove sprouts as soon as they appear. Under ideal conditions they should keep as long as six months.

Fruits or dairy products should not be kept in the same storage, as they absorb a potato flavor.

Slightly-dampened — but not wet—sand is the best place to store vegetables such as beets, carrots, parsnips, and turnips. Storage temperature for these should be 32 degrees fahrenheit.

Place a layer of sand in the bin or box and add sand simultaneously with the vegetables so that all spaces are filled. Spread a layer of sand on top. Sprinkle the top with water when required—to keep it slightly damp.

Storage Cabbage

Firm heavy heads are best. Remove diseased or broken outer leaves. Store in bins, boxes or on shelves—but leave room for ventilation. Humidity can be maintained around 90 per cent by sprinkling water on the floor or by setting out pans of water. Don't sprinkle cabbage.

Onions must be kept dry, preferably in shallow, slatted trays or open mesh bags. The latter can be suspended from the ceiling which permits ample ventilation. Temperature may range from 32 to 50 degrees fahrenheit.

It doesn't pay to store celery, cauliflower or tomatoes as they can be kept only a short time.

Squash may be kept for several months—in warm dry storage at between 55 and 60 degrees. Pumpkins should be stored under the same conditions but won't keep as long.

Winter apples should be stored in well ventilated boxes. Each apple should be wrapped in tissue and kept at a 32-degree temperature with relative humidity 90 per cent.

6—In Memoriam

PAGETT—In loving memory of a dear husband and dad, who passed away Oct. 26, 1948.
In the garden of memories we meet every day.
—Lovingly remembered by his wife and family, Art, Mary, Gerry and Don.

THOMPSON—In loving memory of Albert E. Thompson, who passed away Oct. 26, 1949.
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered, since we lost you
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day, dear brother,
That we do not think of you.
—Sadly missed by Cecil, Mary and family.

THOMPSON—In loving memory of Albert Edward (Uncle Ned), who passed away suddenly two years ago today, Oct. 26, 1949.
A cheerful smile, a heart of gold,
He was the dearest uncle the world could ever hold.
A helping hand to all he knew,
He was so kind, so generous and true,
On earth he nobly did his best,
Grant him, Jesus, heavenly rest.
—Lovingly remembered by his niece Ola (Mrs. Harland).

THOMPSON — In loving memory of Albert E. Thompson, who passed away Oct. 26, 1949.
God called him home, it was His will,
But in my heart I love him still;
His memory is as dear today,
As in the hour he passed away.
I often sit and think of him,
When I am all alone,
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.
—Remembered by his mother.

THOMPSON—In loving memory of Albert E. Thompson, who passed away Oct. 26, 1949.
Just a thought of sweet remembrance
Just a memory sad and true,
Just the love and sweet devotion
Of one who thinks of you.
—Lovingly remembered by his sister Della, Don and Jackie.

THOMPSON—In fond remembrance of A. E. Thompson (Ned), beloved nephew of Albert Holmes, who died Oct. 26, 1949.
There is a link death cannot sever,
Love and remembrance last forever.
—Sadly missed by Uncle Albert.

BY-LAW NO. 18

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE ROMAN CATHOLIC SEPARATE SCHOOL BOARD OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH.

A BY-LAW AUTHORIZING THE BORROWING OF FOUR HUNDRED AND THIRTY THOUSAND DOLLARS UPON DEBENTURES FOR BUILDING PURPOSES.

WHEREAS it is expedient to borrow for the purchase of a School Site and the erection of a School, a sum not exceeding FOUR HUNDRED AND THIRTY THOUSAND DOLLARS ($430,000.00) upon the credit of the Board to issue Debentures therefor bearing interest at the rate of Four and One-half per cent (4½%) per annum payable (semi-) annually and to provide for discount and expenses incidental to negotiation and sale of such Debentures:

AND WHEREAS it is expedient to make the principal period of twenty years next after the date of issue of such Debentures, of such amounts respectively that, with the interest in respect of the Debt, the aggregate amount payable for principal and interest in each year shall be, as nearly as possible, the same: Subject to the statutory proviso that each instalment of principal may be for an even $100.00, $500.00, or $1,000.00, or multiple thereof, and, that notwithstanding anything herein contained, the annual instalments of principal and interest may differ in amount sufficiently to admit thereof:

AND WHEREAS the amount of the whole rateable property of the Board, according to the last revised assessment roll thereof is $4,133,455.00.

AND WHEREAS the amount of the existing Debenture debt of the Corporation, exclusive of local improvement debts secured by special rates or assessments, is $118,300.00.

THEREFOR the Board of Trustees of the Roman Catholic Separate School Board for the City of Peterborough, enacts as follows:

1. For the purpose aforesaid the Board shall borrow upon the credit of the Board a sum not exceeding FOUR HUNDRED AND THIRTY THOUSAND DOLLARS ($430,000.00) and shall issue Debentures therefor in sums of not less than $50.00 each. Each Debenture shall bear interest at the rate of 4½% per annum payable (semi-) annually and shall have coupons attached thereto for the payment of such interest.

2. All the Debentures shall bear the same date, shall be issued at one time and within two years after the day on which this By-law is passed, may bear any date within such two years and shall be made payable in annual instalments during the period of twenty years next after the date of issue thereof, and the respective amounts of principal and interest payable in each of such years shall be the amounts so designated in Schedule "A" hereto annexed.

3. The Debentures shall be payable as to both principal and interest in lawful money of Canada and may be made payable at such place or places in Canada as shall be designated thereon.

4. The said Debentures shall be sealed with the Seal of the Board and signed by the Chairman of the Board, or by some other person authorized by By-law to sign the same, and by the Secretary-Treasurer, and his signature thereon may be written, stamped, lithographed or engraved.

5. Commencing in the year 1952 and thereafter in each year in which an instalment of principal of the said debt and interest become due, the Board shall levy and raise the specific sum shown for the respective year in the fourth column of the said Schedule. Such sum shall be levied and raised by a special rate sufficient therefor, over and above all other rates, upon all the rateable property in the municipality.

6. The said Debentures may contain a clause providing for the registration thereof pursuant to Section 336 of the Municipal Act.

7. Pending the sale of the said Debentures, the Chairman of the Board and the Secretary-Treasurer may raise for the purposes aforesaid by way of loan on each Debentures any sum or sums of money not exceeding in all the sum hereby authorized to be borrowed and may hypothecate such Debentures for such loan.

8. The Board shall have the right, at its option, to redeem the said Debentures either in whole or in part on any date prior to maturity at the places where and in the moneys in which the said Debentures are expressed to be payable, upon payment of the principal amount thereof together with interest accrued to the date of redemption and upon giving previous notice of said intention to redeem by advertising once in the Ontario Gazette and once in a daily newspaper of general provincial circulation, published in the City of Toronto and once in a local newspaper, such notice to be advertised as aforesaid at least thirty days before the date fixed for redemption to each person, in whose name a Debenture so to be redeemed is registered at the address shown in the Debenture Registry Book. Where only a portion of the Debentures of this issue is so to be redeemed, such portion shall comprise only the Debentures that have the latest maturity dates, and no Debenture of this issue shall be called for such redemption in priority to any such Debenture that has a later maturity date.

READ a First and Second Time this 11th Day of October, 1951.

J. G. McCARNEY,
Chairman.

REV. J. F. HOULIHAN,
Secretary-Treasurer.

Get Bentonite From Top Of Mountain

BALDUR, MAN., —(CP)— It was 20 years ago when P. G. Woelke of Morden, Man., first thought of mining the Pembina Mountain overlooking the fertile wheat fields of the Red River Valley.

Today that dream is a reality. Woelke and his son, John, operate a Bentonite mine right on the crest of the mountain. The 16,000 tons of rich Bentonite clay they extract from the earth has an annual value of $50,000.

Bentonite clay is a form of Fuller's earth. After drying and processing with sulphuric acid, the finished product is used as a bleaching agent by the oil refinery industry.

Learn Hard Way

The Woelkes got started in the business the hard way. It took many years of toil and a deep faith in their product to overcome all the obstacles they encountered. They had to develop their own methods of mining the rich clay besides building plants at Morden an din Winnipeg.

They now employ 20 men at their open-pit mine. Many are truck drivers with the remainder operating the heavy machinery used to excavate the clay.

Huge scrapers hauled by tractors remove the overburden followed by smaller power scrapers which dig out the Bentonite clay and place it in stock piles. A gravel loader fills the trucks that transport the clay to the drying plant at Morden. After the drying process it is shipped to Winnipeg by rail for activating.

The Woelkes have mined Bentonite in various locations south of Miami and north of Morden for more than a decade. Their mine in the mountain has sufficient deposits to keep them busy for another five years.

Mackenzie Highway

Winter fishing now accounts for almost half the total annual catch.

The fur industry has also been affected by the highway. Pelts are shipped in large trucks to Grimshaw. Trappers and traders have been brought closer to Peace River towns and are within easy reach of hospital and medical services.

Tourists seeking new horizons travelled the highway last summer, stopping to view two of the north's scenic spots—the Louise and Alexandra Falls. Both are located on the Hay River, within the Northwest Territories.

Started In 1946

Construction of the highway was started in October of 1946, and completed in 1948. Preliminary surveys had begun in 1938 and were carried on during the winters of 1938-1939-1940 in an effort to find a winter road for tractor-trains.

The winter road was used during the winter months until the all-weather highway was built. Parties set out in 1945 to survey the terrain for the Mackenzie highway. They followed the same general route of the winter road, detouring around muskeg and swamp areas.

Construction of the $4,300,000 highway was a joint effort of the Federal and Alberta Governments. The 303 miles in Alberta were paid for jointly while the 81 miles in the Northwest Territories was a Dominion government project.

Maintenance graders and trucks keep the road in condition during summer months and two snow plows keep it open during the winter.

Mayor from England

our council, and I may say that this event has been fully published in our papers, and the people know all about it, and are greatly interested in our trip.

"When I see a friend of mine, his name is Stennett, when I get back home, I shall tell him that his estimate of a wonderful trip did not at all come up to what we have been enjoying so far.

Considered Trip

"My wife and I had thought for some time we should like to make an ocean trip, especially to Canada, and this prospect of coming to Peterborough on such an occasion made up our minds.

"I think it has been grand this evening in this hotel to meet our friends of Canada and New Hampshire, and to know and feel that we are so close together. We are only three communities in our three countries, but I think we are typical of them, and if there is anything I could do, just as one citizen of Peterborough, England, to strengthen our ties and understanding, that would be something extra our visit would accomplish."

Obituary

JOSEPH HENRY LA RUSH

The funeral for Joseph Henry La Rush who died Tuesday at his Manitoba home will be at the Duffus funeral home 3 p.m. Saturday, the Rev. C. Richmond of Omemee officiating.

Mr. La Rush, a farmer at Bowsman, Manitoba, for the last 30 years, died suddenly in his 85th year. He will be brought to the funeral home at noon Saturday.

Mr. La Rush was born at Villiers, Otonabee township, and later moved to Peterborough. He was educated locally and 30 years ago went west to farm.

He leaves his widow, the former Ella Bell of Warsaw; five sons—Milton and Reginald, Port Arthur; Ernest, Chapleau; Robert, Ida; and Garnet, Montreal; and one sister Mrs. Leslie Dickerson (Keitha) Vancouver.

His parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. J. H. La Rush of Otonabee.

Burial will be in Keene cemetery, Keene.

Charter Ships To Carry Cars To New Zealand

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, NZ (CP) — The drop in British car sales in Canada and the United States has proved a boon to New Zealand where imports of new cars are the biggest in its history.

So heavy are the shipments from Britain that special ships have had to be chartered to supplement the normal services. These "floating garages" carry only cars as cargo.

Ever since before the Second World War New Zealand has been starved for automobiles. The Dominion has more cars per head of population than any country outside North America, but import restrictions, wartime shortage and exchange difficulties have prevented the purchase of sufficient replacements for more than a decade.

The Labor government maintained a rigid quota system which resulted in huge waiting lists of buyers being built up. Many dealers had such long lists that they refused to take more orders and others would not promise delivery in under two to five years according to the make of car.

The present National party government has swept away import restrictions on cars from soft currency countries, though it has retained restrictions on dollar cars which are limited to a few hundred a year for essential purposes because of the dollar shortage. Until recently, however, the rearmamnt program in Britain had limited the number of cars manufacturers could supply.

The severe drop in sales in Canada and the United States has freed large numbers of cars for export to New Zealand which in the last few months has become one of Britain's largest markets.

The great influx has caused a collapse on the used car market. Fantastic prices have prevailed for second-hand models. Faced with a wait of years, people have been willing to pay $1,200 above the list price to people who have just taken delivery of new cars. Now, however, dealers can offer delivery within a few months of the order being placed and the resale value of new cars has come down almost to the dealer's list price.

DOUBLE DROWNING IN HAVELOCK POND

Thugs Kidnap Merchant, Run Over Him

Injured Man Left Lying On Road, For Several Hours

GALT, Oct. 27. (CP)—Edward Dunbrook, prominent Kitchener shoe merchant, was found this morning lying on a country road near Rockton, his leg broken and his chest crushed. He had been run over by his own car after being kidnapped about midnight.

Details were vague, but Dunbrook gave the following story:

He had been here on business and about midnight went to his car. He found two or three men in it and they dragged him into the vehicle, beat and robbed him.

The kidnappers then drove east into Beverly township, tossed Dunbrook out and ran over him with the car.

Calls Police

Dunbrook lay on the ground unable to move until about 8 am when Elwood Patton, Rockton, found him. Patton took the injured man to a nearby farmhouse and called police. An ambulance was called and Dunbrook was taken to St. Mary's Hospital in Kitchener.

The kidnappers apparently headed for Hamilton on Highway No. 8 after dumping Dunbrook, but the car went in the ditch at Christie's Corners and police later found it abandoned.

Police so far have no description of the kidnappers nor do they know how much money Dunbrook lost.

THE BIG MOMENT ARRIVED at the opening ceremonies of the City Hall when His Worship G. R. Chamberlain of Peterborough, England, in traditional British costume of office, Right, opened the front door of the building with a golden key. Watching him are His Worship Max J. Swanston of this city, who a moment before was invested with a gold chain of office by donors Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Monkman of 626 Gilmour St., and Chairman of the Board of Selectmen of Peterborough, NH, Forrest C. Mercer.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Man, Child Trapped Inside Car

Woman Crawls Out, Runs Quarter Mile To Plant For Help

HAVELOCK, Oct. 27. (ENS) — Two people were drowned shortly before midnight when their car dropped into a pond, three miles east of Havelock. Drowned were the driver, James Cooke, 18, and Shirley Edwards, 3, a passenger. Mrs. John Edwards, 31, mother of Shirley, escaped when she managed to force open a car door and swim to safety. Cooke and Mrs. Edwards and her daughter all live at Cordova, 12 miles north of Havelock.

The double drowning occurred shortly before midnight when Cooke, who was driving Mrs. Edwards and Shirley home, took a wrong turn and the car ran into the pond. It is believed he was cutting through the property of Building Products Ltd., to reach the Cordova road when he took the wrong turn.

After swimming to safety Mrs. Edwards ran a quarter of a mile to Building Products plant where a night shift was working.

Arrives Hysterical

By the time she got there she was crying and hysterical and she was shivering in her wet clothes. The first person she met was Jack Fitzpatrick.

"My little girl is in the water," she told Fitzpatrick. And she directed him to the pond that supplies water for the plant. The water there is 12 feet deep and is brought to the plant by an electric pump.

All that was visible when Fitzpatrick got there was the tip of a rear wheel above the water. There was no sign of life.

Pair Dead

It was about an hour before a wrecking crew arrived and hauled the car out of the pond. Both Cooke and the little girl were dead.

Churchill Appoints Anthony Eden Foreign Secretary

LONDON, Oct. 27. (CP)—Winston Churchill announced today that Anthony Eden will become Foreign Minister in Britain's new Conservative government. Churchill, whose Conservatives unseated Labor in Thursday's general election, moved quickly to form a Cabinet "in view of the critical foreign and economic situation."

In addition to Foreign Minister, a post Eden held during the war years under Churchill, the debonair No. 2 man in the Conservative party will be Deputy Prime Minister and Leader of the House of Commons.

Churchill also announced that in addition to being Prime Minister he would keep for himself the vital Defence Ministry.

A Deputy Leader of the House of Commons will be appointed to help Eden. This would give him more time to devote to the Foreign Office.

Other Cabinet appointments in the new Conservative government:

Lord Woolton, 68, Lord President of the Council with responsibility for food and agriculture.

Richard Austen Butler, 48, Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Oliver Lyttelton, 58, Colonial Secretary.

Sir Walter Monckton, 60, Minister of Labor.

Sir David Maxwell Fyfe, 51, Home Secretary and Minister for Welsh Affairs.

Marquess of Salisbury 58, Lord Privy Seal and Leader of the House of Lords.

Lord Ismay, 68, Secretary for Commonwealth Relations.

Lord Ismay and Monckton also were appointed to the Privy Council.

Approved By King

The appointments were made after King George approved them at a special meeting of the Privy Council at Buckingham Palace.

They fill only the top jobs in the Cabinet, which under Clement Attlee's Labor Government had 17 posts.

Additional appointments to other ministries probably will be made within the next few days.

The appointments are effective immediately because of the critical foreign and economic situation faced by Britain.

The announcements came shortly after Churchill called his chief lieutenants to his bedroom and plunged into the work of being the country's new Prime Minister.

The 76-year-old statesman worked until dawn, snatched only a few hours' sleep, and was awake again, refreshed at 8 am.

Stream of Cars

All morning a stream of cars brought the Conservative politicians to Churchill's private home at Hyde Park gate. Special police patrolled the dead-end street outside.

First arrival was Sir Norman Brooke, secretary to the cabinet whose post is unaffected by changes of government. Other top departmental chiefs followed him.

Sir David Maxwell Fyfe, bushy-browed candidate for the thorny key post of labor minister, stayed for 30 minutes.

The debonair Eden, who was conferring with his boss until late Friday night, returned this morning.

Then the group was joined by Oliver Lyttelton, tipped along with intellectual R. A. Butler as

Car Rolls Over In Ditch, Two Shaken Up

A Buffalo man was treated in St. Joseph's hospital early today when the car in which he was a pasenger rolled over in the ditch on Highway 28. He received body bruises and a shaking up but was released before noon.

The injured man was Leslie Hunter, 30. He was riding in the 1949 model car of another Buffalo man, Richard Wakefield.

Wakefield told OPP Constable Tom Fitzpatrick that he dozed off while driving north on the highway, two and a half miles south of Peterborough.

The car wandered off the road and went into the right ditch where it turned over on its roof. Wakefield emerged unharmed but Hunter was badly bruised.

Damage to the car is estimated at $1,300.

Wakefield said he was going to Havelock to see his wife.

Refuse To Let Reds Use Talks For Bargaining

MUNSAN, Korea, Oct. 27 (AP) —United Nations' truce negotiators today in effect warned the Communists they should not try to use the Korean armistice talks for horse-trading.

Sub-committees of the main truce delegations met for 3½ hours in Panmunjom without "any tangible progress" toward solution of the knotty problem of a buffer zone.

Brig.-Gen. William P. Nuckols, official UN spokesman, announced at the end of the afternoon session:

"The UN command this afternoon made it unmistakably clear that the recent specific (allied) proposal on a demarcation and demilitarized zone based on the line of contact should not be construed by the Communists as a bargaining position."

First Proposal

The UN first proposed a 2½ mile-wide buffer zone generally following the present fighting line. It would require the allies to pull back in the east and the Reds in the west. Each side would have to yield about 200 square miles of territory.

The Communists countered Friday with a proposal calling for the UN to fall back as much as 15 miles. Allied infantryment under the Red plan would give up such hard-won positions as the Iron Triangle, Heartbreak Ridge and the Punchbowl.

UN negotiators quickly rejected the Red plan, however, insisting that military consideration and security of UN troops will govern "any minor refinement or modification" of the UN plan.

Princess Makes Certain Children Get Good Look

VANCOUVER, Oct. 27. (CP)—The Royal train bearing Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip eastward climbed through the Rockies today and swept down onto broad flatlands of the prairies. It was due at Edmonton at 2 pm. The Royal couple was leaving British Columbia after nine days, six days of being seen by hundreds of thousands, three days of rest.

Refreshed after their leisurely holiday at Eaglecrest Lodge on Vancouver Island, they took ship from Nanaimo to Vancouver Friday, drove along a 14-mile crowd-lined route to New Westminster and there boarded their train for the return east.

It was a full day but not a taxing one compared to previous receptions. The Princess, looking as dainty and as bright as a new violet, and her husband spent most of their time with the children.

They left New Westminster 50 minutes behind schedule. The Princess had ordered the Royal procession to slow down on the drive from Vancouver to the Royal city, established in 1858 by a detachment of Royal Engineers.

Their train rolled due east through the lush, 100-mile-long Fraser valley, north through the gorge cut by the mighty Fraser through the coastal range, east again to Kamloops in the Thompson valley and then north and east through a forested wilderness past Mount Robson and through Red Pass to the open plains.

The Nanaimo mayor, Erale Westwood, tossed away his speech and told the Princess about the children who had got up at 5 a.m. to fill the Civil Arena. The Princess and Philip left the dais and mingled with the children.

More than 4,300 children boomed out the popular song "So long, it's been good to know you," as the couple left.

Make Up Lost Time

Trying to make up for lost time, the destroyer Crusader set a record for the Georgia Strait crossing from Nanaimo to Vancouver. She was flat out at 32 knots.

Some 200,000 persons, 60,000 of them school children, lined the route from Vancouver to New Westminster. The Princess and the Duke stopped at suburban Burnby, again to chat with the children and a few veterans.

On arrival at New Westminster the Princess told Mayor Fred Jackson: "We're sorry for being late. The route was solidly lined with children and we just couldn't hurry."

After a brief ceremony, Elizabeth stepped aboard the train with the words that she was sorry to leave the west coast.

Narrow Escape

When the train started it jerked backwards and reporters and photographers stumbled over one another trying to get out of the way.

The Princess raised her left arm momentarily in alarm, then, seeing no one was in danger, burst out laughing.

The population of Chilliwack, 70 miles east of here, quadrupled

Telegram Rates To Be Increased New Ruling

OTTAWA, Oct. 27 (CP)—Canada's two telegraph companies have been granted permission to boost telegram rates efective Nov. 1, an official of the Board of Transport Commissioners said Friday.

A board order, issued to the companies, authorizes increases of 10 and 15 cents on standard-wordage telegrams, plus varying increases in charges for extra words.

The increases are allowed for telegrams within Canada, but not including Newfoundland. Newfoundland tolls now are higher than those of the rest of the country. The boosts are not applicable on messages to the United States.

The two companies—telegraph divisions of the Canadian National Railways and Canadian Pacific Railway Company—requested the increases last August because of higher costs of labor and materials.

The last increase granted them —a general one of 15 per cent— went into effect July, 1949.

Under the new rates, the commonly used 10-word telegram carrying full rate—both day and night—would go up by 10 cents for the first 10 words. There would be an additional one cent a word charge on extra wordage.

Current minimum charge for this type of message is 30 cents day and 20 cents night on the first 10 words. Extra wordage is charged for at two cents a word day and one cent a word night.

Give Results Of Two Ridings

LONDON, Oct. 27—(Reuters) — Two more results in the British election—from remote Scottish islands and districts — were announced today. A Conservative was re-elected in one seat, and a Liberal retained the other.

At Inverness, capital of the Scottisht Highlands, Lord Malcolm Douglas-Hamilton held the seat for the Tories. Brother of the Duke of Hamilton, he polled 22,497 votes against Socialist A. T. MacNair's 12,361.

In the Orkney and Shetland Islands, of the northeast coast, Liberal J. Grimmond retained his seat with a majority of 6,391— and gave the Liberals a total of six seats in the 625-seat House of Commons.

Two other districts in Scotland still have to report. Western Isles, which was Labor, may report tonight. Argyll, which was Conservative in 1950, will report Monday.

Battle Looms In Grain Crisis

PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 27 (CP) —The possibility of a large-scale labor-management battle in the grain industry here was seen today.

The possibility loomed in the rejection Thursday night by Lake Head elevator workers on an appeal by Production Minister Howe. He asked them to work additional overtime in an effort to clear British grain commitments through the Lakehead.

The workers of 28 grain elevators turned down the appeal, made here personally by Mr. Howe, because of what they called the "penurious wage policy" of the companies, the Manitoba pool elevators and smaller firms.

One source indicated soldiers now may be brought in to do the work.

The workers had been asked to step up overtime from three nights at 2½ hours a week to four nights at 3½ hours and Sundays through the next six weeks.

Charles McDonald, president of Lodge 650 of the terminal elevator division of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks (TLC), resigned in protest against the workers' refusal. The union represents all grain workers.

He said in a statement he could not see the way clear to lead a group "that showed such a lack of co-operation in the face of this Canadian grain emergency and lack of interest in the welfare of Canada as a whole."

Dockers Reject Truman Appeal

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 —(AP)— Rebel dock workers today braced themselves for a possible tussle with the Taft-Hartley law after their leaders rejected a plea by President Truman for waterfront peace.

The President stepped into the dispute Friday night with an appeal that the wildcat walkout end "at once" in the interest of national defence.

It took the strike committee just 15 minutes to turn down the President's request.

Truman now may invoke the Taft-Hartley Act, which limits the right to strike under some conditions. He also can call in the wage stabilization board, which is consulted in matters affecting defence.

Petain Mass Drives Crowds Into Frenzy

PARIS, Oct. 27 (AP).—Police in riot helmets today drove off crowds yelling "Petain murderer" after a requiem mass was held by the Archbishop of Paris for the late Marshal Henri Philippe Petain in Notre Dame Cathedral.

Some fist fights broke out as the crowd of several thousand worshippers left the church, but there was no major clash.

Police ordered the main doors of the cathedral closed and locked when the mass began. Several thousand former resistance workers demonstrated on the square in front of the church shouting "jail the collaborators" and "Down with Fascism."

The requiem mass was attended by members of Petain's family and other dignitaries, including General Maxine Weygand, who commanded French forces when France fell to the Nazis.

UMW Official Killed By Bomb

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 27 (AP)—Several hours after he received a "death" note demanding $2,000, the automobile of Charles Mecadon was blown to bits by a bomb that fatally injured the United Mine Workers' official.

Mecadon, 49, was president of UMW Local 8005 for the last 10 years.

His family said he had received several threatening letters recently, the latest—demanding $2,000 or death—came Friday.

The violent blast rocked the area, left the auto a mass of wrecked, smoking debris.

Three small girls—Louis Krahel, 8, her sister Irene, 5, and Irene Oslakowski, 12 — suffered cuts and shock. They were walking on the sidewalk a few feet from the Mecadon auto.

Police said a powerful explosive had been rigged in Mecadon's car—either in the form of a time bomb or attached to the ignition.

Loses Mink Coat

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (AP).. — Mrs. Erle Jolson, widow of singer Al Jolson, lost a $10,000 silver-blue mink coat Friday night while attending a Carnegie Hall memorial show on the first anniversary of her husband's death. She said the coat disappeared from a hanger near her seat.

Plans Godiva Ride To Protest Taxes

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Oct. 27 (AP).—A housewife says she plans to protest high taxes by emulating Lady Godiva's unclothed ride, but Sheriff Harry Knoll says he has other plans.

If Mrs. Jerry Cobur, 29-year-old wife of a plumbing contractor, does emulate the 11th century ride of Lady Godiva through the streets of Coventry, England, she'll wear clothes, he warned.

The tall, blue-eyed blonde defended her project as a good way "to emphasize the plight of the public."

Her husband agreed and then added "It might help the attendance" at the Sacramento County Horsemen's Association show Sunday when the ride is scheduled.

Fort William Plant Makes Harvards For 2 Countries

FORT WILLIAM, Oct. 27 (CP) —The total requirements of Canada and the United States for Harvard training aircraft will be met in Fort William, Production Minister Howe said today.

"In other words, the Fort William plant of Canadian Car and Foundry becomes the only firm in the world producing Harvards," he said in a speech prepared for delivery before 200 United States and Canadian business and military men.

They came here to see the first Harvard test-flown and to inspect the Canadian Car and Foundry Company plant. In another address prepared for delivery to the same luncheon, Victor M. Drury of Montreal, company president, predicted a peak production for the plant amounting to $52,000,000.

He said when the factory hits its stride it will employ a total of 5,000. It now is engaged in manufacturing Harvards from Canada, the US and other countries.

Mr. Howe said Harvard production is part of Canada's $5,000,000,000 defence program, of which aircraft production makes up one third. Aircraft production programs in Canada were progressing satisfactory.

"The Canadian car plant here has already produced 1,750 Hurricane fighters and 860 Curtis Hell-Divers," said Mr. Howe. "It has been amply demonstrated that the head of the lakes is an efficient locality for manufacturing aircraft."

Training of airmen would again become a major Canadian responsibility, as it was during the war. The immediate objective was to train "not only Canadian airmen but also 1,400 airmen from other countries in the North Atlantic community." Men from Britain, Belgium, France, Holland, Italy and Norway now were being trained.

Hunter's Car Refuses Moose's Challenge

LINDSAY, Oct. 27 — A bull moose barred the way for two duck hunters in Haliburton recently.

Don Fawcett and Bill McGarrity were driving home from a comparatively unsuccessful duck hunt when a bull moose and cow walked out of the bush about 20 yards in front of the car.

The duck hunters brought the car to a stop. After looking the situation over the bull nudged the cow into the bush and then strolled diagonally across the road. He then began to tear up the ground with his hooves and swung his antlers from side to side.

The moose then moved to the side of the road and after watching the car for several more minutes, slowly walked into the bush.

The two hunters gave the animals plenty of time to get away and then examined the tracks before driving on.

Got Bargain In City Hall - Ottawa Mayor

"I'm fazed," gasped Charlotte Whitton, when she became Mayor of Ottawa recently following the death of Mayor Grenville Goodwin.

Friday, after a whirlwind tour of Peterborough's new City Hall, Ottawa's effervescent lady Mayor declared, "I'm amazed— amazed at what you got for your money."

Alderman Hugh Waddell, in showing Mayor Whitton through the building, had told her the cost was aproximately $17 per cubic foot. "Why, in Ottawa, we pay $0.235 a square foot in rent for our buildings," she said indignantly, "and our offices are scattered in 24 different buildings all over the city."

After seeing the offices of the various departments, Miss Whitton told the Examiner: "It's incredibly compact and workable. The contracting firm must have been as generous to the city as the original donor."

Good Bargain

The fact that Canada's first city has no city hall, is a subject close to Miss Whitton's crusading heart.

"The Greber Plan (for the improvement of greater Ottawa) allots us two alternative sites, but we can't seem to reach agreement on where to build it as there is also some agitation fir a third site," she said on the way to her Cadillac to drive to a tea. "However," she lamented sadly as she was getting in, "with things the way they are now, steel shortages and lack of materials, we probably could not build it anyway, and certainly not for the price you people have."

Alderman Waddell conducted Miss Whitton on her tour of the building, or rather accompanied her, as in her enthusiasm to see everything, she kept dodging in and out of offices along the corridors for a quick chat with the staffs of the different departments.

In the welfare departments, a subject also close to Miss Whitton as she is a former social worker, she was more than enthused but shook her head as she commented wryly, "What, no spittoons, what's happening to Peterborough's Irish?"

After posing behind Mayor Swanston's desk with Mayor Chamberlain, of Peterborough, England, Miss Whitton, always strict on protocol, insisted Mayor Chamberlain go through the door ahead of her.

"I'm A Mayor"

"I'm no lady, I'm a mayor," she quipped, as Mayor Chamberlain protested that ladies should always go first.

Examining Mayor Chamberlain's chain of office, Miss Whitton took a gentle jibe at the opposite sex when she said, "I relied on a man to put my chain of office in my briefcase. When I arrived here, it wasn't in it."

Ottawa has a mayor's chain that's even heavier and better than that of either Peterborough, she continued. It was melted down in 1872 from former chains and she added, "When I wore it to the opening of parliament, the deputy minister of finance told me I should donate it to the dominion treasury.

"What," she exclaimed, "and let you ship it down to Fort Knox to be buried—the Yankees have enough down there already."

Quite a Search

Admiring the desks in the council committee room, Miss Whitton commented, "I found our mayor's chair in the attic of the fire hall. It had been there since the night the city hall burned 22 years ago."

While passing through the offices of the department of health, she told alderman Waddell, "our health lab is in the basement of a fire hall."

At the entrance to the boiler room, someone in the party suggested that Miss Whitton wouldn't be interested in the furnace But she insisted she would and proceeded to examine the heating equipment with the observation that "a lot of money went down the drain in heating"

When she was shown through the court room, Her Worship looked around, then said, "It's as capacious and better lighted than the court rooms of Alberta, the only ones of which I have intimate knowledge," in a humorous reference to her experience a few years ago as the result of her criticism of the Alberta Welfare Department.

When Miss Whitton returns to Ottawa, she will probably renew her attempts to get her colleagues to settle on a site for a new city hall. She will probably use some of the things she saw here Friday to convince any doubting Thomas of the importance of having a permanent building that will house all Ottawa's civic departments under one roof

Maritime MP's Oppose Freight Rate Bill Allowing Equalization

OTTAWA, Oct. 27. (CP)—A bill authorizing an equalization of Canadian freight rates Friday ran into some opposition from Maritime members in the Commons. They looked with misgivings on the legislation, to be referred to a newly-established 31-man, all-party committee for study. They expressed fear that the measure will destroy the benefits now granted under the Maritime Freight Rates Act. Transport Minister Chevrier said the bill, product of a two-year study of transportation problems by a Royal Commission, specifies that it shall not interfere with the Maritime Freight Rates Act, which provides low rates for Maritime traffic, or the Crow's Nest Pass rates, which do the same for certain western traffic.

George Nowlan (PC-Annapolis-Kings) said it was possible that the bill, without interfering with the Maritime Freight Rates Act, would result in a doubling of the existing rates in the Atlantic provinces.

At present, he said, when the rate is $1, the Maritimes pay only 80 cents because of the 20-per-cent discount provided by the Martime Freight Rates Act. But the new legislation would authorize the Board of Transport Commissioners to equalize rates across the country.

Too Much

If the board raised the rate to $2, the Maritimes would pay $1.60. That was too much.

John Dickey (L-Halifax) described as "fantastic" the suggestion that the bill would mean a 100-per-cent boost in Maritime rates. The government had protected the position of the Maritime rates.

Mr. Chevrier referred to a recommendation of the Royal Commission that a national freight rates policy be adopted to provide for uniform rates across Canada.

The attainment of basic uniformity in the freight-rate structure, he said, would be sought "by modification, not repudiation, of the general principles on which existing tariff and toll legislation has been based."

It is not anticipated that the legislation will result in a body of freight rates which will "disrupt established industry and trade patterns." The differences to be equalized were not that extensive.

Offers A Way

The legislation offered a means whereby general agreement could be obtainable in the basic elements of the rate structure—class rates and commodity mileage rates.

Howard Green (PC-Vancouver-Quadra) said the transport board should be strengthened so it will be able to handle the problems given it.

He welcomed a plan to pay a subsidy of $7,000,000 a year to the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways for the maintenance of trackage in sparsely-settled, low-traffic areas of Northern Ontario.

But it was unfortunate that the government had announced only part of its transportation policy. It had given no indication of what it plans to do on a recommendation with respect to refinancing of the CNR. It had not indicated whether it plans to accept a recommendation that shipping and aviation be brought under the Transport Board.

M. J. Coldwell, CCF Leader, suggested that no further across-the-board freight-rate increases be granted until the legislation has been studied and equalization provisions put into effect.

He did not believe the $7,00,000 subsidy to bridge the low-populated gap in Northern Ontario was sufficient.

Solon Low, Social Credit Leader, said he is happy that the Crow's Nest Pass rates are to remain intact, and also asked that there be no across-the-board freight-rate increases until the Bill becomes law.

Percy Wright (CCF-Melfort) said the Board of Transport Commissioners should be strengthened to handle the task of fixing equalized rates. Political appointments to the board should stop.

Two Get Month For Linen Theft

COBOURG, Oct. 27—(ENS)—Louis Lafay of Mortintown and Robert Dawson of Calgary were sentenced yesterday to 30 days in jail on a charge of stealing bed linen and towels from the hotel of Cecil Burley at Colborne on Oct. 15. Lafay said that he had taken two towels, for use in his room but admitted that he had not asked the proprietor for permission to take them. The rest of the linens were found by provincial police when they searched their hotel room. Both men have records.

James Pollock of London, held on a vagrancy charge, was remanded until next Friday.

Herbert and Donald Keller and Howard Woodcock pleaded guilty to theft of apples from Perry Alexander of Brighton on Oct. 1 and were sentenced to a week in jail.

Charles Davis of Hope township was sentenced to seven days in jail on a drunk driving charge.

TORONTO FRUIT

TORONTO, Oct. 27 (CP) — Wholesale fruit and vegetable prices were unchanged here today.

Potato prices: Off truck, $2.25-$2.35; to trade, $2.50-$2.60; New Brunswick carlots, $2.60; to trade, $2.75-$3.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Oct. 27 (CP) — Coarse grain futures prices showed some irregularity at the close Friday after early strength on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Late trade on the US markets showed an easier tone and brought an increase in buying here.

Export loadings of wheat reported overnight totalled 1,230,000 bushels. Shipments included United Kingdom 400,000, French North Africa 370,000, Brazil 370,000, Bolivia 90,000. Prices for Class 2 and IWA wheat were unchanged.

MET GREAT NUMBER

After the festivities of the opening of Peterborough's city hall, a date definitely for a century or two, Mayor George R. Chamberlain of Peterborough, England, lingered at breakfast this morning. It was ten o'clock before they had finished. His estimate was that that everything went along very well, "and we met a great many people." So far it has been a very pleasant time for Ald. E. V. Martin, too.

COULDN'T HEAR

A Brock St. ratepayer was much disappointed with the failure of the sound amplifying machine at the city hall opening. "After all the trouble they took to put on a good show and then leave the broadcasting to a machine that was no good, was just too bad. Jim Juby, a former alderman, was sitting next to me. Ask him; he'll tell you we couldn't hear anything down toward the south of the stands. Lots of them got up and went home before it was over."

Five Accidents Do Damage Injure No One

There were five minor two-car accidents in the city Friday. The vehicles involved received only slight damage in each case and there were no injuries.

Neither driver involved in a collision at George and King Sts. Friday afternoon could blame the accident on "a lady driver" — both drivers were women.

Mrs. Doris J. Williams, 854 Lansdowne St. driving south on George St., and Mrs. Catharine Redmond, RR 8, Peterborough, travelling east on King St., collided at King and George Sts.

Mrs. Redmond told Constable G. J. Gillespie who investigated that she stopped at George St., and did not see the car approaching from the north as she turned on to George.

Driving the police truck south on Park St., Constable Douglas Stark reported "a car came shooting out of King St.," forcing him to swerve sharply and scrape the fender of a parked car owned by H. K. Fallis of Bailieboro.

Constable Stark was so intent on avoiding the crash he was unable to get the car's licence number.

Both Fenders

Ralph Aspero, 591 Downie St., told police that as he was travelling south on Water St., a car pulled out from the curb and struck his car first on the front fender, then on the rear, causing damage estimated at $50. Mr. Aspero obtained the licence number of the car.

Robert Bell, 191 O'Carroll St., reported he was stopped at Charlotte and Water Sts., at 6:40 Friday evening waiting for an opening in traffic when a car driven by W. G. Waterman, RR 5, Peterborough, backed up, breaking his headlight. Both cars were insured.

Both a car and a truck were damaged Friday morning when they collided at Aylmer and Hunter Sts. Edgar McBride, 184 Lake St., was driving a truck on Aylmer St., and Willis F. Thompson, 620 Beverly St., was travelling his car west on Hunter when the accident occurred at 8:30.

It was eight degrees blow zero at Kamloops where the train made a five-minute stop. More than 1,000 persons came down to the train, anyway.

Dollar Unchanged

MONTREAL, Oct. 27 (CP) — The American dollar today opened at 4⅛ per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, unchanged from Friday's close. That is, it took $1.04⅞ Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.93⅝, also unchanged.

Mrs. John H. Watson

The funeral for Mrs. John H. Watson, 299 Lake St., who died Wednesday, was held Friday from the Comstock funeral home. The Rev. H. G. Douglas of Knox United Church conducted the service.

Pallbearers were Alex Watson, Fred Watson, George Watson, David Addyman, Louis Barrie, Albert Burkholder. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

Carey Appeals

COBOURG, Oct. 27—(ENS)—The appeal against the conviction of Ralph Carey for rape at the spring assizes, will be heard in Toronto in the latter part of November, it was revealed yesterday. Carey was sentenced to 20 years by Chief Justice J. C. McRuer on a charge of raping a young woman last February. The accused is a Cobourg youth.

Mrs. Katheleen Whibbs

The funeral of Mrs. Kathleen Whibbs, Peterborough, who died Tuesday was held Friday in Immaculate Conception Roman Catholic Church. Requiem mass was said by the Rev. James Greenan.

Pallbearers were: Gus Whibbs, Michael Whibbs, Joseph Maloney, William Croagh, Leo Whibbs, Patrick Ryan. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, Douro. Graveside prayers were said by the Rev. J. J. McCarthy.

Popular Vote Comparison

LONDON, Oct. 27. (CP)—Both the Conservative and Labor parties broke all records for total votes received in a British general election.

Although the Labor party lost the election Thursday, it received 196,290 more votes than the Conservatives and their allies for 616 seats reported in the final popular vote for last night. A total of 620 seats were accounted for in the 625-seat House of Commons but in four of them Conservatives were returned unopposed.

The remaining five seats will be reported at a later date.

The previous record poll by a single party was 13,248,570 received by Labor in the February, 1950, general election.

Here is the popular vote, with percentages in brackets, from 616 contested seats as compared with the same district in 1950:

	1951	1950
Labor	13,898,516 (48.94)	13,248,570 (46.56)
Conservatives	13,702,226 (48.23)	13,348,935 (43.40)
Liberals and others	785,216 (2.75)	2,766,817 (9.72)
Communists	21,630 (.08)	91,815 (.32)
Total	28,407,588	28,456,137

Soldier Buried At Roseneath

WARKWORTH, Oct. 27 (ENS)—A large number of friends and relatives attended the funeral Friday of Corporal Floyd A. Harvey, 32, who died Tuesday in London after being critically burned by 2,200 volts of electricity.

Cpl. Harvey was guiding a steel beam held by a derrick when the top of the crane touched a 2,200-volt hydro line. Stationed at London's Wolseley Barracks, he was working temporarily on a construction job in London.

The service was conducted by the Rev. H. A. Mellow in Warkworth United Church, assisted by Rev. H. G. Lester.

Pallbearers were Bruce Birney, Douglas Langford, Delbert Mitchell, Neil Shearer, George Wilcox and Leo Blastorah. Burial was in Centenary cemetery, Roseneath.

a possible Chancellor of the Exchequer. If Butler gets the post, Lyttelton may be production and supplies minister, to co-ordinate the arms program.

Observe Guessing

Churchill's election campaign references to a "broad-based" government has observers guessing. Will he bring in a couple of Liberals to strengthen the administration? One news commentator today forecast the inclusion of Liberal leader Clement Davies in the cabinet.

The new British leaders must begin at once to size up the serious problems which confront the new administration—the persistent failure of the country to pay its way in world trade, the Communist threat, and the taunts of defiant segments of a declining empire.

Churchill returned to office Friday night with a thin majority in the 625-seat House of Commons, even though the Labor party won more of the popular vote.

With returns in from 622 ridings, the Conservatives and their allies had 320 seats; Labor 293 and Liberals and allies 8. Two other districts, both in Scotland, still were to report. One was Labor in the last election and the other Conservative. Voting in one constituency, a Labor stronghold, is deferred.

In the last House, dissolved Oct. 4, the standing was: Labor 313, Conservatives and allies (including the non-voting speaker) 297; Liberals 9; Irish Nationalists 2; Independent 1, vacant 3.

Votes Received

Labor had received 13,898,516 votes (48.94 per cent) when 616 seats were in—196,200 more than the Conservatives' 13,702,226 (48.23 per cent.) The Liberals and other small groups had 787,216 (2.75 per cent), and the Communists, counted separately, polled only 21,630 votes (.08 per cent).

A few hours after the outcome became certain, Prime Minister Attlee went to the King and resigned. Then the King summoned Churchill to Buckingham Palace and asked him to form a government.

The Monarch, recuperating from a serious lung operation, kept the doughty, 76-year-old Churchill for 45 minutes to talk over policies and cabinet-making.

Then Churchill went home for dinner and a talk with Anthony Eden, his deputy leader and former Foreign Minister.

Starting Over

Thus began the new government of Britain after precisely six years and three months of Socialism.

During those years since he was cast from the post-war leadership of the country, Churchill has maintained a "shadow cabinet" of men ready to take over high Ministerial posts should the Conservatives return to power.

They include Eden; mid-eastern expert Harold MacMillan; Churchill's son-in-law Duncan Sandys; Sir David Maxwell Fyfe, war crimes prosecutor; wartime food minister Lord Woolton, former cabinet minister Lord Salisbury, and Lord Ismay, who was chief-of-staff to Churchill during the Second World War.

Churchill became first minister fully aware of the towering obstacles confronting his administration.

The party forces at his disposal are not very substantial.

The Socialists got more votes than any party in Britain ever received.

The Conservatives won by capturing many seats, on a narrow edge while Labor candidates were compiling huge totals from mine and factory area.

Churchill's slim majority was an inviting target for renewed Tory-Labor sharpshooting.

With 620 seats decided, Churchill's party held an over-all edge of 18 seats. That was slightly better than the six to eight majority with which Attlee retained power for 20 months.

But the Conservatives have never matched the strict Socialist discipline for attending House sessions and toeing voting line. The Socialists could well declare war of attrition aimed to wear down the Conservatives, whose regime would fall if beaten in the House on a major issue.

John Edwards, husband of Mrs. Edwards, did not know of the drowning until he got home on the early-morning CPR train. He is a railway employee.

The couple have two other children—Wanita 13, and Thelma 5.

Cooke is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cooke of Cordova. The family have only lived in the village two weeks. Previously they were residents of Marmora township.

Ironicaly, Cooke was drowned on the property of the company he worked for. He was employed on the hoppers in the Building Products plant.

On Verge Of Breakdown

On the verge of a nervous breakdown, Mrs. Edwards was taken early today to her mother's home in Cordova for a rest. "My baby, my baby," she kept repeating.

The accident was investigated by OPP Constables Don Erskine, George Rose and Chief Constable Wesley Hall of Havelock.

The bodies were taken to the Curtis funeral home, Havelock.

8 Red Planes Said Damaged Over Korea

US EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Oct. 27 — Eight Russian-made MIGs were damaged today in a thunderous jet-plane dogfight over Northwest Korea as they failed to stop an Allied bomb strike on bridge and rail lines.

It was the seventh straight day the Communist jets whooped out of their Manchurian sanctuary to challenge the air might of the United Nations.

On the ground, Communist night assaults in the east and west were repulsed in fierce fighting. In the centre of the battle line Allied infantrymen slogged forward and secured a key hill mass southeast of Kumsong, battered one-time Communist stronghold.

Childhood Steals Show At Humanities Conference

By CHARLES BRUCE.

TORONTO, Oct. 27 — (CP).—There were no youngsters present, but childhood rather stole the show.

The scene was Canada's first national conference on the humanities. The subject (A) Whether the academic humanist is responsible for decline in prestige of liberal learning, and (B) Whether the business man neglects his responsibilitiy in this regard.

Academic humanists were there in force. Ordinary humanists by the half-dozen. Business men by ones and twos.

Discussion was wide, learned, friendly— and warmly stimulating. An eye-opener to anyone who might have thought that interest in man as man has becomeirrelevant in this era.

The narrow dictionary definition of the humanities is: "Polite scholarship, esp. of Latin and Greek classics." But the talk ranged over the whole field of humanism—the system of thought which assigns a predominant interest to mankind's affairs: How men, by learning and work and example can become conscious of mankind as a family.

The children got into it when Dr. Carleton W. Stanley, of United College, Winnipeg, asserted that not only is there no royal road to learning, but human beings don't want one. The crawling baby does not look for something easy to do; he wants to haul down lamps he can't reach, and open doors too heavy for him.

Systems Too Easy

Dr. Stanley was deploring "easy" systems which give a smattering without depth. He went on to instance the growth of music in Winnipeg as a cultural development achieved by hard work, without compromise, by people who had found time and faith to spend on it even while concerned with material things like building roads and grain elevators.

Later, Ira Dilworth, supervisor of the CBC's International Service, said children have an innate joy in life, a sense of the value of life itself, which is dimmed as time goes on "by the gadgets with which we surround them in order to brighten the dullness of life." His appeal was for an effort to become aware of this innate goodness in the fact of living.

The conference was organized by the Humanities Research Council of Canada, of which the present chairman is Prof. Roy Daniells of University of British Columbia. Dr. Sidney Smith, president of Toronto University, presided and discussion was opened by Dr. J. Francis Leddy, head of the classics department at University of Saskatchewan.

Dr. Leddy defined teaching of the humanities as a meeting of mind with mind. There were many distractions at high school age, and in university the student was confronted with the pressures of professionalism, the feeling that he is in college for a precise purpose, and a horror of speculation. Man was increasingly looked upon as an instrument rather than a person. Nevertheless, humanists were turning the corner toward a resurgence. People who hadn't had training in these branches of learning were beginning to worry about it.

Speaks Of Ancients

Clifford Sifton, publisher of The Saskatoon Star-Phoenix, spoke of the "great ancients" met in study of humanistic subjects as kindly ghosts looking over the shoulders of former students in friendly guidance.

Mavor Moore, CBC's television director, questioned whether the decline in reading, stressed by some in the discussion, should be too much emphasized. There were other media through which the humanistic idea could be conveyed.

Dr. Earle Birney of the University of British Columbia felt too much time was being wasted in primary and secondary schools. It would be necessary to speed up the whole pace of humanistic teaching if "the mechanism of doom" were to be slowed effectively.

Dr. Harold Innis, head of the Department of Political Economy at Toronto, said the humanities should emphasize the whole idea of the duration of time, of continuity in mankind.

Blames Reading Habits

John Gray, Toronto publisher, said it was impossible to separate the problems of the humanities from the reading habits of people. Canada suffered a good deal from rootlessness, and little was being done to make a bridge with the past in the form of writing. Some of the necessary writing might be done in the universities.

Hugh MacLennan, Montreal novelist, said education was like an army. The teachers were the NCO's and the headmaster the regimental sergeant major. He had known a former NCO who said it didn't matter if the whole officer's mess was drunk, the regiment would function if the NCO's were all right. Children couldn't be made into competent adults if they were taught by people paid less than the lowest unskilled juvenile labor.

W. A. Macleod, of Winnipeg, director of publicity for the wheat pools, urged extension of library facilities, particularly in country areas. It wasn't easy to buy a book even in Winnipeg; the bookstores failed and went out of business.

Put Restrictions On Balconies

MONTREAL, Oct. 27 (CP). — This city where everybody who is worth a pinch of snuff has a balcony—or wishes he had one—learned today they aren't usable for the Royal tour unless the top police folk give them the OK.

The balcony ruling more or less stood out in the maze of official documents governing Montreal's behavior during the visit of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Residents were told by police that balconies in a city of myriad outside balconies and spiralling stairways cannot be used as tour observation points unless they have been examined by a "competent authority."

Main difficulty facing the local resident is to find a competent authority. The RCMP have banned the use of roof-tops and will be checking the latter closely. They said this was a security measure.

The ruling on balconies and stairways is a safety measure but the RCMP says the competent authority must be supplied by city authorities.

The RCMP said it will be a tough task to examine all the balconies along the 75-mile route the Royal cavalcade will take in Montreal and district. This job alone would take over a month, the official said. By then the Royal couple will have gone at least 28 days.

One balcony which rates now is the one specially built at the Windsor Hotel for the Royal couple's use. City officials said it has been approved by a competent authtority, but they didn't know who that was.

Winners Of Oratory Named At Millbrook

MILLBROOK, Oct. 27 (ENS)—Public speaking contests for the pupils of Millbrook and South Cavan public school were held in Millbrook town hall Thursday evening. The pupils from the rural schools won the draw to speak first.

Their speakers and subjects in the order in which they spoke were: Joyce Hutchinson, "Major John Foote"; Eva Lawrence, "Tobacco Growing in Durham County"; Karen Lunn, "The Queen Elizabeth Ocean Liner"; George Patton, "Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh"; Janet Hubbeard, "The Penguin"; Donna Lord, "How Sunday Schools Began"; Francis Elson, "The St. Lawrence River."

In this group Eva Lawrence was declared the winner with Joyce Hutchinson the runner-up.

The names of the town pupils and their subjects were: Judy Hobbs, "My Experiences Raising Chickens"; Alan Fowler, "My Trip to Ottawa"; June Blair, "Wood and Its Benefits to Mankind"; Eldon Hunter, "The Pilgrim Fathers"; Bobby Hamilton, "My Trip to Niagara Falls"; Jane Ouelette, "My First Aeroplane Ride"; Janet Hobbs, "Color"; Helen Ingham, "George Washington Carver"; Lenni Ouellette, "Ants"; Ada Olan, "The Seasons of the Year." In this group Judy Hobbs was chosen winner with Lenore Ouellette and Helen Ingham tied as runners-up.

During the evening there were choruses by the pupils of SS No. 13, where Mrs. H. Patton teaches; SS No. 10 where Mrs. V. Hunter is teacher, and by Millbrook Public School, Percy Hamilton principal.

Louis H. Winslow acted as chairman. Dorothy Ball was at the piano for "O Canada," and Loreen Guthrie for "God Save the King." The judges were Miss Helen Black, Miss Rita De Guire and Harry Williams.

Not Libelous

PARIS, Oct. 27 (Reuters). — Limoges civil court Friday ruled it was not libelous for a local paper to have called the Echo du Centre—the provincial Communist paper—the "Pravda of Central France." The Echo had asked $2,800 damages, alleging the expression was defamatory.

Stock Market Contrary, Forecast Upset

By DICK BAIDEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Professionals were virtually hanging from the ropes this week as stock market movements confounded their predictions and belied their explanations.

Technicians explained last weekend's sharp dip as a normal correction to a basically strong market. The trend would be upward this week, they predicted. Observers who interpreted the effect of international developments said that a Conservative win in the British elections would find a favorable market reaction.

But it didn't work out that way. In New York The Associated Press average closed Friday with a net loss for the week of almost $3—the heaviest in about five months. In Toronto the Stock Exchange's industrial index of 20 selected issues posted a net loss of almost seven points. Two months' gain was eliminatetd within two weeks.

Toronto opened the week with a moderate rally and appeared to be living up to expectations. Support dropped abruptly during the mid-day, however, and only a late rally, originating in New York, saved the market from a severe loss. Papers and industrials in Montreal followed the downward movement.

A brisk closing rally Tuesday pushed Toronto prices to levels held before mid-session weakness. Papers recovered in Montreal while industrials traded indecisively.

Firmer support Wednesday in Toronto pushed prices moderately higher. Speculation in western oils, base metals and penny golds picked up while industrials traded steadily. Papers continued to push upward in Montreal and industrials strengthened.

Toronto reversed direction sharply Thursday after an early climb. Activity dropped with declining prices. Papers dipped in Montreal but industrials held firm.

Opening support was strong in Toronto Friday but weakened sharply within the first hour. All sections, industrials, golds, base metals and western oils, settled lower. Papers and industrials eased in Montreal.

New York recorded the heaviest tumble in four months Monday. Losses in leading issues ranged from fractions to three points. A late recovery held The Associated Press average to a loss of $1.60.

Prices raced ahead Tuesday with gains in leading issues ranging to $2. A slight, last-hour weakness, however, held the AP average to a gain of 30 cents.

The general recovery extended into its second session Wednesday. Support was less vigorous, however. Steels and rails formed the nucleus of the advance.

Prices slipped Thursday in the slowest session in two weeks. Selling pressure was absent and traders were cautious. The decline continued yesterday.

From Friday to Friday, the Toronto Stock Exchange indices showed industrials down 6.75 at 347.09, golds up .27 at 84.05, base metals down 2.12 at 193.35 and western oils down .93 at 120.50.

In the Montreal average, banks were off .17 at 29.58, utilities off .4 at 86.8, industrials off 5.8 at 230.6, papers off 13.67 at 812 33 and golds off .87 at 68.85.

In New York, The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped $2.80 to $96.30.

Frost To Stand On Record In November 22 Election

By The Canadian Press

Premier Frost is going to stand on his record in the Nov. 22 Ontario election.

He told Ontario's citizens in a radio speech Friday night that his Progressive Conservative government "does not stand...with an armful of promises, nor upon a platform of assurance constructed expressly for the purposes of a general election."

"The government," he said in a 15-minute, free-time broadcast over a CBC Ontario network, "comes to the people with a great program which is already being carried out, with a great record of accomplishments quite unparalleled in the history of this province."

In another free-time broadcast, John Brown, Liberal member for Waterloo North in the last Ontario Legislature, attacked what he termed the "gross extravagance and mismanagement" of the taxpayers' money since the Frost government came to power in 1943.

Around the hustings, Liberal leader Walter Thomson spoke at Niagara Falls and CCF leader Jolliffe at London.

Lists Benefits

Mr. Frost listed benefits of rural hydro, extended to more than 600,000 persons, grants to rural roads "multiplied by 10," and what he termed the most-advanced farm legislation in Canada. He told of his government's record in education, hospital construction, housing and forest managament.

He said his government's contributions to ease the burden on municipal taxpayers had been increased by more than five times in the last six years, "from $18,000,000 to over $100,000,000 this year."

Provincial taxation was the lowest in Canada and the government had balanced its budget eight consecutive times—"a record in the history of this province."

Mr. Brown claimed that taking into account all the grants for education, health and welfare and the many subsidies to municipalities, the expenses of the province had gone up "from $101,500,000 in 1943 to an estimated amount of $265,500,000 in 1951 or an increase of 151 per cent."

Staggering Increase

He listed what he called the increasingly high costs of government in highways, forestry and agriculture. In municipal affairs, the costs were "staggering."

Mr. Jolliffe spoke in the interests of London district CCF candidates. He said his party proposed to subsidize municipalities by 10 per cent of their 1951 tax roll. This would relieve property owners who contribute to municipal taxation.

The London meetings were sponsored by the Political Action Committee of the Canadian Congress of Labor. George Burt, of Windsor, Canadian director of the United Auto Workers (CCL) told the audiences that organized labor in Ontario generally supported the CCF in the campaign.

Highways Minister

Mr. Thomson said at Niagara Falls that its former mayor, William L. Houck, will be Highways Minister in his cabinet if the Liberal party is elected. It was Mr. Thomson's 119th speech since he became Liberal leader less than a year ago.

Addressing a rally at the start of Mr. Houck's campaign for re-election in Niagara Falls, Mr. Thomson criticized what he called the extravagance of the Ontario government. He said a Liberal government would halt the "whip of compulsion" the department of municipal affairs exerted over municipalities.

At Toronto, Agnes Macphail attacked the government for its "laissez-faire" attitude toward conservation. Seeking re-election in York East for the CCF, Miss Macphail accused the government of covering up the fact it had "shelved" a report on conservation by a special legislative committee.

Pot Luck Supper Held By Horticulturalists

OMEMEE, Oct. 27 (ENS)—The Omemee and District Hoticultural Society held a pot-luck supper Thursday evening. The supper was under the management of director Mrs. R. E. Brooks and was held in Christ Church basement.

The society was welcomed by Mr. W. Reeds on behalf of Christ Church, and the guests of the society by president J. A. Bent. District representative Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Heard, of Woodville, attended. Mr. Heard told of an interesting thing he had observed when visiting societies. The Omemee group, he said, excelled in the way in which their committees shouldered there responsibilities. Mr. Bent reviewed the year's activities. He announced that at the meeting on November 29, the speaker would be Charlie Weir, of the Department of Game and Fisheries. Mr. Weir, who was a former Omemee boy, again is making his home here while he works as government biologist for the counties of Victoria and Peterborough. He will speak on "Wild life in field and forest."

Wits were sharpened on a flower contest, and the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt led in a rousing sing-song. he main feature of the program was the Rev. Richmond's pictures of life in East Africa.

Spain's Population Up

MADRID (Reuters) — Spain's population is now 27,909,000, according to the provisional results of the 1950 census, an increase of 2,032,000 in the last ten years. Madrid's population has increased from 1,088,647 in 1940 to 1,609,524 in 1950.

TAX TOPIC — Joseph P. Marcelle, ousted Brooklyn, NY, tax collector, testifies about his income before the House Ways and Means Subcommittee, which is delving into tax scandals. Marcelle was served with a subpoena when he failed to show up for an earlier hearing.

CAMPBELLFORD
VOTERS!
A Government Liquor Store and a Brewer's Retail Store will greatly benefit you town, just as they have done in many other Ontario communities:
5 Reasons for Voting Yes
1. Stores in Campbellford will greatly increase all other lines of retail business.
2. More business means more jobs and a better living for more people.
3. Local stores promote practical temperance—save time and money now spent on out-of-town trips.
4. They will establish legal control (admittedly impossible under local option).
5. They will restore a democratic right long enjoyed by citizens of neighboring towns.

More Power For Ontario

The opening of the Richard L. Hearn Generating Station on October 26th, by the Honourable Leslie M. Frost, Prime Minister of Ontario, is another step in your Hydro's expansion program to add over 2,500,000 horsepower by 1955.

The first two units in the new station will supply 188,000 kilowatts (252,000 horsepower). The largest of its kind in Canada, this station will be used to maintain a complete continuity of service by providing reserve power to meet the heavy demand occuring when industry, the home and the farm simultaneously put electricity to its greatest use.

The initial four units will have an ultimate capacity of 400,000 kilowatts (536,000 horsepower) and provision has been made to increase the capacity of the plant to 600,000 kilowatts (800,000 horsepower) if circumstances demand an extension of steam generating facilities.

On this occasion, the Commission extends its thanks to the engineers, to labour and suppliers who made possible the completion of the Richard L. Hearn Generating Station on schedule.

Can It Be Called A Victory?

The Conservative party has won the general election in Britain, but it is doubtful if their success deserves the name of victory. The decision is too close and the government majority too small to permit that ease and confidence which political victory implies. The Labour Government, since the last general election, has worked under the same disadvantages which the Conservatives now face; constant fear of defeat on great and small issues cramps a government and eventually wears it out; to rule for a full term of office with a very small majority requires a degree of caution and compromise which is uncongenial to men of strong conviction, whatever their party. The selfsame tactics of attrition by fatigue, which the Conservatives brought to bear upon the Labour Government, will now be applied to themselves, and there is no reason to believe that they will endure it any better. It was desirable that one side or the other have a clear working majority; what the Conservatives will make of the situation remains to be seen; no amount of Cabinet brilliance can make up for basic lack of voting power in the Commons.

* * *

It may be, of course, that the Labour weakness which split that party a few weeks ago will work to Conservative advantage. With Mr. Attlee at the head of one Labour group, and Mr. Aneurin Bevan at the head of another, there may be two Labour parties in Opposition instead of one. But it would be folly to assume that this will be so; anyone familiar with political history knows that whereas prosperity is a breeder of disunity, adversity will often bring about the union of divergent elements, and Attlee and Bevan may find a common cause in the Opposition benches. The popular vote, as matters stand, is pretty evenly divided between Conservatives and Labour; indeed, Labour may have polled more votes than the Conservatives. The knowledge of such support is a mighty source of strength to an Opposition party.

* * *

It is impossible, in so close a decision, to guess what elements tipped the scale in favour of the Conservatives. A weak foreign policy undoubtedly told against Labour, but the Labour insistence that Churchill was a warmonger—Herbert Morrison's declaration that Churchill rubbed his hands before the microphone in anticipation of war in Egypt marked the lowest point of the Labour campaign—had its counter-effect. The voters knew that neither side could appreciably lighten their burden of taxes or ease the desperate need for industrial production. Many political observers felt that Mr. Churchill's leadership, because of his age and his known reluctance to work closely with his ministers, was a handicap to his party: but this was offset by the dissatisfaction which the British people have felt with members of the Labour Cabinet who have been very indulgent toward themselves in the matter of holidays, housing and other benefits which are denied to the average citizen. Probably the greatest factor in defeating Labour was the complication and duplication of government controls, and the dispatch with which the Conservatives reduce and humanize such controls will have much to do with their success in office.

* * *

The Conservatives have in their ranks a number of first-rate parliamentarians and administrators, including some young men of promise, of whom Mr. David Eccles is outstanding. The world which wishes Britain well will watch eagerly to see whether these men can improve the finance, the comfort and the political and moral influence of their country. And only very foolish people will forget to be grateful for the many fine jobs which have been done by the Labour Government; its faults were many, but its health plan and its nationalization of the mines—to name only two of its achievements—were reforms long overdue.

Canada Arms NATO Air

During the war Canada operated the vast Commonwealth Air Training Plan with such distinct success that Prime Minister Mackenzie King took the whole scheme financially out of British and other Dominions' hands and Canada ran the whole show. In Paris in March, 1950, Mr. Brooke Claxton, Minister of National Defence, harked back to the Commonwealth Air Training which made this country an airforce incubator of the world, and offered the North Atlantic Treaty Organization the benefits of such another scheme, also gratis to other countries. The offer was accepted. NATO Air Training in Canada began a year ago last July. It has progressed so well that Canada now proposes to train 1,400 NATO cadets a year.

The first contingent of fledgling aviators of NATO countries arrived at the R.C.A.F. base at London, Ontario in July, 1950. There they were given language instruction, lessons on Canadian geography and customs and other information necessary to their adjustment to R.C.A.F. training and life in Canada. Then they went to Centralia (London-Stratford area) for pilot training or to Summerside, P.E.I., for navigation instruction. Last May the first graduates received their wings. By summer there were a hundred pilot and navigator graduates of R.C.A.F. NATO air schools, from Italy, Belgium, France, Norway and the Netherlands. For the remainder of this year the training scheme will concentrate on United Kingdom young men.

This program, and Canada's pledge to provide eleven Canadian squadrons for the integrated force in Europe has made necessary the re-opening of several wartime flying stations. Also, the pace of the training has been accelerated. A large navigation school has been established at Winnipeg, and already United Kingdom and Canadian cadets are taking the 36-week course. They are now being joined by navigation cadets from Norway, France, Belgium, Italy and the Netherlands. Pilot training schools have been opened at Gimli, Man., Claresholm and Penhold (Alta.) and Moose Jaw. Advanced flying schools are being set up at Saskatoon and Portage la Prairie, and a pilot gunnery school at Macdonald, Man. These stations are providing for NATO as well as Canadian cadets.

It is in such ways as these that Canada's contribution to the allied military strength is assuming very large proportions. The NATO air training scheme is being completely financed and operated by Canada. Canadian equipment, Canadian-owned planes and Canadian facilities are being used. Canada provides the full cost of the training, all food, accommodation, transportation within Canada, and medical and dental care. Air force training on the immense scale now being set into operation is a significant contribution to North Atlantic strength. Canada is advantageously equipped geographically and strategically to do this work; and specially skilled in doing it well. It is a form of national defence and special assistance to the common cause which Canada undertakes gladly.

Peterborough Lit Up

The Examiner's photograph of the new City Hall at night, published Wednesday in our special section to mark its opening, revealed how night lighting can enhance a building. Then only the cupola had external lighting. But now floodlights have been set up to illuminate the whole George Street front of the new City Hall. The effect is imposing and pleasing. It is worth an evening stroll up town to see the City Hall at night.

Across the way in Confederation Park we already have a striking example of good flood-lighting. In these early fall evenings discreet floodlighting of the War Memorial has given it a special beauty, and the sculptor Walter Allward's figures are dramatically limned. The lights playing on the Memorial are admirably effective, and partly because the lamps themselves are not obtrusive. The shrubs, conifers and maples around it screen the glare and give the lighting a quality of grace and charm.

Good floodlighting of good buildings and monuments enhances their lineaments. Both the War Memorial and the new City Hall have specially pleasing aspects under the night light. In it they take on a different and in some ways more subtle character than the full cover of daylight gives them. The floodlighting up town adds to the city's beauty—and to its night life.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A medical authority says that if you wear fewer clothes you will live longer. We had not suspected that those girls in the Bikini bathing suits were simply trying to live forever.

We read that the average man has 66 pounds of muscle and 3.3 pounds of brain. Neither one will be of much use to him unless he has a reasonable amount of guts.

The British Medical Journal makes the horrifying assertion that the way to develop a red nose is to cut down one's consumption of tea, coffee, chocolate and spicy foods. This cuts the ground from under those people who have long insisted that a red nose indicates an increased consumption of malt liquors.

There is a rule of etiquette, we learn, which provides that introducers and thankers of the Prince and Princess must do their job in no more than 100 words. A pity that this rule was not explained to the man who, in thanking the Prince after an address to the Toronto Chamber of Commerce, covered as much ground as the Debate in Reply to the Speech from the Throne.

Bibliomania

THE CONTRIBUTORS to this column have at present an unusually large supply of books on hand, all waiting to be reviewed. Some of these are of considerable importance, for one reason or another; either they are by authors of importance, which means that our readers will want to hear about them as soon as possible, or they are by Canadian writers who, though less well known in the world, deserve consideration in a Canadian newspaper. This week Bibliomania is given up to reviews of three Canadian novels.

TEMPEST - TOST, by Robertson Davies (Clarke Irwin).

TECHNICALLY A FIRST NOVEL, this is the latest work of Mr. Davies to be published. The fine qualities of portraiture and humour in his essays and plays, which have won the acclaim of Canadian and British critics, are richly displayed in this novel; more important to most readers, they are shown in a manner which provides hilarious entertainment, against a general and a particular background with which the author is thoroughly familiar.

The general background is the city of Salterton. This could be a city of the author's construction, from bits of various Canadian communities in which he has lived, but Kingston readers will unhesitatingly identify it with that city. The similarities are too many to be denied. The particular background is the Little Theatre—of any community—a background Mr. Davies probably knows as well as any Canadian author. And against these backgrounds the characters in the book, ordinary and extraordinary, pleasant and unpleasant, come vividly to life.

The Salterton Little Theatre decided to stage "The Tempest" outdoors, setting in motion a chain of events which are chiefly and amusingly narrated. It may have been the change from indoors to outdoors, or some internal chemical alteration, that caused Hector Mackilwraith to act as he did. Whatever it was, Hector fell in love, and Hector had made no plans about falling in love. He was forty, a successful teacher with a future in the department, and a man who had carefully plotted his course. His subsequent deviations are often genuinely funny, sometimes pathetic; the latter are treated as gently as the former are wittily.

Hector unknowingly exposed himself to love when he messed up the Little Theatre's carefully planned casting by seeking and obtaining the role of Gonzalo. Prior to that, he had been business manager, and a most excellent one, and when he stepped out of character it interfered with the plans of the president, Mrs. Forrester, a rather unpleasant sample of the sort of person who habitually cloaks mulishness behind gush and tries to rule deviously. But she has to yield Gonzalo, and Hector is in for it. He is smiled upon, quite innocently, by nineteen-year-old Griselda, who is to play Ariel—chiefly because her father has the most suitable grounds in which to stage the play—and falls in love for the first time in his life.

THE characters in the book are brilliantly portrayed. They are all recognizable, in the sense that the reader will remember meeting them sometime, some place. There is Freddy Webster, a youngster with a dream, which is not at all unusual—but Freddy's is; she wants to wind up as "the Veuve Cliquot" of Canada. There is Professor Vambrace, "saturnine hatchet-man" of the Little Theatre, and his suppressed daughter, Pearl. There is the understandable Mr. Webster, who does not want to lend his garden, and his gardener, who detests the idea, but is enlisted smoothly, without realizing it, by the thoroughly likable Valentine Rich, professional director brought in for the event. There is a detestably possessive mother, who has long used a fake heart ailment to keep her son in line; there is a delightfully independent musician, a practical joker who kills a horse; a girl known as The Torso, and many other characters, dropping in and out of the happenings during the period in which the play is rehearsed and presented.

In turning to the novel, Mr. Davies has given further proof of literary versatility, but it may be asked if he should not now concentrate on this form. In this reviewer's opinion, Tempest-Tost is the best and most amusing thing he has written, and it would be most gratifying to learn that more could be expected from him in this field.

HIGH BRIGHT BUGGY WHEELS, by Luella Creighton (McClelland and Stewart).

THIS is an excellent first novel by a Canadian author who has previously only written short stories for the little literary magazines. Mrs. Creighton, Ontario born herself, has set her story in a Mennonite settlement in Ontario and her descriptions of the rural scenes and the quiet, almost Biblical existence of the Mennonites themselves are beautiful.

Tillie, the young heroine of the story, is the daughter of Levi Shantz, an Elder of the faith; she is engaged to a future missionary. Leaving the settlement temporarily to study music, and be apprenticed to a dressmaker, Tillie falls in love with a young druggist, and rebelling against the restrictions and prejudices of her own people, renounce the faith and her fiancee, and marries him. The difficulties she encounters whilst trying to adjust herself to the newer, more worldly outlook, the punishment she inflicts on herself in taking the death of her baby to be a sign from God that her happiness was founded in sin and must be paid for, and the final promise of a good and happy life in the new way with her young husband make a moving story. The characterizations are excellent and the only false note seems to be the sudden relenting of the father, Levi, who brings forgiveness and kindness to Tillie, which does not appear to be in keeping with the extremely demanding and unbending manner of his faith. This is a charming and interesting story, effortlessly told. Let us hope that Mrs. Creighton will find time, during her year in England, to complete her new novel.

ONE HAPPY MOMENT, by Louise Riley (Copp Clark).

THIS IS Miss Riley's first novel for adults; she has previously confined her work to the juvenile field, and it is a completely absorbing story. It is the story of a young librarian from Montreal who, after a broken love affair, decides she must escape from all contacts which will remind her of her lover; she feels also that she must finally break away from her domineering mother and have a life of her own. Whilst her mother is in Europe, Deborah assumes another name and seeks refuge and time to think in the mountains near Lake Louise. There she finds real friends and recovers her self-assurance through the love of a middle-aged doctor. The lives of the other holiday makers at the lodge are woven through the story as are also most vivid descriptions of the magnificent mountainous district that surrounds Lake Louise and Lake O'Hara in Alberta. All the characters in the book are believable (even the 'Hermit') and their conversations so natural that the reader will be inclined to interpose a bit as well. Deborah is finally run to earth by both her lover and her mother and, although her new found self-confidence is badly shaken she manages to act with maturity in her decisions for her future. People have been asking for a book about modern every-day Canadians, written by a Canadian but not self-consciously national and "One Happy Moment" is, to this reviewer's way of thinking anyway, just that.

AND NOW, to conclude, let us peruse this odd quotation from "Things New and Old" by William Barlow, which appeared in 1658, and gives us an insight into natural history as it was understood at that time: "Pliny in his natural history reporteth of Hedgehogs, that having been abroad to provide their store, and returning home laden with nuts and fruit, if the least Filbert fall but off, they will in pettish humour, fling down all the rest, and beat the ground for very anger with their bristles; And such is the peevish fancy of many straight-laced Christians amongst us...." To any reader who sends in a photograph of a hedgehog (porcupine) behaving in this manner, BIBLIOMANIA will present a handsome cash prize.

This Ought to Smoke Out Something

Censorship Won't Save The Faithful

(CALGARY HERALD)

DR. Brock Chisholm, chairman of the World Health Organization, is a man with a lot of opinions that irk a great many people. Thus it is that when he broadcasts these opinions over the air, he often manages to stir up small thunderstorms of controversy.

Some time ago he made a broadcast in which he cast what some people felt were aspersions on that jolly old festival of Christmas. He indicated that there wasn't any Santa Claus and that, Virginia, was enough to bring half of Canada down on his head. Apparently he has been sneaking his opinions onto the air again, for the Catholic Women's League of Canada thought his talks were enough to start a Parliamentary investigation of the CBC.

The League at its recent convention asked Parliament to probe "anti-religious" broadcasts on the CBC. These broadcasts, made by Dr. Chisholm and Dr. Ewen Cameron of Montreal, were labelled as "open attacks upon the basic principles and doctrines of Christianity." The League felt that the government should ensure that religion is not attacked over Canadian radio stations.

Dr. Chrisholm is a competent social scientist, and when he talked about Santa Claus, he was merely giving a lay lecture on superstitution and its effects on the growing minds of children. We doubt if his latest broadcasts were any more "anti-religious" than this. He is too responsible a man to be dragged into a purely church-baiting controversy.

But what if the opinions aired by these two doctors were "anti-religious," were arguments against the basic principles and doctrines of Christianity? Is that any reason to shut them off the air? After all, everyone doesn't happen to believe in that system of faith and worship known as Christianity. Everyone doesn't believe in a personal God, or the divine truth. And those people who don't, have a perfect right to express their opinions over the national network in competition with the leaders of the various religious faiths.

This freedom to express opinions on religious matters should not mean licence to attack various churches because of the forms of worship to which they adhere. The freedom to worship as any individual desires is one of the cardinal principles of our democracy. But too many people are prone to feel that this freedom implies that religion as such should not be attacked or argued about. These people feel rather that governments should decree an end to freedom of the air. They are under the delusion that opinions can be liquidated in a democracy. Religion should be able to fight its own battles; it has a lot of the trumps in this era of indecision, chaos and lack of faith. But censorship will never save the faithful.

Distinction

(Marguerite Higgins in The New York Herald-Tribune)

In interviewing one of India's highest ranking Cabinet Ministers I found that the conversation led the familiar path to the subject of Negro lynching in America. Lynchings are invariably invoked when an Indian official wishes to illustrate America's "reactionary tendencies". In this particular talk I agreed that lynchings were a national disgrace but pointed out that race relations in America were being rapidly improved, with lynchings averaging about one a year. Then I asked the Cabinet Minister if, since India felt so strongly about lynchings, it was disturbed about the mass executions of hundreds of thousands of persons in China.

"Oh, we don't know anything about that," the Indian Minister replied. "After all, we have very few contacts with China." Another high Indian official stated that executions in China "are a different matter than lynchings in America since they are not conducted for racial but for political reasons."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And in this mountain shall the Lord of hosts make unto all people a feast of fat things, a feast of wines on the lees, of fat things full of marrow, of wines on the lees well refined. And he will destroy in this mountain the face of the covering cast over all people, and the vail that is spread over all nations. He will swallow up death in victory; and the Lord God will wipe away tears from off all faces; and the rebuke of his people shall he take away from off all the earth: for the Lord hath spoken it. (Isa. 25: 6-8.)

After these things I beheld, and, lo, a great multitude, which no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, stood before the throne, and before the Lamb, clothed with white robes, and palms in their hands; and cried with a loud voice, saying, Salvation to our God which sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb.

And one of the elders answered, saying unto me, What are these which are arrayed in white robes? and whence came they? And I said unto him, Sir, thou knowest. And he said to me, These are they which came out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb....

They shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more; neither shall the sun light on them, nor any heat. For the Lamb which is in the midst of the throne shall feed them, and shall lead them unto living fountains of water: and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes. (Rev. 7: 9, 10, 13, 14, 16, 17.)

Letter To The Editor

WITNESS ATTITUDE EXPLAINED

Sir: The Peterborough Examiner of October 10 published statements made by some members of the City Council, which would raise doubts in the minds of some persons as to the views of Jehovah's witnesses with regard to the obligations of citizenship. In all fairness and for the benefit of honest-hearted persons who desire to know the truth we would like to make public certain facts concerning our stand in this connection.

To do this we can think of nothing better than to quote from our official publications. On page five of the booklet "Defending and Legally Establishing the Good News" the following statement is found: "Jehovah's witnesses are good and law-abiding persons of whatever country they inhabit and they expend their time, energies and money in helping their fellow countrymen to gain a further appreciation of the Word of the Most High. This is a very real contribution which they make wherever they are."

All true Christians realize that they have certain duties to discharge to the state and also obligations to be discharged to Jehovah God, and that each of these must be kept within their own sphere. On this basis the following quotation from the textbook "This Means Everlasting Life" page 201, can be easily understood: "Caesar coined his own money and did not accept Jewish coins as tax money; and so we must pay back Caesar or worldly political powers the coins made and which are required in tax payment. Through governmental operations Caesar renders us numerous services and we owe it therefore to pay our taxes. Thus we pay him back for the services he renders and from which we get earthly benefits, such as public service utilities and facilities, public schooling, postal service, fire prevention and protection, police service, roads and streets, etc. So pay him conscientiously for earthly services rendered. But none of such services require our worshipping Caesar and none are worthy of it. He cannot buy our worship with such things. None of such things buy or provide for us everlasting life, and none of such things are worth our lives, so that we should lay down our lives for "Caesar" in any case. Our life now and in the future is from the great Life-giver; "With thee is the fountain of life." "Salvation belongeth unto Jehovah". Psalms 36: 9; 3: 8, Amer. Standard Version)".

It is not generally understood that in democratic nations throughout the world Jehovah's witnesses in the last ten years have won for themselves and all freedom-loving citizens a greater measure of liberties and freedoms than the people have ever possessed before. In recognition of this fact the Toronto Daily Star editorially stated under the headline "A Free Land Made Freer"; "Not all of freedom's victories are won on the battlefield or in the legislative hall. Some are created in the solitude and contemplation of the judge's chamber. The Supreme Court of Canada, in acquitting a member of the Jehovah's witnesses sect of a charge of seditious libel, has upheld the democratic right of free expression."

In conclusion we would like the people to know that we are truly a fraternal organization working in the interests of all persons who love righteousness and the peace that can only come by the established Kingdom of God.

Yours truly,
CIRCUIT ONTARIO-8 OF JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES.

A Freak In Wheat

(Camrose Canadian).

Loren Batke, of Edberg, reports the finding of a stalk in his field of Thatcher wheat with a double head, taken from a field four miles northwest of Rockyford. He was doing a job of hail adjusting at the time and made it a point to show the freak head to several of his fellow adjusters, who claimed that this was the first example of double-headed wheat they too had ever seen.

City slicker deer hunters, beware!

Old Harrod Hogbin and his sons, Prosper and Gallant, that live on the edge of Moredumb Centre settlement, are on the warpath for YOU.

Besides being mighty sharp hunters they are brewers of note of a very potent Muskeg Muscatel. And being practical woodsmen, built their still beside one of the best deer runways in those parts.

For more years than they can remember, they have been in their brew shack before dawn's early light on opening day, not brewin' but shootin'. They shoot their game before someone else's dogs as it flashes past their doorway down the draw.

Last Fall old Harr was just drawing a bead on a fine buck when some joker in bright store-bought clothes fired at the same deer a split second sooner than Harr. They both missed the deer but the ferriner scored a direct hit spang in the centre of the mash kettle. The Hogbins were soaked with the precious stuff and their plant out of operation for ten days. Their Fall sales were shot, you might say.

If it hadn't been so confusing at the time the Hogbins swore they would have nailed the slicker's hide to the barn door. And they will this year if it happens again.

The third annual Kawartha district resort operators association conference will be held on Monday, all day, at the Empress Hotel. It is being sponsored by seven chambers of commerce,—Bobcaygeon, Fenelon Falls, Hastings, Lakefield, Lindsay, Omemee and Peterborough.

The Green Waters of the Kawarthas (Algae) will get a great going over. Some information will be forthcoming about the department of travel and publicity's resort rating system. There will be the usual pro-and-con discussion on district drift fishing. The carp menace situation should make lively discussion, too.

Secretary-treasurer Doug Oliver of the Canadian Tourist Association will be luncheon guest speaker and will talk on a variety of topics pertaining to the tourist industry.

Experts from lands and forests, health and publicity and travel, will be on various panels to dispense accurate information. See you there.

Nary a Trickle

Contemporary Richard F. Choate, whose features often appear on this page, is not going to like this.

I walked from Oshawa to Trenton and as far north as Muskoka, on the mosaic map in the lobby of the new City Hall, and found nary a trace of Indian River. However, there appear to be several lesser unnamed streams incorporated on it.

None as important as the former Father of Waters, though.

Speak of the Devil . . . .

Deer hunters may see the odd moose on their forthcoming season in the bush. These animals are protected here and should also be treated with much respect. It is rutting time and bulls are in a tesky frame of mind. Trent district forestryman Don Fawcett and friend Bill McGarrity experienced an object lesson on this score.

At the end of a poor day's duck hunting north of Haliburton village they were driving home, Lindsay way, and discussing what they would, or would not, do if they should meet an old Broadhorn, sometime. No sooner said than done—a bull and cow walked out of the bush about 20 yards in front of their car. The bull nudged the cow into the roadside brush and stood his ground in the middle of the right-of-way. The men stopped the car and sat pat. The big boy friend tore up some turf with his front hooves as he swung his big rack from side to side and snorted. When his audience made no move to applaud his showing off he followed the cow through the trees. By some whim the bull did not bother to test his charging strength on the car. But others of his kind have occasionally made a messy job of things. 'Nuff said.

Hound Haven

The Kawartha Kennel Club crowd are going all out this deer season to co-operate in any way the impounding, feeding and return of lost dogs. Secretary Ethel McFayden is contributing a case of feed and I understand the provincial government also make a substantial contribution for their care. Director Bill Thompson and Provincial Constable Bert Howden, Apsley, have been using their large private tract of land on Jack's Lake for hound accommodation and will continue to do so this season. President Dave Henderson and director Bud Lloyd are going up Sunday to look the spot over and offer their club's assistance. It is a worthy undertaking and right up their alley.

Herb Cardwell and son George, 12, of Wallace's Point, famous district trick canoe exhibitionists, have been signed up by Loyal Kelly to put on a tank act at the Canadian Sportsmen's Show, come spring. The third of their trio act, son Robert, must by-pass the show since his parents feel that his studies come first. Herb also has his eye on a list of various American shows, may consider some. The Toronto contract was the result of Loyal Kelly catching the act of the Peterborough Kiwanis Regatta at Little Lake last July 1st.

Out of the Mouths of Babes

The schoolchildren's safari to Cedar Lakes Park last Sunday under the sponsorship of teacher Norman Gainer—13 carloads of moppets and their parents—came back from their day's outing bubbling with enthusiasm about its future possibilities. They wrote essays in childlike forthrightness and said that the park should be developed. They are willing to wield shovels and axes themselves. They see no great obstacles, no red tape, no politics. It seems to me that the children of Peterborough and County are going to shame their elders into action, at last.

Charles Lowery of Clinton, a partridge hunter of note down that way, found a haw tree heavy with berries where, he had every good reason to believe, would be a great place to watch with his gun for night feeders. They arrived at dusk and as he was drawing a bead on a particularly fine cock, something knawing on his boot distracted his attention and the pellets went wide of their mark. He was disgusted to find the kibitzer was a porcupine and, though there was murder in his mind, refrained from putting a boot to the animal.

Partridge season ends a week from tonight, Nov. 3.

Squirrels—Black, Fox and Gray—may be shot on Nov. 2 and 3 only, bag limit five per day.

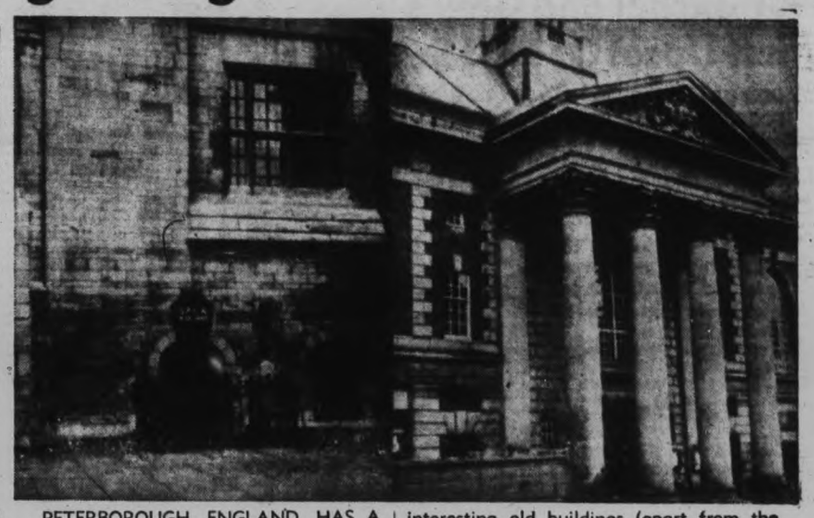
Kind Are Her Answers



KIND are her answers,
But her performance keeps no day;
Breaks time, as dancers
From their own music when they stray:
All her free favours
And smooth words wing my hopes in vain.
O did ever voice so sweet but only feign?
Can true love yield such delay,
Converting joy to pain?

Lost is our freedom,
When we submit to women so:
Why do we need them,
When in their best they work our woe?
There is no wisdom
Can alter ends, by Fate prefixed.
O why is the good of man with evil mixed?
Never were days yet call'd two,
But one night went betwixt.

Peterborough (Eng.) New Town Hall

PETERBOROUGH, ENGLAND, HAS A NEW TOWN HALL, TOO, built in the present century. It too has a small tower and cupola (LEFT). The pillared portico of Peterborough's New Town Hall (so-called to distinguish it from the Old Town Hall or Market Cross) is classical following the English Renaissance tradition (shown ABOVE) Right. The building is of brick and stone, fronts the main street (called Bridge Street) and the ground storey on this street is reserved for shops. One of the interesting old buildings (apart from the magnificent Gothic St. Peter's Cathedral) is "The King's Lodging." The restored part of it is shown ABOVE Left. The building dates from about 1150. The whole was originally the Peterborough residence of members of the Royal Family and their retinue. The part now remaining became a jail in Henry VIII's time. It is in the cathedral precints and now houses a book shop (S.P.C.K.—Society for the Propagation of Christian Knowledge — and a pharmacy.—(Photos by H. R. McG.)

U.K. Peterborough Has Venerable Story

By HELEN R. McGREGOR

The coming of the Mayor of Peterborough, England to open the new city hall recalls a visit to that city and its city buildings last summer. On arriving in England I had written the city clerk to ask him where to go to get some books about Peterborough that I was interested in. I received a prompt reply and an invitation to call on the city clerk.

When we reached Peterborough and had a little time to spare, we went to the city hall. The city clerk was busy when our names were sent in. It turned out that the Mayor was ill, and that the city clerk and the Deputy Mayor, were preparing for the council meeting that evening. The Deputy Mayor was a woman, whom we later met, and a most attractive and capable woman she was. This was the first occasion of her presiding over a council meeting

Meantime the Mayor's secretary, a young veteran, came to show us about. He took the opportunity to find out all he could about this city's centennial in which the Mayor was interested. (Regret that we had not then seen Mr. Dobbins' birthday cakes hoisted above the intersection.)

Impressive City Hall

The rooms we were shown impressed us. The clerk's office was spacious, and there was a fine big desk. There was a high-ceilinged hall for civic receptions. Massive furniture lent to the council chamber the dignity one associates with municipal government in England. But the room that interested us most was called, I think, the Mayor's parlor. Panelled in wood, it had interesting pictures and a library. This library dealt mainly with local history. We examined some of these books; one I remember was entitled: "Peterborough Local Administration, Parochial Government Before the Reformation (vol. IX)".

The only part of the building which did not impress one (and we do not know what difficulties of accommodation there may have been) was the office to which we first went—like ordinary citizens, our business unknown: it was small and dingy; there was only one chair; the clerks there behind a partition seemed to be working in cramped quarters.

But the courtesy shown us in both parts of the buildings was the same. The city clerk hoped we could stay over a day so that they might entertain us to luncheon. This we could not do, but we left the city very much impressed with the kindness shown to two passing strangers. If visitors to our new city building carry away the same impressions, we could all be very proud.

Founded 656 A.D.

There was, as most people know, no original connection between the two Peterboroughs, but now that we have forged the link we might well adopt an interest in the English Peterborough's long history. There is no more interesting mediaeval town than the English Peterborough, the borough that grew up round the old monastery founded probably in 656 A.D.—Hereward the Wake looted and burned it; the Black Death reduced the monks there from sixty-four to thirty-two; Mary, Queen of Scots, was buried there for a time.

One of the books purchased in Peterborough on the occasion of our visit was "The Peterborough Chronicle of Hugh Candidus" written about 1150. "It is written in Latin, you know," the clerk said to us; and so I suppose there is no use in quoting from it here. But in the same volume, with a translation, is "La Geste de Burch" sub-titled Historia Vetus Coenobii Petriburgensis, written about 1300, it is thought for the visit of Prince Edward (later Edward II in 1302, and taken almost wholly from the work of Hugh Candidus. It is in Anglo-Norman verse and looks like this:

Vindrent li Daneis la tere rober;
U qu'il unkes vindrent, les viles vunt arder,
Tant qu'il vindrent a cest liu—Alas de pieté!
Quant il i sunt, l'eglise unt ars, les moines unt tué,
Ne mie od force mais od fu tut l'unt deguasté.

Alexander Bell's translation tains the quaintness and simplicity of the original.

"The story will be of an abbey, it is called Peterborough; but Peterborough was not its name, when first it was found, it was called Medeshamstede by its right name . . . There were three brothers who first began it. Peada, Wulfhere, Ethelred; all were Christain kings, but their father Penda was a heathen king . . ."

"Dead Sinfully"

"When Peada was dead sinfully by treason, his brother Wulfhere received the region; all the realm he held in sway, he wore the crown, he was a king of great worth; what his brother began, he continued honourably; together with his brother Ethelred and his two sisters and with Saxulf, who loved religion, he completed the monstery discreetly and energetically. When all was prepared and well covered with lead, they dedicated it to St. Peter, the noble warrior, the apostle of Jesus Christ—well we know this . . . They ordained a great crowd of monks to serve God and St. Peter in religion. They made Saxulf their companion abbot and, that they might not desert religion on account of want, they gave them land and whatever they had need of . . . .

Abbot Saxulf Governed It Well

"The Danes (here begin the lines quoted above) came to ravage the land; wherever they came, they burned towns, until they came to this place—Alas for pity! When they got there, they burned the church, they killed the monks, not by force but by fire they devastated the whole of it . . . When they went away they left not a single man alive . . . In such wise they ruined England, then they went away to their country very joyous and glad . . . "After this there came a day, when God willed it, Saint Athelwold was bishop of Winchester . . . One night he lay in his bed as he was accustomed, it seemed to him Our Lord stood before him and admonished him that he should go straightway and rebuild the monstery of Saint Peter which was beside Nene. When he had heard such high command, much he wished to do things well, for this was only right.

"The morning came full soon, the night had passed away; with the dawn of day the worthy man arose, he assembled a crowd of his men and went away to seek what God had commanded him."

So, having followed the history of the English city from its founding as far as 966 A.D., I leave it with the suggestion that it is an interesting subject for the citizens of the Canadian Peterborough, most of whom will see 1966 A.D.

VERY SAVOURY PUFFS FROM COLD MEAT AND POTATOES

CUT any kind of Cold Meat into small pieces, and season them well with pepper and salt; add a little shred onion, if liked. Take the Cold Potatoes, mash them, roll them fine with a rolling-pin, and dust with a little flour; break an egg upon the potatoes, mix all well together, and make into a paste of the same thickness as for paste for ordinary pies, stiffening with a little more flour, if necessary; roll it out in portions of convenient size. Put the seasoned meat upon these portions, and fold in the usual puff form; pinch the edges together, and fry them slowly on all sides. For Supper or Luncheon, these Puffs are excellent; or as a bottom or side dish, to help out a spare dinner.

☛ There are some members of the community, that are like a crumb in the mouth; if they go the right way they afford a little nourishment; but, if they happen to go the wrong way, they cause a deal of trouble.

Reminding You of Some October Garden Chores

By HENRY PREE
Written for NEA Service

It is not too late to seed a new lawn or to topdress and repair an established rundown lawn.

The home gardener must remember that moisture is necessary to keep grass growing with daily watering a necessity. Once the tiny roots of the seedling grasses dry out it is too late to water.

This is a good time to make over the flower beds. Plants that are taken up must be covered, until replanted, with soil or burlap to prevent the roots from drying.

When phlox is divided the old centre of the clumps should be discarded and the young outside division planted. Japanese anemones and chyrsanthemums are best moved and divided next spring. Asters and heleniums may be divided now.

Plenty of work outdoors now will pay real dividends in enjoyment next year.

An important, but too frequently neglected chore is the annual feeding of the hedge. A 10-6-4, 6-10-4 or similar fertilizer applied now will promote vigor.

Mixed with peat moss, or some organic material, it is spread at the rate of two pounds per 20 running feet. The same quantity is applied on each side of the hedge. After spreading, work it into the soil and then water well.

If you have overlooked taking indoors any of the house plants that were recuperating in the garden this summer, take them in immediately so the shock of moving indoors is not too great.

If rainfall has not been abundant the past few weeks, artificial watering is particularly necessary for trees and shrubs planted this year. A good soaking will do much to help them get ready for their first winter. Water must be supplied at regular intervals until the ground freezes.

Now is the time to start paper-white narcissus. About a month is needed in the dark for adequate root formation. Then the bowls are brought into the light and heat.

Maybe you have wondered why your African Violets have failed to bloom to your satisfaction. The answer generally is — too little light, overwatering or erratic temperatures.

Gardening Questions

Q—How can I grow nice petunias for next spring? I want them next to the foundation of the house. I have pulled all the grass and dug it up. Is it proper to sow seed at this time of year so they can reseed themselves by next spring or must I wait and sow the seed in the spring?
—E. H. A.

A—Since one cannot depend upon petunias self-sowing, it is far better to sow seed each spring or purchase potted seedings and plant them a foot apart. Petunias, like all other flowers, want a sunny location and a well-drained humusy soil to which fertilizer has been added. If possible, mix in some old manure now so that it is there next spring to greet the plant roots.

Q — How would we go about planting a hedge around our lawn so we could be sure of having a nice, full hedge?—R. F.

A — To be full and thrifty a hedge must have—(1) Plenty of sunlight. (2) A well drained trench, 18 in. wide and 12 in. or more deep. (3) Good soil—made up of 4/5 loamy topsoil, 1/5 old manure and two pounds of Stadler's XXX fertilizer for each 20 feet of hedge. (4) Young, bushy nursery plants 18-24 in. tall, spaced 15 in. apart and planted only as deep as they grew in the nursery. (5) Good care each year, meaning—watering during periods of drought, cultivation once a month, pruning or trimming 3 or 4 times a year and fertilization each spring.

Northerners Defeat PCVS For Garnet and Grey's First Upset Of 1951 Season

By DON GRANT

TORONTO, Oct. 27—A strong aerial attack by Kirkland Lake collegiate blended perfectly Friday night with PCVS' poor passing defence, resulting in an 11-8 win for the NOSSA representatives in the first game of the Red Feather tournament for the Ted Reeve trophy and the Ontario championship. Although PCVS overpowered the Garnet and White from the north with a steady driving ground attack, Kirkland Lake bobbed up twice with long and short passes to cut shost PCVS leads.

But the game was considered only a preliminary by the more than 20,000 madly cheering students from Toronto and district high schools, Hamilton (53 bus loads), Stamford, St. Catharines, Kirkland Lake and Peterborough. The Hamilton Cathedral-Stamford tilt was considered "The" game for the title.

Hamilton lived up to pre game expectations kicking, plunging and passing and handed a 20-0 loss to the Niagara district representatives. The Cathedral Gaels, who are expected to sweep the tournament, went up 1-0 in the first, 8-0 at the half and scored two touchdowns in the final quarter.

The Gaels carried too much power in all departments for Stamford who will likely play PCVS Garnet and Greys in the COSSA finals in Peterborough on November 17.

In many respects the Peterborough-Kirkland Lake game was the better. The passing was exceptionally good; the plunging fair and the punting average. The closeness throughout kept the fans roaring.

Found The Weakness

Orillia last Saturday found PCVS pass defence weak and packed plays accordingly. Kirkland Lake discovered that weakness early and played for it for all it was worth winning the game.

Late in the second half after PCVS scored a major, Kirkland Lake's quarterback, Brun Anderson started a passing parade up the field. His first pass from the north's 35 was good to George Roy to PCVS 39. He followed with others to Guido Minardi and Ralph Caswell before he topped off the rush with a 20 yard pass to Roy who made a diving catch for the score. Minardi converted to put the north up 6-5.

Kirkland Lake's final score came in the last three minutes of play just after PCVS went up 8-6. This time the same Brian Anderson tossed five completed forwards moving the ball for 72 yards and ending in Anderson scoring on a plunge.

Splendid Ground Attack

In spite of the aerial attack PCVS outplayed the Garnet and White throughout with a ground attack which fell short in the clutches. The Peterborough boys made all their 18 first downs on the ground, not one coming through the air. Meanwhile the best the north could do was eight firsts, mostly by the air route.

In fact PCVS ground power was illustrated in the second quarter when they marched 75 yards up the field on plunges. Murray Grafstein, Bryan Young, Warren Brown and Buster Jensen each carried the ball for seven first downs on the march. Then Grafstein went over for the first score which went unconverted.

Bob Craw paved the way for PCVS' other points in the fourth when he intercepted Anderson's pass at the Kirkland Lake 31. PCVS kept the Northerners tied well inside the 20 yard line until finally a short kick by Anderson and a plunge by Grafstein to the 19 yard line set up a three point kick by Dave Langhorne from the 24 yard line.

Both teams cashed in on all their scoring chances.

Easily the most valuable player for Kirkland Lake was Anderson and so the judges decided, awarding him a John David Eaton gold watch. Besides calling an excellent game, his passing record was nearly perfect, attempting 13 passes, having 12 complete and one intercepted.

For PCVS the backfield was only fair, Grafstein, Brown, Young and Jensen standing out for their plunging and running performances which at times were below par.

Telford Wins Watch

But the judges' pick for the most valuable player was a lineman, Jim Telford, a middle, who played an outstanding game both ways. The line stopped the norths ground attack cold but they couldn't break through on the Kirkland Lake pass plays. Telford also received a gold watch.

The cheering, led by 250 cheerleaders, representing various Ontario high schools, was continuous from 7 pm until 11.30 pm when the final whistle sounded. They were assisted by four bands, the Royal Canadian Regiment band, DeLaSalle trumpet band, East York Collegiate band and North Toronto Collegiate brass band.

The tournament continues tonight with Toronto Riverdale meeting Etobicoke and Ottawa Glebe playing Windsor Patterson.

Normals Lose To CGE As Neills Win

CGE defeated Normals 17-11 as Neill's won by default over the Nurses last evening in the YWCA to open the Girls' City Basketball League. Nurses were unable to floor a squad, and Neill's took the tilt 2-0 by forfeit. Their players were W. Byers, B. Callan, D. Smith, J. Castle, M. Borland, and J. Dunk.

CGE took an 11-7 first-half lead in the second game with J. Luther having two baskets, M. Perrin counting three points, and F. Greenlaw and M. Hodson each sinking a basket. Two points apiece were counted by L. Faircloth, F. Jeremy, and B. Osborne, while B. Waddington got a single. They were held to baskets by B. Osborne and B. Waddington in the last half, while three points each were notched by F. Greenlaw and J. Luther of CGE. The teams:

Normals — L. McKinley, B. Scollard, L. Faircloth, B. Waddington, F. Jeremy, G. Todd, E. Wallace, B. Osborne.

CGE—F. Greenlaw, M. Hodson, M. Perrin, J. Luther, B. Rashotte, L. Scrace.

Referees—D. Burrows and D. Beatty. Timer—J. Cooper.

Faltering Stamps Reorganized, NewDealComing

CALGARY, Oct. 27 (CP). — Calgary's courageous football enthusiasts, plagued by a $30,000 to $50,000 deficit and two dismal seasons by their Stampeders,' are rarin' to go for 1952.

Preliminary plans for next season were completed Friday with organization of a regrouped executive, replacing the 1951 officials who resigned en masse on Wednesday. A majority of the 1952 officials have been connected with the club for a number of years.

Tom Brook who resigned as president is succeeded by Cec Chesher, a prominent Calgary businessman, but Brook remains on the 12-man board of "working" directors.

Archie McGillis will remain as team manager but it is expected a business manager will be hired soon. There was nothing new on the position of coach Les Lear who has one year to go on a five-year contract.

(In Edmonton there were unconfirmed rumors that some Stampeder officials have been dissatisfied because, the rumors said Brook, McGillis and Lear made decisions without consulting their officials.)

Chesher in announcing 1952 plans said the main objective will be to make the club more of a civic endeavor.

Wallow In Defeat

Stampeders, under Lear, a former Winnipeg and professional lineman, won the Grey Cup in 1948 and were in the final the next year.

But since the team has wallowed in defeat.

In both 1950 and 1951, the team won only four of 14 scheduled games and failed to make the Western Conference playoffs.

Lear has to contend with a wave of injuries to first-string players. Halfback Royal Copeland was injured and didn't show much until the final game. Others hurt were tackle Ed Champagne, end Sugarfoot Anderson and quarterback Keith Spaith.

Stampeders traded Normie Kwong to Edmonton for Reg Clarkson. Kwong, a 21-year-old Chinese, had a good year scoring eight touchdowns and finishing 10th in the individual scoring race. Clarkson, a Vancouver product, was hurt early and never did get untracked.

Much was expected of Bob Shaw, an import end. Shaw won the conference scoring title but was a disappointment on defence. Fullback Bob Agler, imported to replace line-shattering Paul Rowe never made the fans forget Rowe.

Schroeder Joins Davis Cup Team

PALM SPRINGS, Calif., Oct. 27 (AP)—Veteran Ted Schroeder joined the United States Davis Cup team officially today.

The La Crescenta, Calif., refrigerator salesman arrived here with the squad Friday and while the announcement of his membership on the team was anticipated, it wasn't expected this soon.

Schroeder, who has represented the US in six cup tournaments, originally told the Davis Cup committee two weeks ago that he would be unable to make the trip.

He said Friday night, however, that he reconsidered under urging from Perry T. Jones, secretary of the Los Angeles Tennis Association, and Frank Shields, the Davis Cup captain.

The announcement of Schroeder's acceptance of a nomination to become a member of the squad came from Shields during a late dinner at Palm Springs Racquet Club.

The squad is now made up of Schroeder, Dick Savitt of South Orange, NJ, Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, and Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La.

Zorra the French Tarzan has been rematched with Lord Athol Layton in the main pro mat bout at the Brock next Tuesday night. It's a natural for grapple fans as their previous meeting here two weeks ago wound up in a "hey rube" scene with everyone getting into the mixup. Layton won the doubtful decision. The Frenchman is a streamlined whizz and can sure use his feet. In fact, these husky and well-conditioned wrestlers put on a top exhibition of fast, open and scientific mat action, and will likely repeat the performance. Chief Suni War Cloud faces Toar Morgan — back from Tennessee — in the semi-final, while Lou Sjoberg and Pat Flanagan go in the opener. A hot time assured.

An item comes to hand from the Glasgow Weekly News: Conversation piece at Tynecastle, Edinburgh, in a game between Hearts and Hibs after a ball had run along Hearts' line and had been kicked clear. Hibs' skipper, Gord Smith: "Would it be all right, Mr. Faultless, if I asked you to consult your linesman as to whether the ball was over?" Referee Faultless: "Sorry, Gordon, I was in a perfect position to see. There cannot be any question of me altering my decision." Now if everybody was that polite on a football field or in a hockey arena . . . Ah, well, that's asking too much. But hasn't Referee Faultless the perfect name for his job?

Better Hug The Bench

Hockey refs this winter may now penalize any player leaving his bench during an altercation on the ice, even if the player does not get into the scrap. His very presence on the ice is considered encouraging to his mates, threatening to the rival team and confusing to the arbiters. The question then arises as to what should be done if all the guys come off the bench. The CAHA says it would be impractical to penalize the whole team, but the referee should penalize two of the puckists who came onto the ice illegally with that team. The rule makers aren't trying to make a pansy game out of hockey but they want to keep it fast and interesting for fans, and they want to avoid injuries. Naturally, they'll back their referees to the limit.

Orfuns reached the end of a rather rocky grid trail before a big crowd at Morrow Park last eve. Yeah, those blinkety-blank Galloping Ghosts of Cobourg did it again! 'Twas 9-7 this time and they got all their wretched points in final frame after Orfuns had built up a 7-0 halftime lead. They're not only lucky, but they're opportunists and they don't quit fighting till the final whistle. A good club and we wish 'em well. Tough luck for the Gnup crew. A no-yards penalty and a short kick (Paul's only one in the game) paved the way for the Ghosts' late winning drive. Art Jones (who helped UE win a soccer title here recently) booted the placement which won the tilt. Lou Nickle got a swell 70-yard touchdown for Orfuns, and the whole gang played hard, but the score is still 9-7 for the gol-darned Ghosts!

Sky-Writing A Victory

An aerial attack by Kirkland Lake in Toronto last p.m. spelled defeat for PCVS 11-8 as the Red Feather tournament opened, Hamilton whitewashing Stamford 20-0 in the other game played. It winds up tonight. A crowd of about 20,000 viewed proceedings. The Garnet and Grey squad stuck mostly to the ground but Brian Anderson of the northerns clicked on seven of 11 pass attempts, besides slipping over himself for a major count. Murray Grafstein got the Peterborough touchdown and Dave Langhorne kicked a field goal to account for their points. A tight tilt all through but the Collegians from here couldn't stop those forward flips. The team is staying over till tonight.

It was the end of the road for Joe Louis in New York last night as Rocky Marciano knocked him out in the eighth round. The one-time great heavyweight fighter and world's champ is too far over the hill now and might as well hang 'em up for good. Before he gets punchy. Many fight fans will mourn the passing of an era but time catches up with all of us, and the Brown Bomber of Detroit is no exception. Those who feel sorry because he has little money left after making a million can save their tears. A whole lot more folks haven't much money, either. Joe made it and lived like a king for years. If he's broke now, we imagine a husky 37-year-old fellow can get a factory job like so many others and earn an ordinary living.

Rangers Get Conacher

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (AP). — Jim Conacher, slender forward sought by the Rangers for two seasons, has finally been acquired by New York's National Hockey League club. Conacher was obtained from Chicago Black Hawks on waivers Friday in a straight waiver deal. The 30-year-old Conacher scored 10 goals and 27 assists in 52 games last year. He's a six-year NHL veteran.

Louis' Eyes Dry As Tears Flow Freely

By JOE REICHLER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (AP). — Tears flowed openly and unashamedly in Joe Louis' dressing room—but not from Joe.

There wasn't a dry eye—except those of the former great heavyweight champion. His were bright and clear.

Middleweight champion Ray Robinson sobbed softly. Ex-heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles blinked and blinked. Others in the sweaty room, some of them veteran newspapermen, had large lumps in their throats. The only lumps Louis had were on his cheeks and forehead.

They all realized it was the end of an era. Louis' glorious and history-making ring days were over.

Everybody hated to see it end that way—Louis sprawled out, flat on his back on the ring apron his legs tangled around the ropes —knocked out by Rocky Marciano, a rough, tough, hard-punching kid out of Brockton, Mass.

Secretly, however, those in the hot steaming room listening to the balding, 37-year-old gladiator mumble replies Friday night to countless questions, were glad Joe had lost.

May See Light

Maybe now, they reasoned, Louis would see the light. Maybe now he would decide once and for all to quit before he suffered serious injury.

"Please, Joe, quit," they were thinking. "Say it is so."

But Louis, his face bloated, his lips and nose puffed, his left hand swollen and in pain, his legs and body weary, would not say. Always truthful and to the point with is answers, Joe parried this question.

"It'd rather not say now," he muttered in a voice that was barely audible. "I'll let you know Monday in the IBC office."

"I don't want to make a hasty decision," he added. "I had an exhibition tour planned (to Tokyo and Korea.) It all depends upon whether the people will still want me to go through with it."

"Maybe they won't want me now," he said as an afterthought.

Louis accepted his defeat calmly, too calmly, his well wishers thought.

"It's no use crying," he said philosophically. "The better man won. That's all.

"I'm not too disappointed. I only hope everybody feels the way I do about it. I'm not looking for sympathy from anybody. I have no alibis. I hurt my hand in my last fight (against Jimmy Bivins last August), but it didn't bother me much tonight. I wasn't hurt much. I was just tired."

Louis gave a hint he might retire when he said:

"Well, I guess everything happens for the best. I guess I am just too old."

Lindsay Beats The Petes In Exhibition

Lindsay Muskies defeated the Petes' puckists 7-3 in an exhibition tussle in Lindsay last night. Coach Al Burns' bunch proved a fast-stepping outfit in fine condition, a team that played for keeps. It was a rather rugged joust with Stan Groshak of the Petes suffering a leg cut that required five stitches, and Green of the Muskies also needing medical attention after a collision. Eight penalties were passed out.

The Petes looked disorganized, especially in the first and third frames, while clicking better in the middle chapter. Sixty Coombs was really rolling for the winners, and Al Burns played a solid game for them. Floyd got the first goal for the Petes, while Mortimer and Dean West got the others, the latter and Gus Leonard each having an assist.

Lineups:

Lindsay Muskies—Goal, O'Connell; defence, Burns, Green; centre, Parker; wings, Coombs, Lewis; alternates, Crawford, Corley, Blake, Ellis, Hicks, Mike Burns, Donahue, Hennessey.

Peterborough Petes — Goal, Harding; defence, Jopling, Dean Wasson; centre, Groshak; wings, Fryia, Wyatt; alternates, Gus Leonard, Garvey, Earl Leonard, Wade, Dean West, Steele, Mason, Dugan, Lindbergh, Junior West, Collins, Floyd, Jack Mortimer, Landon.

Summary:

First Period

Lindsay—Coombs (Ellis) .. 10:02
Lindsay—Donahue (Burns) 12:42
Penalties—Burns, Corley, Dugan.

Second Period

Lindsay—Davis ..... :11
Petes—Floyd (Wade) 10:23
Penalties—Davis, Crawford, J. West, Corley.

Third Period

Lindsay—Baker (Blake) .. 4:15
Lindsay—Crawford (Parker, Coombs) 5:22
Lindsay—Coombs 5:45
Lindsay—Coombs (Parker) 9:59
Petes—Mortimer (D. West) 11:03
Petes—D. West (G Leonard) 13:02
Penalties—Hicks.

Referees—Pete Nigh, Peterborough; Perry McIntosh, Lindsay.

Three Lindsay Teams Enter OMHA Series

LINDSAY, Oct. 27.—Holders of one provincial crown and runners-up in the other competitions, Lindsay Minor Hockey League will enter three teams in the OMHA again this season.

The midgets will defend their "B" championship, while strong entries will be made in the bantam and juvenile classifications. The peewees, who missed the first Ontario championship in Goderich, will be organized again as well as the squirts, who were finalists in the Weston little NHL tournament.

The LMHL, which is sponsored by the local recreation committee, will operate a five-group, 20 team little NHL loop starting on Monday night. Don Dart has been re-appointed chairman and Jack Ross and Bob Gibson selected as treasurer and secretary respectively.

Saddler Suspension Lifted In December

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (AP). — Featherweight champion Sandy Saddler will be back in the good graces of the New York State Athletic Commission Dec. 5.

The Commission Friday decided to lift the indefinite suspension as of that December date. Action was taken against him Oct. 5 as a result of his rough-house title fight with Willie Pep Sept. 26. Both were accused of violating ring rules.

No announcement was made regarding Pep who had his licence revoked at the same time.

Ghosts Erase the Orfuns In Fourth-Quarter Drive

Orfuns bowed out of the ORFU picture here last night as Cobourg Ghosts came from behind a 7-0 deficit to win out 9-7 late in the fourth quarter before a big crowd. With two minutes to go and down 7-6, Art Jones of Cobourg—who helped Peterborough UEW win a soccer title this year—kicked the wininng field goal from 20 yards out. Peterborough had most of the play the first half but Cobourg drove back hard in the last two quarters and cashed in on local errors in the final frame. Karl Lenahan counted their major in the fourth on Bob Cooper's pass after Chuck Paul's only short kick of the game, one that went out on the Peterborough 35-yard stripe. Jones kicked the convert. A no-yards penalty hurt then, too, to put the ball down on the 35. Passers left uncovered on a later drive put Cobourg in a good spot for Jones' winning placement.

Got One Early

Chuck Paul hoofed a single early in the game for Peterborough after Trimm had blocked a Cobourg kick and Nickle had bucked for seven. They got their other scores in the second chapter after Bob Cooper had booted one of his long specials. Lally Lalonde took the ball and passed to Lou Nickle, who fumbled temporarily but recovered and pounded through for a spectacular 70-yard run to count a major, Bill Huntley kicking the convert. They lost on down when but three yards out late in the first quarter when the Cobourg line held.

While Orfuns outplayed the Ghosts a good part of the game, the visitors proved again that they were good opportunists and that they fought right to the finish. It was a swell football game, but a sad one from a local standpoint as the loss definitely puts Orfuns out of the race. Play was typical of a Peterborough-Cobourg battle, bruising but pretty open, with lots of fumbles and penalties.

Looked The Best

Probably the pick of the Gnup crew on plunging, running, passing, tackling and blocking were Bill Huntley, Lou Nickle, Lally Lalonde, Johnny Lynch, Frank Fitzgerald, Olive Naismith, Jim Conlin and Bill Tring. Though Chuck Paul got away some fine kicks, Bob Cooper, of Cobourg, had an edge on him. Douglas and Black proved good Cobourg receivers, and Medhurst, Fleach and Forester reeled off a lot of yardage in the last half. Both sides were pestered with injuries and on play it was just a toss-up throughout, but Cobourg got the winning points near the close.

The visitors were half an hour late and the large crowd grew impatient, despite fine weather. The Ghosts brought a 14-piece band, dressed as clowns, which gave a gay note to the big game, and the local Citizens' Band and the Quaker Knothole gang added to it. This was the best game of the season here and the most important, but once again the Galloping Ghosts trotted off in triumph. Teams:

SWELL EFFORT—Jim Conlin was one of half a dozen of the Orfuns who sparkled in a losing cause here last night as the grid Orfuns bowed out of the ORFU race 9-7 to their old enemy, Cobourg's Galloping Ghosts.

Cobourg—Flying wing, Currelly; halves, Medhurst, Fleach, Forester; quarter, Campbell; snap, Edmiston; insides, McNally, Saunders; middles, Holman, Burdick; outsides, Douglas, Black; alternates, McConvey, Jarvis, Seal, Cooper, Longhurst, Lewis, Pointon, Watson, Link, Brandwood, Garvin, James, Lees, Lenahan, Ross, Wilcox.

Orfuns—Flying wing, Lalonde; halves, Huntley, Berry, Nickle; quarter, Dewart; snap, Graham; insides, Lynch, Fitzgerald; middles Beatty, Bartley; outsides, Naismith, D. McGillis; alternates, DeCarlo, Paul, Burns, Farr, Trimm, Eady, Russelle, Matthews, J. McGillis, Thompson, Archibald, John Conlin, Baker, Jim Conlin, Menzies, Johnson, Howe and Scriver.

Officials, C. Hiltz, J. Rowntree, C. Rowntree.

Joe Louis Career Finished Marciano New Idol After Brown Bomber's TKO

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, Oct. 27. (AP)—Joe Louis is through. Boxing has a new idol today in Rocky Marciano. It's the old story of the ring. Youth must be served. At 2:36 of the eighth round in Madison Square Garden Friday night, the old Brown Bomber was stretched on his back on the apron of the ring in a pathetic finish to one of the most fabulous stories in all sports. Today 27-year-old Rocky, a one-time soldier, shoeworker, and ditch-digger with little more than three years of pro fighting behind him, was the toast of the town.

The big brass of the International Boxing Club will sit down today with Rocky and offer him a shot at Ezzard Charles, the ex-champion, for February or March and a possible title shot with Jersey Joe Walcott next summer.

For Louis, an old man of the ring at 37½ years, it's the end of the long trail that began 17 years ago and brought him to the world's heavyweight championship and ring earnings of more than $4,500,000.

Joe said he'd wait until Monday to make a decision about his fighting future.

Know Answer

He doesn't have to say it though. The crowd of 17,241 in the Garden and the 50,000,000 or more others who watched via a coast-to-coast telecast, know the answer.

Many of the televiewers probably watched Louis in action for the first time. It's too bad they had to see the inevitable finish.

It's too bad they couldn't have seen the tawny tiger who roared out of the west in the mid-30s to rip all before him.

Now the talk was all Rocky, unbeaten in thirty-eight fights, 33 knockouts, almost a carbon copy of the string hung up by the once magnificent Brown Bomber.

And Rocky tore a page out of Louis' book in writing finish to it.

He belted the balding Joe with rights to the kidneys to take the drive out of his legs, he rushed him until the Bomber was befuddled and he finished him with the fury of the old Louis.

Leading on the scorecards of all three officials going into the eighth round, the swarthy, 27-year-old Brockton, Mass., belter tore out of his corner with the advice of trainer Charley Goldman ringing in his ears.

"Get him now."

Louis Done

He did. A scowl on his face, Rocky blazed after the tiring ex-champ. A left hook flush to the jaw dropped the tall, proud Louis At two, he was on one knee while he listened to referee Ruby Goldstein's count. At eight he was up . . . but he was done.

Marciano stormed after him. A right to the head dazed the Bomber. He tottered back against the ropes and his hands fell to his sides. Then a crunching left hook to the chin and a right to the head and Joe started down.

As the fall began, Rocky ripped another left hook to the body and Louis went through the ropes and on to the apron of the ring on his back.

Goldstein took one look at the helpless Louis and spared him a count.

The exuberant Marciano followers burst through the police lines and into the ring while the crowd let loose with one roar after another.

Up to the eighth, it looked as if the compact 187-pounder was going to win a decision over the shell of a once great fighter whose reflexes had slowed to a walk.

Rocky began heaving rights from the opening bell. The fans gasped when Rocky missed haymaker rights but the ringwise shook their heads in sorrow when Joe didn't follow it up.

Boivin Latest Smythe Worry

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Prss Staff Writer

Somehow or other, Conn Smythe's player troubles have been piling up the last couple of years. But he still can come up with a Stanley Cup winner.

First, the C-form twins—Danny Lewicki and George Armstrong—raised a lot of rumpus in the public prints before they came under the Leafian fold, due mainly to Smythe's persuasiveness. Then Wild Bill Ezinicki (now with Boston Bruins) decided last season to lose himself on a golf course rather than train with the Leafs.

And now it's the temperamental Leo Boivin, seriously considered as a hot-shot prospect with the Leafs, who up and left Pittsburgh, farm club of the Leafs in the American Hockey League. Leo had a date with Smythe Friday and came out of the conference still undecided whether he wants to make pro hockey his career.

But two will get you one that Smythe, who thinks highly of the former Port Arthur Bruins player's abilities, will have the Prescott youngster in hockey gear within a week.

Meanwhile, Toronto faces one of its toughest weekends of the young National Hockey League season with home-and-home games against the league-leading Detroit Red Wings. It is Red Wings at Toronto tonight and the two going at each other at Detroit Monday.

Other weekend games on tap are New York at Montreal tonight, with the two clubs tangling at New York Monday night. The Boston-at-Chicago game Sunday fills out the weekend schedule.

Farelli Says He Hasn't Say

GALT, Oct. 27 (CP).—James Farelli, 190-pound defenceman who has been the subject of a hot dispute between Galt Black Hawks and Kitchener Greenshirts of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, returned here Thursday.

He said he found Montreal Canadiens, who have Farelli signed to a C form and sponsor the Kitchener team, have him "over a barrel," although he still wants to play in Galt.

The National Hockey League Canadiens tendered a pro contract which left him with but one of three choices—he could go to Kitchener for another season of junior A hockey, sign pro and take a chance of being sent anywhere, or take a chance of being suspended by playing for Galt.

He travelled to Kitchener on Friday to talk with Greenshirt manager Bob Crosby. However, before he can play with the Shirts, the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association must rule on his appeal for a release from Fort William to Galt. Then Kitchener must get a branch-to-branch transfer.

OHA Reviews Kingston Case

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—Three executive members of the Ontario Hockey Association will meet here late this afternoon with W. J. Henderson, MP for Kingston, to discuss the suspensions of 16 players and officials of the Kingston Nylon Hockey Club. The club was charged with throwing a playoff series to Peterborough last spring.

Mr. Henderson requested the meeting to discuss possible weaknesses in the OHA Constitution in connection with the sentences. He will meet with Gorge Dudley, W. A. Hewitt and OHA Secretary William J. Hanley. Mr. Henderson, it is believed, is trying to intercede on behalf of at least a few of the suspended players.

No comment was available from any of the four parties involved in the meeting, which will be held in private at the Royal York Hotel.

Jews Exceptional In Spirit, Power Surviving Slavery

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

One of the things that has made the Bible's Old Testament so vitally related to human experience, and so persistent in its symbolism, is the fact that every phase of what has happened, and what is happening, to humanity is somewhere found in the record.

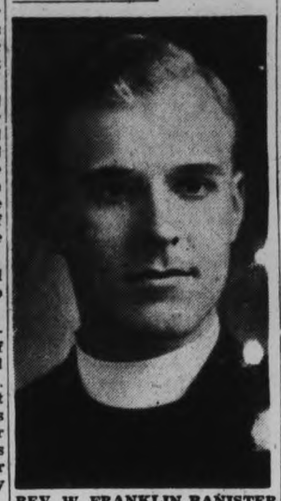
Periods and episodes of greatness, prosperity, and splendor are interspersed in that history with periods of depression, deep suffering, and utter destruction.

The enslavement of the Jews who were driven from Palestine to Egypt by famine, where they had shared at first in the power and popularity of Joseph, was only the first of great and tragic disasters that fell upon that people.

The national strength developed under King David, and the "glory of Solomon," had barely passed before the nation was disrupted by internal strife, a prelude of the Northern Kingdom of the Ten Tribes, eight centuries before Christ, and the carrying off of the mass of the people to exile in Babylon, 136 years later.

The Jews have been exceptional in their spirit and their power to survive.

Slavery and some form of bondage have been the condition of the vast mass of mankind all through the ages, and freedom, except in the conception of it that began early with the Jews (note their land laws, the Year of Jubilee, and the provisions against perpetual servitude for debt) has been a comparatively modern affair.



What is more to the point, and more amazing, is that that ancient history, surveyed against present-day events and conditions, often reads very much like the Twentieth Century. The oppression of the Jews by a hostile Pharaoh in Egypt can be compared with Hitler's attempt utterly to annihilate the Jews in Germany, and to extend that annilation to every part of the world that he hoped to conquer.

So the Old Ttestament Scriptures have interest, vividness, and significance for discerning readers today, that escapes those who have read them only as records of the past.

What is most deeply significant in those Scriptures, however, is that out of, and in, a world of slavery and bondage, they not only contain the essential idea of freedom, but the reveal the hope, power, and persistant spirit of survival.

Not only is it significant that the spirit of freedom persists in a world of bondage, but religiously there is the miracle of the survival of faith, and the aspiration for truth and righteousness.

Despite the deep-dyed sins of nation and individuals, in the history of Israel, what shines forth is a pure and perfect aspiration for God, and a sublime devotion to the commonweal. Did patriotism ever have a nobler expression than that in Isaiah 62:1?

REV. W. FRANKLIN BANISTER

Rev. Banister To Preach Anniversary

The 42nd anniversary services will be held in St. James' United Church on Sunday. The Rev. W. Franklin Banister, OBE, BD, of Chalmers United Church, Kingston, will be the guest preacher.

Rev. Banister's boyhood home was at Campbellcroft, and he attended High School at Port Hope. He was minister for some time at Canton. Before he became minister of Chalmers United Church, Kingston, he was minister of Simpson Avenue United Church, in Toronto.

Many veterans of the Second World War will remember him as Lt.-Col Banister, the senior Protestant chaplain of the Second Canadian Corps overseas. It was for distinction in this field of service that he was awarded the Order of the British Empire. In addition to his duties as minister of Chalmers United Church, in Kingston, he also serves as lecturer in the Department of Practical Theology at Queen's Theological College.

Rev. Mr. Banister and Mrs. Banister will be visiting relatives in Millbrook during their weekend in the Peterborough district.

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

VOL. CIII. No. 98 | SATURDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1951 | PRICE FIVE CENTS

OPENING CEREMONIES OF THE NEW CITY HALL on Friday afternoon was a colorful spectacle viewed by hundreds of citizens from bleachers erected on George St., flanking the new building. What they saw of the ceremonies in front of the portal is shown in the Upper Left photo. At a civic dinner in the evening the people of Peterborough, England, presented an illuminated scroll through His Worship G. R. Chamberlain of that city, Right at Rear, who is shown with Mayoress Chamberlain beside him; seated, are former Mayor and present Alderman E. V. Martin and his wife Councilwoman Mrs. Martin. The oldest citizen to attend the ceremonies, Upper Right photo, was Mr. Thomas Milburn, 96, who was interested in pointing out his farm site in Smith township on the terrazo entrance hall map to Alderman Norman Graham.—(Examiner Staff Photos)

New City Hall Opened W. G. Morrow's Gift To Peterborough Official

Mayor George Chamberlain Opens Door With Golden Key At Colorful Ceremony On George St.

In a brief and reserved ceremony Friday afternoon, William George Morrow's gift of a city hall to the citizens of Peterborough became official. Without pomp, and with the blessings of the spiritual leaders of Peterborough, the gift—one without precedent in Canada—was dedicated. Two thousand people jammed the bleachers set up on George St., and crowded the sidewalks along the street from Murray to McDonnel St., to watch the quiet service of dedication.

It was not purely a dedication. There was a second gift presented. The second gift was a gold chain of office, valued at $2,500, presented by the donor, Gordon Monkman, to Mayor Max J. Swanston.

The mayor of another Peterborough—in England — officially opened the new city hall. His Worship G. R. Chamberlain, decked gaily in his mayor's robe of red trimmed with brown fur, opened the main door with a golden key.

"At last Peterborough has a city hall worthy of it," said the Hon. R. F. McWilliams, a former mayor of Peterborough and now Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba. Mr. McWilliams recalled his boyhood days and said:

Filling Expectations

"Because I left my boyhood home, it didn't mean I had forgotten Peterborough. Now I see it fulfilling the great expectations that I had for it. It has grown from a small town to an industrialized city of 40,000.

"I do congratulate you most heartily. Your great development . . . . and your highest achievement . . . . should make Peterborough's citizens hold up their heads in pride. I come back to what is in very truth my own home town."

Gordon Monkman, whose personal gift of a chain of office to Mayor Swanston was an added fillip to the celebration, spoke of Peterborough as a place "of no mean importance in the commercial, political and social life of the Dominion.

"Its history is rich with the tradition peculiar to the old places of Canada—the stories of self-reliant pioneers, who, despite hardships, loneliness, and homesickness for the comfort of security left behind them, carved out of a beautiful wilderness . . . . a place that has . . . . contributed to our own national life a rich harvest of agricultural and industrial production, of culture . . . . and what is most important, a very pleasant place in which to live."

The chain of office he offered to Mayor Swanston with the words: "My wife and I would like to offer to His Worship the mayor and to the City of Peterborough a token of our thanks.

Symbolic Chain

"This is a symbol of tradition and accomplishment and of the dignity of office. May it cement the association, the mutual respect, and the friendship between the age-old cities of my natives country and those of our own Dominion of Canada, which have before the boundless opportunities and the history to be made in the future."

In thanks, Mayor Swanston said: "Any mayor would be pleased to wear this chain of office, and I feel that he who wears it is a better mayor. The interest our people take in their city has distinguished them from the people of other centres.

With the new chain of office, said the mayor, "we will always be conscious that by reaching deeply into British tradition, much can be added to Canadian municipal government.

"It should be worn with pride . . . and become one of our greatest treasures."

First of the clergy to speak at the ceremony was Bishop Gerald Berry, who said "it cannot be repeated too often that this noble building, with its amenities, space and simple dignity, is the gift, for the most part, of one man, a former mayor of this city.

Lasting Effect

"It is one more evidence of the lasting effect that living in Peterborough has had on generations of men. We hope this building may house, in generations to come, men who will be courageous continuers of the traditions woven into this building."

J. G. Hungerford, of the National Trust Co. of Toronto, Mr.

Congratulations, Praise Offered By Visitors At Large Civic Banquet

Symbolic of Canada's historic ties with England and traditional friendship with the United States, Mayor George R. Chamberlain of Peterborough, England, and Selectman Forest C. Mercer of Peterborough, New Hampshire, congratulated Peterborough on the opening of its new city hall at a civic banquet in the Kawartha Room of the Empress Hotel Friday evening.

"It isn't often we of smaller communities have an opportunity to participate in events of this nature and particularly in a namesake community in another country," declared Selectman Mercer.

"There is no place in the world today where there is a symbol of trust and respect like that between Canada and the United States," he said.

In praising Peterborough's new centre of civic administration, Mr. Mercer said a city hall always reminds us of the traditions that made our countries great. "There may be other ways to live but there are none as good as Canada's and the United States. It is our duty to protect our way of life by building national and international good will by true understanding and friendship."

Gifts

Travelling alarm clocks were presented to Mr. Mercer, Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa, Controller David Balfour, representing Mayor McCallum of Toronto, Alderman E. V. Martin of Peterborough, England and A. A. Holt, town clerk of Peterborough, New Hampshire. The clocks were presented by Mayor Max Swanston on behalf of the city and in thanking Mayor Swanston for the gift, Mr. Holt said: "Such gatherings as this can do more to cement real international friendship than anything else."

Both Mr. Mercer and Mr. Holt extended an invitation to visit Peterborough, New Hampshire, and Mr. Holt expressed hope that other towns and cities bearing the same name would take advantage of "similar oportunities to the one we have had today."

Great City

Predicting that "Peterborough is destined to be a great city of central Ontario," Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa declared as this city continued to grow and expand, it would do "something commensurate with its character and ability towards shifting the undue weight of influence away from Toronto".

Miss Whitton said that local government being closest to the people is the foundation of democratic government. "We must work from the base up, rather than from the top down," she said. "If there is any infringement on our powers" (referring to the municipal field) is it not due to our lack of initiative and responsibility in seeking the enabling powers we need?" she asked.

The functions of local government affect the life of the people most directly," she continued. "All things conditioning the day to day good living of the people—food, milk, fire and police protection,

Resort Operators To Discuss Area Problems

Approximately 100 district resort operators and representatives from seven chambers of commerce will meet in Peterborough, Monday at the third annual Kawartha district resort operators conference.

"This will be the most important conference that we have ever had," Jim Fraser manager of the Peterborough chamber said today.

"Not only are beefs and questions relating to the tourist trade going to be discussed with well-known authorities; but this conference will be significant as the first step towards greater area co-operation."

What's ahead for '52—what are the prospects for next year, will be discussed by F. A. Venn, executive assistant to the deputy minister of travel and publicity.

The green growth (algae) which has been growing steadily worse in certain Kawartha lakes recently will be discussed by Dr. W. J. Harkness, department of lands and forests; G. A. Rankin, district sanitary engineer, department of health, Toronto, and Jim Jones, president of the Lakefield Chamber of Commerce.

The latest news on the drift fishing regulations will be talked over and whether or not there will be any change in the measuring of game fish next season will be reported by department of lands and forests' officials.

Guest luncheon speaker will be Doug. Oliver, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian tourist association.

The chambers of commerce to be represented are: Bobcaygeon, Fenelon Falls, Hastings, Lakefield, Lindsay, Omemee, Peterborough.

Hitchhikers Steal Benefactor's Car

COBOURG, Oct. 27.—A man and a woman hitchhiker returned the generosity of a motorist who gave them a lift at Oshawa by stealing his car at Cobourg last night.

Police were told by Melbourne Woodcock of 160 Wayne St., Oshawa, who said he picked up the pair just east of Oshawa last night on his way to his home at Colborne. The two informed him that they were on their way to Kingston and he said he would take them as far as his destination.

They stopped at Cobourg as Woodcock wanted to see the fight on a TV set in a local hotel. The three had a few beers and then the hitchhikers told him they would not wait but would try and catch another ride.

When he came out of the hotel his car was gone and with it a new outboard motor, his tools and his suit case. The car was a Buick, licence number 507Z6. The owner didn't lock it.

HELPED CHILDREN

Sir Charles Reilly, famous British architect who died in 1948, was one of the first advocates of "play streets" for children.

Clip, Clip, Clip

Ten guard posts were clipped off Friday night by a northbound car on Highway 28, driven by George A. McDonald, Bailieboro. The accident occurred south of Kendry crossing when the lights of a southbound car blinded McDonald. He pulled over to the right and knocked off the posts and he narrowly missed running into the six-foot ditch. There were no injuries and damage to the car amounted to $15. OPP Constable Russell Pollard investigated.

Defence Drills May Injure, Who Will Pay?

Compensation for civil defence workers injured in practice operations is one of the biggest problems facing local civil defence authorities, said Ald. J. A. Dewart today. Ald. Dewart is co-ordinator of Peterborough's civil defence set-up.

The alderman was commenting on the report of a large-scale civil defence show Wednesday night in Brockville.

"If someone were hurt in one of these shows, who's going to pay the compensation?" he asked. In New York state, legislation provides insurance for temporary civil defence workers.

In Canada, there is no plan for such compensation, although Ald. Dewart said he hoped legislation to provide for it would be considered in the House of Commons shortly.

Of the Brockville show, he remarked that it had been a blackout, and with advances in instrument flying, radar, and so on, "the great question is: do blackouts mean anything any more?"

At present, there are no plans for a scheme in Peterborough on the scale of the Brockville operation. A series of practical tests, starting with one on communciations, would come before any large-scale show.

Ald. Dewart said that with the matter of compensation must go the problem of cost. Although the federal government has committed itself to paying for certain types of equipment, it has not included communications equipment.

For the time being, Peterborough's CD authorities are confining their work to basic training.

ATTENDING MEETING

P. D. Scollard, president of the Peterborough chamber of commerce, and Gordon McGavin, director, will attend the 22nd annual meeting of the Canadian chamber of commerce to be held in Quebec City, Oct. 30, 31 and Nov. 1. Mr. McGavin will represent the Peterborough Chamber as voting delegate.

Citizens of Peterborough are invited to inspect their new City Hall on the afternoons and evenings of Monday and Tuesday, October 29th and 30th, between the hours of 2.30 and 4.30 o'clock and 7.30 to 9.00 o'clock.

Arrangements have been made to guide the citizens through the new building and to make this service effective, citizens should enter the building through the main entrance door.

On Monday afternoon and evening it is expected that His Worship Mayor G. R. Chamberlain of Peterborough, England, will be present in the Mayor's Parlour to receive, particularly Old Country citizens of Peterborough. Refreshments will be served in the Mayor's Parlour on the afternoon and evening of both days.

MAX J. SWANSTON,
Mayor

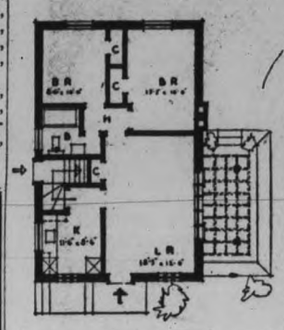
Bond Buying, Payroll Plan, In Peterborough $2,020,750

Peterborough, Victoria and Haliburton division in the sixth series of the Canada Savings bonds reported on Friday evening a total of $2,103,750, with all but $83,000 coming from Peterborough.

The Canadian General Electric Co. employees lead with $1,232,950, and the employees of the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co. are second with $129,000. Western Clock Co. employees were third with $94,400 and the Quaker Oats Co. employees next with $92,850.

While the total of the CGE is the largest, and perhaps the most outstanding in the campaign, the totals turned in by the Outboard Marine and the Western Clock, two of the younger industries in Peterborough, are also receiving praise as most noteworthy efforts.

Four industries outside Peterborough are in the totals, three of them in Lindsay and one in Port Hope, with the Canadian Arsenals in Lindsay leading with $40,900 and Visking Ltd., Lindsay, second with $28,350.



Totals for the various industries and several other corporations under the payroll buying plan are:

Great West Saddlery Co. Ltd., $3,850; Bell Telephone Co. of Canada Ltd., $10,500; Brinton Peterborough Carpet Co. Ltd. $28,700; Canada Packers Limited, $54,500; Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd., $1,232,950; Canadian Nashua Paper Co., $25,850; Canadian Raybestos Co. Ltd., $26,200; Canadian Sealright Co. Ltd., $17,850; City of Peterborough, $31,150; Colonial Weaving Co. Ltd. $17,350; De Laval Co. Ltd., $40,250; Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Ltd. $70,200; T. Eaton Co. Ltd. $1,500; Fannings Launderers and Cleaners, $9,050; Outboard Marine and Mfg. Co. of Canada Ltd., $129,000; Peterborough Canoe Co. Ltd., $27,750; Peterborough Examiner Ltd., $6,900; Peterborough Lock Mfg. Co., $32,100; Peterborough Lumber Co. Ltd., $18,700; Peterborough Utilities Commission, $24,300; Quaker Oats of Canada Ltd., $92,850; J. J. Turner Co. Ltd., $9,350; A. Wander Limited, $4,050; Western Clock Co. Ltd., $94,400; G. Whitaker & Co., $9,450; Wonder Bakeries Ltd., $2,400.

Canadian Arsenals, Lindsay, $40,900; Mathews Conveyer Co., Port Hope, $7,450; National Textiles Ltd., $6,300; Visking Limited, $28,350.

Total, $2,103,750.

HOUSE No. 1003 — So you want a modern little house do? Here is the answer to your prayers—its streamlined and economical, both in original cost and in upkeep, it's trim, attractive, and altogether practical. Just try and find an inch of waste space in this house! Architect John B. Parkin has here designed a minimum size house with a dash of glamour that rarely meets the eye in the low cost field. For anyone who appreciates the modern touch in a four-room house, this will be hard to beat. Its apartment-like plan will please the housewife. Notice that the bedrooms are at the rear and that the bathroom is private, yet central. While the "minimum house" is often without a fireplace in the living room, this plan provides a fine centre of interest in the shape of a large window overlooking the terrace, which, in the picture is bathed in sunlight. Here is the spot for deck chairs! A drop-leaf table in the far end of the living room would serve well as the dining centre in such a house. Housekeeping has been so simplified by this plan that it would suit particularly a working couple. For working drawings, write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Personal Contact Best Way To Understanding

"Personal contacts are one of the surest ways of coming to good understanding with people of other countries," Mr. Carleton Wheeler, retired professor of romance languages at Tufts University, now residing in his native Peterborough, N.H., commented Friday to The Examiner.

"We feel a close affinity for our Canadian friends, and that applies, also, to the people of Peterborough, England. Our visit to Peterborough, Ontario, for the opening of your city hall is evidence of our sincerity in cultivating new relations of goodwill and friendship."

Since his retirement to private life, Prof. Wheeler has interested himself to the extent of a hobby in trying to bring together the six Peterboroughs of the world in a comprehending and closer sentiment. He obtained recordings by the city clerks of those communities for broadcast on a short-way length from Boston.

Play Recorded

Only recently he forwarded to Peterborough, England, "a recording of the play, "Our Town," written by Thornton Wilder at the McDowell art and music centre in Peterborough, N.H."

"It was a production of our own, and one effect it should have is to introduce our Yankee voices to the people of Peterborough, Eng., when it is broadcast there," Prof. Wheeler said.

In the new spirit of visitings and intercommunication, he said: "I trust that this will not be the last time I can be here. In fact, I shall try to return with my wife next year. It is really a great pleasure to be here for this occasion, and I am going to suggest that more of our New Hampshire people come up here on their vacation trips.

More Interest

"Some of them have already been here, and I may say that the interest of our citizens in our friends in the other Peterboroughs has been deepened by the series of broadcasts we were able to secure."

Prof. Wheeler is being welcomed here as a promoter of closer relations between those communities, and is quite evidently sustaining the enthusiasm with which he entered into this project in discovery and cultivation of relations long latent in the three countries. He is a free lance ambassador of Peterboronian goodwill.

The New Hampshire delegation arrived Thursday evening earlier than they had expected, and were here to join in the welcome to the group from overseas.

The members of their party are Selectman Forest Mercer of the municipal authority; Algie Hunt, town clerk; Prof. Carleton Wheeler and Harold Robertson.

Friday was Mr. Robertson's birthday, and as a private citizen he came along to celebrate that event and be here for the city hall opening.

At the Empress the local city council was represented by Ald. Herbert Young, chairman of the reception committee; Mayor M. J. Swanston, Aldermen T. D. Miller, E. C. Braund, John A. Dewart, and City Clerk E. A. Outram and their wives.

Their greeting to Mayor Chamberlain, Ald. E. V. Martin, and their wives, of Peterborough, England, was the first time that representatives of these communities of three English-speaking countries had ever met. The occasion assumed an international aspect although it was confined to the Peterboroughs.

Basement Space Costs Less Why Build Above Ground?

We have heard many arguments both for and against having a basement in the modern home. Frankly, we have never found the proponents of the basementless house very convincing. Facts and figures always prove conclusively that the basement space costs only about 15 per cent of the amount necessary to put the same space above grade. This is a bargain which no home planner can afford to overlook.

Any house, even a small summer cottage, should be built on a firm foundation—and to be firm, the foundation must extend well below the deep frost line. This means that a certain amount of excavating must be done whether or not a basement is contemplated. A major portion of the cost of excavating is in merely getting the steam shovel to the site. Hence, the cost of a full basement is not very much more than that of a partial basement—just a few more scoops of the shovel—and may not be much greater than the cost of merely sinking footings under a basementless house.

The basement is particularly important for the small house on a small lot. There the basement offers a golden opportunity for the householder to put many additional conveniences into his home and yet keep down the area his house covers. This permits greater lawn and garden space around the house, a factor that greatly increases enjoyment of his home.

Always Need Storage Space

No matter how much storage space you think you will need, you probably will need more—for ash containers, screens, awnings, sleds, paint, the baby buggy, lawn furniture, lawn mower, tools, and all other occasionally-used things in the household. If you plan to do any gardening you'll want space first to store your tools; secondly, to put away vegetables in the root cellar or to store home canned products. Where better than in the cellar?

For added convenience, the basement should be equipped with a direct basement door of ample width so that large equipment can be carried in or out without having to trackthrough upper rooms. This also provides an important safety exit for rumpus room occupants in case of emergency.

Simply because it is below ground, where temperature does not vary so much as outside air temperature, a basement is less trouble to heat in winter and to keep cool in summer than any other part of the house. Almost every type of furnace gives off a certain amount of heat entirely aside from that it sends through the pipes or ducts. When the heating plant is in the basement, this heat doesn't go to waste but heats the underside of the first floor.

If you decide to put your laundry in the basement, a light, clean, attractive room can easily be built in any modern cellar. Ceilings and walls of sheet building board, a waterproof floor and provision for heating and ventilating the room will make it a pleasant place in which to work. A laundry chute from the upper floors can bring soiled clothes directly to the sorting table. If the household doesn't boast an automatic clothes dryer, the laundry should be located close to the back or drying yard.

Let In Plenty Of Light

If anything more than ordinary cellar windows is desired, shallow areaways will permit windows that will let in plenty of light. Similar installations might well be considered, too, for that part of the cellar which is to become the playroom. As a final touch in the basement, a telephone extension will eliminate a good many interruptions while the washing and ironing is under way.

With little or no trouble at all, the heating plant for the house can frequently be partitioned off in a room of its own, if it won't add to the decor of the basement playroom. This room can also contain the domestic water heater, the oil tank or the coal bin and all the furnace appurtenances. An occasional coat of paint can prevent even a purely utilitarian coal bin from becoming an eyesore. And if the bin is solidly boarded up to the ceiling on all sides, and a sliding door installed, coal dust will be confined to the bin.

When the basement becomes a place to live in as well as over, a lavatory or powder room may be indicated. This room, the laundry and the heating plant can be so grouped that piping costs can be kept to a minimum. Water outlets for the darkroom, if any, and for the refreshment bar in the rumpus room, will be additional conveniences. And there should be plenty of electric outlets, with circuits designed to bear the load they will carry, in the workshop, playroom and laundry.

London Press Strikes Sombre Note

LONDON, Oct. 27 (Reuters)—The London press today struck a sober note in welcoming — or lamenting—the fall of the Labor government.

The Daily Telegraph, staunch supporter of the Conservative cause, summed it up in an editorial:

"... victory, but no triumph for the Conservatives;—deafeat, but no rout for the Socialists—Such . . . is the outcome of this election."

The mass circulation Daily Mirror, which suported the Labor party to the hilt during the campaign, took a similar line. "The fight is over—now we must get on with Britain's business."

The Daily Mail, out-and-out anti-Labor, said the Conservatives could keep Labor out of office for a long time if they "put country before party." They had men of ability and the country could expect "a very different attitude towards Britain's relations with foreign states."

Lord Beaverbrook's independent Conservative Daily Express said the Conservative party's gain in strength was due entirely to the "intervention on their side of the bulk of the Liberal vote."

The paper predicted there would be an outcry for a coalition which should be "dismissed as fundamentally absurd," adding that such a move would be handing over the helm of the Labor party to the left-winger Aneurin Bevan.

Real Victor

"Bevan emerges the real victor of the contest," the Express said. "He can claim to have brought the Tories into office on terms that they will find embarrassing and unprofitable."

The Liberal News Chronicle said the country had flopped laboriously out of the frying pan into the fire, stating that Britain is faced with another stalemate as bad as the last one.

The Chronicle called for electoral reform as the only way out of the political impasse of parliamentary razor-thin majorities. "We are not getting strong governments now and we need them. Eire (the Republic of Ireland) with proportional representation, does get them and we must learn from them."

The Labor party organ, The Daily Herald, predicted that Britain would return the Socialists to power in the next election, saying that the people will find that Thursday's verdict was a "mistaken one."

Brazil Crops Boom

RIO DE JANEIRO — (CP)—Good crops in the Amazon area of Brazil are causing a welcome boom in agriculture. Good returns are being obtained this year by growers of jute, rubber, nuts and oilseed. The Brazil nut crop may reach 30,000 tons, or 8,800 higher than last year.

Labor Party Faces Battle

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, Oct. 27 (CP)—The Labor party's defeat in the general election leaves the party free to resolve its internal discords without fear of ministerial restraints.

The results may be a strong-arm struggle for power between Aneurin Bevan, hot gospeller of all-out socialism, and such party moderates as the retiring Prime Minister Clement Attlee.

Bevan's bid for ultimate leadership—if that is what he wants—has been deferred until now by the inhibitions which rest upon a party in power. With Labor now in opposition and the cares of office removed, the battle may be on in earnest.

The dispute with the moderate leaders started last April when Bevan resigned as Labor Minister. He said Britain's new arms budget was too big. His arguments, tinged with an oblique anti-Americanism, received what appeared to be a strong support in the voting.

All of Bevan's known followers —called "Bevanites"—won seats in the new House of Commons. Bevan himself was returned with the usual massive majority.

Split Dangerous

Another decisive split in the Labor ranks, such as occurred in 1931 when Ramsay MacDonald and Philip Snowden left the party, might mean the swan song of socialism.

Labor's fall from political power has other interesting aspects. The feeling today must be in distressing contrast to the exultation that inspired supporters after the resounding victory in 1945. Then, members of the party that brought the accents of the working class to a parliament once dominated by Oxford and Cambridge graduates talked exuberantly of remaining in office for 20 years.

Some members wept and sang the "Red Flag" at the opening of the 1945 parliament.

Inspired by the crusading spirit of those who had languished long in opposition, the Socialists worked quickly to apply the ideas of the Fabian reformers. More than 300 acts were passed in the life of the 1945-50 parliament, including the extension of the public will into many private domains.

The verdict on the "quiet revolution" may be rendered by historians. Meanwhile, the consensus of most independent observers is that Labor tried to do too much too quickly, and did not adapt itself to the needs of a changing situation.

Fourth Anti-Tank Battery Fought Hard Across Europe

From D day to VE day. In those few short words could be written the history of the fourth Canadian Anti-Tank Battery of the Royal Canadian Artillery.

And to those who knew what happened in the 11 months between those two days, it would be enough.

Friday, today and Sunday, the fourth Anti-Tank Battery Association is holding its second annual reunion.

The unit was mobilized as part of the third division in June, 1940. The original strength called for was 117 men plus officers. The first officer in command was Major J. A. Harstone MC. His officers were second Lieutenant W. F. McMullen, acting battery captain, and second Lieutenant A. S. McRae and second Lieutenant A. Brindle. In August with the arrival of second Lieutenant Warwick Owensmith the battery had its full complement of officers.

Brigade sergeant major was C. N. McQuaig.

Train In Lindsay

July 6 the battery moved for initial training to the Sir Sam Hughes armouries in Lindsay. The men were issued rifles and two Lewis machine guns.

In February the next year, the battery left for Debert and then field training in earnest began after 40 more men had been added to strength.

Waiting for the move overseas irritated many of the men, but Oct. 5, they entrained for Halifax and boarded the S.S. Andees which joined a convoy of six ships under heavy escort and started for England.

They landed at Liverpool and from there went to Lille barracks in Farnborough. Then the long period of advanced training and waiting began as the unit was shifted about the country for about two and a half years.

D day came June 6, 1944. The battery had gone aboard ship June 2, sailed down the Thames and waited inside a boom off Southend. Early on the sixth the battery set sail for France and its first taste of being under fire.

Channel guns opened up and set fire to the gasoline on the deck of the third ship in line. It dropped out and had to be abandoned.

The following morning the coast of France loomed ahead of them. But they landed in sections during that day and the next. A troop was sent to Villon-les-Buissons where they saw their first German, a paratroop sniper who gave himself up.

Fighting In France

In the confused fighting that followed troops were shifted from place to place supporting various other units in advances and holding off counterattacks.

Only once was the battery together as a unit for a night and they then were split up again, deployed where they were most needed and had short sharp exchanges with enemy tanks and were troubled with enemy snipers. Some took part in the battle for Caen.

As the Americans began to break through on the right flank, the Germans shifted their Panzer divisions to meet them and back again as the English units threatened to break out, and the Americans were away.

About this time the battery was given a rest period and enjoyed swimming and sun bathing.

Relieving a Polish unit at Estrees-la-Campagne, they took a rough mauling from the Germans in Quesnay wood. Bdr. A. J. McLeod was killed, one gun knocked out and several carriages damaged.

At hill 175 when B and C troops were supporting the Scots, Lieutenant T. S. Coppinger refused to move his troop to exposed positions and was relieved of the troop. A court martial later supported the lieutenant's decision.

Helped Assault

A, B and C troop helped assault the Seine and establish a bridgehead across it. Across France the men of the 4th anti-tank fought their way until they reached Belgium and headed for Holland. At times the unit fought as infantry. Soon they began collecting prisoners.

Moving forward with the whole front, the Fighting Fourth fought their way through vicious pitched battles and headed for the big prize—Germany.

In March, 1945, the crossing of the Rhine was made, but there was still heavy fighting ahead. But as May 5, VE approached, the battery men began to see Germans in civilain clothes who had been thrown in at the last moment, naval men and Luftwaffe personnel.

The members of the unit first heard of the collapse of the German army over the BBC. Almost immediately the battery was moved back to Holland and the men began to think of going home.

In its official history of the unit is written, "The 4th Canadian Anti-Tank Battery has completed its job and was an important cog in the machinery which accomplished the victory for which it was designed in 1940."

The names of the officers commanding the unit were Maj. Harstone June 10, 1940 to May 1, 1942; D. C. MacDonald, May 1, 1942 to Oct. 31, 1944; J. D. Southam, Nov. 10, 1944 to Dec. 31, 1944; A. D. Grier, Dec. 31, 1944 to May 4, 1945 and then Major R. Kirk took over.

One officer, Lieutenant R. Conley was killed and 10 other ranks died in battle. Thirty-eight were wounded.

Officers and men of the 2nd Battalion will shortly be arriving in Canada on rotation.

Treasury Department Can't Lose In Voting

LONDON, Oct. 27 (Reuters) — One government department could not lose in the general election Friday—the treasury.

It netted nearly £15,000 from candidates who lost their deposits by failing to poll one-eighth of the total votes in their constituencies.

But the treasury's cut did not come near the all-time record set in the 1950 general election. Then it collected nearly £70,000 from lost deposits.

Each candidate has to put down £150 on nomination as evidence of his good faith.

Murray Looses Blast Against AFL Attitude

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 — (AP) — Philip Murray, president of the CIO, said Friday that the CIO is stronger than ever in its history and that the AFL "can go to Hell as far as I'm concerned."

Murray told the National Maritime Union's eighth biennial convention that the American Federation of Labor seemed to regard the Congress of Industrial Organizations as a lesser power.

He said he would "fight with all my power to attain decent organic unity" between the two groups, but added:

"If the attitude of the AFL is 'We won't talk to you or won't have anything to do with you unless you come to us,' then they can go to Hell."

Murray praised the Maritime union for ousting Communists and termed them "dirty, filthy, low-life subversive elements."

Churchill Oldest PM Since Gladstone

LONDON, Oct. 27 (AP)—Winston Churchill, who will be 77 Nov. 30, is the oldest prime minister Britain has had since Liberal William Gladstone resigned in 1894 aged 85.

Gladstone, who took office for the fourth and last time in 1892, first became prime minister at the age of 59. Churchill was seven years older than that when he took over from Neville Chamberlain in 1940.

He is the 39th prime minister Britain has had since 1721, when Sir Robert Walpole began to preside at cabinet meetings because Hannoverian King George I couldn't speak English.

TO THE FRONT—Paratroop-trained soldiers of the 1st Battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry move cautiously upward along a twisting trail toward the front in Korea. They relieved troops of the 2nd Battalion due to return soon to Canada on rotation.

Stratford Shows Ingratitude Crushes Dutchmen In 8-4 Win

By The Canadian Press

Early in the season, Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen released Billy Flick, Mickey Roth and Dinny Flanagan to Stratford Indians "to help bolster" the new team in the Onatrio Amateur Hockey Association Senior A League.

The trio paced all scorers in the now-defunct OHA major series last season.

Could it have been a mistake?

The line accounted for five goals when Stratford skated to an 8-4 win over the Dutchmen Friday night as the OHA senior A league officially got underway.

Hamilton Tigers, with scarcely half a dozen good workouts under their belts, defeated Owen Sound Mercurys 4-3 while Brantford Redmen and Sarnia Sailors battled to a 4-4 overtime tie in the other games played.

In Good Form

Roth tallied three and Flick collected a pair. Flanagan helped on three occasions. George Aitken, with two, and Ducharme accounted for the other Stratford markers. Jim Pernfuss potted a pair while Eddie Stankiewicz and Jarry Psutka scored for the Dutchmen.

Undaunted by the fact the Mercurys iced their last year's Allan Cup championship team almost intact, Tigers counted home two goals in the middle canto after a scoreless opener, then notched the rest in the finale. Owen Sound scored all their goals in the last frame.

Frank Liscome, Fred Pankoski, Bill Hammond and Dunnett counted for Hamilton, with Ray McCallum, Doug Gillespie and Tommy Burlington registering for the visitors.

Playing coach Billy Simpell, Bob Wrightsell, Blake and Olinski scored for Brantford while Harry O'Connor, with two, Ted Garvin and Don Lardner tallied for the Sailors in the 4-4 saw-off.

Slight Change

Three games were played in the OHA junior A loop, with a slight change in the standings of the leaders.

Guelph Biltmores and Toronto Marlboros had a chance to take over undisputed possession of first place with a win Friday night. Today, they must be content sharing first place with the idle Kitchener Greenshirts as a result of a 6-6 deadlock in a wild battle at Guelph.

Barrie Flyers and St. Catharines Teepees scored identical 6-2 triumphs over Oshawa Generals and Galt Black Hawks, respectively, in the only other games played Friday night.

A goal by Earl Balfour, his second of the night, gave Marlboros a tie at 19:11 of the third period. There was no scoring, but plenty of rough action in the overtime.

Eric Nesterenko potted a pair while Bill MacFarland and Parker MacDonald added the other Toronto tallies. Chuck Henderson scored twice for Biltmores and Ken Laugman, Ron Murphy, Aldo Guidolin and Chick Chalmers each tallied once.

Get First Home Win

Doug Mohns, Toddie Campbell, Don Cherry, Paul Emms, Chuck Wood and Fred Pletsch gave Barrie its first win of the season on homei ce. Herve ReJordy and Gord Myles counted for the Generals.

Galt penalties paved the way for St. Catharines' first win of the season. Four of the Teepees markers came while Hawks were shorthanded.

Jim Swain led the Rudy Pilous coached Teepees with a brace of goals, with pierre Pilote, Chuck Marshall, Buddy Boone and Hank Ciesla scoring the others.

Pete Conacher and Ken Wharram scored for the Hawks.

Two games are scheduled for the senior loop tonight, Hamilton at Owen Sound and Stratford at Sarnia, and four in the junior circuit. Toronto St. Michael's will visit Windsor Spitfires, Biltmores play Waterloo Hurricanes at Waterloo, Kitchener meet Black Hawks in Galt and St. Catharines will be at Oshawa.

S. Spencer Rolls High

Zita Spencer rolled ladies' high single of 290 and Shirley Bagnall had top three of 694 this week in the Mercantile Bowling League. Bill Cribbis led men in singles with 278 and Stew Brown had top three of 694. Other good counts included Gladys Hamilton's 286 and S. Bagnal's 272 for lasses. Jack Martell rolled 277 and S. Brown 268.

Prudential blanked Bond's, Austin's had a 3-1 win over their opponents, another game ended 3-1 (but team names in reports were omitted) while Crowe's tied Braund's No. 2, and Neill's ended in a 2-2 deadlock on the night's play with Loblaw's.

Stones Dropped On CPR Train

Police are investigating a complaint that youngsters are dropping large stones on the roof of coaches of the 6.15 pm train to Havlock, as the train passes under the high bridge at the eastern entrance to the foot bridge on Burnham Point.

"Unless parents see that this is stopped, it could lead to serious damage," Chief Constable John Thompson warned this morning. "If we catch them, I intend to prosecute," he said.

Conductor William Hamilton made the complaint Thursday morning. Friday evening, police watched the bridge, but they did not see anyone on the bridge when the train went through.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Art West Friday was removed as coach of Toronto Balmy Beach, Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union club.

Paul McGarry, club manager, who made the surprise announcement of the firing of the former Toronto Argonaut halfback star, said the decision was made at a meeting of the Balmy Beach executive.

West told reporters Friday night he felt he's been handed a "dirty deal."

"It came as a complete surprise," he said. "I was all set to to go to Sarnia this Saturday." The club is second to Sarnia Imperials in the league standings.

There was no immediate announcement of his replacement but it was expected to be Gerry Tutile, import quarterback who coached the team last season.

West said he's been offered the job of assistant, turned it down and then was asked for his resignation.

"I told them: 'Hell, I'm not resigning, I'm being fired.'"

Judges at New York's Jamaica race track pulled a boner Friday when they announced that Sao Paulo had taken second place in the third race, when the official photographer showed the place should have gone to Air Service. The mistake wasn't discovered until after the payoff had been made. Stewards went into a hurried conference after which they announced holders of tickets on Air Service would be paid—provided they could present a ticket. Many, however, had been torn up, or thrown away. The track first paid off $5.10 to place, and $3.70 to show on Sao Paulo, and $4.80 to show on Air Service, a field horse. After the mistake was noticed the crowd of 19,668 was told of the decision to pay off at $10.10 to holders of place and combination tickets on Air Service.

Linesman Bill Stanton and halfback Cummings were nominated Friday by the Ottawa Rough Riders as the club's candidates for the Jeff Russell Memorial Trophy. Each club in the Big Four league is permitted two candidates. Rider snap Don Loney was last year's winner of the trophy award to the player who best combines ability with sportsmanship and deportment.

Jimmy Conacher, high-scoring forward, Friday was acquired by New York Rangers from Chicago Black Hawks in a straight waiver deal, Ranger manager Frank Boucher announced at New York. The 30-year-old Scotland-born veteran of six National Hockey League campaigns, can be used either at centre or on a left wing. Conacher played 52 games last season for the Black Hawks, scoring 10 goals and adding 27 assists.

Detroit Red Wings Friday called up rookie centre Alex Delvecchio who has been with their Indianapolis farm club this season. The 20-year-old Fort William youth is rated one of the Wings' best prospects in years. The Wings sent rookie Larry Wilson of Kincardine, Ont., down to Indianapolis to replace Delvecchio.

At Hamilton, Art Childs, perennial goalkeeper for the Hamilton Tigers senior hockey team Friday night was nominated as Progressive Conservative candidate in Wentworth riding. The sitting member is Joseph L. Easton, CCF.

Three former University of Kentucky basketball stars were indicted Friday on charges of fixing a 1949 tournament game and at the same time were charged with conspiracy covering the team's entire 1948-49 schedule. The players—Alex Groza, Ralph Beard and Dale Barnstable — pleaded innocent and were released on $1,000 bail each. Five alleged fixers also were indicted and released bail ranging from $2,500 to $10,000.

Groza and Beard were both former all-America players and members of the United States' championship basketball team in 1948. Barnstable, a teammate, is coach of Male High in Louisville.

Civic Dedication Tea Held By Local Council of Women

Women of the Local Council have emphasized in the annals the dedication of the new City Hall in Peterborough with the holding of their annual fall tea on the same afternoon, October 26th, and calling it the "Civic Dedication Tea."

The day was further highlighted by having as a guest Dr. Charlotte Whitton, mayor of Ottawa, who was in the city for the City Hall proceedings. She is a member of the Ottawa Local Council of Women and has held executive position. Dr. Whitton was given a small ovation when she appeared in the tea room.

Other special guests were the minister of the churches from which there are societies affiliated with the Council and their wives. Many of the people attending had first been to see the City Hall officially opened by visiting mayors from two other Peterboroughs and a former mayor of this city.

The pleasing success of this event was largely due to the work of general convener Mrs. F. Merrett who received the congratulations of her co-workers.

Flags of the United Nations in the tea room, the YWCA Green Room, were placed in honor of this civic day and tiny silk Union Jacks were in the tea table bouquet. The artistic arrangement of bronze and yellow 'mums on the table was highlighted with a circlet of deep bronze leaves and flanking rows of yellow tapers. A dainty Chinese linen teacloth was the base for silver trays and tea things.

The table arrangement was done by Mrs. A. R. McWilliams and Mrs. F. J. A. Hall.

Pouring tea in turn were Mrs. N. D. Seaton, president of the Women's Art Association, Mrs. C. C. Pilon, president of St. Andrew's Church WA, Mrs. Charles Huffman, president of the Civic Hospital Women's Auxiliary, and Mrs. John Hornal, acting president of St. Paul's Church Ladies' Aid.

Servers were Mrs. Donald Hill, Mrs. H. Dunford, Mrs. G. Munro, Mrs. Jean Watson, Mrs. G. Harris, Mrs. S. Moldaver, Mrs. A. B. Collis, Mrs. F. Samis, Mrs. Russell Kidd, Mrs. Evans McConkey and Mrs. Roy Taylor. The plates were being replenished by Mrs. A. B. Mann, Mrs. L. M. Richardson, Mrs. G. Marshall, Mrs. W. A. Cochrane and Mrs. R. Hanscom, and the tea pots by Mrs. J. Wood, Mrs. A. E. Barrie and Mrs. A. J. Williams, while Mrs. M. H. Drysdale, Mrs. C. Olaveson and Mrs. G. Rutherford assisted in the kitchen.

A splendid table of home baking added $35. to the proceeds of the tea. It was convened by Mrs. Leighton Ross and Mrs. J. W. Smillie and Mrs. James Price and Mrs. David Miller assisted them with sales.

Hostesses in the tea room were Mrs. B. W. Harvey, Mrs. A. A. McIntyre, Mrs. C. C. Collins, Mrs. W. H. Morton and Mrs. W. F. Connal.

President Mrs. Wm. Steinkraus received the guests, assisted by Mrs. A. W. Nelson, Mrs. T. J. Carley and Mrs. H. R. Scott.

Mrs. J. M. Fanning, Mrs. H. T. Rehill and Mrs. E. B. McWilliams were taking tickets.

Says Intelligence Important Factor In Child Training

REGINA—(CP)—Dr. S. R. Laycock, dean of education of the University of Saskatchewan, says the way in which a home meets the needs of a child's various stages of development determines whether the home is an answer or a problem to a wholesome personality.

There is more to a "good" home than respectable parents and a father with a steady job, he says. "A 'good' home is a good place for children to grow up in," one where parents understand the needs of their children at different age levels.

"A child learns to respond to the world as he finds it," according to this noted educationist. "That world should be one in which there is love and security, one where the child feels he is wanted."

The child must feel he is accepted both by his parents and later by his teachers and schoolmates. He is establishing a sense of independence from the time he learns to walk until about four years of age, after which he starts playing adult.

Need Encouragement

From six to 12 years of age, the child needs a sense of accomplishment, he said. "Parents should never expect the impossible, but should give them things to do which they can accomplish with a reasonable amount of effort."

During his teens, the child has a sense of identity; he is concerned about how he looks and feels, and how others think about him. The home should be the first place where people realize the youngster does not want to be treated as a child.

Parents, said Dr. Laycock, must put certain limits on foolishness, of course, but must do so through affection and understanding, recognizing the child's right to privacy.

The final sense, one of integrity, comes mainly from parental example. And no matter what the situation, Dr. Laycock warned, parents must apply intelligence to it.

Bride and Groom Are Honored

A very large gathering assembled in Centreville hall in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Eagleson (nee Violet Steinkrauss) who were recently married. Rev. W. H. Heustin of Centreville Presbyterian church was chairman for a very splendid program consisting of: duets by Misses Sandra and Sylvia Musprat; Shirley and Phyllis Beebe; Marguerite Wood and Joyce Atcheson; trio by Isobel, Mildred and Shirley Kidd; quartette by Jim Wood, Eldridge White, Harland Seens and Harold Buckham; readings by Miss Allie Berry and Mrs. Wilbert Smith.

Ross Johnston read the address on behalf of the community, and the presentation of a studio couch, cushion and mat were made by Messrs. Eric Beebe, Bob Greer, John Challice and Grant Thorne.

On behalf of the Centreville choir Mr. Fred Wood read an address and Mac Bradshaw made the presentation of a motor rug.

The groom replied. After the singing of the National Anthem lunch was served and dancing enjoyed.

Personals

Mr. James Hall has gone to Sudbury to spend the winter months with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barnard.

Mr. Gerald Finnie recently spent a few days in Sudbury.

Mrs. M. Thompson, president of Bensfort WA, Mrs. W. Gaynor, president of Bailieboro WA, Mrs. C. Barnard, secretary of Women's Association of Peterborough Presbytery attended the fall meeting of the Peterborough Presbytery at Mark Street church, Peterborough, on Wednesday.

Doidge-Pollock

At Castleton United Church parsonage a quiet wedding took place Thursday of Eileen Pollock, only daughter of the late Mrs. Philip O'Grady to Thomas Clare Doidge, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Doidge of Morganston. The Rev. J. E. Griffith performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore a street length dress of royal blue velvet, designed with a full skirt, fitted bodice and cap sleeves. She wore black accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

Her attendant, Miss Lois Fowler, wore a wine shot-taffeta dress with black accessories and a corsage of pink 'mums.

Mr. William Begg of Morganston attended the groom.

Following supper at the British Hotel, Cobourg, the couple left on a motor trip to points in the United States.

They will live in Morganston.

Fashion Flashes

Bright lights this season will shine on handsome dinner hats such as a muffin of black velours studded all over with rhinestones. The hat is set off by a visor rail of mesh appliqued with velour cords and also rhinestone studded. The veil is detachable.

✧ ✧ ✧

Fashion and luxury at a price is exemplified by stoles of fox, a fashion much favored in the newest showings by leading houses. Fox, dyed camel brown, makes a charming accessory as does a two-tier stole of blue fox mounted on finely pleated gray chiffon.

✧ ✧ ✧

It's the big season for the dress, after all the ado about two-piecers and separates. Black silk twill makes a handsome late-afternoon dress, with full sleeves beneath a dropped shoulder line and semi-bare shoulders. Narrow, softly pointed yoke and full sleeves are of black velvet.

✧ ✧ ✧

What's prettier for evening than net? A new short-skirted evening dress is of white nylon net with a tiny leaf design printed in gold. The full, circular skirt has underskirts of net and taffeta. The strapless neckline has a cuff of unpatterned net and a matching plain net shoulder shrug.

Orn. Swim Club Celebrates Tonight At Dinner Dance

Due to the international swim clinic to take place here November 3 and 4, sponsored by Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club, the annual birthday party of the club will be a quiet affair with no out-of-town guests. It will be held at the Club Aragon this evening, commencing with dinner, dancing to follow.

Guest speaker will be Mr. Russ Baer, manager of radio station CHEX. Mr. Alex Sinclair, recreational director, will initiate the new executive to their roles for the coming year.

New president will be Betty Welsh; vice-presidents, Beverley Rumary and Joan Lynch; treasurer, Isabel Crary; recording secretary, Shirley Moldaver; corresponding secretary, Mary Jo Dorsett; social conveners, Nan Goodier and Norma Douglas; membership convener, June Storey.

Retiring president June Storey will preside during dinner. Toasts will be proposed, to the King by Mary Jo Dorsett; to the Recreation Commission, by Shirley Moldaver. Appreciation gifts will be presented by the chairman.

Attending this affair will be the club members with their husbands and escorts, coach Mrs. James Forbes and Mr. Forbes, manager Mr. N. C. Munro and Mrs. Munro, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Sinclair, Mr. and Mrs. Russ Baer.

3 Women Guests Here For H & S Conference

At a coffee party Friday evening, at the home of Mrs. C. G. Collins, 528 Hunter Street West, the three visitors in the city for the Regional Conference of the Home and School Associations in this district, met with those in charge of the conference.

Mrs. A. W. Nelson, district chairman, and Mrs. E. Chambers, vice-president of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations, and Mrs. Collins, who is president of the Peterborough Home and School Council, have been in co-operation with a conference committee.

The conference began this morning with registration at nine o'clock, taken by Mrs. Don Wood and Mrs. Jack Ainslie.

Invocation was given by the Rev. Charles G. Boyd, president of the Ministerial Association. Civic greetings were extended by Mayor M. J. Swanston, and the Council greetings by Mrs. C. G. Collins.

Mrs. Nelson outlined the aims and objectives of the conference which brings together representatives of 23 Home and School Associations included in District 10.

The speakers to be heard during the day are Mrs. G. C. McAuley of Hamilton, vice-president of the Ontario Federation, and member of Hamilton Board of Education, Mrs. E. Chambers, Mrs. J. D. Taylor of Hamilton, editor of the Canadian Home and School magazine, Mrs. M. D. McLellan of Brantford, president of the Ontario Federation, Dr. R. C. Honey, chairman of the Board of Education, Peterborough.

Luncheon was enjoyed at the YWCA, the presidents of the Associations lunching with the provincial president, Mrs. McLellan, the vice-presidents with Mrs. McAuley, and the conveners with Mrs. Taylor, and other members with Mrs. Chambers.

Sisters' Foolish Dissension Is Example Of Ingratitude

DEAR MISS DIX: What can you suggest to restore peace between my two grown daughters? Since I have been almost continuously ill since the birth of Betty, the younger daughter, Alice, who is nine year older, has mothered her. Six years ago when Betty had her son, she almost died and Alice spent four weeks with her until she was able to leave the hospital and return home. Later, when Betty had a serious operation, Alice again took over the care of her household. Now comes the problem. A year ago the girls had an argument which should have blown over quickly. Instead, Betty has refused to speak to her sister since, and refuses to let her little boy come to our house if Alice and her husband are to be here. The child, who is devoted to his Aunt Alice, as well as to me, feels this estrangement. How can I bring the girls together?

HILDA M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Betty's present attitude toward her sister is a grade A exhibition of ingratitude. No matter what caused the rift between her and Alice, by now it should be forgotten and forgiven. During the four years of this one-sided feud, you have probably exhausted every argument at your command to make Betty see the light.

Remind Her Of Son

Have you tried to point out the bad effect her behaviour will have on her son? Children learn the principles of human relationships at home, and an atmosphere of jealousy, dislike or ill-feeling of any sort will go far towards producing a maladjusted boy. He has now—as all children have—a strong instinct for family unity; your daughter's attitude will destroy this and she can easily become the object of her own son's dislike. This is the strongest argument I could put forth for her reconciliation with Alice.

Your feelings, too, should be a potent factor, but since this is an obvious angle and one she undoubtedly has met, I would say her filial feelings are not too strongly developed, either.

This petty pose of "not speaking", affected by many people whose only claim to adulthood is physical growth, is a hold-over from childhood. Children, at least, get over their little grudges easily, but when a so-called grown-up gets into one of these humors, it spreads with the speed of lightning until the original trifle is completely lost amid a welter of imagined wrongs. The chief reason for the continuance of such a spat is the ingrained dislike of most pepole to admit they are wrong and to apologize.

Eventually Betty will regret her despicable conduct; I hope her remorse doesn't come too late!

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: We have a problem perhaps you can help us solve. Our adopted daughter is expecting to marry soon and as I have never told her she was adopted, I do not know whether I should tell her and her intended husband or not.

J. B. N.

ANSWER: You realize by now that you committed a great wrong by not telling the girl long ago that she was an adopted child. So much trouble and heartache could be avoided if parents would stop treating adoption as if it were a terrible secret never to be revealed. So much has been written on the subject and many approaches have been suggested that would make the adopted youngster, if anything, feel more secure. Of course, the longer the telling is postponed, the more difficult it becomes, and the more shock to the child.

In your case, the facts should be presented both to your daughter and her intended husband as soon as possible. Eventually someone will tell her, and surely it is better for you to do it than a stranger. It is truly a wonderful and charitable act to take a helpless child into your home to be raised as your own daughter. It is something to make both parents and youngsters proud, not ashamed or resentful. Your daughter is entitled to begin her new life with full knowledge of what has happened before. Don't delay!

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: For the past six months I have been going with a boy 17—one year older than I. He recently left on a two-month vacation. While he was gone, I dated a friend of his. Now I am afraid he will find out and be angry. Should I write and tell him or keep quiet and hope he doesn't find out?

MARTA L. A.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: In the first and most important place, at 16 you are too young to be so involved with a young man that you dare not have another date. Write him, and mention, quite casually if you like, that you have been out with his friend. If he gets angry let him know you are not ready to be tied down to one boy friend, especially when the "one" is on a long vacation. Don't try to keep a secret. It will come out eventually and in your absent boy friend's eyes you will be dishonest as well as unfaithful.

Hollywood's Film Industry Has Lot To Live Down

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 27 (AP)—The film industry generally believes its country-wide movietime, USA, stunt was a success, despite some hazards faced by some of the famed tourists.

Here is one example of what the filmsters faced:

A troupe headed by Danny Kaye, Sally Eilers, Nancy Davis, William Perlberg and Otto Kruger visited Springfield, Ill., and was honored at a civic luncheon. The governor and the mayor offered the usual speeches of welcome.

But the meeting was startled to hear the master of ceremonies, a film critic, blast away at Hollywood's morals, Communists and poor films.

No Sale

Danny Kaye followed and tried to joke about the local parallel, citing that "Sam Smithberry was arrested for drunk driving—right here in Springfield." The point was that when it happens to an actor in Hollywood, the event makes headlines.

But the chill remained. The incident points up how the industry will have to face point-blank criticism if it wants to win back its audience . . .

In the midst of the movietime campaign, a couple of producers sent Barbara Payton on the road to publicize their picture.

Among the cheery facts she divulged was her daily breakfast, which included eight ounces of vodka over ice.

Forgotten Man

Scarcely noticed this week was the first anniversary of the death of "the world's greatest entertainer"—Al Jolson.

What's Right?

WRONG: He introduces her as "Mrs. Smith."

RIGHT: He introduces her as "my wife" or "Helen."

Letters from Lucy Z. and K. A. J. and others requesting further information on skim milk powder: Star-lac, Klim and Milko are for sale all across Canada. Milko is sold in 5-lb. cartons, around $2 per carton—price varies where shipping costs are high. I have been writing to both of these firms and they are aware of the interest of these readers and will be expecting to hear direct from them.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: First let me thank you for the enjoyment and help I have received from your column.

Your style of presentation is delightful. The little personal touch endears you to your public as a personal friend. I myself feel as though it were written for me . . for the first time have run up against canning difficulties. I find my preserved plums have formed a mould on top. None of my other fruits have and since I have used the same method of canning and sterlizing I'm really as a loss to explain. Can anything be done to correct this? What might be the cause? Thanking you and wishing you a long and successful career both as columnist and Housewife.—N. H.

ANSWER: To quote you N. H. that little personal note in your letter endears you to me too. Thank you so much.

Various factors may have caused spoilage in your plums.

You may have used a wooden spoon that was not sterile in packing them into jars. (It is next to impossible to sterilize wooden utensils.) The plums may have had some spray on them that was particularly hard to wash off. The plums may have been overripe and some of them may have begun to spoil without this being evident. The latter trouble can be overcome by longer sterilizing or an additional step of precooking them in syrup before packing, sealing and processing.

You are not alone in your trouble. Isolated and mysterious instances of spoilage crop up all too often in the canning industry.

Is the one we lost and loved so well.
—Ever remembered by wife and family.

JONES—In loving memory of my dear father, James Jones, who passed away Oct. 28, 1944.
Deep in the heart lies a picture
Of a loved one laid to rest,
In memory's frame I shall keep it
Because he was one of the best.
—Ever remembered by son Herb.

ROLLINS—In loving memory of our dear son, Gordon, who passed away four years ago, Oct. 27.
We lost a boy with a heart of gold,
Who was more to us than wealth untold,
Without a farewell, he fell asleep
With only happy memories for us to keep.
We have lost, but God has gained
One of the best boys the world contained.
—Sadly missed by father and mother and family.

City Trust Contribution Of $175,000 Bought City Hall Site

The contribution of $175,000 from the accumulated surplus of the City Trust Commission for the purchase of the site of the city hall was overlooked in this week's publicity relating to its planning and completion.

This financing of the acquiring of the property in the city hall block was an early aid to the city council when supplemental costs were being considered. It was an available credit which encouraged the undertaking of the large project at a minimum of dependence on the city treasury.

Omission of this reference was inadvertent but it is still not too late to remind the ratepayers of the substantial sum they received from the resources of the City Trust Commissioners as a timely and munificent credit.

In the personal references to members of the civic staff in years gone by tributes should have included the late Felix Brownscome, Peterborough's first permanent treasurer; the late William J. Green, tax collector; and two others now on the retired list, Mr. Roy H. Parsons, city engineer, and William J. Henry, assessor.

Also in that group should have been mentioned the late T. A. S. Hay, whom Mr. Parsons succeeded as city engineer.

The work and responsibility of those city hall departments steadily increased particularly in the later years when Mr. Parsons and Mr. Henry gradually assumed enlarging details.

Positions of Trust

The personal integrity of men like Felix Brownscombe as treasurer and William J. Green as tax collector deserves remembrance and recognition in Peterborough's memories. They held positions of trust involving the public's monies and they performed them with both efficiency and honor.

The scope of the assessment department was greatly enlarged under Mr. Henry who carried on in his quiet and modest manner until the council recognized his need of assitance. Max J. Sloan was his first assistant, and the fact that he has gone to a high position in the Ontario Department of Municipal Affairs was proof not only of his own ability but also of the sound training he received under Mr. Henry.

Similarly, Mr. Parsons carried a great deal of enlarging work and somehow found time to keep up with his own efforts until assistance was recognized as necessary. In that department, too, and under Mr. Parsons was the late Harry Evans, street commissioner.

No doubt there are others who should be recalled. Peterborough has literally been fortunate in the ability, industry and honesty of its civic staffs.

New City Hall

Morrow's executors, referred to the "magnificent contribution made to Peterborough by the late William George Morrow.

"His interest in Peterborough's civic affairs was strongly evidenced during his lifetime by his record of service to this community. He demonstrated in his will, with great clarity, his main idea . . . to benefit the citizens of Peterborough through the gift of his whole estate for truly religious, charitable and educational purposes in this city.

"Real credit must go to those citizens of Peterborough who, over the past 12 years, have occupied public office as mayors and aldermen, and who have unselfishly devoted so much of their time and effort to seeing the construction of this beautiful building through to a successful conclusion.

"I can say from experience that the citizens of Peterborough can feel proud of these men whose deep and abiding interest in civic afairs is one of the real reasons why we are here today at the opening and dedication of this building."

Rabbi Joseph Mayer, speaking for Peterborough's Jewry said that hardly a year has passed since the laying of the foundation stone, "a year that has seen the completion of this beautiful building."

In prayer, the Rev. C. G. Boyd, president of the Peterborough Ministerial Association, spoke of the "abiding token of prosperity, law and order" that the new city hall would provide.

Key Presented

Architect Fred Marani, of the firm which designed the building, was presented by contractor Hubert Eastwood, the builder, with a golden key, which Mr. Eastwood said was "symbolic of handing over the building to the architect, ready for inspection."

Mr. Marani, in his turn, passed on the key to Mayor Swanston.

Briefly, Mayor G. R. Chamberlain of Peterborough, England, spoke, saying he was "the messenger who brought warmest greetings from his city."

Mayor Swanston presented Mayor Chamberlain with the key; Mayor Chamberlain unlocked and opened the centre door, the two posed briefly with Mr. Hungerford for photographers, and Peterborough's new city hall was officially open.

Visitors Give High Praise During City Hall Inspection

Peterborough's distinguished guests had nothing but praise for the new city hall during their inspection after the official opening Friday afternoon.

Led by Mayor G. R. Chamberlain, Peterborough, England, they filed into the foyer from the main entrance and then broke up into small groups for a close inspection of the new building.

City aldermen and Mayor Max Swanston—arrayed in his new chain of office—guided the touring dignitaries around the 150 rooms.

The two physical aspects of the building most commented on were the multi-colored map in the terrazzo floor of the foyer, and the oak-panelled council room, complete with Peterborough's coat of arms.

Guests at first walked around the edge of the map, depicting the Kawartha district, or strolled self-consciously across it as though uncomfortably aware they were stepping on a work of art. This phase soon passed and there was animated conversation as city officials explained the layout.

"Just think what muddy feet will do on that," said one lady who dreaded to see the seven-colored map subjected to such an indignity.

"Mud will wash off," she was assured.

Charlotte Whitton, mayor of Ottawa nodded apareciatively as the Most Rev. Gerald Berry, Bishop of Peterborough, pointed out the geographical features.

"Very interesting," she observed jokingly, "but what I want to know is: where is the Bishop's palace. Show me."

"Right there," countered the Bishop as he indicated the brass-ringed circle marking the city.

Life Of Party

Then Mayor Whitton—the life of the official party—was off on a sprint around the building. She pumped her guides with questions, made comparisons with Ottawa, and spiced the conversation with her extemporaneous witticisms.

Earlier, when Lieutenant-Governor R. F. McWilliams of Manitoba said he was a man who liked to speak his mind, Mayor Whitton applauded enthusiastically.

Mayor R. Chamberlain, didn't have a chance to make a full inspection. In his mayoral hat, white gloves, gold chain and scarlet robes of office, he was the most colorful member of the official party.

Bobby-soxers, realizing that this was something new for this city, besieged him for autograhps. Without batting an eyelash, and without losing mayoral decorum, he scribbled his signature on a dozen or more autograph books, propping them up against the new city hall door to do so.

What Next

A couple of policemen, given the job of keeping back the public during this official inspection, gazed in wonderment at this switch in bobby-soxer enthusiasm. From Frankie Laine to middle-aged mayors. What next?

Once free of this task Mayor Chamberlain was glad to comment on the building.

"You have a fine city hall here," he said. "In particular I like the layout."

He explained that there were some similarities with the town hall in Peterborough, England. In fact the architect had visited it before drawing up plans for the local one.

What Mayor Chamberlain liked best of all was the grouping of city offices, all together, thus making it easier for the public to find their way about it.

At home, he related, the ratepayer going from one office to another might lose his way in the "miles of corridors" before he completed his mission.

Mayor Chamberlain also cast an approving eye at the location of City Clerk Outram's office.

"You can see everything that's going on," he said.

All the visitors thought that the new council room was one of the most attractive they had ever seen. It is painted in red, green, gold, blue and white with dark oak panelling. Peterborough's coat of arms, designed by the Royal College of Heralds and set just above the mayor's chair, also drew approving comments.

Ex Mayor

Here Lieutenant-Governor McWilliams, the ex-mayor of Peterborough who made an even bigger name for himself in Manitoba, reminisced with ex-mayor James Hamilton and other old timers in city politics.

Earlier he had shaken hands and chatted with former Sgt. Detective Bill Meagher. The two played football together on the Peterborough team of 1900.

"I was just a youngster then," said Mr. Meagher. "Oh yes, he remembered me. As a matter of fact he sent me a letter when I retired from the force a couple of years ago."

Peterborough's new city hall will be open to the public Monday and Tuesday, afternoon and evening. Friday afternoon's "open house" was for the official party.

Just the same, a number of the public did come in to have a look. One of them was a man who has seen a lot of local history—T. C. Milburn, 96, Smith township.

Mr. Milburn's comment, as he eased himself onto a chair inside the new building: "It's been a long time coming. And it's a good building. Peterborough has come a long way since I was a boy."

Readers' Column Conducted By Mary Moore

If the flavor is not effected by the mould, the jars may be opened, the mould removed, the plums boiled, covered, in open kettle 20 minutes, repacked in freshly sterilized jars and processed in hot water bath, or oven or pressure cooker. Hot water bath, quart jars 20 minutes; oven, 250 deg. Fahr. 25 minutes; pressure cooker 10 minutes at 5 lbs. pressure.

QUESTION: Please tell me how to use those glazed hocks that look so good in the meat markets . . . Once I tried to use the liquid that accumulates, for gravy, but it was tasteless.—Mrs. L. W.

ANSWER: The glaze on the hocks is only the liquid in which the hocks were originally cooked, plus some gelatine to make it set when cold. It is colored with paprika. The hocks are intended for use sliced cold. If you heat them the glaze melts off. But if you care to heat them, do so in covered dish, put hot hocks on hot platter, flavor liquid in baking dish with salt, pepper and powdered MSG (mono-sodium glutamate), and pour over hocks when heated through again.

QUESTION: I would like to mention at this time that I really enjoy your column. You have a sincere, friendly style and I never miss reading it. Would appreciate very much if you would please print recipe for stuffed peppers. My husband is continually asking me to have that on the menu for his supper. He also likes baked squash. —AED.

ANSWER: It is so kind of you to say "sincere" and "friendly." I am ever so glad if I am both of those and helpful too.

Stuffed Peppers

Cut off tops of peppers that have flat bottoms that will stand up in baking dish. Remove seeds and white ribs. Parboil 3 minutes.

Stuffing 1: 1 cup chopped ham or other cold cooked meat, ½ chopped onion, ½ cup cooked rice or potato, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ¼ cup buttered crumbs, ¾ cup tomatoes, ¼ cup grated cheese.

Stuffing 2: ¼ lb. sausage meat or hamburg (raw), 1 cup canned or fresh corn, ¼ to ½ cup cracker crumbs, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper.

Stuffing 3: 1 cup hot mashed potatoes, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, a beaten egg, 2 tablespoons melted butter, ½ small onion chopped, ½ teaspoon poultry seasoning, 1 teaspoon salt 2 cups cubed bread, ¼ cup diced celery, ⅛ teaspoon pepper.

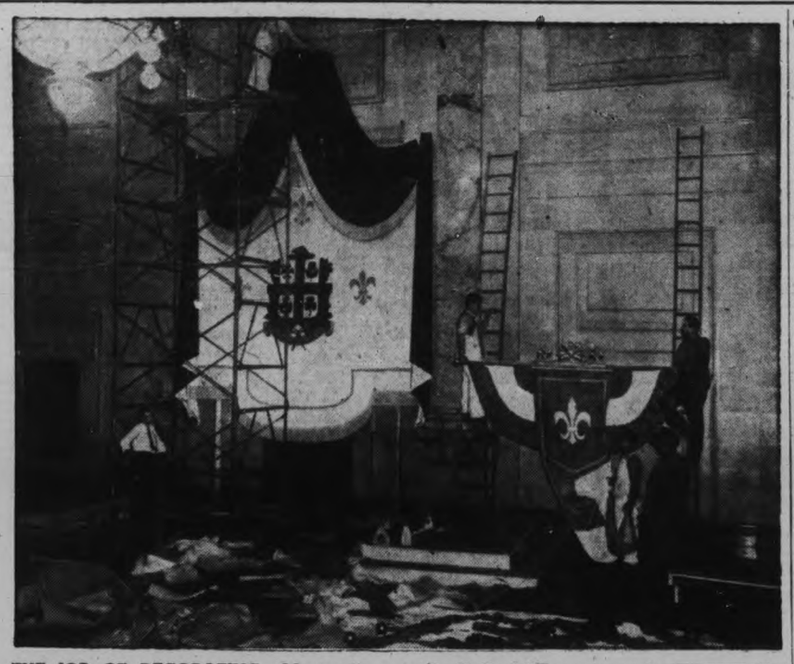
Stuff 6 or 8 peppers with any of these fillings. Where cheese or and buttered crumbs are suggested sprinkle these on top of stuffings. Stand peppers in buttered baking dish. Cover. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. about 30 minutes.

I hope you saw the recipe for "Station Squash" in last week's paper.

QUESTION: I always try to find time to read your cooking column, although it isn't always so easy to do as I have three youngsters aged one, two and three years, that keep me busy. I certainly use one of your frosting recipes—that "Fluffy Chocolate Frosting"—the one using the whole egg very often.

I would be glad if you would send me a tomato soup recipe for preserving that resembles the commercial product as closely as possible. —Alene J.

ANSWER: Every time I see those words Fluffy Chocolate Frosting—my heart sinks. I am so glad to hear when readers make it work—always.



Tomato Soup to Can

Three gallons chopped tomatoes, 14 stems celery, 14 sprigs parsley, 12 bay leaves, 8 medium sized onions, 10 whole cloves, 1¼ cups flour, 2 cups sugar, 1 teaspoon pepper, 3 tablespoons salt, ¼ pound butter or margarine or peanut or corn oil. Cook together the tomatoes, onions, celery and parsley until very soft. Strain. Mix together flour, sugar, salt and pepper, then add 2 cups water and stir until it forms a smooth cold paste. Add flour to tomato mixture stirring over medium heat until thick. When boiling add butter. Pour into sterile jars and seal.

education and health—are the day to day business of local government."

Mayor George R. Chamberlain of Peterborough, England, expressed his pleasure at being invited to take part "in this great occasion in the life of Peterborough, Canada" and described the city as "a model of good Canadian citizenship—a city to be proud of."

Presentation

Mayor Chamberlain presented Mayor Max Swanston with a small wood casket, containing a scroll signed by the aldermen and councillors of his city, conveying greetings from the namesake English city and thanking this city for its assistance during World War II.

Commenting on the presentation of a chain of office to Mayor Swanston at the official opening ceremony in the afternoon, Robertson W. Davies said, "It is a symbol of the highest office in the city. We have a tendency in Canada to forget the dignity attached to high office and are inclined to cut people off at the knees so they won't appear taller than we are."

"This is a hangover from pioneer days when any putting on airs was regarded as very offensive," continued Mr. Davies. If we pick a man for responsible and onerous duties it is fitting that we keep something to mark him out as the man we have chosen. Mr. Davies expressed the hope that in the course of time other symbols may be donated, in keeping with the position of wealth dignity and distinction this city occupies among other cities of Ontario and Canada.

"The hopes of 50 years came to realization today—it caused our cup of pleasure to run over," said Mayor Swanston in presenting a mantel clock "made by the skill and craftsmanship of Peterborough workmen" to Mayor and Mrs. Chamberlain on behalf of the city.

Alderman Herbert N. Young was chairman.

Costumes For Hallowe'en

By NANCY CLEAVER.

"What can I wear on Hallowe'en?" How many mothers will hear this urgent question during the last week in October!

There may be requests for specific articles — that old bonnet of granny's with the feathers, the sailor pants, the long black gloves, the tunic which was dyed green for the play—quite a number of children have definite ideas about what they want to "be" and what costumes they would like to wear.

"Dressing" up is lots of fun for youngsters. Big and little, they love to pretend they are someone else. Hallowe'en provides the big occasion of the year for masquerade costumes. The good times getting ready to sally forth almost equal the excitement of the night itself.

Busy mothers may not be nearly so enthusiastic about these activities. But it is a pity not to set aside other jobs, and enjoy Hallowe'en with the boys and girls. The years pass swiftly, and before very long there will be no small daughter in your home hunting for a broom for a witch, or al ittle boy looking for a pillow for a clown's tummy, or a blackened cork to paint his face.

A costume box or an old trunk where odds and ends are kept which might come in handy for dressing up, is a great "time saver"; scarves, gloves, shoes, artificial flowers, ribbons, feathers, which might otherwise be thrown out at housecleaning time, may well be collected in one place where they can be found quickly.

A costume box is real treasure for rainy Saturday afternoons when the children want to put on their own pantomime or play. It saves time and energy searching through the house for articles for them to wear. Dressing up is such fun it shouldn't just be confined to October 31st.

Older school age boys and girls may want material of a special shade—as bright red for a gypsy costume. Why not look out an old dress, rip it apart and let your boy or girl experiment with dyeing? The directions for dyeing on the package are very simple and cost little. Knowing how to dye material is a useful bit of knowledge. Old shoes painted with enamel paint make a smart addition to a costume and this is a job which a boy or girl will enjoy too.

If your daughter wants to design and sew her own costume encourage her to go ahead. The results may not be quite as artistic as you could have achieved, but it will be her own production. If she is keen about following a "store pattern", here too is a way in which she can add to her own knowledge and skill.

A coating of cold cream before rouge or blacking is applied to the skin helps speed up its removal. Some parents will not allow their youngsters to color their faces—but Hallowe'en just comes once a year and the clean-up job doesn't need to be too trying.

Masks of all kinds and descriptions are sold at Hallowe'en time. The new grotesque over-all rubber masks which are pulled over the head are quite popular.

Older boys or girls who have enjoyed a papiermache' handcraft project may want to mould their own papier mache' mask. This requires time and patience, but the original product is often worth while.

Little folk will enjoy making a face on a large, clean paper bag which they can pull on too. Mother should help locate the places for the eyes, nose and mouth. (Be sure blunt scissors are used whenever small children are cutting out!) Make the holes plenty large enough to allow for lots of fresh air.

Crayons and water colors are essential play material for preschool children. Paper masks give them lots of scope to color hair, complexion, eyes, mouth, etc. whatever shades they like.

As parents watch their children getting ready for Hallowe'en, they are reminded of the satisfaction in making things with one's own hands as well as the importance of imagination.

Far too soon most people lose the urge to "make believe". Amateur dramatics have a comparatively small following. The good times children help to create for themselves have far more character values than passive "spectator" recreation—so here's to Hallowe'en preparations!

Visiting English Party Have Busy Time Ahead

An interesting program has been arranged for the city's visitors from Peterborough, England, continuing the spirit of reception and hospitality which has been extended to them since their landing at the port of Montreal.

They are guests this evening of the 4th Canadian Anti-Tank Battery, RCA Association at its first annual reunion dinner in the Canadian Legion hall. Mayor G. R. Chamberlain and Councilor E. V. Martin and their wives have gratefully accepted the Association's invitation.

Between the dinner and the convention dance, they have been invited to the home of Col. John A. Hartstone, MC, Honorary President of the 4th Anti-Tank Battery Association. It is understood that the company will be around 100 guests.

Sunday morning the visitors from overseas are attending the 11 am service at All Saints' Church, with members of the city council, Board of Education and other civic officials.

Mayor Swanston and Mrs. Swanston will be luncheon hosts at the McGillis Hotel, and the afternoon depends on choice and the weather. A motor trip through the Kawartha Lakes district, probably with dinner somewhere in the area, has been suggested.

Visit Collegiate

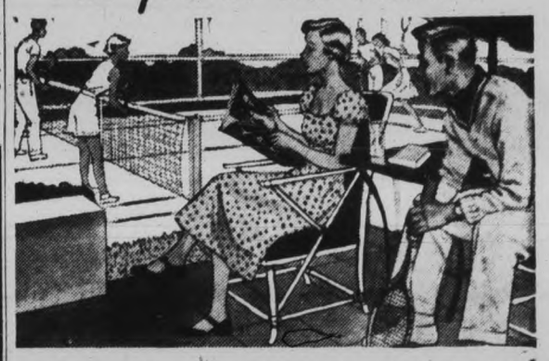
The program continues on Monday when the visitors will attend the Collegiate Institute and address an assembly of the students. They will be accompanied by Mayor Swanston and Mrs. Swanston.

At 2:30 pm citzens are invited to open house at the city hall. Mayor Chamberlain and his party will receive in the mayor's office until 4 pm—and possibly in the evening from 7:30 to 9 pm. The opportunity of meeting them is provided especialy for citizens from the Old Country.

The women of the Civic Study Group of Civic Affairs will act as guides for citizens Monday and Tuesday afternoons and evenings.

Additional arangements for Mayor Chamberlain and his party to see something of Ontario extend into the rest of the week. General Motors have provided an automobile and chauffeur for their convenience of travel. In Toronto they will be guests of Mayor Hiram McCallum; in Niagara Falls they will be entertained by Mayor Charlotte E. Whitton ed by Mayor Ernest Hawkins; and in Ottawa Mayor Charlotte E. Whitton will be their host.

It is likely that they will visit the city hospitals and some of the industrial plants as time and other engagements permit.



Turkey Dinner Held

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 27 — (ENS)—Close to 500 persons enjoyed a turkey dinner at the Presbyterian church on Wednesday. This group is about the only one in this locality to keep up the annual event, which is always well patronized.

Three sittings were necessary to accommodate the guests, and Rev. A. E. Toombs secured a movie projector and an educational film from Peterborouh to show patrons while they were waiting to be served.

Visit To Rivers Lengthened To Meet Vets

WINNIPEG, Oct. 27 — (CP) — Prineess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh will spend an additional 15 minutes in Rivers, Man., Sunday to meet and speak to veterans from Winnipeg's military hospital. About 120 patients will make the trip.

Col. J. B. Allen, chief of staff at Prairie Command, said Friday he had been officially notified of the extension of the stop, originally scheduled at the Rivers Joint Air Training Centre for 3.05 to 3.35 pm Sunday, on the couple's flight to the Lakehead. The extra time could be absorbed in flight, he said.

The action followed protests by veterans' organizations after the Royal couple did not stop at Deer Lodge Military Hospital here during their visit Oct. 16. No stop was scheduled although the Royal car drove through the grounds where many veterans were mustered.

The army was informed that the Royal couple considered a proposal to take some veterans to Rivers a sound one. Hospital authorities will select those able to make the 155-mile bus trip.

Four nursing sisters and 11 doctors and ordrelies received the Air Force's Para-rescue badge from Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, Chief of Air Staff, in Edmonton recently following a 14-week course. Each graduate has completed 10 jumps—six in open country and four in timbered areas. The group, the RCAF's first all-medical para-rescue team, have been taught to parachute into Canada's wilderness on life-saving expeditions.

Nazis Brought Luck

MELBOURNE, Australia—(CP)—Mrs. Ida Hampel, a Polish immigrant, won $25,000 in a lottery with a ticket, the number of which was the same as a number tattooed on her sister's arm while she was an inmate of a Nazi concentration camp. The sisters will share the prize.

Matter of Accent

Animal Care Defence Project

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 27 — (CP)—Harren McSpadden, director of humane education of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, New York, Friday told the annual meeting of the Ontario society that proper care of animals in the event of disaster is an importnat part of civil defence.

He told the meeting something should be done by humane societies to care for animals in an emergency.

The convention, attended by delegates from throughout the province, passed a resolution asking the Provincial Department of Lands and Forests to provide a government plane or planes for humane inspection purposes in Ontario's north country.

Roberta Dougherty, of Sault Ste. Marie, told of the cruelty to bush horses in the north.

Miss Doherty, speaking for the Sault Ste. Marie society, said that in her area two years ago a bush camp was being operated at which displaced persons were employed. Conditions were so bad that the displaced persons ran away.

Miss Doherty added that the horses should have done likewise.

Rare Lung Cancer Described By Doctor

TORONTO, Oct. 27—(CP)—A rare cancer of the lungs — pulmonary adenomatosis—was described Friday to the annual meeting of the Ontario Association of Pathologists.

Only 30 cases have been recorded in world medical history, Prof. J. H. Fisher, of the University of Western Ontario, London, told the association in a paper.

He told of five new cases discovered in Ontario—three in London and two in Brantford. Dr. W. J. Wholley, Brantford pathologist, contributed a summary of two cases.

In an interview later, Prof. Fisher said that the cancer affected an age group from 40 to 70. All five cases were fatal, with death occurring within three months in four of them.

5 Companies Fined On Monopoly

Montreal Justice Rules Match Firms Must Pay $85,000

MONTREAL, Oct. 29. (CP)—Mr. Justice Valmore Bienvenue in Court of King's Bench today found five Canadian match companies guilty of operating a monopoly and assessed fines totalling $85,000.

The accused companies are Eddy Match Company Limited, Canada Match Limited, Commonwealth Match Company Limited, Federal Match Limited and the Valcourt Match Company.

Fines assessed were:

Eddy Company $25,000; Valcourt, $25,000; Commonwealth, $25,000; Canada Match, $10,000; Federal Match, $10,000.

Hazen Hazard, counsel for the defence, said an appeal might be considered. He was granted 30 days' delay for payment of fine and costs.

Judgment was postponed last June 29 until today to give more time for consideration and Mr. Justice Bienvenue's ruling ran to about 70 closely-typed pages.

The companies appeared at hearings last spring. They ended last May 29.

1,200 Exhibits

More than 1,200 exhibits were presented during the trial. Numerous witnesses were questioned about these exhibits, which included voluminous correspondence and price lists.

Defence counsel Lucien Gendron contended, in addressing the court at the end of the hearing, that, even in a case of conspiracy, letters adressed by a third party to conspirators were proof the conspirators were aware of the contents but were not proof that the truth of statements or opinions in the letters.

He said the judgment should establish not only the guilt or innocence of the companies but should clarify the rights of corporations.

Churchill Has 19 Majority

LONDON, Oct. 29 (Reuters) — Winston Churchill's new government today increased its over-all majority in the House of Commons to 19.

The Conservative candidate, Maj. Duncan McCallum, retained the Argyll constituency, West Scotland, for his party in a delayed election result.

McCallum polled 21,191 votes against 9,925 by his Labor opponent, R. Young.

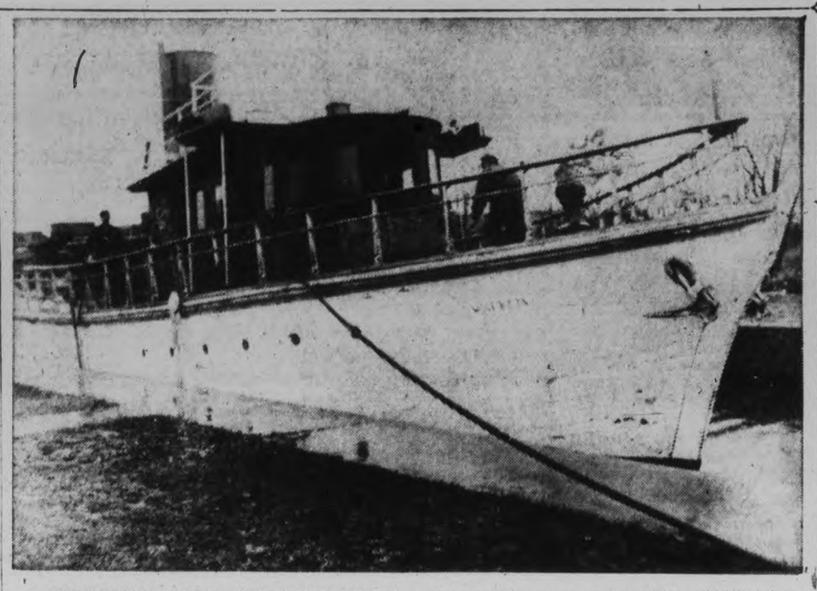
He had a majority of 11,266 compared with 10,044 in the previous election.

King Refuses To Take Holiday In Malta

LONDON, Oct. 29 (Reuters) — The King has turned down a suggestion from Princess Elizabeth that he should go to Malta to recover from his lung operation, the Sunday Express reported Sunday.

He has also decided against the advice of his surgeon, C. Price Thomas, that he should go to the South of France or North Africa for three months, the newspaper says.

The Princess made her suggestion to the King in a trans-Atlantic telephone conversation, the Express reports.



It adds that the King was determined to make his customary broadcast to the Commonwealth Christmas Day.

Pickets Withdrawn On A-Plant Project

OAK RIDGE, Tenn., Oct. 29—(AP). — Picket lines were withdrawn today from vital atomic plant construction projects on which work had been halted by striking plumbers.

Leaders of the Plumbers' Union (AFL), acting on orders from international headquarters, called off the pickets shortly before noon. They will meet later to decide whether to return to work.

Earlier, the Atomic Energy Commission said that work on the huge uranium separation centre expansion project had been shut down because of lack of workers to man the job.

Police Claim Killer Known After 3 Weeks

TORONTO, Oct. 29 (CP). — Toronto police said today they pieced together bits of evidence and three weeks after the August, 1949, slaying of a man and a young couple knew who the killer was.

Their suspect was Stanley Buckowski, 26-year-old native of Winnipeg who now is in San Quentin Penitentiary, scheduled to die in the gas chamber Nov. 16 for the slaying of a California woman. Buckowski has admitted killing Alfred Layng after a Toronto holdup July 30, 1949, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKay two days later as he fled from police.

Police officials said Detective Sergeant Adolphus Payne of the Toronto force and Inspector Wilford Franks of the Ontario Provincial Police were responsible for brilliant work in pinning the Toronto slayings on Buckowski, a man with a long criminal record.

Sgt. Payne said the McKay double murder was by a "real killer" obviously the work of the gunman who had shot Layng to death as he sought to halt a bandit fleeing from a groceteria holdup. The sergeant said the killer shot the McKays to silence them.

Another Clue

Another clue was that the slayer did not kill the McKay's pet dog but left it tied to the bumper of the McKay car in which he left the body of Mrs. McKay. Buckowski was known as a man who would not permit anyone to maltreat his own dog.

Because the car had been left in the Christie Street Hospital parking lot, a former patient was suspected. Buckowski had spent 14 months in the hospital.

There were other clues—the killer's coat, found in a tailor shop; a pair of gloves with a skin lotion in the lining—Buckowski was known to have had a skin disorder: a pair of glasses that the killer discarded as he fled.

Sgt. Payne said Toronto police furnished the clue—a palm print—that resulted in Buckowski's arrest in Los Angeles for the murder of the California woman. He had been picked up for robbery and been recaptured after trying to escape from the prison

Threatened Showdown Flop In New York Dock Strike

NEW YORK, Oct. 29. (AP)—A threatened showdown in New York's waterfront strike failed to develop today and miles and miles of docks remained closed tight after morning work whistles blew. Reinforced lines of pickets marched in front of many piers. Announced plans of AFL longshore boss Joseph Ryan to send men "through or over" pickets didn't materialize.

Police, anticipating a possible violent climax to the 15-day dock strike, increased waterfront patrols to about 400 men along the Manhattan docks alone.

But as the morning advanced, the docks remained quiet while pickets plodded to and fro.

There was no sign of the non-strikers Ryan had threatened to send out.

Too Many Pickets

Later, Ryan said his "men tried to go to work this morning" at some piers, "but there were too many pickets." He said his men were outnumbered by the rebel strikers.

Any effort to breach the picket lines, he said, "would have resulted in disorder. So we told our men not to be guilty of any disorder."

John J. (Gene) Sampson, leader of the strikers' revolt against a new contract, said of Ryan's threat to send in non-strikers to crash picket lines:

"He said that two weeks ago. The men will stay out as long as we are on strike."

Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, sent President Truman a telegram Sunday promising that his followers will not be kept from work by picket lines.

Ryan belligerently added that his men would "never go around" the pickets, but through them.

At almost the same time, John J. (Gene) Sampson, leader of the dissident ILA members, sent a telegram to the President urging creation of an "emergency impartial body" to review the strike.

Asks British Loan

LONDON, Oct. 29 — (AP). — Informed sources said today Jordan has asked Britain for a loan of several million dollars to build up its wobbly economy and Britain has agreed in principle. However, a Treasury spokesman refused to comment on the report. He said a Jordan mission is coming here to review existing financial arrangements with this country.

Doctor Robbed Dies In Woods

LYNN, Mass., Oct. 29 (AP). — Investigators today awaited the outcome of an examination of the vital organs of Dr. Albert H. Covner for a clue to the cause of his death 10 days after three teenaged baby sitters snatched $20,000 from his home.

The 51-year-old heart specialist's body was found Saturday in North Reading woods, about 20 miles from his Nahant home.

Relatives and friends told investigators that he had been "terribly upset" since his baby-sitter, Roberta McCauley, 15, and two other girls disappeared with the contents of a strong box for a wild spree in New York.

Police believe it is possible that Dr. Covner may have suffered a heart seizure and turned into the wooded lane where his automobile was found. He was known to have suffered from heart disease.

Rule Expenses Can Be Taxed

OTTAWA, Oct. 29 (CP—General expenses incurred by men in public office cannot be deducted for income tax purposes, the income tax appeal board ruled in a decision made public today.

The ruling was made in appeals by Hubert Badanai, mayor of Fort William, and F. J. Mitchell, Edmonton alderman.

Mr. Bandanai sought to deduct $940 from his 1949 salary of $2,000 for expenses incurred in connection with the chief magistrate's post—including monthly broadcasts to citizens on the state of the city's business.

Mr. Mitchell sought to deduct $750 from his 1939 income for the same reasons.

The income tax appeal board found that the act does not allow such deductions and therefore dismissed both appeals, but not without sympathy.

Board chairman Fabio Monet observed in the case of Mr. Badanai that the section of the act denying such claims "is drastic in its effect and occasionally works a hardship, but nevertheless I have to apply the law as I find it and have no alternative in this case but to dismiss the appeal."

Eden Orders Envoy Come Home From Iran

LONDON, Oct. 29 — (AP). — Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden directed Britain's Ambassador in Tehran today to return to London immediately for consultations on the Anglo-Iranian oil row.

Eden's action was his first publicly announced official move since taking over as Foreign Secretary in the new Conservative government of Winston Churchill.

Britain's envoy in the Iranian capital is Sir Francis Shepherd.

His recall presumably means that Eden is seeking a way to reopen the stalled negotiations with Iran over nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's billion-dollar properties.

Desert Atomic Bomb Blast Heard 200 Miles Away

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Oct. 29 (AP) —A medium-sized atomic bomb exploded over the Nevada desert Sunday, and rumbles were heard more than 200 miles away.

The bomb, dropped from a B-29, outshone the morning sun for a few seconds. The time was 7:20 am PST (10:20 am EST).

It was the second after-dawn nuclear test puf on by the Atomic Energy Commission after much delay because of weather and various operational difficulties.

Unlike the pallid baby blast last Monday, Sunday's detonation caused a rumble heard as far away as Big Bear, Calif., 225 miles away, and St. George, Utah, 135 miles off. An aviator flying at about 11,000 feet over Kaibab Forest, Utah, reported seeing the flash some 200 miles distant. It also was widely seen in Las Vegas and other southern Nevada communities, but was felt by comparatively few persons. There was no damage reported.

The AEC reported finding a small amount of radiation in the Beatty-Lathrop Wells area, about 35 miles southwest of the Yucca Flat test site, but it was termed unharmful to humans, animals or crops.

Sunday's bomb — unofficially the 19th major nuclear explosion by the United States—flashed white, then glowed for perhaps two seconds before sending up a column of smoke and the familiar atomic mushroom.

The nuclear cloud assumed a "V" shape which stretched widely across the sky before finally disintegrating three hours after the blast. At is peak, the cloud rose to probably 10,000 feet and attained a width of nearly 50 miles.

The bomb exploded at an altitude estimated at about 1,500 feet above Yucca Flat. It was released by a B-29.

Pair Trapped WhilePlaying With Matches

5-Year-Old Sister Uses Toy Pail To Try Save Children

LINDSAY, Oct. 29. (Staff)—Two young boys were burned to death early Sunday after they started a fire that trapped them in a Verulam township barn where they were playing. Meanwhile their five-year-old sister, aware of what was happening, was too paralyzed with fear to tell her parents.

Dead are Ronald Scriver, 3½, and his brother John William, 6½. They were the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Scriver, Lot 9, Concession 7, Verulam township.

The two boys got some matches from the back seat of a car belonging to a visiting couple. Apparently they went into the barn and started to play with them.

Packed With Straw

The old barn was packed tight with about 20 tons of baled straw, leaving only one door to get in or get out. When the fire broke out it is believed to have been between the boys and the exit, thus cutting off their escape.

Their five-year-old sister, Elizabeth, was the only one to know they were trapped.

She stuck her head in the door and shouted "come out, come out," several times, but by that time her brothers were either suffocated or were too frightened to make a dash through the flames.

Though frightened the little girl made an effort to save her trapped brothers. She went to the pump and drew water for a tiny play pail. Then she dashed to the barn to throw water on the flames.

Makes Several Trips

She did this several times, soaking herself to the skin as she spilled the water in her excitement.

By this time she was terrified and ran into the house where her parents, not knowing what was going on, were chatting with Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Irwin, RR 1 Dunsford.

Mrs. Scriver, seeing Elizabeth wet and trembling, asked her what she had been doing.

The frightened little girl's only reply was that she had been at the pump.

First indication the Scrivers had that anything was wrong was when a truck, driven by Bertram Robertson, a neighboring farmer, roared into the laneway. Robertson and his son had seen the smoke and flames from their farm home, three-quarters of a mile away.

PAIR TRAPPED (Continued on Page 2)

Noted British Actor Francis Lister Dies

LONDON, Oct. 29 (Reuters)—Francis Lister, 52, one of Britain's front rank actors, died on Sunday in a London hospital.

Lister, well known both in London and New York, collapsed last June after acting with American actress Jessie Royce Landis in a comedy called "Come Live With Me."

He started his career at the age of 15 and appeared in both modern parts and Shakespearean drama.

25 Out Of 27 Killed In Crash

GUATEMALA, Oct. 29—(CP)—A troupe of Guatemalan stage and radio artists was all but wiped out Saturday in the crash of a Guatemalan army-air force C-47 transport plane that killed 25 of 27 persons aboard.

The two survivors, both entertainers, were thrown clear of the plane when it cracked open on crashing shortly after takeoff near the tropical city of Flores. Both are expected to recover. One, 20-year-old songstress Zoila Luz Estrada, was found in a tree.

The dead were five military men and 20 of the 22 Guatemalan entertainers returning from a theatre benefit performance at Flores.

The dead included soprano Lily Andreau Spillal, featured singer of Mexico City radio station, and the Central American composer Paca Perez.

To Talk With Eden

LONDON, Oct. 29. (CP)—L. B. Pearson, Canada's External Affairs Minister, will call at the Foreign Office on Tuesday for an interview with Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, it was learned today. The Canadian Minister will also see Lord Ismay, the new Secretary of State for commonwealth relations. Eden and Lord Ismay, named to the Cabinet during the weekend, started work today.

Shoot At Car Trying Crash UK Roadblock

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 29. (AP)—A British military spokesman said today an Egyptian woman was killed and her male companion wounded by British troops who fired on their automobile as they tried to crash through a British roadblock in the embattled Suez Canal zone.

The spokesman said an Egyptian officer immediately made an official protest against the shooting, which occurred Sunday night after a weekend lull in the canal zone.

Egypt meanwhile moved toward a war footing.

The Egyptian state council, which has the status of a supreme court, Sunday approved general mobilization of manpower and drafting of all Egyptians between 18 and 50 "in case of war or threat of war."

It also provided for setting up of a high council of war headed by Prime Minister Mustapha El Nahas Pasha.

Needs Formal Approval

This latest move in the British-Egyptian squabble over the Suez and Sudan needs only formal Cabinet approval to become law.

The council acted as Egypt officially informed Britain of her parliamentary act two weeks ago junking the two treaties providing for British sharing in the defence of the Suez Canal and in the rule of the vast cotton-growing Sudan.

Britain has refused to recognize the one-sided act and has poured thousands of troop reinforcements into the canal zone. She holds military control of the canal, despite Egyptian labor, food and water supply boycotts.

There appeared to be come confusion over Sunday night's shooting, which occurred at Tel El Kebir, 20 miles of Ismailia, scene of bloody rioting two weeks ago.

The British spokesman said troops manning the roadblock fired after the automobile "tried to crash through." Egyptians claimed British soldiers searching a bus at a Tel El Kebir control point killed a woman passenger.

Princess Drives Royal Train

EDMONTON, Oct. 29 (CP). — Princess Elizabeth drove the Royal train's 315-ton locomotive for 20 minutes Saturday.

The fireman was Prince Philip.

"It was a magnificent experience," said the Princess when she stepped from the huge mountain-type engine after handling the controls from Yates to Peers, Alta., a distance of 14.4 miles.

The Princess, dressed in light blue raincoat, kerchief, black rubber shoes and leather gloves, got the train off to a smooth start at Yates and brought it to a halt at Peers without a jolt.

At Rosevear, passengers on a westbound transcontinental train halted at a siding, were surprised to see the Princess waving from the locomotive of the passing train.

Liberals Reject Cabinet Bid From Churchill

LONDON, Oct. 29. (CP) — The Liberals conditionally promised their six House of Commons vote Sunday night to bolster the narrow Conservative majority, but Liberal leader Clement Davies said "no" to a Cabinet bid from Prime Minister Winston Churchill. The Liberals said their six members would swell the Tories' 19-seat majority on "measures clearly conceived in the interest of the country as a whole." Davies, however, after a second weekend conference with Churchill, announced he "felt unable to accept" the Conservative leader's offer of a post in the Cabinet the Prime Minister still was forming.

Churchill has named eight key members to his government and hoped to complete the line-up before parliament reconvenes Wednesday.

The offer to Davies was designed to give the government the "broad base" promised by Churchill during the campaign, as well as to meet Labor criticisms of the new regime as a "minority government." Despite their majority the Tories drew 200,172 fewer votes than Labor in Thursday's general election.

With all but two of the 652 seats in the Commons accounted for the party standing was: Conservatives 321, Labor 293; Liberals 6; others 3; deferred 1; unreported 2.

Names Cabinet

Churchill already has named to his cabinet Anthony Eden as Foreign Secretary, Deputy Prime Minister and leader of the House; Lord Woolton, Lord President of the Council; R. A. Butler, Chancellor of the Exchequer; Lord Ismay, Commonwealth Relations; the Marquess of Salisbury, Lord Privy Seal; Sir David Maxwell Fyfe, Home Secretary; Sir Walter Monckton, Labor, and Oliver Lyttelton, Colonies.

Others mentioned for government posts were Brendan Bracken, former Minister of Information and First Lord of the Admiralty; Lord Leathers, wartime Minister of Transport; Sir John Anderson, former Chancellor of the Exchequer; Geoffrey Lloyd, former Secretary for Mines, and such younger Tories as David Eccles, building expert Ernest Marples, and Duncan Sandys, Churchill's son-in-law.

Cleaner Falls 53 Ft. Through Air Shaft

TORONTO, Oct. 29—(CP)—A building cleaner fell 53 feet through an air shaft in a downtown building early today, landing on a ledge above a sheer 150-foot drop to the sub-basement. He was taken to hospital with a broken back, broken shoulder, several broken ribs and severe head gashes.

Police said Sidney Boiston, 46, opened a 10th-floor door and stepped into an air space, in places only 18 inches wide, around the smoke stack of the 22-storey Bank of Nova Scotia building. He fell to about the fifth floor level where a narrow ledge projects.

Firemen called by fellow cleaners who had heard Boiston scream smashed a wall above the man and removed him on a collapsible stretcher. Boiston lay on the ledge for 75 minutes while rescuers worked to free him.

German Official Dies

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (AP) —Dr. Karl Von Lewinski, 78, internationally known lawyer and former German government official, died today. In the United States for the last two years as a consultant on international law to the office of the alien property custodian, he was a former associate justice of the Supreme Court of Prussia.

Crowds Stand In Snow To See Princess

PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 29 (CP) —Soden thousands of Lakehead enthusiasts waded through slush and mud in a wet snowfall today to see Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip on their visit to the Twin Cities.

It was perhaps the dirtiest weather of the Canadian tour. For a time the air force considered calling off the couples' scheduled noon 480-mile flight to North Bay. However, by takeoff time the skies had cleared and the flight was on.

High spot of the Port Arthur tour was a visit to a grain elevator, typical of the Lakehead industry of trans-shipping the product of the prairies to the east. The Lakehead is a vital rail-water transportation link between the two areas of Canada.

The pair spent half an hour in Saskatchewan pool elevator No. 7, largest of this type in the world. They doubled the time originally alloted for that inspection.

They were escorted through the towering structure by Trade Minister Howe who, besides being member of parliament for this area and in control of the Canadian Wheat Board, was the man who built the elevator in 1928. He was in the construction business then.

Watch With Interest

The Prince and Princess watched grain on its way through the elevator, from a freight car until it poured into the hull of a ship.

They watched a huge "cradle" rocking 2,000 bushels out of a freight car. Elizabeth took particular interest in that ponderous operation. Then, after inspecting cleaning and sorting facilities, they saw wheat pouring through a funnel into the Canadian Steamships Line freighter Burlington.

Before the elevator visit, the Royal couple inspected a snow-dampened guard of honor made up of Legionnaires, and drove to

Arrest 15,000 In Gigantic Plot

JAKARTA, Oct. 29 (AP)—Indonesian Premier Soekiman told parliament today that discovery of a gigantic plot against the lives of Indonesia's top officials, from President Soekiman down, had resulted in the arrest of 15,000 persons.

The plot, he said, was discovered last August. Its targets, in addition to the president, included vice-president Mohammed Hatta and all cabinet ministers.

Soekiman said "several" parliament members and a number of government officials had been among the plotters.

Sixteen members of parliament and about a dozen officials of the ministry of labor, all leftists, were arrested Aug. 16-17. Country-wide security sweeps and arrests have been frequent since then.

The premier said his government also had evidence of a "left wing" movement in Jakarta financed by a "foreign country."

900 Convicts Give Crime Film Onceover

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 29 (CP) —Sunday was a big day in Kingston penitentiary. Some 900 prisoners witnessed a preview of a British film that showed crime, while it may be fun for awhile, never pays in the end—something they already knew.

The film—"The Lavender Hill Mob"—was J. Arthur Rank's humorous satire of two elderly gentlemen who hoodwink the best brains of New Scotland Yard in making off with $1,000,000 in gold bullion.

There was no fanfare at Sunday's preview. No spotlights. No movie stars. But there were more critics in the audience than any first-filming ever had.

Depending on the variety and extent of his past experienee, each prisoner watched the show with a critical eye.

As the plan of the gold-theft unfolded, the convicts were hushed with admiration. They laughed hilariously when a cool yegg, disturbed cracking a safe, calmly ate his lunch until the disturbance passed.

They jeered when two actor-thugs opened an armored truck with only one twist of a crowbar.

Convicts Howl

During the delightfully funny chase scenes, as the London bobbies blundered about, crashing prowl cars into each other in a fruitless attempt to catch the thieves, the convicts howled with glee.

Guards stood every few feet around the walls of the big, drab room where the film was shown. Radio and newspapermen, present for the unique preview sat at the back.

But they missed the humor in the subtler, shadowy parts where expert crime technique drew applause and laughter from the convicts.

Critically speaking, it was the prisoners' show. Most of the 900 appeared to enjoy it.

When it was over, the press and radio men got up, walked through a series of huge steel doors where keys clanked shut behind them, and out into a grey, gloomy Sunday.

The rest of the audience had to stay behind.

France Asks Britain Join Unity Plans

Need UK Assistance If Work To Succeed Schuman Declares

PARIS, Oct. 29. —(AP)— French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman Sunday appealed to Winston Churchill to bring Britain into European unification projects.

Speaking near Metz, where Churchill first advocated European union in 1946, Schuman said British participation is needed.

Until now, the nations of Western Europe have proceeded along the unification road without British partnership.

Britain's Socialist Government feared the effects on its own nationalized coal and steel industries. Thus it kept aloof from unification plans, such as the Schuman coal and steel pool, which bears the foreign minister's name, and the European army plan.

Hopes Growing

With the return of the Conservatives and Churchill to power, the continent hopes it will now get Britain to play an active role in European projects.

Churchill has been one of the big features in the European Parliament projects.

After recalling that Churchill on July 14, 1946, "had for the first time proclaimed in public the necessity for a united and organized Europe," Schuman said:

"Britain must be part of it. And in order that this may be accomplished, she can count on the entire good-will and understanding of France, which will bring her total and constructive support in a search for understanding among all peoples and a truce among governments which now oppose each other."

Let Up On Attacks

MOSCOW.—A let-up in Soviet press attacks on Winston Churchill led western observers to express a belief today that Russia may be feeling for an opening to negotiate over East-West differences.

B-29 Breaks In Two 11 In Crew Injured

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Oct. 29 (AP)—A B-29 crashed, broke in two and burned at McClelland air force base late Sunday night. Her crew of 11 were reported injured.

A civilian fireman dropped dead while helping put out the fire. A heart attack was presumed to be the cause of death.

The plane was taking off for Hickam Field in Hawaii when it crashed. The cause was not reported.

BYSTANDERS AT TRUCE TALKS—Two Chinese Communist soldiers, in the quilted winter uniforms that are the Reds' trademark, watch intently as UN linemen string telephone wires into the Panmunjom tent where the truce talks are taking place. Near the tent are stacks of wooden flooring, being installed to cut the chill rising from the earthen floor.

Truce Talks Deadlocked On Buffer Zone

MUNSAN, Korea, Oct. 29 (AP) —Allied and Communist negotiators failed again today to make any progress toward agreement on location of an armistice buffer zone in Korea.

"Today's discussions were completely inconclusive," the official UN spokesman announced.

Sub-committees of the main armistice delegations met 3½ hours in Panmunjom. They scheduled their sixth meeting for 11 am tomorrow (9 pm Monday EST).

Each side has proposed a demarcation line. The UN wants it generally to follow the current battle line mostly in North Korea.

The Reds want the Allies to pull back as much as 15 miles, giving up such hard won positions as the iron triangle, the punchbowl and heartbreak ridge. In exchange, they offered the Ongjin peninsula in the west. The UN says that has little military value.

Rejest Red Plan

Allied negotiators rejected the Communist plan and said it could not be considered "any further."

Brig.-Gen. William P. Nuckols, the UN spokesman, described Monday talks as "a fruitless effort to arrive at" a solution.

He said sub-committee members argued "spiritedly" but in a "completely impersonal atmosphere" on the two conflicting proposals.

The Allies and Communists were in disagreement even on location of the actual battle contact line at some points, as well as location of a cease-fire line.

Athletic Club Holds Treasure Hunt

A program of fun and games, sponsored by the Young's Point Athletic Club, was held Thursday night in St. Aidan's Hall, Young's Point.

The evening began with table tennis and carpet bowling, and the highlight was reached with an exciting treasure hunt. For an hour, four groups of enthusiastic searchers scoured the neighborhood to obtain the weird articles on their lists. Returning to the hall, it was found that John Darling's team had located all their "treasures" and were rewarded with a small prize after relating their struggles to obtain the loot.

Games and dancing to records completed the evening's entertainment, and the young people dispersed, looking forward to more fun at future meetings.

Believed In Bush

The Scrivers knew that Ronald and John had left the house only 10 minutes before, but they thought they had gone off to play in the bush.

It was not till the roof collapsed on the blazing barn that anybody was aware the boys were inside. A neighbor who had come to help fight the fire saw the body of one of them lying on top of some baled straw.

The blaze broke out at 10.30 am and in half an hour the barn was levelled. It was another five hours before volunteer helpers could enter the burned ruins of the building and find the two bodies.

Feed Storehouse

The Scrivers had lived in the house, five miles west of Bobcaygeon, for five years. The barn was used by the owner as a feed storehouse. Loss of building and contents is estimated at less than $1,000.

Though the Bobcaygeon fire department arrived quickly, the firemen were unable to save the barn. They made sure the flames and flying embers didn't spread to the house 50 yards away.

Coroner Dr. W. D. Thomas of Bobcaygeon said he didn't think there would be an inquest.

The Scrivers have one other boy, Robert, six months.

Official forecasts issued by the Dominion public weather office in Toronto today:

Synopsis:

In the wake of Sunday's storm, skies will be sunny in Southern Ontario today, but some rain is expected tonight with the approach of a new disturbance from the west. Since the weather systems are moving very rapidly across the continent, Ontario's weather for Tuesday is now brewing as far west as the Rockies. Rising pressures there indicate clearing skies for Tuesday in Southern Ontario. In northern regions cloudiness is expected to persist most of the day.

Regional forecasts valid until midnight Tuesday:

Eastern Lake Ontario and Haliburton regions:

Sunny today. Rain tonight. Cloudy Tuesday, clearing in the afternoon. Little change in temperature. Winds southeast 15 today, becoming northwest 20 tonight. Low tonight and high Tuesday at Trenton 35 and 45, Killaloe 32 and 40.

Summary for Tuesday: Clearing and cool.

the Port Arthur arena to walk past some 6,000 school children waving flags and cheering. They also received at the stadium here a municipal welcome from Mayor Fred Robinson.

From Port Arthur, they drove to Fort William for another welcome.

When they arrive in Montreal today Elizabeth and Philip will face perhaps the biggest "do" of their Canadian tour.

Even the weatherman co-operated. He gave the nod to Montreal's 1,370,000 citizens with a forecast of sunny weather and mild temperatures for the arrival and a promise of "fairly good weather" for Tuesday's ceremonial schedule through 75 miles of the city and district.

Heavy Schedule

The 2½-day crowded schedule of 20 official functions and 15 official trips will start as soon as the Royal couple alight from their special plane.

Finance Minister Abbott, Postmaster-General Rinfret and their wives will welcome Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip on behalf of the federal government and then Montreal will take over with Mayor Camillien Houde offering municipal greetings.

Following a 21-gun salute, the playing of God Save the King and presentation of an honor guard, the Princess and Prince will drive through adjacent municipalities to the city proper.

Shortly after they arrive at their hotel, they are expected to appear on a specially-built purple and gold balcony to meet possibly the greatest crowd yet encountered on their tour of the country.

Montrealers are expected to take up every inch of space in Dominion Square when a bank of floodlights light up the Royal balcony.

Gordon E. Rowe

The funeral of the late Gordon E. Rowe, who died at his home 27 Bridgeview Rd., Toronto, was held from the Turner and Porter funeral home, 436 Roncesvalles Ave., Toronto, to Park Lawn cemetery, with the Rev. T. W. Hazlewood, of Humbercrest United Church, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Dr. S. H. Greenslade, of Centennial United Church.

In his 22nd year, the late Mr. Rowe was born in Peterborough and educated there and in Galt and Toronto schools. He was valedictorian of his graduating class of Runnymede Collegiate, Toronto. At the time of his death he was a member of the staff of Henry Birks and Sons, jewellers, Toronto.

Left to mourn his loss are his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Rowe, and his sister Marion, of Toronto. His grandmother resides at 508 Romaine St., Peterborough. Mr. S. J. Rowe, of Peterborough, is an uncle, and Miss Zetta Wood, of Toronto, formerly of Peterborough, is an aunt.

Pallbearers, all close friends of the deceased, were William Hare, Thomas Ward, Robert Rolston, J. Alden MacDonald and William Unitt, of Toronto, and Hugh Richmond, of Peterborough.

Expect Action From Britain In Oil Dispute

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (AP) —Decisions anticipated from Britain's new Conservative government may determine this week whether there is to be an early settlement of the British-Iranian oil dispute.

The United States is believed to be urging action by both parties to arrive at an agreement while Premier Mohammed Mossadegh of Iran is still in Washington.

The question before the British government, according to informed quarters is whether to negotiate on terms which Mossadegh has indicated are acceptable.

While conversations of top American officials with the Iranian leader here have been conducted in secret, the Iranians are reported to be insisting that any settlement must provide for complete Iranian control of oil production in their country. They are understood to be willing to negotiate with Britain for an arrangement which would permit British marketing of the oil.

Marketing Agent

One plan which has been studied would use the Royal Dutch Shell Corporation in which Britain has a part interest, as marketing agent. The Iranians are insisting that the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company should have no part in any settlement. Anglo-Iranian properties in Iran were taken over under Iranian nationalization of the oil industry.

Mossadegh came here a week ago for exploratory talks with President Truman, State Secretary Dean Acheson and other high officials. These were substantially completed last week and informants said the next important moves are up to Britain. The United States, acting in the role of mediator, has kept Britain informed of Iranian views.

Officials said today that heavy pressures are evident on both sides to reach an early agreement. Neither country now is getting anything out of Iran's rich oil resources because production shut down two months ago. Both are assumed to be interested in starting the oil, and profits, flowing again.

Two Cars Damaged On Monaghan Rd.

Driving south on George St., just after midnight Saturday, L. N. Griffen, 708 Gillespie St., swung to the right to avoid hitting a northbound car which veered toward him. In attempting to avoid the crash, Mr. Griffen said he struck the steel post which holds the signal lights at the west side of George St., at the CPR tracks.

Mr. Griffen's car was extensively damaged on the front end and right side by the impact.

Contables William A. Scott and Pat Gillis investigated.

Murderer In San Quentin Confesses Toronto Killings

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29. (CP)—A San Quentin prison murderer, awaiting execution in California, was reported today to have confessed that he killed three persons in Toronto in 1949. Prison officials disclosed that 26-year-old Stanley Buckowski made the confession "so that somebody else won't be blamed."

Ironically, officials said, he was granted a temporary stay of execution after his confession and will face death in Canada if he escapes California's gas chamber.

Buckowski is awaiting execution for the murder in February 1950, of Mrs. Helen Edmunds, 82, during a burglary of her Los Angeles home.

Buckowski, associate warden Harley O. Teets said, confessed last June—and twice since then—that he shot and killed Alfred Layng following a Toronto supermarket holdup, and later murdered Robert McKay and his wife, Gloria. The McKays were motorists he kidnapped in his flight.

Buckowski made two of his confessions to prison officials and a third to Crown Attorney William Gibson of Toronto.

Fight Outside Market

The convict was quoted as saying he grappled with a man outside the supermarket. Buckowski declared: "I shot him high up . . . I heard him grunt." Teets said the slain man was Layng.

Buckowski said he hid out for several days in a resort town, then kidnapped the McKays when he found them in their car parked on a highway.

"The man began running through red lights at 60 miles an hour, trying to attract attention. I told him I'd shoot him if he didn't stop. He laughed and said 'go ahead.'

"So I shot him. The woman screamed. So I shot her too."

Buckowski said he "dumped" the bodies outside of Toronto and abandoned the car at a parking lot.

Royal Couple Leave Prairies Behind

FORT WILLIAM, Oct. 29 — The broad reaches of the Prairies were behind Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh today after their greatest day's journey —some 1,250 miles—of their Canadian tour.

The giant hops—by train from Edmonton to Saskatoon and from there by plane to Rivers, Man., and the Lakehead, finished the western leg of the tour. It also ended the major portion of their Canadian visit.

A full-throated roar from 50,000 Lakehead residents greeted their arrival Sunday night at 7:23 pm. The Royal couple were driven over a 10-mile route from the airport through both Fort William and Port Arthur to the Prince Arthur Hotel. There they spent the night.

Wave Gaily

Flag-bedecked streets, bright with colored lights, caught their eyes as they waved gaily from their transparent-top automobile.

Brass and pipe bands were spaced along the route. War veterans and military units formed a guard of honor to keep back the happily-surging throngs.

From their three-room suite in the hotel they could look out across Thunder Bay to where, blue in the distance, lay the Sleeping Giant, the great mountain cape that juts far out into Lake Superior.

Earlier, at Rivers, they were welcomed back to Manitoba by a cheering throng of 60,000 persons, including 120 wounded veterans who travelled 135 miles to see them.

The veterans had been disappointed when no stop was made at military hospitals during the visit to Winnipeg on October 16. The special trip to Rivers was aranged by government and army officials. The Royal couple doubled the scheduled length of their half-hour stop to see them.

In cloudy, chill (temperature 30 degrees) weather, the Princess and Duke moved among the veterans' stretchers in a special outside enclosure.

Attended Service

At Saskatoon the Royal couple attended morning service in St. John Anglican Cathedral during their 2½-hour visit. About one-fifth of the city's population — some 10,000—was on hand at the station. Mayor J. S. Miller gave them a dozen sterling silver teaspoons bearing the city's coat-of-arms.

Booming Edmonton gave them an uproarious welcome Saturday. The city's 170,000 population was swelled to an estimated 200,000—and most of them seemed along the parade route. A dull drizzle failed to dampen the colorful crowd, which included mackinawed oilfield workers, ranchers, and farmers, Indians and whites.

Edmonton gave them a taste of two typical aspects—a visit to an oil refinery and a look at a football game. They seemed to enjoy the battle on a rain-soaked field between Edmonton Eskimos and Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Alberta's northern atmosphere was reflected in the gifts presented at the Legislature — a polar bear rug, an otter coat for Prince Charlie, and a native-made Eskimo doll for Princess Anne.

Chinese Charge Allied Hill, Fail To Take It

US EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Oct. 29 (AP) —Screaming Chinese Communists three times today charged an allied-held hill mass southeast of Kumsong but failed to regain the positions allied forces took three days ago.

A front-line dispatch said the pre-dawn attacks kicked off in company strength at 1.30 a.m. (11:30 am Sunday EST) and built up to battalion size three hours later.

Mortar fire pounded allied infantrymen as the Reds rolled down a slope facing the UN held hills on the central front.

On the western front allied forces slogged forward as much as 1,200 yards.

Seize Hill

In the east they seized a hill and gained up to 1,000 yards after turning back three separate night attacks.

In the air Sunday, allied and Russian-made jets battled for the eighth straight day. The Fifth Air Force said one Red MIG was shot down and another destroyed in three separate battles involving 64 US Sabre jets and 160 enemy jets.

Fifth Air Force pilots Sunday night pounced on heavy enemy traffic columns and destroyed 235 vehicles.

In the west, infantrymen pushed ahead 500 to 1,000 yards in hilly terrain northwest of Yonchon. The Eighth Army said no resistance was met at some points and only moderate resistance at others.

Two sharp fights took place Sunday southwest of Panmunjom, site of armistice talks. Allied forces withdrew in each. Allied artillery thrown into the battle stirred up dust and smoke plainly visible from Panmunjom.

See Firmer Support On Toronto Market

TORONTO, Oct. 29 — (CP) — Firmer support today in early afternoon dealings held stock market prices steady after a moderate decline.

Refining oils, textiles and retail stores attracted most support. Papers, steels and foods dipped sharply.

Volume for the first three hours was 1,428,000 shares.

Western oils slipped. Calgary and Edmonton, General Petroleum A, Jupiter, National Petroleum, Central Explorers, Redwater-Piccadilly and United Oil posted losses to about 50 cents. Canadian Atlantic, Long Island Petroleum and Tower Petroleum countered the trend with mild advances.

Base metal leaders showed losses ranging to the $1.75 dip of Hudson Bay. Consolidated Smelters, Steep Rock and Waite Amulet were among the losers. United Asbestos lost 50 cents as more than 75,000 shares changed hands.

Senior golds slipped fractionally. Junior weakened, while prospects turned mixed and holding companies dipped sharply.

21 Of 25 Weekend Deaths Due To Traffic Accidents

By The Canadian Press

Cold and wet fall weather did not keep motorists from the highways during the weekend. Twenty-one of them were killed in traffice accidents in Eastern Canada, to bring the weekend toll of violent deaths to 25.

A Canadian Press survey showed that three persons were burned to death and one man was killed in a hunting accident. Ontario had 15 fatalities and Quebec 10.

Near Fort Erie, Ont., three Toronto residents were killed in a head-on automobile crash. They were Harold R. McMullen, 31, Mrs. Ethel Pollard, 45, and Edward Melanson, 47.

James Cooke, 19, and Shirley Edwards, 3, both of Cordova, Ont., were drowned when Cooke's car ran into a pond as he was taking a short-cut driving the little girl home 50 miles northwest of Belleville, Ont.

In crashes between two vehicles James B. O'Donnell, 33, was killed at Windsor and E. J. Purdy, 25, of Mannheim was killed two miles west of Kitchener.

Three pedestrians were killed by cars in Ontario: Carl Blauhut, 45, of Toronto, at Oakville; William Beattie, 74, at Ottawa; and Jack McNicol, 55, of Hamilton near that city.

Playing with matches in a barn full of straw was blamed for the death by fire of John William Scriver, 6, and his three-year-old brother, Ronald, at their home 16 miles northeast of Lindsay.

Burned In Car

A third Ontario man, Millen Fairbairn, 17, of Kingsville, was burned to death in his car 20 miles south of Windsor. He was carrying an open can of gasoline between his legs as he drove and it somehow ignited.

Richard Helsby, 44, of Kingston, was killed when his shotgun accidentally discharged as he was getting out of a boat.

Albert Lee Adams, 15, was killed near Toronto when a car crashed into the rear of a car he was helping to push.

In Quebec province, five persons were killed in a single accident near Drummondville when an automobile ran into the rear of a truck. Dear are: Paul-Emile Paquette; his daughter, Ghisline, 6; Claude Godin, 17; Mrs. Raymond Tourigny, 21; and Lucien Leclerc, 21, all of Drummondville.

Two persons were killed at Montreal in separate accidents. Taxi-driver Armand McSween, 42, died when he fell asleep and his cab rammed into the side of Jacques Cartier bridge. Mrs. Charles Maille, 36, of Ste. Rose, was killed when the car in which she was riding plunged into the ditch.

Strike Tree

Near Luskville, Que., Raymond Dubeau, 15, of Aylmer, Que., was fatally injured when his auto left the highway and hit a tree. Forty-five miles west of Montreal near Foster, Raynald Gaylor, 44, of Fulford was killed when his car overturned.

Jean-Guy Drapeau, 33, was killed at Terasse Vaudreuil, 20 miles west of Montreal when his car collided with an Ottawa-bound freight train.

Building Costs Hold Up Road To Uranium Area

REGINA, — (CP) — The lack of a roadway forces Saskatchewan to share with Alberta revenues from uranium developments in its northwest corner. And it's not likely Saskatchewan will be able to do anything about it for some time.

Access in Saskatchewn to the Lake Athabaska uranium area is only possible by air. Planes operate out of Prince Albert but carry mainly personnel and many goods requiring quick delivery.

A road existst as far as Lac La Ronge but from there to Goldfields on Lake Athabaska is a distance of 360 air miles over a region of rocks, trees and lakes.

To build a road over this terrain would cost $30,000 to $40,000 a mile for even a second-class route. Completion would cost $10,000,000 or more.

The difficulty is that a ground transportation route across northern Saskatchewan would be contrary to natural physical features —most lakes and rivers run east and west.

Shipped From Alberta.

So, heavy equipment and supplies move into the Lake Athabaska area from Alberta. They're shipped by rail to Waterways, Alta., and then by barge up the Athabaska river to Lake Athabaska.

There's been talk in provincial government quarters of building a road. One suggestion has been to extend it north from Greene Lake between Big River and Meadow Lake.

But there is no indication as to how soon this might come.

The building of a railway right into the Lake Athabaska region has been discussed. There might be two alternatives for such a railway: an all Saskatchewan route or an extension north from Waterways. The latter is a much shorter distance.

The government feeling seems to be that the logical route to Lake Athabaska for the time being is the Waterways rail-barge combination.

Canadian Destroyer Excels In Gunnery

ABOARD CANADIAN DESTROYER SIOUX — (CP)—This Canadian destroyer is showing its class in naval gunnery in competition with other ships of the United Nations fleet in Korean waters.

In recent exercises, the Sioux defeated the British carrier Glory, the British cruiser Belfast, the Australian frigate Anzac and her sister destroyer, the Athabaskan.

Sioux gunner AB Roy V. Wellburn of Ladner, BC, was the man behind the bofors when Sioux shot down a radio-controlled miniature plane on its fourth run over the ship in a contest with the Belfast. The cruiser made six unsuccessful tries.

In company with the carrier Glory and the Canadian destroyer Athabaskan, the Sioux's bofors were first to shoot down a target being towed by a plane. In the third shoot with HMAS Anzac she shot down the target on the first try, tieing with Anzac. Then she broke the tie by shooting it down again on the second next pass.

Children's Service In Marmora Church

MARMORA, Oct. 29 (ENS). — The annual Children's Day service in connection with St. Paul's Sunday school was held Sunday morning.

Canon J. M. Brownlie addressed the scholars and adults individually, taking points of the story of Jacob wrestling with the angel.

He also presented GBRE certificates to two girl scholars of the junior grade who passed the special examination set by the GBRE: Eva Keating and Patricia Spry.

Car Hits Pole Town In Darkness

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 29 — (ENS)—Emergency crews labored for nearly two hours Sunday night to restore electric power to the eastern section of this town when an unknown motorist broke off a hydro pole and later speeded away.

J. Lalonde, a bridge tender, heard the crash and came out of his house to investigate. He saw a car with the front end elevated on two guy wires supporting a pole.

The pole was broken near the top and a heavy transformer had tumbled to the ground. The motorist managed to back the car off the guy wires, and drove south on No. 30 Highway. The accident took place on the highway near the overhead bridge in the southern section of the town.

Many local residents were at their Sunday evening meal when the power break came, and flashlights, coal oil lamps and candles were pressed into service. Police have a description of the car, which was apparently not damaged.

Statistician Discusses Law Of Probability

COBOURG, Oct. 29—(ENS)—The law of probability in establishing quality control was the subject of a talk by James H. Davidson, PhD. of the General Engineering Laboratory, CGE, Schenectady, given here at Fielding House. Representatives of technical departments of various local industries were present. Dr. Davidson went into detail in his address, developing his subject by citing algebraic equations, and illustrated the general methodology and logic useful in establishing control by statistical tests.

He used the probability of head and tail appearing at varying frequencies, in tossing a coin, to show how an algebraic equation could be used to illustrate the frequency in a given number of tosses at which either face of the coin would turn up.

Teachers' Convention

BANCROFT, Oct. 29—(ENS)—Friday will be a holiday in the elementary schools of North Hastings as the district teachers are having their annual convention in Bancroft on that date. Morning sessions are to be held in North Hastings high school and afternoon sessions are to be in Bancroft public school. At noon the local Home and School Association is catering for a banquet in the legion hall. The speaker for the affair will be Miss Helen Delaporte, assistant inspector of auxiliary classes for the province.

Follow Herds To Arctic Nomadic Lapps Trek North

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 29. (Reuters)—Sweden's Lapps, the little people who live in the Far North beyond the Arctic Circle, are on the move again.

They are following their reindeer in their autumn migration to the upland regions where the herds find their main winter food —a lichen called Arctic moss. In the spring, they moved down to the coast and valleys where the animals live on the young shoots of willow and birch.

But now the short-lived Arctic summer is over. The midnight sun which shone for 900 hours without setting, now sinks again below the horizon.

Among the reindeer, the mating season has begun—perhaps the most important time in all the year for this nomad race which reckons its wealth by the size of its reindeer herds.

It is the reindeer which provides the Lapp with his clothes, his food, and his transport.

A superstitious race, the reindeer figures in their ceremonies and sacrifices. The best offering to the sun, mother of all animals, for example, is a perfect young white reindeer doe. Before the victim is sacrificed, a white thread is sewn through its ears.

Strange Mixture

These people, who live on the move, stopping only when their herds, scenting their favorite lichen, halt to paw the ice with their hooves and scratch away the snow with their antlers, are a strange mixture of almost Stone Age traditions and superstitions and atomic age adaptation.

Quick to take to modern machines and weapons, the Lapps use guns for hunting and field glasses with which to watch their herds. They cross the lakes in boats driven by outboard motors and they sew their traditional garments with latest model sewing machines.

Their children are mainly educated in modern boarding schools where they have all the amenities of 20th century civilization.

So the Lapps now following their reindeer in their upward trek into the highlands, may be the last of the nomads.

150 Friends Honor Newlywed Couple

FRASERVILLE, Oct. 29 — About 150 friends and neighbors gathered in the Orange hall, Fraserville, Thursday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Bothwell (nee Marion Thorn), a recent bride and groom.

The early part of the evening was spent playing progressive euchre. After lunch an address of congratulations and good wishes was read by W. G. Waterman and the presentation of a china cabinet, a rocking chair and a clothes hamper was made by Orville Moncrief and Jack Lewis. Mr. Bothwell made a suitable reply.

Dancing was enjoyed for the balance of the evening.

First Snow Appears Near Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 29—(ENS)—Any motorists who happened to be on No. 30 highway south of Campbellford after midnight on Sunday no doubt have the distinction of seeing the first snow of the season in this area.

Scattered flakes fell on an area about ten miles south of the town shortly before one o'clock this morning, and melted as they fell. In one or two spots on the highway, windshield wipers were needed to keep the windshield clear. While this may herald the approach of winter, the roads of the area will no doubt be passable at least for the next few days.

Couple Arrested

COBOURG, Oct. 29—(ENS)—Constables E. Butler and C. Cunnigham yesterday brought back Mr. and Mrs. W. A. See of Gananoque from Napanee where they were picked up by provincial police following the complaint that a car had been stolen from Cobourg, owned by Melbourne Woodcock of Oshawa. Woodcock said that he gave a man and a woman a ride down from Oshawa and that when he stopped in Cobourg to see the Louis-Marciano fight on a hotel TV set, the two hitchikers left him in the hotel and that when he came out the car was gone.

"All Our Pomp Of Yesterday"

A letter-writer to the Montreal Gazette misinterprets Kipling's Recessional.

Far called our navies melt away,
On dune and headland sinks the fire
Lo! all our pomp of yesterday
Is one with Nineveh and Tyre.

The writer says that these lines refer to the wasting-away of the British Empire and, true in Kipling's day, are doubly so today. He hopes that as a result of the British elections, the decay of empire will be arrested. We can echo his hope but not his interpretation. Kipling wrote his Recessional at the time of the pomp of the Queen Victoria Jubilee. When the show was over, the ships in review scattered to their bases, the lighted bonfires on the hills died out. That is what the lines mean, and Kipling called upon the proud and imperially strong people not to forget their God and their debt of humility under Him.

* * *

The strength and prestige of the British Empire have lessened from Kipling's day to this; in fact, the British Empire has ceased to exist. So has the British Commonwealth; the wide collection of nations is now called "The Commonwealth." Last week in hundreds of daily newspapers across the United States, an annotated map was published with the caption "Sun Starts to Set on the British Empire." Complacency and even smug satisfaction underlined the map. Fifteen areas of the world were indicated where British prestige has disappeared or British control has been wiped out since 1931. "Discontent and turmoil have been reported in the Union of South Africa." "British have lost treaty ports in China. Retain Hong Kong—in constant danger of seizure by Chinese Reds." "U.S. aid encourages Greece and Turkey to look to U.S., rather than Britain, for guidance." "British Honduras would like to pull out of the Empire altogether and become a part of the U.S." "U.S. dollars have strengthened Canada's friendship with the U.S., weakened her ties with the Empire." So run the fifteen black-pointed stories of the map.

* * *

Even the tone and catalogue suggest a mock pity for Britain, a hardly-suppressed elation over the diminishment of the British imperial flag, and smug willingness to bear the British load—in the American dollar imperialism. Let it be known that at least one of the fifteen alleged defaulters from the Empire—Canada—although cordially friendly to the United States and strongly gripped by their dollar hand, is not wavering in her affection for Britain or weakening her ties with other Dominions. Because our friendship with the United States is strengthened, our kinship with Britain is not thereby lessened. Any American suggestion that Canada has foregone her British heritage will only serve to forfeit the friendship she bears to the United States.

* * *

During the war years, Mr. Winston Churchill avowed that he was not appointed the King's First Minister to preside over the disintegration of the British Empire. During the lacuna of the last six years, British influence has waned. Mr. Churchill is again the King's First Minister. If he cannot reverse the trends of the last six years, he may be able to reduce their effects on British external strength, and give the lie to a widespread assumption below the border that Britain is finished as a great power.

Library Censorship and Communism

Reports from the U.S.A. tell us that a dangerous form of censorship is affecting some public libraries there. Local library committees, either of their own volition or because pressure has been put upon them by local groups, have been insisting upon the removal of books by certain writers, and the removal of books on particular subjects—usually political in nature. Librarians, library trustees, and in particular the Librarian of Congress, Dr. Luther Evans, are protesting against this state of affairs. The task of a library, they say, is to present information on all aspects of a question, in order that the user of the library may make up his own mind. When a library presents only carefully winnowed information, it becomes an instrument of propaganda.

The people who want to impose censorship on libraries are usually eager to check the spread of Communism. They think that it can be done by keeping direct Communist writings from people who may wish to make a study of the subject; they also think that the writings of authors who may have been Communists, or at least of a Leftist cast of mind, may drop seeds of Communism although they do not mention it directly. It can only be said that people who think in this way have astonishing faith in the persuasive powers of Communist writers.

We have read a good many Communist and Leftist books at one time and another. They are not easy reading. Not only is the argument presented of a complex sort, but the writing is often of a tangled and repellent nature. Communist novels are better than Communist political writings, but they are a heavy diet; nobody is likely to resort to them merely for entertainment. The readers of Communist literature are, we venture to say, ninety per cent. convinced Leftists; only they, in their zeal, can get through the stuff. We think that the would-be censors of libraries are worrying themselves needlessly.

Names Give Individuality

We have been struck by the following observations in the Owen Sound Sun-Times:

Every farm of any consequence should have a name. It was the custom with the early pioneers to give names to their farms. A sign carrying the owner's name is really sufficient for identification purposes but there is nothing warm and homey about such a bold announcement.

We agree with this, but we see no reason why names should be confined to farms. Why not names for town houses, as well?

The usual objection to naming houses is that is complicates the delivery of mail. To this we reply that it does not appear to complicate mail delivery in the British Isles, where virtually every house has a name, and where mail delivery is decidedly more efficient than it is at present in Canada. Furthermore, it would be hard to complicate the finding of a house more thoroughly than is done by the irregular and whimsical systems of street numbers which are to be found in most Canadian towns and cities. If the house numbers ran in sequence such a system would be perfect, but they never do so. And there is no reason why a house cannot have a name and a number as well.

Names give individuality to houses, and a house cannot have too much individuality. Nobody likes to think that his home—his castle—is exactly like somebody else's; be it ever so humble, he wants it to be like no other place on earth. He does not plant his garden with exactly the same flowers and shrubs as his neighbour; his wife takes pains to make her curtains and her furnishings a reflection of her own taste. This is all admirable and as it should be in a democracy, where it is everybody's right to possess individuality. Why not a name for the house, then? The warmth and home-like quality which the Owen Sound paper commends can be achieved in a good name, as by no other means.

People Like To Be Read To

We are pleased, but not surprised, to read of the success of a venture called the First Drama Quartette, which has filled New York's Carnegie Hall for a reading of Don Juan In Hell by Bernard Shaw. Four stage players of first-rate reputation comprise the Quartette: they are Charles Boyer, Charles Laughton, Sir Cedric Hardwicke and Miss Agnes Moorehead. They appear in evening dress and they read what is, in reality, the third act of Shaw's play Man and Superman; that third act is, however, complete in itself, and so long that it is omitted from most performances of the play.

The Shaw piece is a long and closely-argued exposition of the writer's thesis of creative evolution; it is not for children or the people who flock to the movie-houses to see cowboy pictures; and yet in several of the leading cities of the U.S.A. it has attracted capacity audiences of people who like brilliant exposition of ideas. For there are such people; they are not a majority in the population but they are a minority which is responsible for virtually all the intellectual progress which we encompass.

People like to hear fine works of literature read aloud. Laughton has proved this in tours during which he has read to huge audiences from the Bible and the classics. In the nineteenth century such readings were extremely popular, and during the latter years of his life Charles Dickens toured Great Britain and the U.S.A., reading aloud from his own works to huge assemblies. A fine reader can make fine literature more comprehensible to most of us than we can make it to ourselves, reading quickly and tonelessly with the eye alone. Great writers write, as a usual thing, to be heard and not merely to be skimmed with the eye; the proper pace at which fine writing may be understood is the pace of the human voice, and not the pace of the reader's eye.

Let us hope that this vogue for reading fine literature aloud will continue, for those of us who live far from New York would like to hear some of it.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Today's greatest labour-saver—tomorrow.

Musical Notes

by PETER PIPER

THERE is an extraordinary wealth of music associated with children. Some of our earliest memories are of the nursery rhymes and popular tunes of the day. I am afraid that radio and television may kill off many of the dear old nursery rhymes that so many little voices have echoed down the years. At a boys' boarding school that I know the boys are allowed to have radios in their dormitories. Presumably permission was granted at the request of the boys themselves: yet one of them bewailed the fact that before the radio was allowed they used to make up the most wonderful stories and tell them to each other—now the art has died out completely. Are our children in danger of having their powers of imagination atrophied by these ingenious inventions? I do not deny that there is a good side to radio and television, but there is so much worthless matter being broadcast, and so little that is really suited for children. Strange to say, the Massey Report has comparatively little to say on the subject of the artistic education of the young. I do not hesitate to use the word education in this context. Far too many people think of education as something confined to school hours: there is a good deal of truth in Osbert Sitwell's quip in "Who's Who", in which he states that he was educated in the holidays from Eton!

✧ ✧ ✧

TURNING to nursery rhymes the one characteristic that is common to them all is the use of simple tunes composed of short symmetrical phrases with frequent repetitions. The rhythms are usually simple and strongly marked, and many of the rhymes are sung to dancing, hopping and other actions. Some of them form the basis of a game, as "Orange and Lemons". Some nursery rhymes, such as "pat-a-cake" are obviously fairly modern, that is to say not more than 150 to 200 years old, while others probably go back a good deal further. I have heard it said that "Mary, Mary quite contrary" is a satirical reference to Queen Mary Tudor, who reinstated Roman Catholicism in England during her reign. The cockle shells would be the shells of the pilgrims, the silver bells the sacring bells and the "pretty maids all in a row" the nuns. Be that as it may there are many obscure passages in these artless rhymes that excite speculation. Why was Humpty Dumpty? Was Georgy Porgy George IV? Has the rhyme of the Frog who would a wooing go anything to do with the courtship of one of the French royal family? London Bridge, that is to say the old bridge which had houses and shops on it like the Ponte Vecchio in Florence, is broken down and the modern structure has replaced it. As for Doctor Foster who met with an unfortunate accident on his way to Gloucester, surely he can be none other than Doctor Faustus, the protagonist of Kit Marlowe's play, whose fame was noised all over the country in chapbooks, broadsheets and travelling shows long before Goethe was born.

✧ ✧ ✧

A GOOD proportion of these nursery rhymes have come down to us in a mutilated or defective form, and many have alas lost their melodies. I have yet to come across a comprehensive collection of nursery rhymes with melodies on the lines of the Oxford Book of Carols.

✧ ✧ ✧

MUSIC for children falls into two broad categories; music for children to play or sing and music performed by adults for children to listen to. There is of course an enormous quantity of music, mostly piano music, for children to play. Schumann's Album for the Young is a great stand-by, and in modern times Stravinsky and Bartok have both written several children's pieces. Mozart and Beethoven wrote a good deal of easy music suitable for their young pupils. J. S. Bach's Inventions and other pieces are the work of a great teacher. In Bach's day sheet music was relatively scarce and dear. You could not just pop around to the music store and order "Tiny Tim's First Steps", so the teacher wrote pieces himself and the pupil copied them out. Much music though originally written for adults is also suitable material for children. In this connection there is much of Haydn which is none too difficult which appeals to children.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE gramophone has made it possible to bring more music to children than would otherwise be the case, though in the larger cities children's concerts are becoming more and more popular (after all, there is nothing quite like the real thing). Eugene Kash's children's concerts in Ottawa is a noteworthy example in this country. Composers have from time to time written music for juvenile audiences, as distinct from performers. Only a very precocious child could tackle the pianistic problems of Debussy's Children's Corner, yet it is eminently suited to a child's mentality. Ravel's Mother Goose Suite is charming, too, though it probably appeals more to the sophisticated adult. Elgar wrote a Nursery Suite for Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Rose, and Delius wrote two delicate and characteristic Songs for Children in two parts which are too chromatic to appeal to them, beautiful as they are. Finally I must mention Roger Quilter's "Children's Overture", in which he makes considerable use of nursery rhymes.

✧ ✧ ✧

AS for adults' music, much of it is unsuitable for children. Children do not appreciate subtleties or highly intellectual music, they prefer broad effects, simple primary colours and strong rhythms. They prefer diatonic music, though they do not shrink at discords for conveying impressions of horror and the like. If there is any truth in the theory that the life of each human being from the foetus to the grave is a recapitulation of all the successive stages in the development of evolution, from the amoeba to homo sapiens, then childhood is analogous to the dawn of civilization. Thus the Russians, who are more primitive than us effete occidentals (scratch a Russian, find a Tartar), with their shortwinded incisive phrases, their uncanny brilliance of orchestration and their wild rhythms, are perhaps nearer to the mentality of children than we are. At all events children enjoy such music at Petruschka or Prokofief's "Cinderella" ballet music, not to mention his "Peter and the Wolf".

✧ ✧ ✧

AS a postscript a few words on opera for children. In this country this is, I fear, rather an academic question, on a par with the question of the schoolmen as to how many angels can sit on the end of a needle. If I had my way I would make it compulsory for every parent to take his children every Christmas to see "Hansel and Gretel". Those who failed to comply with the regulation would forfeit a month's baby bonus.

SOVIET WHITE PAPER ON KOREA

"Not As I Do"

(FINANCIAL POST)

IN a comfortable hotel in the beautiful Annapolis Valley this month, representatives of the apple growers of Nova Scotia got together and reached a "gentleman's agreement" on apple prices both for the domestic and export market. So far, there hasn't been any hint of action from the combines authorities at Ottawa. It is doubtful whether there will be. It would be embarrassing because officials of provincial and federal governments have been encouraging this sort of thing with farm products for many years.

For some reason the combines authorities under the Department of Justice view with grave suspicion a uniform price for such things as bread, glass, matches and many other manufactured and processed products. But when it comes to tobacco, wheat, potatoes, apples, cheese, turkeys and a lot of other things consumers must buy there is a different story.

Right next door to the Department of Justice, the Department of Trade and Commerce and the Department of Agriculture go right on with their uniform price fixing. In every province provincial governments set up boards to fix the price of milk and anyone who tries to monkey with these levels, either up or down, soon finds himself in trouble.

One of the biggest price fixers is the government-created Wheat Board. Not only does this Board set a rigid price for wheat and feed grains, both in buying and selling, but it has a complete monopoly of marketing as well.

It's about time we had some consistency in this matter. If there is something wrong in adopting uniform prices, then the authorities themselves are setting the worst possible example.

Stance

(St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

Housewives with backache would do better to copy the posture of a man drinking beer at a bar than to try to stand like a soldier at attention, says Dr. Earl D. McBride, Oklahoma City orthopedic surgeon.

It's the brass rail that makes the difference, he says.

"The rail helps you relax," he explained. "What happens when you put one foot on it? Why, your spine curves forward into a restful position. That's why I tell housewives to put one foot on a little stool while they are ironing."

Typists, he went on, should keep their knees bent and lean slightly forward.

Mothers should bend their knees and squat rather than bending from the waist to pick up small children.

Truck drivers should take their left elbow off the window sill, move the seat forward and maybe put a pillow at the small of the back.

In a paper recently before the southwestern surgical congress, he described rest and light exercise treatment that he said can clear up most backaches without the need of surgery. One of the simplest of the exercises is designed to stimulate circulation around joints, beween the vertabrae.

Seated in an automobile or on a chair, or lying on the floor, the patient alternately arches and flexes his back, throwing his abdomen and chest forward and back.

"You might call it the hootchy-kootchy exercise," he said.

"He That Ruleth His Own Spirit"

(Montreal Gazette)

Edward Fitzgerald (the translator of Omar Khayyam) once wrote: "I have regretted many things that I have said. But I have rarely regretted the things I did not say." More than 100 years ago there was a certain gentleman, with the pleasant name of Christmas, in an important official position in the Bank of England. In the position he occupied he was constantly exposed to interruptions. Yet he would never say anything thoughtlessly. One day he was more busy even than usual. One of the customers of the bank, observing his amazing calm, asked him what his secret was. "Well," the old gentleman replied, "I was once a clerk in the Treasury when William Pitt was Prime Minister. Mr. Pitt gave me the secret. 'Never lose your temper at any time,' he said, 'and never during the hours of business.' My work here at the Bank of England commences at nine and ends at three; and, acting on the advice of the illustrious statesman, I never lose my temper or say a hasty thing during those hours."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Now when Jesus was risen early the first day of the week, he appeared first to Mary Magdalene, out of whom he had cast seven devils. (Mark 16: 9.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Then the same day at evening, being the first day of the week, when the doors were shut where the disciples were assembled for fear of the Jews, came Jesus and stood in the midst, and saith unto them, Peace be unto you. And when he had so said, he shewed unto them his hands and his side. Then were the disciples glad when they saw the Lord... And after eight days again his disciples were within, and Thomas with them: then came Jesus, the doors being shut, and stood in the midst, and said, Peace be unto you...

And many other signs truly did Jesus in the presence of his disciples, which are not written in this book: but these are written, that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God: and that believing ye might have life through his name. (John 20: 19, 20, 26, 30, 31.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And he led them out as far as to Bethany, and he lifted up his hands, and blessed them. And it came to pass, while he blessed them, he was parted from them, and carried up into heaven. (Luke 24: 50, 51.)

Letters To The Editor

WHY SUNDAY

Sir: I would like to write what I think about Sunday practices for the boys that would like to play hockey. It seems to me that out of six days of week, surely sometime could be given to the boys other than Sunday. Sunday is the Lord's day and some boys still attend Sunday School which is as it should be. There is little enough encouragement for children to become good Christians. It would seem to me a shame to have practices and thereby keep these boys out of Sunday School. I feel it is a great wrong and something should be done to correct it.

H.M.D.

MYER ANOTHER ROMMEL?

Sir: I read with great interest your editorial on the transfer of one Kurt Meyer from our country to his.

You profess ignorance as to the reason; is it not to make a second Rommel for the Herenvolk and the Gotkinder?

I wonder what my buddies Moran, L/Cpl. Maloney, Swatsky and the three others they caught and murdered with their prayerbooks in their laps are thinking of our Canadian officials and their idea of justice to this leader of the death and glory boys. Was there any of this type of justice on the Caen, Bayeux highway at Brettville a couple of days after D-day?

I know what I'm thinking but is too bad to write.

Keep up the good democratic principle in your paper.

ONE WHO WAS THERE.

DISAPPROVES OF HALLOWE'EN CALLS

Sir: It is rather short notice, but, a number of people think it is about time something should be done about the Hallowe'en racket—for that is what it is—expecting everyone to hand out candy and apples to children of all ages, quite a number in their 'teens, from different parts of the town, not just their own neighborhood. They used to have more real fun dressing up and having a good time with other children, games and bobbing for apples in a tub of water. Now they take a large paper bag, with then, and expect every one to give something. One youngster was heard to say, when a party told him they were sorry, but they had no more. Well, why haven't you? That seems to be the spirit, no matter how much you have given out, you should have more. Now, we all know what things cost, and with some, it is hard enough to buy supplies for oneself, without buying for other people's children, even if it is only once a year. Why can't some of the leading citizens engage some large building or hall in each district. Most people would be glad to give a little towards it, instead of being tormented all evening by as many as 30 or 40 young people ringing your bell, asking for apples and candy and quite often they come twice. I know for I found out for myself, last Hallowe'en. So please do something about it, in these days, as numbers of people don't like going to the door in the evenings anyway.

Yours truly,

E. A. SMITH.

SUITABLE APPLICANT

He was undersized, meek, diffident, subdued, and he had applied for a job as night-watchman.

"Yes," said the works manager, dubiously, "but the fact is we want someone who is restless and uneasy, especially at night. Someone with remarkable hearing who starts at the slightest sound. Someone who is always listening, thinking there are bad characters around. We want a large, aggressive, intrepid, and dangerous person. In short, the kind of person who, when roused, is a fiend."

"All right," said the little man as he walked away, "I'll send the wife."

Lana Turner Plans Travel Forget Troubles

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 29 (AP)—Lana Turner, whose marriage to Bob Topping recently blew up, plans a heavy dose of work and travel to forget her troubles.

The famed sweater girl seemed unusually gay on the set of her current film, "The Merry Widow."

"From now on, it's nothing but work and travel for me," Lana said. I didn't ask if that meant the exclusion of men, such a situation being difficult to imagine.

Wants Epic

"I'd like to make a really smart comedy," she remarked. "That's what the public wants and it's too bad that there aren't more of them. After that, I'd like to do a real epic. I'd love to play the role of Helen of Troy."

Lana takes off for Europe immediately after the finish of her picture. She'll see all the sights and send for her daughter if conditions are favorable over there.

Lana is sporting a trim chassis these days, but she said it's work and not diet that has taken off the poundage.

"I'm lucky in that I don't like desserts," she said. "They just don't appeal to me and so I never have to put myself on a rigid diet.

"Besides, I think all the fuss about actresses' weight is overdone in Hollywood. I think most men don't want girls who are skinny."

Must Lessen Strain On Eyes

MONTREAL (CP)—The vision of the average man, woman and child declines at a rate of three per cent annually. By the time persons reach middle age their sight is only half of what it was when they were born, Samuel G. Hibben, Bloomfield, N.J., president of the Illuminating Engineering Society, said here.

If this process continues unabated, future generations will only be able to see half as well as the present group unless some steps are taken to halt the use of man's eyes, Mr. Hibben said.

"It is the duty of engineers to work to save man's eyesight by improving lighting to lessen strain," Mr. Hibben said.

Eighty per cent of all man's knowledge comes through his eyes, he said. The average man works about 18 years, sleeps 20, and eats and plays 22, he said. He must in the years he works see well enough to earn sufficiently to see him through the other 42, the Bloomfield expert said.

Prevention of glare in lighting for youth and giving more illumination to the aged are the two standards which must be followed in planning, he said. Increasing the illumination has a different effect on "seeability" according to age and good light helps those most who need help, he said.

2 Cars Upset 6 In Hospital

BRANTFORD, Oct. 29 (CP)—Six residents of Woodstock were taken to hospital Sunday—four of them in Brantford and two in Hamilton—after separate accidents in which cars overturned.

A car driven by Sidney Barber, 43, of Woodstock overturned after rounding a curve on Highway 53 on the westerly outskirts of Brantford. His wife and three children were taken by ambulance to the Brantford General hospital.

His son, Tony, 12, suffered possible head injuries. Mrs. Barber and two other children suffered a shaking up and cuts and bruises. Barber and his other son Michael, 15, were not injured.

Taken to St. Joseph's hospital in Hamilton were Joseph McAlpine and Jean Windle, both of Woodstock. Their car went into the ditch and overturned beside Highway 2. Their injuries were not serious. McAlpine is believed to have suffered a broken collar bone.

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Oct. 29 (AP)—Michigan City police said Saturday night that the body of a baby found at Sarnia could not be that of a baby who disappeared from a Michigan City hospital crib two weeks ago. Records at St. Anthony Hospital showed that the missing baby, Lawrence James Lyons, was 23 inches long. The body found at Sarnia was only 18 inches long.

Mission Committees Meet At Millbrook

MILLBROOK, Oct. 29 (ENS)—A conference of the missionary committees of United churches of the district was held in Millbrook on Wednesday evening. There were representatives present from the Keene, Hiawatha, Bethany, Fraserville-Bailieboro and Millbrook-Cavan pastoral charges.

The gathering opened with a supper meeting, to which about 25 people sat down, held in the parsonage, home of the Rev. and Mrs. A. M. Butler. Members of the Golden Links mission circle did the catering and the serving. Those who assisted in serving were: Mrs. M. E. Hobbs, the president, Mrs. David Lun, Mrs. Arnold Fallis, Mrs. Henry Gray, Mrs. Homer Ouellette and Mrs. Ernest Powell.

The Rev. Arthur Kewley, of Toronto, stewardship secretary under the missionary and maintenance department of the United Church of Canada, and the Rev. Walton Tonge, of Lakefield, M. and M. convener for the presbytery, gave talks and led in adiscussion on ways and means of presenting the M. and M. program in the local church. They stressed the need for stewardship.

Following the supper meeting of the missionary committee, a further meeting, open to all, was held in the church. Here the Rev. John Kitchen, a returned missionary from China, father-in-law of Mr. Tonge, spoke. A film on Cape Breton which showed how many recruits for the ministry had been given from some of the churches there was shown. It was an appeal for more recruits from other parts of the country.

The worship service was in charge of the Rev. A. M. Butler, and Miss Estella Hetherington was at the organ.

Portable Tea Brew Can Important Tank Equipment

By WARREN WHITE

SEOUL, Korea, Oct. 29 (Reuters)—Britain's new 52-ton Centurian tank now carries an accessory never dreamed of by the war office or its designers. It is the "portable brew can—Mark 1."

The accessory is a soot-blackened kerosene tin with a fence-wire handle which swings from the belligerent gun barrels of every front-line Centurion in Korea. Whenever the tank stops—and especially at the 4 o'clock tea time—the brew can goes into action.

The brew can is descended from a long line of battle-tested models originated wherever "tommies" have brewerd tea.

Recently, a British tank chugged slowly forward under whining Chinese bullets and ocasional mortar shells along a mine-infested road in North Korea.

The mine-clearing squad called back: "stop for 10 minutes. We must dig up a big one."

Go Into Action

Thirsty tank men went into action with the brew can. In seconds they had a gasoline fire blazing. In minutes they were crouched behind the tank out of sight of Chinese gunners sipping a strong "spot of tea".

British troops in Korea have earned a reputation for ingenuity in making tea. One American colonel said: "Whenever you see a tommy, he is either just going to have a cup of tea, just having one or just had one."

Making tea is a co-operative effort in which every man in the section participates. While one fills the brew can, the brewmaster unwraps a grimy package of tea.

One trooper produces an old bullet box full of sugar while another takes from his kit a tin of condensed milk, the bayonet-cut holes skillfully plugged with twists of old cigarette packages.

The water comes to a boil, the brewmaster professionally tosses in a handful or two of tea leaves and the tommies light cigarettes and settle down for a "nice mug of the old brew."

American air force napalm (jellied gasoline) for use in fire bombs and cordite explosives are two favorite tommy devices for getting a fire going.

Though such practices are frowned upon officially, British officers seldom interfere. They consider that the tommy's regular brew is about the most important morale-booster of campaigning in Korea.

Hamilton Gaels Winners Red Feather Tourney In Power-House Display

By DON GRANT

A powerhouse in the air and on the ground, Hamilton Cathedral Gaels, coached by former Notre Dame player Larry Sullivan, won the Ted Reeve Trophy and the Ontario Secondary Schools' Association football championship at the Red Feather tournament Saturday in Toronto.

Undefeated and unscored upon, the powerful Gaels were selected by the Red Feather judges after they had trampled Stamford, representing the Niagara District, Friday night, 20-0.

But the other choices were unpopular with the 18,000 fans who watched the second doubleheader of the third annual tournament Saturday night.

The judges selected Patterson Collegiate, of Windsor, second, Kirkland Lake third, and Etobicoke fourth. All were the victors in the four-game series.

Apart from Hamilton and the Toronto teams, Riverdale and Etobicoke, the other five teams, Patterson, Ottawa Glebe, Stamford, Kirkland Lake and Peterborough were on a par. The Toronto teams, who battled each other for the first time in some years, appeared weaker than the others.

How It Goes

The championship is decided after each team plays one game and is awarded for offence and defence play, for sportsmanship and other abilities. But the winner must be a winner in its own game and in no case can a loser be placed ahead of the team which defeated it. A loser can be rated ahead a winner of another game.

Patterson, which produced a fair running, kicking and passing game again Ottawa Glebe Saturday for a 16-1 win, deserved the second place choice. All that Ottawa had to offer was a so-so running game with strong punting. But that game was sprinkled with more interceptions and fumbles than in the other three games.

But the third and fourth decisions emphasized the weak point of the tournament, each team playing only one game.

Both Riverdale, who lost to Etobicoke 7-6 Saturday, and PCVS' Garnet and Greys, who lost to Kirkland Lake 11-8 Friday, have played better games. And both teams carried the play only to lose out in the final quarter.

The Garnet and Greys deserved their game and should have won easily, but their pass defence and passing offences faltered. There Kirkland Lake cashed in twice on their only scoring chances.

Had An Edge

But in all the other departments, blocking, tackling, plunging and kicking, the PCVS were superior to the northerners.

Riverdale, who lost earlier this year to PCVS 11-0, had a tougher time with Etobicoke, mostly due to effective kicking which drove them back. They led first 6-0, then 6-1 until the fourth when the desperate Toronto district representatives pressed for a running TD.

Etobicoke did not deserve to win on their showing for the first three-quarters.

Stamford, the lambs led to the slaughter, were behind the eight-ball from the first. Probably knowing just that, they promptly turned in their worst showing this year.

Red Feathers—Total attendance for the two nights was more than 38,000. — Toronto's Mayor Hiram McCallum opened Saturday night's games with a 40-yard placement, edging the distance honors from Premier Leslie Frost who kicked only 34 yards on Friday. — U of T's Bob Masterson viewed the games and other contests, rumor saying that he was hunting for a passer. — Jim Telford, PCVS middle, was the only lineman to receive a John David Eaton gold watch, the most valuable player to his team. — PCVS end Ted Sanders received a badly bruised ankle, at first thought to be broken. — Wilson, of Riverdale, who tossed against PCVS earlier this year, won the passing contest.

MOST VALUABLE — Jim Telford, classy Collegiate middle, was voted the John David Eaton watch as the most valuable PCVS senior player to his team in the Red Feather tournament last week in Toronto. The tourney was taken by Hamilton Gaels.

Hornets Keep Lead In AHL

By The Canadian Press

Pittsburgh Hornets retained first place in the western section of the American Hockey League, taking both Saturday and Sunday games to remain ahead of the second-place St. Louis Flyers who split.

When the Hornets downed Providence Reds 7-2 Sunday night, it was their seventh straight victory in a row. Saturday, they downed Syracuse 3-1.

Hearshey Bears, who played a 1-1 tie with Buffalo Saturday were idle Sunday but remained at the top of the eastern division.

In other games Sunday, Cleveland downed Buffalo 4-2, Syracuse defeated Cincinnati 5-2 and Indianapolis outscored St. Louis 5-1.

Oshawa Upset By PCVS In Junior Tilt

Although out of the junior "A" running for this year, PCVS' Garnet and Greys indicated Saturday at Morrow Park that they won't be pushovers next year.

Actually playing football for the first time this year, Coach Al MacQuarrie's crew ground Oshawa Central 16-4 by squashing the Motor City ground attack and making interceptions pay off.

A pre-game move by Coach MacQuarrie, a shift from a six-three defence to a five-four defence, confused Oshawa throughout the game and stopped the plunges through the centre of the line.

A veteran from last year's COSSA champions, Barry Hollingsworth played havoc with Oshawa by plunging through the line and runing the ends for yardage throughout the game. This was his best game since the finals last year. Bob Burgess, a newcomer, also was a standout with his plunging.

Intercept Them

PCVS' passing just wasn't but they did extra well through the air. Three times they intercepted Oshawa passes and three times they worked touchdowns.

The scoreless first quarter featured a punting duel between PCVS' Jack Corbett and Central's Planeta with Corbett having a slight edge due to the wind. On a quick-kick sequence play PCVS made its first threat by catching Central napping. But it stalled on the 10-yard line.

Oshawa drove deep in the second but on the PCVS 25 Corbett gathered in a Planeta pass and dashed to the Oshawa 40. From there Bill Goodson and Hollingsworth worked the ball to the two-yard line where Corbett crossed on a sneak. Hollingsworth punted a point late in the first half for a 6-0 score.

Pressed Hard

In the second half Oshawa pressed hard three times on the PCVS five-yard line, passing each time. But Coit intercepted another pass, squeezing out to the PCVS 20. Hollingsworth, through the line and around the end, placed the ball on the one-yard line where Corbett scored a second time.

Oshawa then rallied with Planeto featured. He punted a single point then followed up with a 10-degree-angle field goal from the 25-yard marker for the final points.

Oshawa early in the fourth received two first downs on passes, then Corbett intercepted another pass at the Oshawa 35-yard line, galloping over for the final TD.

PCVS may see action Tuesday against Grove in Lakefield and then finish the season next week in Lindsay.

Muntz Singles Give TCS Win

PORT HOPE, Oct. 29. — Phil Muntz kicked two singles in the third quarter to give Trinity College Schools an 8-6 win over Upper Canada College of Toronto in a Little Big Four football game here Saturday.

Each team scored converted touchdowns in the first quarter, and remained tied until Muntz went to work in the third.

Jules Timmins counted the Trinity College School touchdown on a wide play around right end. Bob McDerment converted.

Upper Canada's major climaxed a 45-yard march, during which Bruce Thomas was the most successful ball carrier. Thomas, one of the best players on the field, carried the ball across himself on a plunge from the five-yard line.

Hugh Watts played a fine game as centre linebacker for TCS while John Board was an effective flying wing.

The TCS win set the stage for an important final at Aurora next Saturday afternoon. St. Andrew's College and TCS will meet to decide the championship.

In the other contests of the day, TCS Middleside defeated UCC Thirds, 29-5, while in a soccer match, UCC Firsts defeated TCS First by a 4-1 margin.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Of the Red Feather tourney, Ted Reeve writes in part: "The show at the CNE only lasted five hours for us Friday but our aching dogs are forgotten, almost, as we think of the tackling the Hamilton, Kirkland Lake, Stamford and Peterborough boys threw at each other. After watching some of the so-called pros arm-clutching and bobbling away chances of a real belt at the ball carrier, it was a pleasure to listen to these kids thump. Peterborough has a sure enough senior prospect in big Paul Frise at centre. But all the outfits were packed with good material, speaking well of the way their coaches are getting the fundamentals into their heads for, start with some tacklers, and you've got a chance."

There's a new addition to the hockey interference rule. If a player is in his opponents' goal crease through being fouled and thus in there unintentionally, a teammate may score, provided the player doesn't remain in the crease longer than necessary. He must get out as quickly as possible. There's also an addition to cover the actions of managers, coaches and trainers who throw articles on the ice, molest or interfere with opposing players or officials. Such actions are reported to the OHA president, with suspensions following. And penalties are provided for a team refusing to start play or failing to keep an appointment except when due to unavoidable circumstances.

Among Those Present

Can't tell you the Petes' starting lineup yet but quite a few saw service in a Lindsay exhibition last week. Ray Harding will be in goal again, and Drake Jopling and Dean Wasson (ex-junior from Lakefield) started on defence that tilt. First line had Groshak (a newcomer) at centre, with Chum Fryia and Bob Wyatt — former IOOF-er—on the wings. Others used were Gus Leonard, Freddy Garvey, Jake Wade, Earl Leonard, Dean West, Curly Mason, Steele, Arn Dugan, Junior West, Ted Collins, Floyd, Jack Mortimer, Landon and Lindbergh. Some of these will get the chop, no doubt, but most of 'em will play regularly this season with the club. A few others may show, too.

Frank Buckland, local OHA member, has drawn up the senior "B" group schedule, and we'll have it ready in a day or two. It opens Nov. 9 with Petes at Belleville and Queen's playing the Eagles here. List runs till Feb. 22, with semi-finals then going, followed by the loop finals, both best-of-five series. Final winner to be ready for provincial playdowns by March 15. Each team plays four home games against the other, except for Queen's which plays two four-point tilts with the local squads at home and two away with each. Petes' and Eagles will be at home once each a week on Monday, Wednesday or Friday while the junior Oddfellows gets the other of these nights at home.

Ned Has His Problems

Coach Ned Vitarelli is calling Eagles' drills for tonight, Wednesday and Friday this week. Says he'll have a good idea of his team within the next few days. He's facing a rather rough task in rebuilding a contending club after losing Al Burns and Sixty Coombs to Lindsay, Bob Parnall to the RCAF and Johnny Godfrey (who retired) to the Oddfellows as coach. Andy Milne is considering an offer to play for Sudbury this winter, also. One bright spot, it looks like Keith Montgomery has decided to return to Peterborough and play for Eagles again. Honey Tompkins expects to be with 'em, too, and Ned is trying out a couple of imports. But more again on this club, and soon.

St. Peter's classy junior "B" grid squad Saturday captured the Lakeshore group title in Cobourg and only had to play half a game in the process. They had rolled to a 22-0 lead at halftime when Cobourg conceded the contest after suffering several injuries. A foregone conclusion. SPS had won the first fray 11-0 and it was their fourth group win in a row without being scored upon. In fact, they've taken six victories straight this semester to add to six wins in a row last year. Minus three regulars, Johnny Lynch's lads had things all their own way, even though fumbling away a couple of tries. Line turned in a whale of an effort and the backfield clicked well in the short joust. They'll proceed in COSSA "B" play.

Off The Old Grapevine

Hamilton Cathedral Gaels romped to the Red Feather title, Jim Telford of PCVS was voted a watch for valuable playing. Corbett had three touchdowns as PCVS juniors downed Oshawa 16-4. Senior and intermediate public school soccer schedules conclude this week. Local swimmers didn't capture any events in the championship swim meet at London o'er the weekend. Layton and Zorra headline the pro mat card tomorrow night at the Brock Arena. Louis Lecompte, former RCAF puck ace, will likely do some OHA refereeing up this way comes winter. Ike Hildebrand, well up among Cleveland's AHL scorers, was hot against Providence on Saturday to snipe three goals. Kingston officials are working on the OHA to lift some of the Nylons' suspensions, if not all. CRU champions have been recorded in an almost unbroken line since 1892 and the Grey Cup madness soon will be upon us again. Peterborough won the ORFU senior crown back in '07. Hallowe'en is coming up and then we'll have nothing to fear but Christmas.

Argos Beaten By Montreal; Ottawa Wins

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

If anybody is looking for the unpredictables in this slightly-cockeyed big-time football season, they needn't go beyond the home-town swan songs of Montreal Alouettes and Calgary Stampeders. The Spoilers certainly added a weird touch.

Alouettes, downtrodden and humiliated in Big Four competition, salved their wounds Sunday with a whopping 34-22 upset victory over Toronto Argonauts to put a large-sized crimp in the Scullers' playoff aspirations. It didn't mean a thing to the already-eliminated Als but it sent Argos into a second-place tie with Hamilton Tiger-Cats, beaten 13-9 by Ottawa Rough Riders.

Ottawa's triumph assured Clem Crowe's Roughies one spot in the playoffs. Now it's a saw-off between Toronto and Hamilton for the other place.

Squeeze Out

The Montreal victory was a duplication of the also-ran Stamps' explosive 26-25 finale victory over Edmonton Eskimos in the Western Canada Conference a week ago. The Esks, pushed into a sudden-death semi-final against Winipeg Blue Bombers, squeezed out of that predicament Saturday night at Edmonton with a close-fitting 4-1 decision over the Bombers who went into the game 7-5 favorites.

The Annis Stukus-coached Eskimos now meet Regina Roughriders in the best-of-three Western finals. The opener will be staged at Edmonton Saturday night with the series closing out at Regina the following week.

The Winnipeg-Edmonton, Toronto-Montreal and Hamilton-Ottawa games drew most of the fan attention in an otherwise tame weekend.

Scores Upsetting

The Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union results were as expected, but the margin of victories was a trifle upsetting. The All-Canadian Sarnia Imperials climbed all over a disorganized Toronto Balmy Beach club for a 36-0 victory and McMaster University Rounded out the 1951 ORFU schedule with a 50-6 gallop over the hapless Windsor Royals.

The two-game total-point ORFU playoffs will start at Toronto Saturday night and finish at Sarnia the following Saturday. The winner of this series meets the Big Four champion for the Eastern Canada title.

In the Senior Intercollegiate Union, the University of Toronto Blues extended their winning streak to four straight with a hard-fought 15-7 decision over Queen's and McGill applied a 26-0 crusher on University of Western Ontario Mustangs at Montreal.

Varsity is assured of at least second place even if it loses its two remaining games. The Blues have eight points against six for McGill, two for the defending champion Mustangs and a goose egg for the Gaels.

The Edmonton victory was the closest of an otherwise high-scoring Western season and it was manufactured off the toe of big Stuke with a 10-yard placement in the second quarter before 13,000 spectators including Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press

Maurice (Rocket) Richard and team-mate Elmer Lach of Montreal Canadiens each picked up single points Sunday night to go into a first place tie in the individual National Hockey League scoring race.

Richard, who leads the league in goal-getting—five—picked up an assist on Canadiens' only goal during the weekend. Lach scored the goal and prevented Chuck Rayner of New York Rangers from getting a shutout as his team defeated Montreal 2-1.

Adam Brown of Boston Bruins who scored a goal Sunday and Bert Olmstead, who went pointless, were tied for second place.

Three players were tied for third spot. Sid Abel of Detroit who assisted in two goals Saturday, team-mate Gordie Howe who scored a goal Saturday and George Gee of Chicago who was pointless.

The leaders:	G	A	Pt.
Richard, Montreal	5	3	8
Lach, Montreal	2	6	8
Brown, Boston	4	3	7
Olmstead, Montreal	1	6	7
Howe, Detroit	3	3	6
Abel, Detroit	3	3	6
Gee, Chicago	2	4	6

Cobourg High Concedes As SPS Juniors Take Lakeshore Group Honors

After a broken wrist and a nose were suffered by Cobourg High players Saturday, the final game of the junior "B" Lake Ontario league ended abruptly at half-time. Cobourg conceded to St. Peter's High as the Saints were handing out a 22-0 lacing. For the Saints the victory was the 12th straight in the past two years and the sixth this season. In fact in the four league games the Saints have never been scored upon while they totailed up 86 points.

In the first game with Cobourg at Morrow Park the Saints were victorious 11-0.

Lose Their Star

Until his wrist was broken Cobourg's quarterback Bill Stewart along with Allen was holding the lakeshore high team from cracking completely. Without him they felt continuing the game was useless.

But the Saints seemed to be hitting their best for this season. The line in particular including Kingdon, Hurtubise, Simmons, Gooley, LeBarr, Hickson, Paul Bryan and Chambers was exceptionally strong. They battered the smaller Cobourg line throughout the game, blasting large holes and throwing them for loss after loss.

For this game the Saints were without regulars, lineman Jim Hull, half Ron Board and end Ed Corkery. But the return of John Hickey at quarter was noticeable.

After play see-sawed back and forth, Bob O'Rourke with a 10-yard plunge placed the ball on Cobourg's 20. Gord Snape then carried to the 13 from St. Peter's and went over, only to fumble. But they were awarded a safety touch.

Later O'Rourke with Dick Foley and John Hickey, carried to the four-yard line. Murray Byrne, who has been out with a sprained ankle for two weeks, crossed for the score. Frank McGillen rounding out the quarter scoring by kicking the extra point.

Gord Snape started a third St. Peter's scoring play in the second when he intercepted a Cobourg pass and carried to the Cobourg 20 before downed. O'Rourke sped across on an end run.

McGillen pushed Cobourg back to the 10-yard line minutes later with a lofty kick. Then St. Peter's promptly added another safety touch to make the score 15-0.

McGillen then kicked this time to the Cobourg 18 and again St. Peter's fumbled after crossing the line and earned only a third safety touch.

John Hickey near the end of the half passed to McGillen in the clear for the final TD.

Lakefield Boys Beat Pickering

NEWMARKET, Oct. 20—Despite Bert Kellock's sensational 120-yard run-back of a punt from inside his own end zone for a touchdown, Pickering College "Firsts" had to concede a 12-8 victory to Lakefield Prep here Saturday afternoon.

Kellock's touchdown gallop, the convert and two singles kicked by Jim Smart gave Pickering College an 8-6 halftime margin. Bob Legate struck around end from five yards out to count Lakefield's second quarter major.

Lakefield's big red team generated the pay-off punch in the third quarter, Bill Boyd culminating a 52-yard march downfield on nine plays to drive over from eight yards out. Boyd made good the conversion to give Lakefield their 12-8 margin.

Kellock played sensationally for Pickering College, reeling off ground yardage time after time. Bill Boyd, Bob Legate and Jim Walds sparked Lakefield who now have a three win two loss record on the season's play.

Weekend Stars

By The Canadian Press

Sugar Jim Henry, Boston Bruins' goalie, who earned his first shutout of the National Hockey League season, as his team downed Chicago Black Hawks 2-0 Sunday.

Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings who scored the winning goal as his team defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 2-1 Saturday.

Reg Sinclair of New York Rangers who tallied the winning counter as his team edged Montreal Canadiens 2-1 Sunday.

Here And There In Sports

By The Canadian Press

Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, wrapped in blankets, Saturday night watched their first Canadian football game and were keenly interested.

A crowd of slightly more than 13,000 cheered wildly as the Royal car with its plastic top drove around Clarke Stadium's beautiful playing field.

Rain which had fallen steadily for hours stopped minutes before the Royal party arrived and took seats on a special stand on the edge of the field on the 45-yard line.

Walter Sprague, president of the Edmonton club, and his wife sat in the stand's front row with the Princess and the Duke.

A player who closes his fist on the puck in National Hockey League game will no longer be subject to a penalty unless he does it deliberately to stop the play, referee-in-chief Carl Voss announced Saturday.

Previously a player received a two-minute penalty even if he merely grabbed a puck flying at his face. Under the new rule grabbing the puck now calls for a face-off on the spot.

At Billings, Mont., the centre of Montana Mines football team was fatally injured Saturday in the homecoming game with Eastern Montana College of Education. The 500 students of the normal school cancelled their celebration and attended memorial services Saturday night for 23-year-old Wesley Carl Salonen.

Salonen was noticed lying on the 50-yard line after his team had punted from its own 30. None of the game's four officials could recall seeing him fall. John Kaiser, deputy county coroner, said death was "probably due to a broken neck."

Two American imports, snapback Ed (Buckets) Hirsch and halfback Billy Bass, Sunday were named as Toronto Argonauts' selections for the Jeff Russel Trophy, annual award made by the Big Four Football Union to the player adjudged most valuable to his team and most sportsmanlike. Hirsch and Bass were chosen in a player vote at Montreal prior to the Argos' game with Montreal Alouettes.

Billy Meyer Sunday was reappointed manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates for the 1952 season. General manager Branch Rickey said at Deland, Fla., that Meyer was given a one-year contract identical with the one which expired at the end of the 1951 season. He didn't divulge Meyer's salary but Meyer reportedly has been receiving about $40,000 a year for the last three seasons.

At London, University of Western Ontario Colts turned in their most sparkling effort of the season Saturday as they scored a 15-8 victory over OAC Aggies in an Intermediate Intercollegiate Union tussle. It was their first league win of the season as against two losses.

At New York, the manager of Jersey Joe Walcott, world heavyweight champion, said Sunday his fighter is ready "right now" to meet Rocky Maciano for the title but "It's up to Jim Norris." Norris, head of the International Boxing Club, said however that at this time it looks as if it will be Walcott against Ezzard Charles, former titleholder, in June.

All the top brass of the IBC and various managers and promoters were assembled at a meeting following the sensational knockout Friday night of Joe Louis by Marciano. Meanwhile, it was announced that Louis would go through with his exhibition tour of Japan, despite his knockout.

Leafs Holding Down Cellar After Bowing To Wings; Bruins Blank Hawks 2-0

By The Canadian Press

Toronto fans will believe it, because they have seen their Maple Leafs win only one game this 1951-52 National Hockey League season, but Joe Primeau's Stanley Cup champions are still looking anything but the part. They are in the somewhat doubtful position with New York Rangers of looking up to see what the rest of the league is doing. With every club square in the number of games played, Detroit Red Wings have taken an early spurt to make the race a walkaway. They've won five of six games—their latest, a 2-1 victory over the Leafs at Toronto Saturday—to pace the second-place Montreal Canadiens and Boston Bruins (that's right) by three points.

Chicago, bucked up by six players from the Wings in the off-season, follow with six and then its Leafs and Rangers with five each.

The Detroit-Toronto game was the only one Saturday but Sunday night Boston Bruins went to Chicago and shut out the Hawks 2-0 before 10,208 fans and the Rangers clicked 2-1 before a home-town crowd over Canadiens.

Rangers, wearing white shirts instead of their familiar blues, thus breaking a 25-year tradition, evened matters with the Canadiens who had won the previous meeting between the two this year by a 3-2 count.

Gets First Goal

Rookie Walt Hergesheimer, star of Cleveland Barons in the American League last season, scored his first NHL goal in the first period on assists from Zellio Toppazzini and rookie defenceman Hy Buller. Reg Sinclair made it 2-0 in the second period with Eddie Kullman and Edgar Laprade in on the play.

Elmer Lach spoiled Ranger goalkeeper Chuck Rayner's shutout bid with a counter at 17:32 of the final period.

Sugar Jim Henry one-time Chicago Black Hawk, got his first shutout of the season against his old team-mates at Chicago. Adam Brown scored at 8:02 of the opening period and that was enough although the Hawks moved in to give Henry one of his busiest nights of the season. Bill Quackenbush ended the scoring with less than four minutes to go before the end of the game.

Ted Lindsay and Gordie Howe, Detroit's veteran wingmen, scored before Toronto could get the range in the Saturday game and then Terry Sawchuk, the league's leading goalkeeper, came up with a brilliant performance to limit the Leafs to their one counter—a drive from Sid Smith in the second period on a Toronto power play with the Wings' John Wilson off for interference.

Detroit hasn't been beaten on Toronto ice since Oct. 25, 1950—the opening game last season.

Says Hitler Blundered Tying 55 Divisions In North Italy Fighting

LONDON, Oct. 29—(CP)—A calamitously blundering Hitler and a highly suspicious Tito are pictured by Field Marshal Viscount Alexander in his report, issued today, on the last five months of fighting in Italy.

He discloses, too, that he got a cordial brush-off when he tried to link his strategic plans with those of the nearest Russian army in the spring of 1945. The Russian commander refused to discuss strategic plans.

But it is the iron-bound and fatal orders of Hitler, forcing the Germans to fight a "totally irrelevant" contest in northern Italy when he could have obtained 21 first-class divisions for the more vital fronts, which draw his wondering comment time and again.

The man who now is Canada's Governor-General doesn't say so but a reader might draw the conclusion that he feels Hitler really lost the war in Italy by tying down there in useless battle hundreds of thousands of his best troops.

Might Have Turned Tide

He does, in fact, say the divisions Hitler first committed to Italy might have turned the tide in France and that tens of thousands more Germans poured in later.

The report, 66 pages long, covers the period from Dec. 12, 1944, when Field Marshal Alexander became supreme allied commander in the Mediterranean to the fabulous day in May, 1945, when 1,000,000 Germans laid down their arms in surrender in Northern Italy. It was printed by His Majesty's Stationery Office in London and sells for three shillings.

This capitulation, says Alexander, capped a 20 month campaign which fulfilled its "subordinate and preparatory strategic mission" as a "holding attack on a major scale," tied down 55 German divisions in the Mediterranean area at the 1944 crisis period of the war and contributed importantly to victory even though "perhaps not very many of them (allied soldiers) realized how vital was the part they played."

The soldiers included Canada's 1st corps—two divisions and an armored brigade.

Convoy Attacked

The report makes only brief reference to the Canadians' last battles in Italy and their transfer to France starting in February but it does reveal that three German-manned destroyers were beaten off in an attempt to attack the convoy carrying Canadian troops between Leghorn, Italy, and Marseilles, France. The Royal Navy destroyed two of the Nazi ships and put the third to flight.

The report says that Alexander once considered assigning some of his land forces to Yugoslavia but that he found Tito cordial but "very suspicious of the western allies and reluctant to allow any allied troops except the Russians into his country."

In March, 1945, he went to southern Hungary to try to link his campaign plans with those of "my nearest neighbor to the east," Marshal Tolbukhin's Third Ukrainian army. Alexander bared his plans but the Russian wasn't talking.

Impartial Views

Alexander has good and bad things to say about the Germans. Their morale was excellent even when the Fatherland was obviously crumbling, a fact he considered "astonishing and admirable." Neither propaganda nor "our crushing superiority in the air" could sway them. But their commanders were caught by surprise by every major allied offensive and were "very ignorant" of amphibious warfare.

Hitler, however, was the biggest cross they had to bear.

His orders to hold all ground on all fronts were " particularly hard to justify in Italy." By abandoning northern Italy in those last five or six months the Germans would have broken off what was for them "a totally irrelevant contest," would have freed up to 21 first-class divisions for more important fighting and would still have guaranteed protection for the southern flank by much smaller forces in the Alps.

Instead Hitler's "irrational dictation" moved to its climax in refusal to allow the Germans to withdraw over the Po river and escape a disastrous defeat in a battle they should never have fought.

Strange Tactics

Hitler's constant reinforcement of the Italian front obviously excites Alexander's wonder. He cites as an example Hitler's movement of a division from Norway to Italy at the height of the Battle of the Bulge on the Western Front.

This was the battle Hitler considered the decisive one of the war. But the fresh division moved across Europe, right behind that front, to take up positions in "the secondary front" in Italy at a time when the bulge battle hung in the balance.

Alexander assessed the 20-month Italian campaign in these final paragraphs:

"Any estimate of the value of the campaign must be expressed not in terms of the ground gained, for the ground was not vital, in the strict sense, either to us or to the enemy, but in terms of its effect on the war as a whole. The allied armies in Italy were not directed . . . against the heart of the German Fatherland . . . our role was subordinate and preparatory.

Drew Off Forces

"Nine months before the great assault in the west our invasion of Italy, at first in very moderate strength, drew off that remote quarter forces which might have turned the scale in France. As the campaign progressed, more and more German troops were drawn in to oppose us. The supreme directors of allied strategy were always careful to see that our strength was never allowed to grow above the minimum necessary for our task; at one time and another no less than 21 divisions were removed from my command for the benefit of other theatres. The Germans made no comparable detachments.

"Except for a short period in the spring of 1944 they had always more formations in Italy than we had and we made such good use of the brief exceptional period that in the summer of 1944, the crisis of the war, they found themselves forced to divert eight divisions to this secondary theatre. At that time, when the value of our strategic contribution was at its greatest, 55 German divisions were tied down in the Mediterranean by the threat, actual or potential, presented by our armies in Italy.

Tells Same Story

"The record of the comparative casualties tells the same story. On the German side they amounted 536,000 (excluding the 1,000,000 who surrendered in May, 1945). Allied casualties were 312,000. The difference is the more remarkable in that we were always the attackers. Four times we carried out that most difficult operation of war, an amphibious landing. Three times we launched a prepared offensive with the full strength of an army group. Nowhere in Europe did soldiers face more difficult terrain or more determined adversaries.

"The conclusion is that the campaign fulfilled its strategic mission. The soldiers, sailors and airmen of so many many nationalities who fought in Italy never had the pleasure of a conquering advance into the heart of Germany. They had none of the obvious targets before them which buoyed up the spirits of their comrades of the western front but only one more mountain range or river to cross in the face of an enemy resistance which never seemed to weaken. Perhaps not very many of them realized how vital was the part they played but all could feel pride in the way in which they played it and in the sense of duty well performed."

SUPERVISE SOLDIER VOTE — These three Ontario officials are en route to Japan and Korea to supervise the voting by Canadian soldiers from that province serving in the ar East in connection with the Nov. 22 Ontario election. Standing in front are: Col. G. F. Inch, left, and W. B. Common, deputy attorney-general. Wes Corner is at the back waving farewell.

Mayor Thanks Citizens For Waiting

Impressed Most In Three Years By Citizens' Conduct

Mayor Swanston said today he wished to thank the citizens for their co-operation at the city hall Friday afternoon.

"I don't know anything in the three years I have been mayor that impressed me more than the way the people responded to my suggestion that they defer their inspection of the building until this week," His Worship said.

"The people who were here were not my personal vistors, they were guests of the city, and it was the thought of the reception committe of the council that we would ask our own citizens just to wait until Monday and Tuesday, so that the vistors Friday would have every chance to see the building. It was quite evident to me that the people understood the spirit in which that request was made.

Impressed By People.

"The whole affair was their business, we were simply acting for them. Mr. H. R. Turner, president of the C. G. E., who was here from Toronto with Mrs. Turner, mentioned to me that it was probably not an easy thing to do, and he was impressed by the manner in which our citizens fell in with the proposal.

"I hope the citizens will come in and see the building tonight, Tuesday afternoon and evening. If another day is needed for their convenience we will be glad to extend that time.

"The electric organ that is used in the Songs At Sunrise broadcast is being loaned to us by the Rev. Walter Crone and Mr. Charles Allen of George St. United Church will play during the hours of visting."

CHARLES DORRINGTON

C. Dorrington Anti-Tank Head

Charles P. Dorrington was elected president of the 4th Anti-Tank Battery Association Friday night. He and other officers were chosen at the business meeting before the weekend's annual reunion.

Other officers are: A. Lasenby, vice-president; Cliff Clark, secretary-treasurer. Executive committee is: Thomas Drummond, Thomas Weaver, E. H. Holland, Jr., N. Thomas. Col. J. A. Harstone is honorary president.

Saturday night was the association's annual banquet. There were no speakers, and the guests of honor were Mayor Max J. Swanston and Mayor G. R. Chamberlain of Peterborough, England. About 160 guests attended the banquet and the dance that followed.

On Sunday, about 70 former members of the battery paraded to the cenotaph in Confederation Park where a brief service was conducted by F. P. Burke, president of the Canadian Legion here. The parade was led by the band of the 50th HAA Regiment.

Cars Hit At Corner Two Charges Likely

Two charges will likely be laid against Donald Dunford, RR 3, Lakefield, as the result of an accident at Aylmer and Hunter Sts., at 6:30 Saturday night police said today.

As he was driving north on Aylmer St., and about to turn right on Hunter St., Roy V. Cooper, 744 Park St. S., told police a car attempted to pass him on the right hand side. Just as this car, driven by Dunford, was about two-thirds of the way by, the two cars collided.

Damage to Cooper's car was estimated at $88.

Approximately $22 damage was caused to Dunford's car according to Constable W. G. Scott who investigated the accident.

Constable Scott reported Dunford's brakes were very poor and ordered his car held in a local garage until the brakes are fixed.

In addition to driving without brakes, Dunford will probably be charged with passing a car on the wrong side.

AT CLASS REUNION

City Solicitor W. F. Huycke, KC, and Judge J. A. McGibbon of Lindsay attended the reunion of the Osgoode Hall class of 1916 at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, Saturday night. Judge S. L. Smoke was unable to be present. About 60 members attended. Mr. Huycke gave the toast to the class.

Wedding Party Scares Horses, Driver Hurt

LINDSAY, Oct. 29. — Joseph Kearns of Lindsay suffered a broken pelvis Saturday when his team of horses bolted and the wagon rolled over his body.

Kearns was delivering a load of coal, and had gone to ask where to dump it. Down the street came a wedding party, horns blowing and tin cans clattering.

The team bolted, Kearns tried to stop them and was knocked down. The team continued down the street and galloped into the rear of a parked car. The horses were unhurt.

54 Arndon Area House Owners To Appeal Higher Assessments At Court Of Revision

Fifty-four owners of houses in the Arndon area of the new south end are appealing their assessments at the meeting of the court of revision Wednesday night at the city hall.

Assessment Commissioner J. E. Davis said today that the increase in the assessment of those houses was 10 per cent. There are 58 houses in the entire section. From other parts of the city there are some 15 appeals on property assessments.

Total number of appeals is 142. Some of them related to changes of tenants and school support and there are also others in the same automatic class that apply to business tax adjustments resulting from changes in leases and ownerships and commercial buildings.

Winter's Coming

A few drifting flakes of snow sneaked into Peterborough Sunday night, but only wary midnight travellers spotted them. Winter is trying to slip in unnoticed this year. But for the watchful there are signs. The temperature hit a low of 31 during the night. And the weather today is not quite spring-like. Tomorrow does not promise to be any better. You'd better lay in your winter stock.

Scottish Society Forming In Peterborough

An organization that will promote Scottish culture and tradition — and will concentrate on giving newly-arrived immigrants a helping hand—is being formed in Peterborough. It is called the Canadian Scottish Society.

Fifty Scots held their organization meeting Sunday afternoon in the Legion hall and drew up a tentative agenda for the next few months.

Already planned are a St. Andrew's Day dance and dinner, Dec. 1; a Hogmanay dance and dinner; and a Burns' supper, Jan. 25.

The society is open to men of Scottish extraction. Women will join in the social events, though they are not eligible for membership.

David Leckie, chairman of the management committee, said there are 7,000 people in Peterborough of Scottish extraction. And the society will recruit its membership from them. Scots in the rural municipalities are also eligible.

Welfare Program

"The society's aim," said Mr. Leckie, "is to promote Scottish culture and tradition and arrange social programs for the benefit of the membership. A welfare program is also being drawn up."

Mr. Leckie emphasized that the purpose of the society was not to form an isolationist group in the community.

"We are 100 per cent Canadian," he said. "Canada is a young country and we feel that Scots have a contribution they can make to Canadian culture. In fact they have already done so."

One of the society's major projects will be to help Scottish immigrants get established in their adopted country.

Two of the social events anticipated, though not yet actually arranged, are a bus trip to Niagara Falls and an outing to the Hamilton Scottish games.

Election of officers will take place sometime early in 1952. Meanwhile a management committee has been appointed to push organization and decide on a constitution. It includes Mr. Leckie, chairman, Ian Tollington, Archie Boyd, Jack Gilchrist and William Hamil.

An entertainment committee is arranging for the St. Andrew's Day and Hogmanay celebrations, and the Burns' supper. Committee members include Tom Nimmo, Tom Hamil, Ed Cadell and George Lang.

Accelerator Stuck Driver Hits Parked Car

A stuck accelerator was blamed by Lockie Longhurst, RR 1, Peterborough, for an accident at Aylmer and Dublin Sts., at 1.30 Sunday morning.

As he was turning west on Dublin St., off Aylmer, Longhurst said his accelerator jammed. He applied his brakes but was unable to stop his car before it had skidded around the corner and crashed into the front of a parked car owned by Ross Viscoff, 238 Dublin St.

The left headlight and front bumper of Mr. Viscoff's car were smashed and there was also undetermined damage to the front end.

Constables William A. Scott and Pat Gillis investigated.

FLORAL GIFTS TO CITY

Flowers that heightened the festive air of the city hall opening Friday were contributed by James Hamilton, William G. Ovens, both former mayors; Harold J. Garner of The Examiner; Little Lake Cemetery Board; the Bank of Montreal; W. H. Bosley of Toronto; Eastwood Construction Co.; Mrs. Erle Spencley of Spencley Nursery and Florist Co.; Peterborough Floral Co. They were kept in floral cold storage over the weekend, and were returned early this afternoon.

Tool Engineers To Organize Society Branch

An organization meeting to elect an executive of a Peterborough branch of the American Society of Tool Engineers will be held in the Kawartha Room of the Empress Hotel Friday, November 2 at 6:30.

Harry Whitehall, district captain of the society for this district was chairman for the evening.

Headquarters for the society are in Detroit and there are several branches throughout Western Ontario, the nearest being in Toronto.

"We hope to have 100 members," Jack Graham who is in charge of publicity told the Examiner, "We have to have 60 to get our charter and we have that many already."

The local branch of the society plans on holding its first charter night at the Kawartha Club November 16 when it is expected several executives from the Detroit headquarters will be present.

Purpose of the organization is to give members access to information from national headquarters which puts out a monthly magazine containing news of the latest developments in the field.

Also each monthly meeting will have a guest speaker who is a prominent man in industry.

Rev. Riddiford Dies In Hospital

Minister of Park St. Baptist church from 1908 to 1913, the Rev. Walter Charles Riddiford, 77, of Burlington, died Sunday in Sunnybrook hospital, Toronto.

An army chaplain in the First World War, Mr. Riddiford was a justice of the peace for 17 years, and devoted most of his spare time to veterans' organizations.

He was ordained in 1904 after studies in the Royal Military Academy in England, Woodstock College and McMaster University, and served in churches in Brantford, Hamilton, Mount Forest and London, Ont.

Mr. Riddiford was minister of Park St. Church when the cornerstone was laid in 1908.

Elizabeth Walks In Slush, No Rubbers

PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 29 (CP)—Princess Elizabeth walked through the slush without rubbers today, just like many of the Lakehead residents greeting her on a day of wet snow.

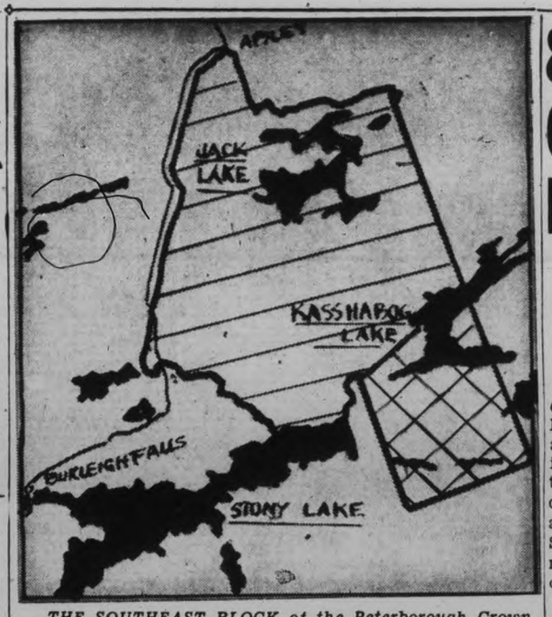
One of her suite carried rubbers for her, but she did not don them over her brown oxfords.

For the rest of her ensemble she wore the dark mustard-colored outfit she has worn a number of times before. It was topped by a hat of the same color. She wore a long fur coat and brown accessories.

Three Films Shown To Friday Night Club

A group of three films dealing with the benefits of water to mankind were shown Friday night at the meeting of the Friday Night Club at the YMCA. The films were: Wonders of the Deep, Eye Witness, and the Oysterman.

Guests were welcomee by the president Don Whittaker, and John Tucker acted as master-at-arms.



Young Bicyclist Hit By Truck, Didn't Stop

Wayne Brown, 16 of 453 Wellington St., told police he was riding his bicycle south on George St. at noon Saturday when a red half ton truck pulling away from the curb near Simcoe St., struck him from the rear.

Brown said he avoided injury by jumping off the bicycle after the collision. The front forks and front wheel of the bicycle were wrecked. The truck did not stop and Brown said he did not get the licence number.

WEATHER DIRECTION

Apart from occasional storms, Canada's climate is dominated by general movement of the atmosphere from west and northwest.

THE SOUTHEAST BLOCK of the Peterborough Crown Game Preserve has been lopped off and is now open to hunters when the season starts Monday, Nov. 5. The section no longer a part of the preserve is shown in map crisscrossed with lines. As the map shows, the preserve stretches from the north shore of the east end of Stony Lake to Apsley along the east side of Highway 28.

Spiritual Foundation Needed For Government

Good municipal government requires a spiritual foundation, the Rev. Maurice P. Poole on Sunday morning told a church congregation that included city officials and visitors from Peterborough, England.

Among those present at All Saint's Anglican Church to participate in the special service on "Laymen's Sunday," were Mayor G. R. Chamberlain and Mrs. Chamberlain and Alderman E. V. Martin and Mrs. Martin—all of Peterborough, England; Mayor Max Swanston and city council, Chairman Dr. Ralph Honey and the Board of Education, and members of the Utilities Commission and the City Trust.

Mr. Poole congratulated city officials on the new city hall.

It was built because the late George Morrow had a vision, he said. A vision of a building that would be clean, practical and amply equipped with rooms to do the city's business.

Before the glistening new limestone building could be erected old buildings that stood on the selected site had to torn down.

Flawless Foundation

"It was not merely a renovation of the old, but an entirely new structure," he said. "The foundations were built firm and flawless.

"Now there it stands. A building which will be of benefit to many thousands of people and a building of which we may be proud."

Then he spoke of "another building—more important—God's building."

God's building, he said was man. God visualized man in complete harmony with him. But man, not satisfied, wanted to be God. That is, he wanted to know good and evil, thereby committing original sin.

Despite the march of scientific progress man still has not found out the "moving impulse of the universe," said Mr. Poole.

With that first sin man was changed from eternal being to one subject to death.

Peterborough's new city building had to be built on solid foundations, said Mr. Poole. Man must build his spiritual life on equally solid foundations: that is, Jesus Christ.

No Room In UN

This precept applies not only to municipal governments but all others as well. The United Nations has no room for a chapel in their huge building.

"If the UN leave God out of their affairs they will go the same way as the League of Nations," warned Mr. Poole.

Two other spiritual requisites are vision: seeing ourselves as God intended us to be, that is, sinless creatures; and the willingness to accept Jesus Christ.

"Except the Lord build that house, they labor in vain."

The second lesson, the third chapter of First Corinthians, was read by Mayor Chamberlain, attired in his robes of office. He was presented with a prayer book on behalf of the parishioners of All Saints'.

Parkhill Rd. Paving Postponed For Year

The Reid-Aylmer strip of Parkhill Road is not being included in Warren Paving Company's contract this season.

"It was getting so late," City Engineer Chalmers said today, "that we decided not to open up that street. Warren Company are working on the extension of Weller St. from Monaghan Road to the top of the western hill. Their concrete crew are also laying the sidewalk on the north side of Murray St. at the city hall. They had some time to spare until they were needed for other curb-and-gutter laying, so we had them do the George St. sidewalk at the city hall. They finished it in time for the official opening."

MADE DIRECTOR

J. W. Gravestock, Lindsay, was made one of the directors of the color photographic association of Canada, Inc. at a meeting in Toronto recently.

Murder Case May Be Heard

Three criminal cases—one murder and two motor manslaughter—have been listed for the criminal assizes that open today before Supreme Court Justice W. F. Spence.

Mrs. Lillian Thompson, 35, charged with the fatal shooting of her husband in their Howden Ave. home on August 25, may not be ready to stand trial. She gave birth to a six pound, 13-oz. baby boy, Oct. 24.

It is believed to be the first time that a woman awaiting trial in a Peterborough jail has had a baby while in custody.

If she does not stand trial at the present assizes her case will probably be laid over to the Supreme Court jury sitting, usually held in February.

Miss Gladys Long

Miss Gladys Long, 43, Montreal, will stand trial on charges of motor manslaughter, dangerous driving and failing to remain at the scene of an accident. A fourth charge of drunken driving has been adjourned to Nov. 6.

Miss Long is out on $6,000 bail.

She is charged with manslaughter as a result of the death on July 25 of 10-year-old David Sanderson, Smith township.

David and a companion were pushing their bicycles up a hill on Highway 7, a mile and a half north of the city, when he was struck from behind by a car. It was allegedly driven by Miss Long who was arrested later that day in Lindsay.

Melville Wood

A Peterborough youth, Melville Wood, 21, of 548 Harvey St., will stand trial on charges of motor manslaughter and dangerous driving.

A third charge of drunken driving has been adjourned to Nov. 20.

Wood is allegedly the driver of the car that struck Lorne Russel, 21, Oshawa, as he walked north along Highway 28, just outside the city limits, on June 29.

Russel was found lying in a pool of blood on the McNaughton-Sugden service station, on estimated 20 feet from the point of impact. At the time he was only a short distance from his mother-in-law's home.

Wood was bailed for trial Sept. 10.

Five civil cases and two divorce actions are listed for the Supreme Court jury sittings.

Obituary

MRS. MARY LAVINA PIMMETT JOHNSON

Mrs. Mary Lavina Pimmett Johnson, formerly of 249 Stewart St., Peterborough, died in her 77th year in the Memorial Hospital, Bowmanville, Wednesday, after a prolonged illness.

She was the eldest daughter of the late John Pue and Sara Jane Edger and was born in South Monaghan township. She was twice married, her first husband being Adam Pimmett of Otonabee township who died in 1926. She later married Benjamin Johnson and lived in Peterborough for 24 years. He predeceased her in July this year.

Her son, Melville H. Pimmett of Otonabee, four grandchildren and one great grandson, a stepdaughter, Mrs. Lilace Mabel Thickson, Bowmanville, and two brothers, Alfred and Albert Pue and a sister, Miss Mildred Pue, of Napinka, Man., survive.

The funeral was held Friday from the Comstock Funeral Home and the Rev. H. B. Harrington, Keene, was the officiating minister.

Pallbearers were Lorne Pimmett, Keith Pimmett and Wm. Hope of Otonabee, Len Pimmett and Scott Huston of Peterborough and Wm. Steele of Keene. Burial was in Fife's Cemetery, Otonabee.

8,000 Acres Chopped Off Crown Game Preserve North Of Burleigh Falls

Southeast Block At Kasshabog Lake No Longer Part of Preserve Swath Cut In Bush To Show Boundary

More than 8,000 acres have been chopped off the southeast corner of the Peterborough Crown Game Preserve. Reason for the change is that residents of the Jack's Creek area petitioned the Department of Lands and Forests, pointing out that forage for deer was scarce in that section of the preserve. Department officials investigated the area, and recommended the change. Surveyors were on the job of re-aligning the boundaries during the summer.

Organized protest to the proposed removal of the section from the preserve came from the Kosh Lake (Kasshabog) Conservation Association. Some members said they had purchased cottage lots in the area when it was included in the preserve and they felt their rights would be abused by such a change.

At least one member of the association, Sam Whitehouse, could not agree with the majority. He said he thought removal of the southeast corner was sensible.

Too Many Cottagers

"There are too many cottagers in that area (Kosh Lake) now," he said, "and the situation has now made it an impossible one to police."

During the summer there were reports of surveyors scouring the area west of Highway 28. There was a rumor that an area about the same size as that being lopped of the south-east section of the game preserve would be added to the west side north of the Cedar Lake park.

However at that time no official confirmation could be obtained and there has been no word from the Department of Lands and Forests about it since then.

Boundary Marked

As well as changing the boundary, and deducting the 8,000 acres the department has clearly demarcated the border of the preserve with a 10-foot strip clearing around it. A Peterborough firm did the job.

This is expected to cut to a minimum feuding between deer hunters and conservation officers.

Verbatim outline of the boundaries from the office of the Hon. Harold R. Scott is as follows:

Commencing at the intersection of the right bank of Jack Creek with the north shore of Stony Lake; thence north-easterly along the right bank of Jack Creek to its intersection with the centre line of the allowance for road between lots 5 and 6 in Concession XII of the former Township of Burleigh; thence easterly along the center line of the allowance for road to its intersection with the centre line of the road known as the "Nepthelene Mine Road"; thence north-easterly along the last-mentioned centre line to its intersection with the centre line of the existing road to Kasshabog Lake; thence easterly and north-easterly along the last-mentioned centre line to the shore of Kasshabog Lake in lot 14 in Concession VIII in the former Township of Methuen; thence in a general north-easterly direction and following the shore of Kasshabog Lake to its intersection with the centre line of the allowance for road between concessions VI and VII in front of lot 15 in the former Township of Metheun; thence northerly along the last-mentioned centre line to the northerly boundary of the former Township of Methuen; thence westerly along that boundary to the north-west angle of the former Township of Methuen; thence northerly along the easterly boundary of the former Township of Burleigh to the north-east angle thereof; thence westerly along the northerly boundary of the former Township of Burleigh to its intersection with the left bank of Eels Creek; thence in a general southerly and south-easterly direction along that bank to the north shore of Stony Lake; thence in a general easterly direction along the north shore of Stony Lake to the place of commencement.

Partridge Fails To Fly Through Glass-Dinner

Picture windows are wonderful They give you a view and sometimes partridge for dinner.

One Peterborough family refrigerator is richer by one partridge today, after the bird, mistaking a picture window for air, thumped against the glass about 8 am and died minutes later of a broken neck.

The lucky family is that of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Turney, 190 Park Hill Rd. Mrs. Turney said the whole house seemed to shake when the partridge hit the glass. The picture window is unharmed.

Shirts Drop Two Weekend Tilts Sarnia Edges Indians, Leads Race

By The Canadian Press.

For the first time since the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series opened almost three weeks ago, Kitchener Greenshirts are out of first place.

The new Kitchener entry started out like a rookie cop after his first robber. Of late, they have bogged down. The Shirts captured their first five games, then dropped three in a row, including two over the weekend.

After Guelph stopped Kitchener last week, Galt and Toronto Marlboros followed with 6-2 and 4-2 wins. As a result, Kitchener is in second place, with two points behind the leading Marlboros and Guelph Biltmores.

Sarnia Sailors took over first place in the OHA Senior A league by edging Stratford Indians 3-2 Saturday night while Owen Sound Mercurys captured their first win by defeating Hamilton Tigers 8-5.

The junior Marlboros jumped into the tie for first by downing the Greenshirts 4-2 after St. Michael's won their game, 4-2, from Windsor Spitfires at Maple Leaf Gardens Sunday.

Second Loss

It was the second straight loss for the winless Spits at the hands of St. Mikes. The Toronto team also won 4-2 Saturday night in Windsor.

Other Saturday night games in the junior circuit saw St. Catharines Teepees edge Oshawa Generals 3-1; Galt Black Hawks wallop Kitchener 6-2 and Guelph overwhelm Waterloo Hurricanes 9-6.

Rolly Beauchamp, Don Emms and John Shedden were the triggermen on Sarnia's goals. Jack Thaler and Jack White scored for the Indians.

A five-goal flurry in the closing stages of the second period gave Mercurys a lead they never relinquished in the game at Owen Sound. Rookie Ray McCallum and Doug Gillespie each bagged a pair of goals for Mercs, with others going to Buck Forslund, Tommy Burlington, Ray Leckie and Gino Antoniazzi.

Frank Liscombe and Ron Kemp each fired a brace for the Tigers and Bill Hammond bagged the other.

Two wingers, rookie Louis Bendo and Eric Nesterenko each fired two goals to pace the Dukes to their important win over Greenshirts. Toyota and Duke Edmundson were the Kitchener marksmen.

Bob Brown sparked the Windsor crew, scoring once and helping on goals by Willard Hass and Rod McElroy. But it wasn't enough to overcome St. Mike's tallies by Bob Sabourin, Murray Costello, Bill Dineen and Mike (Butch) Ratchford.

Teepees' markers by Brian Cullen, Buddy Boone and Frank Martin settled the tie for eighth place between St. Catahrines and Oshawa. Herve DeJordy averted a blanking.

Large Crowd

The largest crowd in five years saw Galt take their Saturday night victory on home ice. Tony Poeta, Tommy Fyles, Ken Wharram, Art White, Jim McBurney and Pete Conacher hit for the winners, with Graham Joyce and Dino Candido scoring for the Greenshirts.

Ron Murphy, with three, Chuck Henderson, and Harry Howell, with a pair each, paced Guelph Saturday night. Aldo Guidolin and Ken Laufman accounted for the remaining Biltmore counters. Johnny Wood and Alf Treen tallied twice with Paul Oliver and Jack Armstrong notching the others.

Sabourin, Ron Wallace, Jim Logan and Ratchford were the lamplighters in Saturday's tilt at Windsor. Red Dunham and Larry Thibeault beat Ed Chadwick in the St. Mike's nets.

Royal Train Correspondents In Continuous Race On Stories

By JOHN LEBLANC

ABOARD ROYAL TOUR PRESS TRAIN, Oct. 29—(CP)—Life aboard this fast-travelling newsroom has all the elements of a journalistic squirrel cage.

In some 4,000 miles of moving just ahead of or behind the Royal train, anywhere from 60 to 150 persons covering the tour — the number varies from day to day—are in a continuous race to beat deadlines, train schedules — and each other.

Not to mention the job of living and working in the swaying quarters of a train for weeks on end, hopping off to snatch a quickie bath in some hotel between Royal activities, and such miscellaneous items as getting your laundry flown half way across the country when the linen supply runs out.

Ossasionally, to vary the pace a little, you pack a portable typewriter, briefcase, toothbrush and razor and hop a plane to keep pace with Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip on the airborne phases of their trip, such as is being done today. Or you might keep up with them on a boat.

Hectic Life

For just three weeks now, that has been the life of a group of men and women from Canada, Britain, the United States and Australia chasing the Royal couple from Quebec to the West Coast and back towards Montreal where they are due by air liner today.

In the group are newspaper writers, radio writers and announcers, cameramen and magazine writers, all turning out written and spoken words and pictures in a volume that has never been equalled on a Canadian story—not excluding the Royal tour of 1939.

It's impossible to estimate how much has gone out from the train up to now, but there must be close to 1,000,000 words of telephone copy alone, aside from what the correspondents mail out and what the radio men put on tape and send back home. The photographs are away up in the hundreds.

Because train schedules don't allow it, the train correspondents rarely see anything except crowds waiting for the Royal train as the press train rolls by.

What they usually do is get off at the major stops, take in as much of the program as they can and get off hasty dispatches before beating it back to the train for its getaway. Then they await later word from the Royal train through Walter S. Thompson, tour press chief, to fill out their stories.

First-Hand Story

However, in the case of an organization such as The Canadian Press, which has bureaux or correspondents at every point the Royal couple stops, men are on the spot to record the Royal doings all the way and provide a first-hand story after the train correspondent has left.

Once aboard the train and after the immediate story has been cleaned up, the correspondents engage in the daily wrestle with reams of mimeographed matter dealing with tomorrow's program and its press arrangements. They figure out how last-minute changes can be dovetailed in with arrangements made with their head offices long before. And they go through the customary scramble for tickets to the next day's events, limited for many of the functions.

But while Life is strange, complicated and at times unreal on this train, one thing the correspondents don't have to worry about is that of facilities for transmitting and receiving their material.

The two telegraph companies—Canadian National and Canadian Pacific—have set up a chain of extended capacity across the country for handling the output from the press train and from other correspondents filing copy from Royal stops.

Extra Operators

Men from the two companies prowl the train's 12 cars all day and most of the night picking up news copy and dropping it at the nearest stop, whose telegraph office usually has been reinforced by extra operators. Sometimes, they will be up at 5 a.m. to drop matter off at some whistle stop.

The Post Office, too, operates in full swing on the train. A miniature post-office is set up in the baggage car and handles most of the types of business a regular one does. Mail is picked up from the correspondents at a mail box in the work car of the train. In turn, correspondence addressed to the train is routed by the Post Office Department to the nearest stop and is delivered in remarkably short order.

WILLIE THE GOAT and his sad-eyed little pal are hoping that Montrealers will drop lots of nickels and quarters into the taggers' boxes on Saturday, when the SPCA starts its two-week appeal for $100,000 for the Animal Fund Shelter. Six-month-old Willie will be out on the streets himself, helping the taggers. He's been a mascot for the SPCA ever since he was found two weeks ago, wandering in the front of the City Hall.

Head-on Crash Takes 3 Lives

FORT ERIE, Oct. 29 (CP)—Three Toronto residents were killed early Sunday in a head-on collision on the Queen Elizabeth Way fives miles west of here.

Dead are: Harold Roy McMullen, 31, Mrs. Ethel Pollard, 45, and Edward Melanson, 47.

Arrested and charged with manslaughter, was Edward Dixon, 24, of Buffalo, NY, alleged driver of the other car. Clarence White, 24, of Buffalo, a passenger, was admitted to Douglas Memorial Hospital here with head cuts. Dixon's brother, Richard, 21, also was treated for head cuts.

No bail was allowed Dixon. Police said the Toronto car was westbound when the Buffalo vehicle pulled over into the westbound traffic lane. Both cars were wrecked.

Teenagers Missing

SARNIA, Oct. 29 (CP) — Two teen-age girls, missing from their homes here since last Wednesday, were still unreported today. They are Marie Simpson, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Simpson, and Ruth Ann Greaves, 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Greaves.

2-Car Collision

DAUPHIN, Man., Oct. 29 (CP) —Three persons were killed and three others injured Saturday in a two-car collision 8½ miles west of here. Dead are: Fred Popolnisky, 55; Reginald David Moore, 53, of Dauphin, and 17-year-old Julia Smetamiuk of Swan River.

Funeral Service Held For Mrs. Clara Smith

MARMORA, Oct. 29 (ENS). — A large number of relatives and friends attended the funeral of Mrs. Clara Smith Saturday afternoon. The service in St. Paul's Anglican Church was conducted by the rector, Canon J. M. Brownlie.

Burial took place in Marmora Protestant cemetery.

Pallbearers were Donald Robertson, Charles Lummiss, John Jones, William Lavender, George Kerr and Frank McKinnon. There were a large number of beautiful flowers.

Must Get Re-Established

TOKYO, Oct. 29 (AP)—Japan should not rearm as long as she cannot stand on her own economic feet, Prime Minister Shigero Yoshida said before the Upper House Special Committee on Treaties today. He made the statement in defence of the US-Japan Security Pact. Yoshida said the pact was concluded to preserve Japan's independence and was not forced upon the country.

CCF To Work For Seaway

WINDSOR, Oct. 29 (CP). — E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario CCF leader Saturday predicted a severe power shortage in Ontario by 1957 unless the St. Lawrence seaway-power project is started soon. He said a CCF government in Ontario would work to expedite the project.

Mr. Jolliffe outlined his party's platform for the Nov. 22 Ontario general election in the Windsor Area Political Action Committee of the United Auto Workers (CCL-CIO).

He charged that the Frost government had done nothing during its term of office to build a single house in Ontario and promised that a CCF government would set up a housing corporation to build homes and make materials available to builders at reasonable prices.

He said a CCF government would streamline labor legislation to end industrial disputes with a minimum of disturbance.

Food Output Lagging, Hunger Threat

ROME, Oct. 29 — (AP). —The Food and Agriculture Organization of the UN warned Sunday that the race for defence and rearmament may tighten the world's hunger belt to the danger notch. In other words: The more guns, the less butter.

Norris E. Dodd, director-general of the FAO, said in his annual report that world food production this year has increased—but that progress toward meeting the problems of hunger is still "much too slow."

"There is real danger," he warned, "that in the formulation of huge defence programs, urgent agricultural requirements may be overlooked and that the expanding rearmament needs may slow up even current modest plans for economic betterment in many underdeveloped countries."

"After five years of FAO's existence," the Director-General said, "we had hoped there would be much progress to report in agricultural and food consumption, particularly in the areas of the greatest difficulties and shortages. The combined circumstances of world war damage or deterioration, gradually swelling populations, droughts, floods, continued civil disturbances, the diversion of energy to armed forces, and the unpreparedness of many nations for rapid or energetic development have limited actual progress to far less than had been hoped."

His report showed that three per cent more food was produced in the world in 1950-1951 than the year before. This was described as substantial increase and not merely based on good weather conditions. This, however, did help very much.

The increase kept barely ahead of world population gains, and in some places, among them the Middle East, it lagged behind them.

"In some of the most needy regions per capita food consumption, although improved over the immediate postwar years, has not reached even the low pre-war levels."

4 Die In Blaze

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 29 (AP) —An early-morning fire in a tenement district left four persons dead Sunday and 10 in hospitals. Two victims were burned to death. A man and a woman were killed when they jumped from windows of the burning four-storey building.

Car Tears Down Tree 4 Passengers Hurt

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 29 (CP)—Four persons were injured in a two-car crash here Sunday in which one vehicle went over the curb and tore down a small tree.

Injured were Mrs. Arthur Shrum of Windsor, left ankle injury; her daughters Marie, 10, possible back injury and severe head cut; another daughter, Marilyn, nine, face cuts; Mrs. William Kipp of Koodstock, head cut and shock.

PC Withdraws As Candidate After Complaint

TORONTO, Oct. 29 (CP) — James G. White Sunday night announced his withdrawal as Progressive Conservative candidate in the Nov. 22 Ontario election.

Mr. White, member for Kenora in the last Ontario legislature, said in a printed statement that it had come to his attention that his name had been mentioned in connection with certain complaints to the Ontario Securities Commission. The complaints concerned sales of stock in companies in which he was interested.

"I feel that I am not responsible in any way in respect to the matters complained of and that all my affairs of these companies were in afairs of these companies were in good faith," he said.

Won't Be Candidate

Because investigations would have to be made by the commission, he would not offer himself as a candidate.

(O. E. Lennox, chairman of the Ontario Securities Commission, said Sunday night the commission is following its general practice of not making any statement about complaints until investigations have been completed.)

A statement from Premier Frost was released at the same time. It said:

"Mr. James G. White has consulted me relative to the statement which he is issuing today . . . in the circumstances he could do no other. The obligations of public men are even more exacting than those of a private citizen."

DIAMOND SOURCE

The Indian peninsula was the only known source of diamonds until they were found in Brazil and later South Africa.

Tax Counsel Dies Opened Resorts In Haliburton

TORONTO, Oct, 29 — Counsel in taxation matters, Molyneux Lockhart Gordon, 67, died Sunday at his home, 44 Riverview Drive, after a prolonged illness. He was honorary chairman of the Canadian Tax Foundation.

Born in Toronto, he was the son of the late William Henry Lockhart Gordon and Emily Gordon Gordon. He received his education at Toronto Church School, Dover College, England, and Trinity College, graduating later from Osgoode Hall.

Following the death of his father, Mr. Gordon assumed the management of the Canadian Land Co., and was responsible for the opening up of large holiday resort areas in the Haliburton Lakes district. He was formerly a Great Lakes yachtsman, and some years ago was made a KC.

He was the author of Digest of Income Tax Cases and Excess Profits Tax Cases. He was a member of Grace Church-on-the-Hill. He leaves his wife, Julia Bernice Jackson Gordon, a daughter Mrs. John Robinson, and two grandsons, all of Ottawa; three step-daughters, Mrs. James Biggar, Mrs. R. Eric Taulor, and Mrs. W. P. Walker; one brother, Lt.-Col. H. D. Lockhart Gordon, and two sisters Mrs. Robert Shiell and Miss Lockhart Gordon.

Trap Communists

MANILA, Oct. 29—(AP)—The Philippine News Service today said an army task force surprised and killed a Communist Huk leader and 21 of his men Sunday on Panay Island. The leader was identified as Neri O. Ty. The agency reported that 13 guerrillas, including Ty's wife, were captured. Ty was Huk chieftain in the Visayas Islands in the Central Philippines.

Finest City Ever Visited Says New Hampshire Clerk Algie A. Holt

"Peterborough is the finest city I have ever visited in the States or anywhere else," was the tribute of Algie A. Holt, muncipal clerk of Peterborough, New-Hampshire.

"That is my overall impression, and I say it sincerely. I think this must be the most wonderfully handled city I have seen. And, I have been around a lot, especially in the States, up and down the east and into the middle west. It also goes for the Canadian cities I have been in. I am not a stranger to Peterborough. I was here last in 1940, and I was often in touch with the late Mr. Armstrong and your present city clerk, Mr. Outram.

"What I like especially is the general tidiness of your city and the conspicuous average of good attractive homes. There are no slums such as you are likely to see in many of our cities of Peterborough's size. Even our own town has some shanties on the outskirts that don't look right."

English Stock

Algie Holt is a thorough-going American citizen, but he implied to the Examiner that in his ancestry he had as clear an English attachment as either Mayor Chamberlain or Councillor Martin. He is a lineal descendant of John Alden, one of the brethern who landed from the Mayflower at Plymouth, Mass., in 1620.

That, however, was only in parenthesis to his report of Peterborough observation and impression. He liked the evidences of good public buildings, good factories, especially the spreading C.G.E., paved streets and the appearance of well chosen modernity.

As secretary of the New England Association of Town and City Clerks, which he helped to organize, he has travelled around a lot, he says, and knows urban communities from which to pass judgment on this Peterborough.

Mr. Holt's hobby is collecting the histories of towns and cities. He has more than three hundred of them, representing an investment of some $4,000.

No Complete History

When he learned that Peterborough could not boast of anything like a complete history of itself and people, Mr. Holt said: "I think you are making a mistake, and I am rather surprised to hear it. I would have thought that you had a good history of your city.

We in Peterborough, N.H., are publishing a new three-volume addition of our town and its people, including family genealogies.

"I feel that I have found something I can pass on to your city as advice. You have a history. There is a project to start on. We find that it is necessary to revise our Peterborough history about every half century. That includes additions and corrections."

Britons More Pessimistic In Election Aftermath

By RELMAN MORIN

LONDON, Oct. 29 (AP). — A brooding sense of dissatisfaction, streaked with pessimism about the future, settled over Britain today in the aftermath of the general election.

Winston Churchill, again prime minister, announced his cabinet Saturday afternoon. There were no surprises in his choice of ministers. Most of them are experienced men with proven qualifications for government. And there is great magic in the very name "Churchill" for all classes of Britons.

But this government confronts the same two towering problems that faced the defeated socialists laborites—economic anemia and some badly deteriorated relations with other countries.

Many persons wonder whether the new Conservative regime will be better equipped to handle them.

The essential fact about Britain today is this: It is a divided country governed by a minority party.

More men and women voted Labor than Conservative.

Workable Majority

Today, Churchill has a majority of 27 over Labor in the House of Commons, and an over-all majority of 18. Many close observers suspect that this is not a workable majority. The Tories do not have the same tight discipline that Labor had. Many of the new members are business and professional men with commitments outside the commons.

So there already is talk of harassment by the socialist opposition, long sessions, a political war of attrition.

In political circles in London, it is considered not unlikely that these tactics could result in the necessity for another general election within six months.

Few persons expect that Churchill will start, immediately, to undo the "British revolution." It has created some political untouchables, and the experts believe he will move slowly and cautiously into the vast areas of British life that were changed by the socialists.

But sooner or later, to fulfill the purposes of having been elected, the new prime minister will begin to re-draw the pattern made by the socialists.

The people look to that time with a feeling of foreboding. They expect explosions in and out of the House of Commons.

LADY TWEEDSMUIR, Conservative candidate, who was re-elected to Parliament in the British general election. Wife of the son of Canada's former governor-general, she successfully contested her riding of Aberdeen South. Lady Tweedsmuir, then the widow of Sir Arthur Grant, who was killed with the Grenadier Guards in Normandy, first entered politics in 1945, but was unsuccessful in the contest for the North Aberdeen riding. However, a year later she won the South Aberdeen constituency in a by-election and has retained it since. She is a governor of the British Film Institute.

Like To Visit Heaven's Gate? Try UK Town

NEW YORK, Oct. 29 (AP) — Would you like to go to Hades? Or Bedlam, or Bloody Bay? Perhaps you'd rather visit Come-to-Good, or Christmas Pie, or even Heaven's Gate.

Paradise is another attractive destination. Naturally, Adam and Eve are nearby.

All of these are in Britain, and so are Ham Sandwich, Butter Tubs and Beer. If you doubt it, just ask the British Travel Association, which has just announced here a survey of curious place names in the United Kingdom.

You can send postcards home from Twice Brewed, Isle Brewers and Ale Water. Another choice pair are Nobottle and Drinker's End.

The Wallops are in Berkshire, so intriguing a name it's used for three towns—Over, Middle and Nether Wallops. Gloucester has Upper and Lower Swell, and Cornwall contributes Indian Queens, Box Shop and Hard-To-Come-By.

Great Snoring and Little Snoring are towns in Suffolk. Both are nearly as quiet as Land of Nod in Yorkshire, a town whose people boast of having no trains, buses, shops or telephones.

Llanfairpwllgwllgwyngyllgogerchymdrobwlltysiliogogogoch is famous as the longest name in the Welsh language (or any other) and if you have a clear passport for Yspitty Ystwith.

Bond street is famous for fashion, but it should be fun to shop in Wardrobes, Pant, Smallshoes, Stocking Green and Undy. If a man sends something home for a special girl, what better postmark than Heart's Delight or Cupid's Green? Bachelor's Bump might give him pause, though.

Whimsey alone hasn't dictated Britain's odd and wonderful place names. Its lore, history of invasions and migrations left a record on the map. Most of the names derive from Germanic, Scandinavian or French sources; Pity-Me is a corruption of Petit Mer. Many names are Welsh in origin, left when the Celts moved westward before the Saxons. The name Wales itself means "foreign."

LOGY, LISTLESS, OUT OF LOVE WITH LIFE?

Wouldn't you like to jump out of bed feeling fine?

Not up to par? . . . you may suffer from an upset system. If you are constipated your food may not digest freely—gas may bloat up your stomach . . . all the fun and sparkle goes out of life. That's when you need Carter's Little Liver Pills. These mild vegetable pills bring you quick relief from constipation and so help promote the flow of digestive juices. Soon you'll feel that happy days are here again thanks to Carter's! Why stay sunk? Get Carter's Little Liver Pills. Always have them on hand. Only 35c from any druggist.

Mrs. E. Collis Is Hostess At Membership Tea

A very successful membership tea of the Catholic Junior League was held Sunday afternoon at the home of the president Mrs. E. Collis.

Receiving with Mrs. Collis was Mrs. J. O'Brien.

Mrs. W. Gannon and Miss Veronica O'Leary were at the door and memberships were registered by Misses Loretta Sullivan and Alice Krom.

Tickets on a cake donated by Miss Lorenda Kearney were sold by Miss Matilda Pepe and the cake was won by Mrs. J. Condon.

A beautiful hand-made lace cloth was on the tea table, and yellow candles in silver candelabres on either side of the centrepiece of bronze and yellow 'mums and autumn leaves made the setting most attractive.

Tea was poured by Mrs. J. Black and Mrs. S. J. Butler and lunch was served by Misses Mary Sullivan, Eleanor Collins and Marie Garvey.

Members were reminded that the next meeting, Monday, November 5, would be in the form of a "toy shower."

Public Relations Of H & S Assoc. Said Important

Relations between the home, the school the Board of Education and the community were most helpfully discussed, at the regional conference here Saturday, by a mother, a former school teacher, a member of a Board of Education and an exceedingly well thought of member of a community, Mrs. G. C. McAuley of Hamilton, who is also a vice-president of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations.

These p[u]blic relations are very important [to] all of all concerned, especially the children, and should always be given careful thought and consideration, for, she advised, each member of a Home and School Association is a publicity agent for it. "Conduct yourselves with thoughtfulness, tact and understanding — the perfect basis for public relations in the community and the world."

The newspaper was mentioned as a publicity agent and the speaker stressed that reports should be given promptly regularly and continuously, and above all that they must be honest and newsworthy.

In each case of public relations on which Mrs. McAuley dealt common courtesy was the governing factor of her wise recommendations. "If the child says he doesn't like the teacher, don't phone the trustee or tell the principal, but quietly talk to the teacher about it first." She then cautioned that very often it is the parent who is at fault, because insecurity at home will cause the child to tell falsehoods and exaggerate things to get attention and sympathy.

Most difficulties with Boards arise because they and the Home and School do not understand each other. "We are not organized to criticize authorities" she said. "I feel that some time should be spent in the Association on study of local regulations of Boards of Education and that Board members should be asked to speak at Home and School meetings.

Proper procedure when donating to the school was outlined: first, consult the principal and get his approval of the gift; present it formally to the trustees. Then she discussed the courteous and thoughtful manner of treating a guest speaker.

Co-operation with other groups doing the same work was urged.

Choose H & S Org. If A Parent Speaker Urges

"If you are a parent living in an over-organized community, choose to belong to the Home and School Association above all," urged Mrs. J. D. Taylor of Hamilton, convener of organization of the Ontario Federation of Home and School. "The Association exists solely for the children that they may have happy lives. Our goal is what we want for our children in the future."

Mrs. Taylor was recently named "Hamilton's Woman of the Year", so she has evidently not neglected her own family in doing the work as provincial convener, or as editor of the Canadian Home and School Magazine.

Topic of her address to the parents from city and district Associations at the regional conference Saturday in Queen Mary School auditorium was "Better Homes and Schools." She questioned if they were giving the teachers sufficient opportunity to co-operate in the program of Home and School.

"All people grow best in security—a happy home, a happy school" she said. "We are perhaps living in fear ourselves right now—fear of war—but we must try honestly to find for all children security and opportunity to learn. We must set the example of a good life for all learning to live with all kinds of people and to accept them, persuading them by our actions."

"Make parents in the school area believe they are needed to participate in the program of Home and School" Mrs. Taylor urged the active members. "It is your job to bring before parents and teachers what you want to discuss, sort out ideas and change ways of thinking—if necessary. You haven't time at meetings for too much business or announcements. You are competing in a world of snappy advertising. Make your own just as effective."

A point from the parent education program which this speaker emphasized was: "Teach children respect for private and public property." This would also show betterment to the community through Home and School.

British Women Don't Draw Too Many Votes

LONDON, Oct. 29 (Reuters) — The woman's vote counted heavily in Thursday's general election, but the country's predominantly female electorate did not support the women candidates.

Out of 77 women who ran for the House of Commons, once considered the world's most exclusive men's club, only 17 will take their seats when it reconvenes Nov. 6. The last House had four more. The 60 who lost included 30 Labor, 19 Conservatives and 11 Liberals.

Observers concluded there is no significant vote for woman as such, voters either vote for parties or personalities and voting does not cut across party lines just because there is a woman in the field.

The only straight fight between women was at Tynemouth in industrial northeast England. There voters, a mixture of white-collar workers and factory laborers returned Conservative candidate Miss Irene Ward, 51, to parliament with a majority of 7,656.

Others Returned

Other Conservatives returned Miss Pat Hornsby-Smith, the red-headed "glamour girl" of the Tories who was chosen to make one of her party's pre-election broadcasts, Miss Florence Horsbrugh and Lady Tweedsmuir, 36, two other top ranking Conservatives.

For the Socialists, women who won seats included Dr. Edith —Summerskill, Labor's outgoing minister of national insurance, Miss Barbara Castle, supporter of left-wing Labor leader Aneurin Bevan, Bevan's wife Jennie Lee, and Miss Lady Violet Bonham Carter, both Liberals.

Lady Megan Lloyd George, daughter of David Lloyd George, Britain's prime minister during the First World War, lost her seat to a Labor candidate after holding it for 22 years. Lady Violet Bonham Carter, daughter of Britain's prime minister when the First World War started, stood as a Liberal with Conservative backing—Winston Churchill made a special speech in her support.

Ethel Parton Bride Of Donald Foster

At St. John's Anglican church on Saturday the marriage of Ethel Gertrude May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Parton, to Mr. Donald Theodore Foster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Darcy Foster, all of Peterborough, was solemnized by the Rev. J. Purser.

Yellow and white 'mums formed a setting at the altar. Wedding music was played by Mr. F. G. Mann, organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a powder blue suit and wore black accessories. She carried a white Bible covered with red roses. Her attendant was Jean Windrem who wore a navy suit and powder blue accessories and she had a corsage of red roses.

The groom's attendant was his brother, William Foster.

A reception in Hooper's Palm Room followed the ceremony. The bride's mother received, wearing blue lace and a hat of navy velour. Her corsage was of yellow and bronze 'mums. The groom's mother wore wine crepe and matching hat and her corsage was white 'mums.

When going away later for a motor trip in the United States the bride wore a dress of cinnamon silk tricotine with black accessories and a grey topcoat and had a corsage of yellow and bronze 'mums.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster will live at 564 Howden Ave., on their return.

17 Non-Members Take Tea With University Club

A very delightful event each year on the program of the University Women's Club of Peterborough is the membership tea, when all university graduates in the city and district are invited to attend. At least 17 non-members of the Club present were greeted during Saturday afternoon by membership convener Mrs. C. K. Hurst and other officers. Two were graduates of European universities.

The tea was held in the YWCA Green Room and was very nicely arranged by the social conveners, Mrs. Maurice Clarkson and Mrs. S. C. Howard.

Mrs. Allan Heiderman contributed very charming decorative notes when she picked from her own garden at Chemong flowers in the colors of four Ontario universities. Ribbons tieing the bouquets were also in the University's colors.

The tea table was decorated with an arrangement of white and mauve 'mums in a crystal bowl, set on a silver plate which matched in design the tall silver candelabra at each end of the table.

Pouring tea in turn were Mrs. Gordon Langley, Mrs. J. E. Watters, Miss Margaret McIntosh, Miss Gladys Moore and Miss Ila Giles.

The servers were Mrs. J. Whiteside, Mrs. W. Langan, Mrs. W. B. Gordon, Mrs. Blake Bell, Mrs. Ross Matthews and Mrs. Heiderman. As hostess in the tea room were Mrs. J. L. McKeever and Mrs. A. R. Stevenson.

Mrs. C. G. Boyd, president, Miss K. MacDougall, first vice-president and Miss [illegible]dred Bailey, secretary, were in the receiving line.

A bulletin board in the room gave notice of the forthcoming meetings of the Club. The next will be on November 12, when the dramatist Christopher Fry will be studied centreing on his play "The Lady's Not For Burning."

CHILD DISEASE

Rickets, a bone disease in the first two or three years of infancy, is caused by shortage of vitamin C found in cod-liver oil.

LOOKING OVER GOOD READING MATERIAL FOR children which was displayed Saturday at the regional conference of this districts Home and School Associations, held in Queen Mary Auditorium, are the women who were responsible for the splendid success of the day. (Left to right) Seated are Mrs. G. C. McAuley of Hamilton, and Mrs. M. D. McLellan, of Brantford, vice-president and president of the Ontario Federation. Standing are Mrs. J. T. Taylor of Hamilton, provincial convener of organization, Mrs. C. G. Collins, president Peterborough Home and School Council, Mrs. A. W. Nelson, chairman of District 10, and Mrs. E. Chambers, also vice-president of the Federation.—Examiner Staff Photo.

Parental Love Can Be Bond Uniting World: H & S Leader

The Home and School movement in Ontario is now at a crossroads, in the opinion of the Federation president, Mrs. M. D. McLellan of Brantford, and she said at the regional conference here Saturday "It is time to do things differently."

A review of the changing times and thinking of this generation has led her to the conclusion: "The greatest need is for better human relationships."

"Mothers, fathers and teachers working together for the child can make a great contribution to the community" she pointed out. "First, the child must live in a home governed by love. As love in the home creates love for humanity, so it becomes a community bond the world over and because of that can be the bond that unites the world."

"No child can be raised without its psychological needs satisfied, a well a its physical" she emphasized. "They need to feel they belong, are needed and wanted, have a place in the home and in the school." Being a former teacher, as well as a mother, Mrs. McLellan had numerous anecdotes to illustrate her point.

Turning to the parents, she said: "Give them a job to do and leadership in putting their skills to use for the Association." Every person has a skill and it should be discovered by those in charge and made use of. She gave an example of a woman completely unable to do the job of corresponding secretary but who was an excellent needlewoman. When her job was changed she became a wonderful asset to the organization.

There is need for feeling of accomplishment with children too, added Mrs. McLellan. They want to feel they can do things, and in this the teacher and parents can co-operate.

"Out of study groups will come the new ideas" said the president, urging more study groups in each association. "There will be the 'excepts' and it is these excepts that make life interesting.

Continuing with the "needs" of children, and parents, Mrs. McLellan said: "There is need for recognition — to feel what one does is important to others. There is need for independence—freedom of choice of clothes and play for children. There is need for philosophy to help us when we get into difficulties. There is need for convictions of right and wrong; faith in people; faith in education; belief in democratic processes; belief in power to solve our own problems."

The president also pointed out that the Federation executive has no wish to be dictatorial. "We are an organization administering what the people have decided on. If you want changes in the regulations, let us know and the majority vote will carry it through."

High Calibre Women Take H & S Work And Leadership

The calibre of the women taking up the Home and School movement in this province is exceedingly high. This was evidenced at the regional conference of the local district held in the city Saturday, both by the federation leaders who addressed the assembly and by the women taking part in the after-luncheon discussion groups of presidents, vice-presidents, conveners and rural members.

All have as their supreme interest the welfare and good conduct of their children, good education and a good community in which to live when they are adults. Each is growing in the ability to be a good leader in the home and in the community with each idea put before the association.

To the leading body in the province Peterborough has already contributed Mrs. E. Chambers, now vice-president of the federation. She was formerly this district's chairman, after serving in executive positions in association and council, and she assisted with the organization of many of the 23 associations now in the district.

Mrs. Chambers spoke on The Creed, which, she said, "gives the vision of what can be accomplished when teachers and parents work for the good of the child." The tenets cover hope for the future, aims, ideals, policies and rules for action.

The Home and School is to be not a money-making organization, but to create public opinion of need for betterment and to contribute for better equipment in the school. It is no-sectarian; is not organized for entertainment; non-partisan and non-commercial. "It is a great power in the community if used wisely," commented Mrs. Chambers.

She urged members to learn first hand of all school and city conditions affecting the child; to seek good teachers, good equipment and proper recreation for leisure time.

There is also in this organization the training of parents in home-making, described by Mrs. Chambers: "A great responsibility and a great opportunity."

Mrs. Chambers also spoke at the afternoon session of the conference on the publications which are available as a free service from the Courtice Memorial Library, maintained by the founder's day fund. "We realize that good reading material is important and must work to keep up interest of the local libraries in having good books," she said.

That support of men's groups is now being given in getting the sale of comics and other undesirable literature for children prohibited, was reported with much satisfaction by Mrs. Chambers.

A children's reading committee is to be added to the Home and School executive, she said. Presidents were urged to have copies of the constitution and the manual on the table at every meeting.

Mrs. A. W. Nelson, also of Peterborough, who succeeded to the position of district chairman from presidency of the Home and School Council, outlined the aims and objectives of the conference, after extending welcome to the 117 delegates.

"The theme 'Home and School in Action,' was planned with the thought of having our program notable for the broad scpe of activities," she said. "Meeting in a conference group affords the opportunity for interchange of ideas and serves to unify our work by co-relation. It assists in strengthening and is a means of instruction for better and more efficient methods, and it straightens out our thinking. It serves also as a bond of fellowship.

'The object is to get at least one good working idea to take back to your own association," said Mrs. Nelson.

Mrs. C. G. Collins, who is now president of the Peterborough Home and School Council, was formerly president of the Queen Mary Association in which school the conference was held. She was the hostess during the day and made the courtesy address at conclusion of the sessions. She anticipated a great increase in knowledge and in work and responsibility shouldered in the district organizations as a result of the very excellent addresses given by the federation leaders present.

The out-of-town Associations were Bancroft, Bobcaygeon, Lakefield, Bridgenorth, Havelock, Millbrook, Norwood, Omemee, SS No. 6 Smith, Wilberforce and Young's Point.

YoungPianist Heard In Recital

At St. Cecilia's School of Music Constance Newham gave a most attractive recital on Saturday afternoon before an audience consisting mainly of children. More than 100 packed the small auditorium and overflowed into the hall and staircases, listening with rapt attention. The recital was sponsored by the Ontario Registered Music Teachers' Association, who are to be congratulated on their enterprise.

The program was well chosen for a young audience. Miss Newham is very young to appear in public, and quite frankly I do not consider her quite ready, though she shows great promise. In her first number, an air with variations by Mozart, she displayed a fluent right hand technique and a sensitive touch in the quieter portions, but the clarity of the outlines was marred at times by a too liberal use of the right hand pedal.

Scenes From Childhood

It was a pity that we could not hear the whole of the Scenes from Childhood. This collection of short pieces by Schumann is obviously carefully planned as a whole, and in fact the first five notes of the first piece are to be found in various guises in almost every number. Moreover the sequence of keys has been carefully thought out. They were played intelligently and with charm by Miss Newham. In the three Ecossaises by Chopin she managed the right hand skilfully, but her left hand was not quite up to it. In The Fantasie Impromptu, in most respects the hardest piece to play in the whole recital, she came through triumphantly, the passage-work rippling away gracefully in the opening section and the melody in the middle section nicely modelled.

The Debussy Arabesque appeared imperfectly memorized and a bad start did not improve matters. This piece is not difficult, but it requires a special type of Gallic lightness to bring off. This was the least successful item. After two more pieces of a light-weight character in which Miss Newham felt more at home the recital wound up with a sparkling performance of Liszt's Hungarian Fantasy. In this Miss Newham was joined at the second piano by Miss Jennifer Klym, who played the orchestral accompaniment. Young and old alike were spellbound at the fireworks of the young pianist, and though older and more experienced listeners would have preferred to hear a real orchestra they admired Miss Klym's talented and tactful assistance at the second piano.

I trust that Miss Newham will not take offence at the criticisms that I have made; I have rather sought to do her a compliment by reviewing her recital just as though she were an adult. She is still very young; she is very talented. On the other hand competition amongst concert pianists is very stiff indeed, and it is my own personal opinion that she would be better advised to use the present time for study. There is a danger that she may be launched before she is quite ready. Apart from this reservation I might say that everybody at the recital found much to admire.—C.G.

Woman Doctor In Chicago Noted Pediatrician

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. L. Potter of Chicago, author, lecturer and research worker, is a busy woman. She took a "bushman's holiday" to take part in the convention of the American Academy of Pediatrics here.

As an author, Dr. Potter has writen five books—she showed her fifth, still in dummy form, at the convention. It is called "Pathology of the Fetus and Newborn," and deals with problems of childbirth and how to keep mothers and children alive when trouble strikes.

"This is my most pretentious effort yet, my magnum opus—and my last," said Dr. Potter. "I will be happy when it is finished and I can begin living like a human being again."

Her hobbies include collecting cook books, cooking and designing houses with her husband, Alvin Meyer, well-known American sculptor.

Lots Of Work

As a lecturer, Dr. Potter is professor of pathology, department of obstetrics and gynaecology, at the University of Chicago. She also is pathologist at the Lying-in Hospital connected with the university.

She spent three months lecturing on pregnancy problems in Brazil last year and started a laboratory to study the high infant death rate.

At the 100th anniversary celebrations of the University of Minnesota, her alma mater, Dr. Potter was the only woman among 11 graduates who received medals for outstanding achievement.

'Hot Flashes" Stopped

DOROTHY DIX

In This Case Mother Wise To Sanction Daughter's Beau

DEAR MISS DIX: My oldest child is a daughter of 14, very mature, and to my knowledge, a girl highly respected by all who know her. Here is my question:

Dorothy Dix

There is a boy about a year her senior who is very much interested in her. Of course, I realize they are young but my belief is that it's far better to allow them to chum together openly than to refuse them, which might cause a secret correspondence. What is your opinion?

He is a nice boy, and while I don't want them to go steady, I believe I am right in not drawing the line too close.

A. C.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The greatest responsibility a parent has—and one which is too often neglected—is to help a child's development through the various phases of life. Admittedly, the most difficult transition is into and through adolescence. Guiding a youngster through the difficult teens is an experience which usually leaves a parent limp and gasping. Questions arise of bewildering variety and complex situations become almost commonplace in their frequency.

Repression Might Be Harmful

For a 14-year-old girl to show interest in the opposite sex is part of the normal pattern and judiciously handled, it soon becomes part of her life. Such an interest occupies an abnormal part of the child's life when unwise parents repress her natural instincts and make the boy-girl relationship an object of scorn and a reason for undue discipline.

So you are very wise, A. C., to allow your daughter to have boy friends. Dating, of course, should be kept well within bounds as to frequency, places attended and hours of homecoming. It is amazing to see how readily teen-age girls (and boys, too,) who are given the privilege of dating, set standards for themselves in these matters. Very few high school students habitually date on school nights; their own attitude toward study, marks, school activities and the like puts the tabu on indiscriminate dating during the week.

Keep a wary, though unobtrusive, eye on your daughter's activities; win and keep her confidence. You are setting her well on the road to becoming a popular, poised and well-adjusted young adult.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: For three years I went with Andy, and during that time we became engaged. We broke the engagement and I began going with Roy but have not been at all contented with him. I would so much like to go with Andy again. I know he has no other girl, and think he still likes me. How can I let him know my feelings? BARBARA

ANSWER: Andy's pride is undoubtedly too much hurt for him to try to date you again, so the only alternative is for you to mend the breach. Could you plan an "accidental" meeting, perhaps at the home of some mutual friend? An opening might occur to give you the opportunity of showing how you feel. The most direct means is often the best; write and invite him to your house for an evening. If he refuses or ignores the invitation, at least you know what your position is.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Some time ago I met a man with whom I fell deeply in love. He has told me frankly that because he was divorced he is afraid of marriage and never intends to remarry. We see each other occasionally and I can't get him out of my mind no matter how hard I try. I am a widow and appreciate the meaning of loneliness. I hate to think of giving him up altogether, but I cannot keep up this relationship. ALMA

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Divorce very often puts a man on the defensive, and fear of further matrimonial entanglements make him very wary. Eventually they get over the fear of marriage, and if you have the patience to wait for your beloved to reach that stage, stick around.

FABRIC-SAVER SKIRT

Sensational! Just ONE yard of 54-inch fabric for a skirt that stars all the newest fashion—yokes, hip-flaps, back-fastening. Thrifty in fabrics of other widths, too. That one yard 54-inch is for any size given—waist 24, 25, 26, 28. And best yet, Pattern 9380 is simplest sewing NO side-seams! Wear it with all your blouses and jackets! Make it in striped or plain fabric.

This easy-to-use pattern gives perfect fit. Complete, illustrated Sew Chart shows you every step.

Will Use Camera For Hunting Geese

WINNIPEG—(CP)—A woman with close-bobbed hair and a taste for mannish-tailored suits left here recently for northern parts of Manitoba with hopes of bagging at least 1,000 migrant geese.

But Margaret Bourke-White has no intention of doing her hunting with a shotgun. The noted news and magazine photographer and former war correspondent will do her shooting with an aerial camera, from the cockpit of a helicopter.

Her pictures will form the background for an article on Canadian geese to be published in Life magazine, one of a series titled "A Helicopter View of America."

Loaded down with cameras when she passed through here, Miss Bourke-White confessed that the only other research she had done in the field of nature study was an article on the life cycle of the butterfly.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Overstock Jams And Jellies Makes Christmas Presents

Mrs. K. R. had a good idea. Do you remember she wanted some ideas for using up her over-supply of jams and jellies? To some mothers of large jam-eating families this seems unbelievable—but because my family is small and since Pete is our principal jam eater—and since I love making the stuff and consequently have an abundant supply—I know what she means. It makes wonderful minor gifts at Christmas time, Mrs. KR. Dress it up in aluminum foil wrapping and tie with gay red or green ribbon Pass it out to callers and folks you want to remember but whom you do not want to embarrass with a more valuable gift.

Raspberry Jam Cake

Three-quarters cup butter 1 cup sugar, 3 unbeaten eggs, 1 cup raspberry jam, 1 cup sour cream, 2½ cups flour, 1 teaspoon each soda and cinnamon, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, ¼ teaspoon cloves (or less). Sift the dry ingredients together. Cream the butter and beat in the sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in the eggs, jam and sour cream. Sift the dry ingredients over and stir until just mixed. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. 40 or 50 minutes.

Steamed Individual Jam Puddings

One-half cup chopped dates or raisins, ¾ cup butter or margarine, 1 cup granulated sugar, 2 beaten eggs, ½ cup milk, 2 cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon each baking soda, mace, cinnamon and vinalla, ½ teaspoon salt.

Cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy, and beat in the eggs, add fruit and milk alternately with the flour which has been sifted with the salt, soda and spices. Add vanilla. Into bottom of buttered custard cup put one tablespoon of jam. Put in enough batter to fill custard cup two-thirds full. Place in steamer and steam 45 minutes, without once removing the cover.

Jelly Roll

Three eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup pastry flour, 1½ tablespoons milk, 1½ tablespoons melted butter, 1 teaspoon lemon extract, 1 teaspoon baking powder. Beat eggs until thick and lemon colored. Gradually add sugar and continue beating, add milk, flour sifted with baking powder and extract. Mix thoroughly, add melted butter last, and bake in a dripping pan, greased and lined with greased paper for about twelve to fifteen minutes. When cooked turn out on a damp towel, quickly cut off edges, spread with jelly or raspberry jam, roll quickly, sprinkle with icing sugar.

Jam Turnovers

Make plain pastry and cut into 4-inch squares. Put 1 tablespoon jam on one half of square and 1 tablespoon cream cheese. Wet edges with cold water, fold over cornerwise and press edges together lightly. Prick and bake 15 minutes at 450 degs. Fahr. Sprinkle with powdered sugar.

Baby Rose Marie Grows Up Now 26 She's Gotham Star

By MARK BARRON

NEW YORK (AP)—She is five foot two now with bright blue eyes and the 1951 figure, but I remembered 21 years ago when she stood three foot five and her blue eyes gave me an enchanting twinkle.

Yes, Baby Rose Marie has grown up—26 years of her in all the right places, taking her vocal abilities right up the musical ladder to her present fame.

In was September, 1930, when we first met. Baby Rose Marie was NBC's new singing sensation and critics hailed her as the one to succeed Sophie Tucker, Billie Baker and the other sultry-voiced singers then captivating the night club world. This was when Baby Rose Marie had reached the age of five.

Rose Marie's mother did most of the talking and all the brunette, blue-eyed lass wanted to do then was climb onto my knee and whisper that she really knew what Amos and Andy looked like without make-up.

Has Youngster Now

The other day she wasn't climbing onto my knee for obvious reasons and the brown hair had given away to blonde. But her eyes were still sparkling as the kid star grown up talked of her four-year-old youngster and discussed with me our mutual problems about baby sitting.

In private life Rose Marie now is Mrs. Robert Guy. Her husband is a top musician who supplies lyrical accompaniment to radio and television shows.

Bit Of Sentiment

"I still haven't got quite rid of the baby Rose Marie characterization," she said. "When I go to parties I wear a Buster Brown haircut and costume and try to be Baby Rose Marie again for a night. Just sentiment, I guess. I realize I don't fool anyone about my age. But, it makes me feel young again."

Miss Rose Marie—"Baby" that is—says she's played every vaudeville house in the country, starting at five as Baby, and again at 19 when she grew up to Rose Marie.

"But, before I tour the stages as 'Madam' I want to be on Broadway as a grown up, glorious and glamorous actress."

"Baby" is heading for that for she opens soon on Broadway with Phil Silvers and Joey Faye in the musical comedy, "Top Banana." If that title confuses you, it means top man in a burlesque show.

"And with my experience in show business," she commented, "don't let them tell you that I don't understand everything in this story of burlesque. I was born in a trunk backstage, I heard all the jokes. October marks my 21st anniversary in show business.

"I guess that's long enough to rehearse for my Broadway debut."

Home-making Leaders' Training Schools

The largest number of communities in Victoria county ever to be represented in Junior Homemaking Club work sent leaders to training schools held in Lindsay and high school, Fenelon Falls. This is the beginning for 12 clubs in the project "Sleeping Garments" which is sponsored by the Women's Institute and Home Economics Branch of the Department of Agriculture.

These volunteer workers who have attended the two day training school will return to their communities, organize and conduct club work during the fall and winter. They are generally interested in the young girls between the ages of 12 and 26 in their area and will, to the best of their ability, give them guidance on many subjects. In outlining the project the following objectives were given by the home economist, Jean Noble, who conducted both schools. First of all, the girls will learn to work together for their mutual benefit. They will gain information on choosing materials, colors and patterns suitable for pyjamas, night gowns and housecoats. The use of the commercial pattern and such methods of construction and workmanship of the garments make up the club programme.

The following is the list of those who attended the training schools:

Baddow—Mrs. Murray Armstrong. Fenelon Falls—Leader. Miss Josephine Watson, Fenelon Falls—Ass't. Leader.

Burnt River—Mrs. I. Reeds, Burnt River—Leader. Mrs. Joe. Handley, Burnt River — Ass't. Leader.

Coboconk—Mrs. F. Kerr, Coboconk—Leader.

Fenelon Falls—Mrs. D. E. McLeod, Fenelon Falls—Leader. Miss Geneva Wagar, Fenelon Falls—assistant leader, Mrs. J. Kelly, Fenelon Falls—assistant. Miss Hunter, Fenelon Falls—assistant.

Cameron—Mrs. Thos. Eyres, Cameron—Leader. Mrs. Erwin Ellison, Cameron—Ass't.

Lorneville - Argyle — Mrs. L. Grant, Bolsover—Leader. Mrs. C. Dalgleish, Bolsover—Ass't.

Bury's Green—Mrs. Wilfred Fairfield, Fenelon Falls—Leader, Mrs. Hector Flett, Fenelon Falls—Ass't. Mrs. Douglas Jones, Fenelon Falls—Ass't.

Dunsford—Mrs. Herbert Elliott, Dunsford—Leader.

Manilla—Mrs. N. Rabey, Manilla—Leader.

Little Britain—Mrs. Roy Casey, Little Britain—Leader.

West Ops—Mrs. John Wallace, Lindsay—Leader. Mrs. R. J. Hope, Lindsay—Ass't. Mrs. Leo Traynor, Lindsay—Ass't.

6—In Memoriam

MANN—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Sgt. James S. Mann, who was killed in Belgium, October 29th, 1944.
However long our lives may last,
Whatever lands we view,
Whatever joy or grief be ours,
We will always think of you.
—Lovingly remembered by his wife and family, Donna and Bobby.

MANN—In loving memory of our Brother, Sgt. James S. Mann, who died in Belgium, Oct. 29, 1944.
Deep in the heart lies a picture
Of a loved one laid to rest,
In memory's frame I shall keep it
Because he was one of the best.
—Ever remembered by brothers and sisters.

McILVENA—In loving memory of a dear wife and loving mother, Ferena McIlvena, who passed away Oct. 30, 1940.
We mourn for her in silence,
No eyes can see us weep,
But many a silent tear is shed
While others are asleep.
—Sadly missed by husband, Oliver, and daughter Lenore and Tom.

See Westerners Helping Princess Relax

By JOHN LEBLANC

ABOARD PRESS AIRLIFT PLANE OF ROYAL TOUR, Oct. 29 — (CP) — Princess Elizabeth seems to be warming to her reception by the Canadian people with every lap of her long tour.

Press observers who have travelled with her and Prince Philip for about 5,000 miles have sensed a growing animation in the Princess' response to her huge crowds, a quicker flash of her wide smile and an attitude of being more at ease with the people than when she arrived three weeks ago.

In the opening stages of the tour she was friendly and smiling, but she seemed reserved and self-conscious at times. Then the free-and-easy Philip appeared to be taking a hand occasionally to dispel any uncertainty on the Princess' part.

But as the gathering stream of Canada's welcome has poured out through parts of central Canada, across the Prairies and on the Pacific coast, Elizabeth has cottoned visibly to the obvious warmth of Canadians. She is more relaxed and receptive to the welcomes.

Westerners Help

To those following the tour, this has been particularly noticeable since the series of visits among hundreds of thousands of spirited westerners in the last fortnight and the three-day rest she and Philip enjoyed in privacy on Vancouver Island last week.

The West's rip-roaring welcome was an undoubted morale booster, and the rest must have bolstered her physically after an exhausting transatlantic and transcontinental trip.

At all events, as she headed today for Montreal by plane in a series of hops from Saskatoon, it would appear the east — and Washington — will see a more chipper Princess than before.

That was evident from her first major appearance of the eastbound trip—at Edmonton—where she turned up on a raw day beaming broadly and gaily. Then, on a drive to the city, she reversed the tables on Philip by pointing with lively interest at things that caught her eye.

It used to be the Prince who took the initiative in drawing her attention to the sights.

At Saskatoon Sunday, she gave about 10,000 persons the sight of a loud royal laugh. That erupted when she had to duck as Mayor J. S. Mills almost whacked her on the nose with a case of silverware after presenting it to her.

At Saskatoon, too, she probably won over a bunch of servicemen by holding up a formal presentation of local bigwigs to step back and have the commander stand the soldiers at ease from their stiff stance.

Hunt For Assassins In Malaya Failure

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya, Oct. 29. —(AP) — Headquarters of Britain's Security Forces here announced today its operations against the assassins of High Commissioner Sir Henry Gurney have failed, although four members of the band believed responsible have been tracked down and slain.

Gurney was killed in an ambush October 6.

A British military spokesman, after announcing the killing of a fourth member of the Communist terror gang by Gurkha troops, said the rest of the gang escaped through a jungle trap the Security Forces had prepared in Pahang State.

Using New Stamps

EDMONTO, Oct. 29 (CP) — Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip have been using the new Canadian four-cent stamp bearing their likenesses, issued to commemorate the Royal visit. They sent letters with them from their holiday retreat on Vancouver Island and from the Royal train on the way from Vancouver to Edmonton.

Pope Lays Down Conditions Sexual Activity

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 29 — (Reuters)—Pope Pius XII today laid down the conditions under which the Roman Catholic church permits married couples to limit sexual activity to the wife's "safe periods."

In a 10,000-word speech to the Italian midwives, the Pope gave the most authoritative definition yet of church teaching on this aspect of married life.

He recalled the main principles of Catholic teaching on maternity, stressing the complete banning of contraceptives, of supression of infant life in any circumstances, of sterilization or of artificial insemination.

But he admitted that in certain circumstances a married couple may lawfully limit sexual intercourse to the "safe periods" of the wife.

The Pope stressed that this practice was permissible only if "grave reasons beyond their control" impelled married couples to its use.

Abstain Forever

The Pope said that married couples must abstain forever from sexual relations in cases where maternity presented too great a risk for the wife and where the observance of "safe periods" did not present sufficient guarantee against conception.

It appeared from his statement, although he did not specifically say so, that the Pope considered danger to the life of the wife in case of maternity to be one of the "grave reasons" justifying the use of "safe periods."

The Pope protested against the argument that lifelong abstinence from sexual relations is impossible, that it amounts to demanding superhuman heroism.

He answered this argument by saying:

"God does not demand the impossible. But God demands abstinence on the part of married couples if their union cannot be accomplished according to the norms of nature. Therefore in these cases abstinence is possible."

Canadian Troops Going To Rotterdam

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands, Oct. 29 (Reuters)—The first 300 troops of the Canadian brigade for Germany under the North Atlantic Treaty Pact will arrive at Rotterdam Wednesday, Col. C. A. Johnson, military attache to the Canadian embassy here, said today.

They will be billeted with the British forces in the Hannover area. The remainder of the brigade totalling about 6,000 officers and men will arrive probably before the middle of December.

Bus Drops 40 Feet Off Bridge, Crumples; 7 Die, 25 Injured

OAKLAND, Calif., Oct. 29 (AP) —A Greyhound bus plunged 40 feet off a ramp of the Bay bridge early Sunday and pancaked on 32 occupants, killing seven and injuring the other 25. "Get me out, get me out," the survivors pleaded after the bus crashed through a steel restraining fence and fell on its top, which was crushed down to seat level.

The bus, inbound from Salt Lake City, went out of control after hitting a concrete block chewed out of an abutment by a careening car ahead of it.

Rescuers worked for an hour and 46 minutes to pull the bus apart and remove the last of the trapped dead and injured from the blood-spattered wreckage.

Policeman Art Dezotte said the freak accident was set off by a Kansas car which threw a huge chunk of concrete directly into the parth of the oncoming bus.

The bus hit the chunk with its left front wheel, tearing a huge gash in the tire. The bus went out of control.

Goes Wild

It caromed across the opposite lanes of traffic, ripped through 100 feet of the restraining fence and dropped 40 feet.

One of the first to reach the bus was S. Q. Bryant, a construction worker. He and Dezotte smashed windows and removed four or five persons.

"At first," Bryant said, "everyone seemed to be unconscious. There were moans but no screaming that I can remember. Then, as we kept working, more and more seemed to regain consciousness. That's when the screaming and crying began."

Among the dead was the bus driver, Vane Edward Elshire, Sacramento, Calif.

The bus, after ripping through the steel fence, rolled 40 feet down a Southern Pacific right of way.

An eyewitness to the accident was John Shephard, 23, a circulation truck driver for the Oakland Tribune.

On his way to pick up a broken-down truck, he arrived just after the Kansas car, a convertible, had struck the abutment, knocking the concrete chunk out on the traffic lane.

"The car driver was lying under the convertible in a pool of gasoline," Shepard said.

Trying To Help

"A passerby and I were trying to pull him free when the bus approached.

"It must have been doing between 40 and 45 miles an hour. The driver probably didn't even see the soncrete chunk until just befre he hit it.

"He appeared to put on his brakes. The bus swerved and skidded across the centre of the ramp into the San Francisco-bund lane, then smashed into the steel safety railing.

"The bus teetered for a second, then crashed through the retaining fence down to the railway right-of-way. As it hit the fence, there was a flash of sparks from the bus.

"It made a loud crunching noise when it hit below. I rushed over to the railing. Just looking down on the scene made me sick."

Missing Corporal Has Amnesia

PEMBROKE, Oct. 2—(CP)—An army corporal, missing for more than a week and believed drowned, turned up at the Pembroke police station Sunday night in a haggard and worn condition.

Apparently recovering from a bout of amnesia, Cpl. C. E. Fell, of the Royal Canadian Regiment, Petawawa, told police of wandering in the bush for days. He was taken to the Petawawa hospital in an army ambulance.

Native of Hamilton, Cpl. Fell was reported missing and believed drowned on Oct. 20 when his kyak was found floating in the nearby Petawawa River.

He had left his camp home about 8 a.m. to paint his boat at the river shore. When he failed to return, an intensive police and army search was launched with no success. Dragging operations were started on the river, but no trace of a body was found.

Cpl. Fell resided at the camp with his wife and four children.

Minor Accident

A minor two-car accident at Park St. just above Wolfe St., at noon Saturday resulted in slight damage to both vehicles.

Alexander Wigfield, 207 Parkhill Rd., was pulling away from the curb on the west side of Park St., just as a car going south on Park St., driven by James Jeffrey, 195 Park St., north was passing and the two cars collided.

Constable Harold Andrew investigated.

UK Nudists Have Plan To Replace Swim Suit With Birthday Suit In All England's Pools

LONDON, Oct. 29 — (AP) — United British Nudists today laid down the bare outlines of a five-year plan to replace the swim suit with the birthday suit.

Their final objective is legal nudity on the open seaside.

As a start, the British Sun Bathing Association — 50,000 strong—will seek a ban on the use of suits in any public swimming pool in the United Kingdom. The stated reason: Such barb contaminates the water.

The 3,000 delegates to the association's annual convention here agreed to demand a weekly nudist night at every pool as an opening wedge in their campaign.

Most of the pools — known here as "public baths"—are run by town and county councils.

The nudist delegates also voted to:

1. Form a nudist chapter in every county of the British Isles.

2. Launch a pressure campaign against police seizure of magazines on obscenity grounds.

The weather today was somewhat chilly and the delegates came fully clad.

Each was identified by a badge consisting of a metal bear (bear, bare, get it?) inscribed with the motto "Exposure With Composure."

Believes Britain Must Gamble For New Start

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Winston Churchil, as one might expect, had the right thing to say as he came back into power. He said:

"We shall use the great strength of this country to bring about a restoration of Britain's fortunes."

Following this statement, people will be watching to see whether he will have a power of performance to match his genius of words.

In his words he touched on something that people have been wondering about since the close of the Second World War. And what they have been wondering about is essentially this:

"Has Britain still got it?"

There is that island off the coast of Europe which has wielded a power in the world altogether out of proportion with its size and resources.

It didn't get that way by playing things safe. It got that way with the spirit of "dare and do."

Spirit Seems Lacking

If one could project one's self 100 years from now, one might be able to look back and say that the last few years have been years of "dare and do" on a domestic scale.

But somehow, in these recent years, one may doubt that the spirit has been ther on a world scale.

This writer, back in 1948, happened to be talking in London with an official of the Board of Trade. And he asked the official, in effect, in those difficult days, if Britain shouldn't be risking vast projects in various parts of the world. And the official said: "We would be risking those things if we had anything with which to risk them."

He was talking of Britain's small dollar supply. They might throw it on the table and win. But if they threw it on the table and lost, then all was lost.

Probably not many of us would like to have the responsibility of deciding whether or not we should gamble that way.

Must Gamble

But it would seem to an observer that Britain must gamble as she has always gambled; and the fate of the new government, and perhaps the fate of Britain, depends upon how much informed gambling is done in the next two or three years.

This writer is inclined to think it wouldn't be a gamble at all; that her only danger lies in being afraid to gamble.

Britain used to be the leader of the world. Her position of power, maybe, has been taken by the United States. But so far, the United States is only powerful. In leadership she speaks with an uncertain voice. We miss the old leadership of Britain.

If Churchill can restore that voice, perhaps in his 77 years he will yet perform his greatest task. We don't know. We can only watch and hope.

Pearson In London

LONDON, Oct. 29 (Reuters) — L. B. Pearson, Canadian minister for external affairs, arrived here by air from Montreal Sunday. Pearson is to attend the United Nations general assembly in Paris. He is also chairman of the North Atlantic council which meets in Rome next month.

Dollar Down

MONTREAL, Oct. 29 — (CP)— The American dollar today opened at 4 13/16 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, down 1/32 from Saturday's close. That is, it took $1.04 13/16 Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.93½, unchanged from Saturday.

MAIN FACTORS

Moist atmosphere and plentiful coal were responsible for making Lancashire the world's cotton manufacturing centre.

Recording Of Ceremony At City Hall Given To 2 Other Peterboroughs

CHEX recording of the addressess and incidental music at the opening of the City Hall here Friday was presented Sunday afternoon at a meeting of citizens of Peterborough, New York, by Mr. Carleton Wheeler, on his way home to Peterborough, New Hampshire.

At least that was his intention, as prearranged, and he may also have remained for an evening reproduction.

"Then we are home again, we shall have a public meeting at which the whole thing will be played over, so that our people will have an opportunity of hearing what took place up here," Prof. Wheeler said. "I also intend to make a copy and present it or forward it, as the case may be, to the Mayor of Peterborough, so that it will be a permanent record of the very interesting and important event in Peterborough, Ontario.

"I know that they will make some public use of it in England, because they already have a group in that Peterborough, and a very fine group it is, who early this year received a similar tape which I sent them of the histories of the Peterboroughs."

Left Sunday

Prof. Wheeler left early Sunday morning for New Hampshire. The visit to Peterborough, New York, near Oneida, took him about 250 miles out of his way.

He made no mention of the fact, but the audiences in the two Peterboroughs south of the border will not hear any American voice in the recording of the exercises at the City Hall.

When that omission was mentioned to him in a conversation Saturday night at the Empress, Mr. Wheeler said: "That doesn't matter in the least. As a matter of fact I hadn't thought of it. We have had a delightful time here, and now that we have met some of your people, it is my hope that something permanent will come of it."

Professor Wheeler visualizes the formation of what he has named the Six Peterboroughs clubs.

Hope for Third

The nucleus of such a club exists in Peterborough, England, and of another in New Hampshire, and it is hoped that a third will be organized here. There will probably be a fourth in Peterborough, NY. The two other communities of the same geographic name are in Australia—Victoria and South Australia, not so accessible, but still to be considered.

The general purpose of these proposed clubs would be to foster acquaintance, goodwill and communication between the members. That is an intimation of the beginning of a project which Prof. Wheeler has been working on for at least a year, and with initial progress, he said, which convinces him of attainable permanence.

Carleton Wheeler is a retired professor of romance languages of Tufts University, and now residing in his native Peterborough. At 76 he is a Peterborough enthusiast. In his visit here he was accompanied by Harold Roberston who came along with him as a celebration of his birthday on Friday.

Prof. Wheeler spoke to the audience of children at the Odeon Theatre, Saturday morning.

"To the young people of Peterborough, Ontario," he said, "I bring greetings from 'down there,' as I find you call the USA, and more specifically these greetings are from our Peterborough, New Hampshire, not quite 500 miles from your fine city.

Hope For Visit

"Mr. Robertson and I drove up on Thursday. It was one of the most beautiful and interesting drives I have even taken, and I have been in more than half the States of the USA. I hope that very many of you young people, and your fathers and mothers, will visit us in the coming years. We shall try to show you the same sort of delightful hospitality that has been shown us here in Canada, including the free parking of our auto in the city parking lot.

"In the few moments of my greetings to you I want to tell you of my pleasure yesterday, after the dedication exercises at the City Hall, in signing my name on the many autograph books boys and girls thrust into my hands."

Mr. Wheeler invited some of the children to come to his room at the Empress Saturday afternoon. He showed them the tape recording machine he had brought with him, chatted with them about their local and school affairs and grades, and made a record of the conversation.

"I promised them that I would make a disc record of it, and send it back to them, so that they could have a permanent record of our meeting and a reminder that we "down there" hoped to see them some day in "Our Town."

"If any of you ever see in the theatre the play by Thornton Wilder, entitled "Our Town," remember that it was written at the MacDowell Colony in Peterborough, NH, and in a general way gives a picture of the kind of people who live there. This play has recently been put on in Peterborough, England, by the Mask Theatre players there, as one of the results of the radio link-up of the six Peterboroughs of the world last May, CHEX being one of the stations that carried this broadcast.

"It has been my pleasure to spend four months and quite a bit of dollars in making possible this linking of the Peterboroughs, and I hope that this is only the beginning of more and more exchanges in various forms of communication and visits."

The broadcast last May was a compendium of historical sketches of the Peterboroughs which Mr. Wheeler obtained from them individually. The local script was prepared by City Clerk Outram.

In England and New Hampshire, local groups prepared displays in prominent commercial windows of photographs and other identifying features of the whole six. That development was not carried out here.

Air View

The displays relating to Peterborough, Ontario, included large photographs of the Lift Lock and also the new picture from the air of this city.

"In the near future," Mr. Wheeler said Saturday night, "a brochure of the short histories of the six Peterboroughs of the world that were written for the broadcast is to be published by the Peterborough Historical Society."

The Society in Peterborough, New Hampshire, possesses a building that cost $100,000, the gift of the family of the late Governor Bass to the community.

The American Guernsey Cattle Club whose headquarters are in Mr. Wheeler's town is going to print all the scripts used in the broadcast of the Peterboroughs from Boston, together with pictures of the exhibits displayed in England and New Hampshire.

This is in recognition of the Peterboroughs of the world from the Guernsey Club who recently moved into their new $750,000 office building.

That is an outline of the activities by Mr. Wheeler in laying a foundation for the proposed clubs.

He has promised to send suggestions for the planning of a club in this city for the purpose of linking up with the other Peterboroughs.

Wants Strong Germany

BONN, Germany, Oct. 29 (Reuters) — Nazi Maj.-Gen. Ernst Remer, who crushed the 1944 bomb plot against Hitler, attacked the western allies Sunday and called for a strong Germany again "in the interests of Europe." In a 32-page booklet defending his part in quashing the plot, Remer, now leader of the right-wing extremist socialist Reich party, said: "The Americans will soon have to recognize that without decent German front-line soldiers it is impossible to build up a European front."

Surrenders To Police

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 29 (AP)—Nattily dressed Roger William Smallwood, 24, walked into the police station Sunday and surrendered to face murder charges in connection with the deaths of 35 poison liquor victims. He is charged with assisting John R. (Fat) Hardy, 44-year-old ex-convict, concoct a blend of wood alcohol, moonshine and well water that spread wholesale death here last week. Hardy is also charged with murder.

Find Churchill Hard Taskmaster

By PETER NEWMAN

LONDON, Oct. 29. (Reuters)—The new ministers that Winston Churchill gathers about him in his new government will find their boss a hard, but fair, taskmaster.

Old-timers know him from experience gained in the grim days of the Second World War. But the younger graduates—what sort of a man will they have to work under?

Many stories — factual and fictitious — have circulated about the old campaigner. An insight to his character may be gained by a few of the truer ones.

Churchill will be 77 next month. But he is a young old man. Mentally and physically he is as sound as he was during the war, except that he is slightly deaf. He works well into the early hours of the morning when younger men would be exhausted.

Works In Bed

Although Churchill likes breakfast in bed, he works at the same time, reading while he sips tea, dictating between bites of toast.

After breakfast he gets down to business at a pace that keeps his entourage of secretaries always on the go.

Gen. Lord Ismay, chief of staff to Churchill from 1940 to 1946, has described what it's like to work with him:

"When I was not being dragged around the world I was taken up to his office at midnight. At about 1:30 am I would take out my watch and say it was getting late and ask to go to bed.

Do His Duty

"Mr. Churchill once replied: 'If you don't mind who wins this war you go to bed but I'm going to do my duty.'

"We would carry on and at 3 am or 3:30 I would get from Mr. Churchill—'I am so tired. You should not have kept me up like this.'

"But on the way to bed he did not hesitate to give me telegrams to send off which kept me going for another hour and a half."

Churchill's methods are the same in peacetime. He knows how to get the best out of people — when to leave them alone and when to interfere.

His knowledge and range of interests is so vast no government department is likely to be left untouched by his influence.

42nd Anniversary Service Held At St. James Church

"As they kept on going, they were cleansed."—Luke 17:14.

This literal translation of the Greek was the text for the sermon given at St. James' United Church 42nd anniversary service by the Rev. W. Franklin Banister, of Chalmers United Church, Kingston, Sunday morning.

Mr. Banister used the parable of the 10 lepers cleansed by Jesus to show that the modern church must keep on going in Christian faith to be cleansed.

Lust For Power

"There are leprous spots on all parts of modern society," Mr. Banister said. "First on the body politic—society as it is organized in community living. The main spots are those of greed and lust for power."

He explained that after the Second World War there was a moral sag affecting every sphere of life, emotionally, spiritually and financially. You can't have a world war and call upon people to kill, lie and steal and after it is over expect all will be pure.

"The only hope for cleansing of the body politic is in sending out of God-fearing Christians who will live by Christian standards and for we in the church to stand up for honesty in all realms of life. If the church of Christ doesn't raise a voice against honesty, who will—no one."

Mr. Banister also accused the church itself of having leprous spots—an indifference to its high calling as a Christian church.

"The Protestant church is dying of dry rot," he said. "It's tradition of freedom is killing what the church stands for. It allows the world to enter the church and as a result it is in danger of losing the supernatural and becoming just a social body.

Won't Stand Up

"When the church tries to be popular it ceases to be spiritual. Its members take vows very cheaply. This type of church won't stand up under persecution."

Two other faults for which he criticized the church were its isolation and division.

The "body personal" was also brought under attack.

"There is a sorry unwillingness in all of us to go where Jesus went or to keep on going where Jesus leads. We all like to criticize others for not following Christ's precepts, but we never make an earnest effort to see that we follow his teachings ourselves.

"The soul of salvation is the salvation of the soul," Mr. Bannister concluded. "Keep on going in faith and prayer. The power of God is everywhere, but we are not attuning ourselves with that power. As Christians, be doers o fChrist's work and not merely hearers."

Special music for the anniversary service was provided by St. James' United Church senior and junior choirs under the direction of Mrs. Charles M. Renaud, church organist and choir leader.

Mrs. Donald R. Hendren, Lakefield, was guest soloist and sang, If God so Clothe the Grass by Bischoff, at the morning service.

Shelve Amendment

JERUSALEM, Ot. 29 (AP) — The Israeli cabinet decided Sunday night to shelve the controversial women's conscription bill amendment. It provided that girls who object to military service on religious grounds would have to serve for a corresponding period in such non-military work as agriculture, nursing, or teaching. This proposal provoked strong protest in Jewis Orthodox circles in Israel and abroad and led to the breakup of the previous coalition cabinet.

Use Rescue Bell

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Oct. 29 (Reuters)—An American-invented submarine rescue bell will be used in salvage operations on the Royal Navy submarine Affray, which sank in the English channel last April 17 with the loss of 75 lives. The bell was first used by United States experts in rescue operations on the US Marine Squalus, which went down off Hampton Beach, NH, May 23, 1939. Thirty-three of the crew of 59 were rescued.

Hallowe'enParty Set For Bancroft

BANCROFT, Oct. 29 (ENS).—Preparations for the community Hallowe'en party and a rummage sale filled most of the program for Bancroft public school Home and School Association on Thursday night. After a brief business session the members were divided into two groups to bag candy in one room and sort and price articles in another. As a result of the evening's work 500 bags of candy were prepared and a large pile of rummage was sorted and priced.

Final arrangements were made for the costumed parade from the school to the arena and the program to entertain the children for the evening. Progress reports for the affair showed that the contributions from citizens and businessmen were sufficient to pay all necessary expenses. Bancroft Lions Club donated cash prizes for costumes and the services of a number of clowns.

Delegates appointed to attend the regional Home and School Association in Peterborough were: Mrs. R. C. Wiggins, Mrs. A. Loney, Mrs. J. N. Brown, Mrs. C. White, Mrs. C. A. Stringer, Mrs. A. Gaebel, Mrs. A. Bruce, Mrs. A. Hewitt, Mrs. H. Vance, Mrs. G. Andrews, Mrs. J. W. C. Hutton, and Mrs. W. L. Martin. Also travelling with the representatives was Mrs. C. Ray of Paudash, president of the newly-formed group for that district.

STURDY TIMEPIECE

The clock at the Halifax dockyard, hand-tooled in London, has been keeping good time since its first installation in 1772.

George St. United Church Celebrates 116th Birthday

George St. United Church, one of Peterborough's pioneer churches, celebrated its 116th anniversary Sunday.

An Irish born minister, the Rev. John Black, came to Canada in 1820, and in 1835 he arrived in Peterborough to found George St. Church, the first Methodist congregation in the area.

When the Rev. Mr. Black left one year later, he had established a flourishing church of 345 members.

"It is to pioneers like John Black that we look back with gratitude on our anniversary, with a prayer that our future may be as blessed of God as our past has been," concluded the historical note on the anniversary calendar.

At the evening service, the present minister, the Rev. Arnold A. Mathews, declared: "If we were in the old country, 116 years would not be long. But in the annals of the church in Canada, it is quite a long time and represents a great deal of consecrated labor and devotion to God."

Introducing the guest minister the Rev. D. J. A. Lyttle, BA, DD, of North Bay, who spoke at the evening service, Mr. Mathews said "John Wesley used to say the world was his parish, and Dr. Lyttle is not far behind."

100 Charges

As Superintendent of Home Missions in Northern Ontario, Dr. Lyttle ministers to 100 charges scattered over on area of 300,000 square miles. From his headquarters in North Bay, Dr. Lyttle's "parish" extends from Val d'Or in Northern Quebec to Armstrong, near the Manitoba border.

Dr. Lyttle used the 2nd verse of the 49th chapter of Genesis as the text for his sermon: "The Abundant Life."

In this passage, Joseph is described as "a fruitful bough, even as a fruitful bough by a well whose branches run over the wall."

"It is in the overflow of life that our Christian mission has its strength," declared Dr. Lyttle.

As an example of this "overflow," he cited our Community Chest campaign symbolized by the Red Feather and other organized charities.

This represents the difference between doing something because it is a duty and giving assistance to one's fellow man through a sincere desire to help others, the speaker said. "They are not satisfied with doing merely the things that are required of them."

Released Men

"Jesus, is the great example of the abundant life. He brought not only a sense of sanctity of life but also a new reverence for the human body. He revolutionized thinking by releasing man from sin and giving hope of eternal life."

Dr. Lyttle said that "the great need of life is life in abundance. The cure for all the difficulties of life is more life. Not some panacea we may apply to the world's difficulties but rather the incoming of fresh life in abundance."

After the service, Dr. Lyttle showed a series of slides of his work among northern missions to those of the congregation who remained for the Fireside Hour in the basement.

Mrs. James Goldie sang the Twenty-Third Psalm by Malotte at the evening service.

The Rev. J. E. Griffith, BA, of Castleton, president of the Bay of Quinte, was the guest minister at the morning anniversary service.

Prize Cathedral Design Called "Horror" In Coventry

Coventry, England, Oct. 29 (AP)—The prize-winning design for a proposed new cathedral has shaken this ancient city almost as much as the German bombs that blasted the old one in 1940.

Clergy and church-goers are split down the middle whether the projected new edifice is a thing of beauty or a modern horror.

Some outraged conservatives liken the design, with zig-zag walls and disappearing glass entrance, to a movie theatre mogul's nightmare.

Others comment approvingly that times change and a flashy cathedral with gadgets is quite the proper thing.

But the church reconstruction committee reaffirmed its decision to go ahead and build—when materials and labor become available.

The design by Basil Spence, a 44-year-old edinburgh architect, calls for a long, rectangular building of concrete and stone, seating 1,374. Seen from a plane, the side walls would follow a zig-zag course with the windows set in the zigs (or zags) in such a way that they all face the altar.

Glass Screen

The tower and ruins of the bomb-wrecked old cathedral would be connected with the new by a huge porch and glass screen. At the touch of a button, the screen would lower into the ground, opening an inner court to view.

Spence estimated the cost at £800,000.

Canon F. W. Clitheroe, Vicar of the 12th-century Holy Trinity church, which adjoins the ruins, took one look at the drawings and exclaimed: "a modern monstrosity!"

The Rev. H. N. M. Arthus, rector of Arley, near Coventry, told reporters:

"It appears to be yet one more super cinema, mammoth insurance office or block of flats. This thing is a horror.

"Will the organist sink from sight, cinema fashion, at the conclusion of divine service? Will chromium-plated slot machines supply the congregation with hymn books in exchange for a nickel? Or will the cathedral have its music recorded on a sound track?"

The Provost of Coventry, the Very Rev. R. T. Howard, said he regarded the design as "majestic and beautiful."

"It is modern, and many people dislike anything modern. But it is just as much representative of Christianity as a traditional Gothic cathedral."

What kind of person are you?

As you get older, any faults of personality (selfishness, hot temper, talking too much) become more ingrained, more obvious to others.

But you can change these defects—and you can cultivate traits that win love, respect, happiness, say Dr. Smiley Blanton and Rev. Norman Vincent Peale in November Reader's Digest. And they point out how.

Have Blueprint For Training 800,000 Youths

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (AP)—A bueprint for a universal military training system—a program that could involve 800,000 youths annually and cost more than $4,000,000,000 the first year—was disclosed Saturday by the United States National Security Training Commission.

The five-man civilian commission, headed by James W. Wadsworth, a former Republican member of congress, was formed last June.

The detailed recommendations and proposed bill produced by the commission was the most advanced point a universal military training proposal has reached.

Here are some of the points the commission's report made:

1. A fully operating program would mean that about 800,000 youths 18 years old would get six months of training, then for the next 7½ years be in a reserve component. A program starting off on a limited scale might involve training about 60,000 men annually.

2. The cost of a full-scale program is estimated by the defence department for the first year at $4,187,983,600, with the annual cost later dropping to $2,158,746,200.

3. Deferments would be these: A youth would be permitted to remain in high school until (a) graduation; (b) he reaches his 20th birthday or (c) he ceases to pursue satisfactorily his high school course.

The commission definitely opposed deferment for college students except for the current academic year.

Four Names Added To Cabinet

Churchill Schedules Cabinet Meeting To Study Problems

LONDON, Oct. 30. (AP) — Prime Minister Winston Churchill today named four members to the Cabinet with which he hopes to lead Britain out of the economic and international crises now facing her. Churchill also appointed two junior Ministers to the government.

London newspapers wondered, meanwhile, when the Tory chief would make his first domestic policy move. The Conservative Daily Mail summed up Churchill's most pressing home front problems as "the kitty and the kitchen"—finance and food.

The new Cabinet Ministers are:

Harold MacMillan, 57, wealthy book publisher, Minister for Housing and Local Government:

Lord Leathers, 67, industrialist, Secretary of State for coordination of transport, fuel and power;

Harry F. C. Crookshank, 58, Minister of Health and Deputy Leader of the House of Commons; and James Stuart, 54, a son of the Earl of Moray, named Minister for Scotland.

The two junior ministers named were Patrick Buchan-Hepburn, 50, as Parliamentary Secretary to the Treasury, and Selwyn Lloyd, 47, Minister of State for Foreign Affairs—the No. 2 man to Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in the Foreign Office.

Churchill was expected to come to London from his country home for continuing talks with other party men today.

Churchill called a meeting of his new cabinet for today. Prime subjects are the latest developments in Britain's oil dispute with Iran and the row with Egypt over defence of the Suez Canal Zone. Also before the cabinet are the pressing problems of coal and power shortage and heavy losses in both sterling and dollars in foreign trade.

There were indications Churchill's cabinet may total 16 or 17 members. He has nearly 70 more key government posts to fill.

The new prime minister, whose party won a scanty majority of 18 House of Commons seats in Thursday's general election, has been assembling his new government since he took office late Friday afternoon.

On the domestic scene, Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express demanded today the introduction of an emergency budget to provide a revision in the tax set-up.

The Express called editorially for an excess-profits tax and a tax on speculative stock-exchange profits to offset slashes in the purchase tax.

Conroy Matter Tabled 2 Weeks

OTTAWA, Oct. 30 (CP)—The executive council of the Canadian Congress of Labor has decided unanimously to table for a further two weeks the resignation of Pat Conroy as secretary-treasurer, it was announced today following a meeting of the council.

Another meeting will be held here Nov. 12.

The council also announced it had unanimously accepted the resignation of Alex McAuslane as vice-president of the CCL.

Mr. Conroy resigned at the CCL convention in Vancouver in September when a candidate he had sponsored for election to the committee—Sam Baron of the Textile Workers' Union—was defeated.

Mr. McAusland resigned in sympathy with Mr. Conroy.

Tank Truck Crashes Two Die In Flames

HEARST, Ont., Oct. 30 (CP)—Don Deacon, 22-year-old hockey player from South Porcupine, and Ken Little, 21, of Timmins, were burned to death Monday.

The tank truck in which they were riding skidded on an icy road, crashed 18 feet down an embankment and caught fire, 35 miles west of here. It was carrying 1,260 gallons of gasoline.

The truck, driven by Little, was on its way from North Bay to a lumber camp.

Deacon played goal for the Hearst Lumber Kings, Intermediate B champions of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association. Little was employed by the British American Oil Company.

Crew Weeps For Dead Captain

Dies In Flames Saving Men

By JAY HOLMES

BUFFALO, NY, Oct. 30 — (AP)—"The captain saved us, the captain saved us!"

With tears rolling down his face, young Jimmy Hassett told his simple story.

His captain, Louis Guyette of Port Huron, Mich., remained on the bridge of the Great Lakes freighter Penobscot Friday night and died in flames. But not before he had guided his ship from the scene of a collision with an exploding gasoline barge in Buffalo harbor.

Roy Richardson, of Port Huron, the helmsman, perished at the skipper's side. Neither body could be recognized when removed from the charred forward deckhouse of the vessel.

Recognized Heroism

The Penobscot rammed the barge Morania, being pushed across her bow by a tug.

Hassett, who at 18 was shipping as a deckhand for the second time, could not tell in nautical lingo just what had happened. But he knew heroism when he saw it.

Edward Myers, 57, a watchman on the Penobscot and an old hand on Great Lakes freighters, knew it, too.

"I was just bunking for the night when I heard the danger signal," he said. "We hit the barge, our bow across its port bow, as I came on deck.

"The old man and Roy stayed in the tower, put her in reverse and sent her back toward the dock. They were both dead when we rammed the dock.

"I tied a line and about 12 of us slid down it."

Each crew member told the same story in different words—about the captain and the helmsman who were the last to leave the ship—the two who didn't leave it alive.

Oil Proposal Buoys Hopes Of Settlement

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—Reaction to a two-step United States plan appears to have buoyed State Department hopes that Iran and Britain may reach a settlement uncorking the flow of Iranian oil to the west.

Premier Mohammed Mossadegh of Iran is sufficiently interested in American suggestions to prolong his stay here for further talks. He originally was to have flown home last weekend.

Responsible informants said American mediators are trying not only to persuade Iran and Britain to resume direct talks but to agree on a stop-gap plan for moving available refined oil to the west.

This two-fold approach is reported to be based on a US belief that weeks, perhaps months, of detailed talks may be necessary before Britain and Iran agree on a permanent settlement and put it into effect, even after they resume face-to-face conferences.

Nasrollah Entezam, Iranian president of the United Nations' General Assembly, told reporters in New York he anticipated a settlement outside the UN.

Meanwhile, the State Department believes some temporary arrangement to move $40,000,000 worth of Iranian oil products now stored in huge tanks near the Adaban refinery should be worked out.

Under the reported plan, the refined products would be sold, with receipts going to Iran. Who would get the products and collect distribution profits was not reported.

UK's Most Secret Ship Leaves For Home Base

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Oct. 30 (Reuters). — Britain's most secret ship and largest aircraft carrier, the 36,000-ton Eagle, left Belfast today on the completion of builders' trials.

Designed to carry 100 jet fighters, she cost £14,000,000 to build.

She will be officially commissioned in the Royal Navy at sea Wednesday. A crew of 750 officers and men are taking her to her home port of Devonport on the south coast of England.

Allied Troops Beat Back Pre-Dawn Attack, Push Ahead In New Drive

US EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Oct. 30. — (AP)—Allied infantrymen in Eastern Korea today beat back a pre-dawn attack near Heartbreak Ridge by 1,000 Chinese, then drove ahead 1,000 yards in daylight. On the western front United Nations' forces gained more than half a mile northwest of Yonchon with little trouble.

Reinforced Chinese, who had hurled day-long attacks at the Allies southeast of Kumsong in the centre of the line Monday, made only two small probing attacks Tuesday. Both were turned back.

Sharpest fighting Tuesday was in the mountains between Kumsong and Heartbreak Ridge. A battalion of screaming Chinese stormed Allied infantrymen in the early-morning blackness.

United Nations troops, dug in on a ridge recently won from the Communists west of Heartbreak, stuck to their foxholes and trenches and cut down the shouting Reds.

Push Forward

With daylight, other UN infantrymen in the same area jumped off in an attack. By noon they had pushed forward 1,000 yards against light opposition.

The Reds mounted only four other "light probing attacks" along the entire front, the Eighth Army reported.

Monday 110 fighter-bombers, most of them operating over the eastern ridges, bombed, burned and strafed the Reds in front-line action.

Altogether the Fifth Air Force mounted 916 sorties by Korea-based planes. More than 100 other flights were from Japan and Okinawa, including B-29 strikes on newly-built airfields in northwest Korea.

Red anti-aircraft batteries shot down three Allied fighters—a Shooting Star jet, an F-51 Mustangs and a Marine F-4U. Fighter pilots reported they inflicted 320 casualties Monday.

Squadron Sails

HALIFAX, Oct. 30 (CP). — Canada's first contribution to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's defence force in Europe—No. 410 Fighter Squadron—sailed today aboard the carrier Magnificent.

'Copter Crashes During Search

BURK'S FALLS, Oct. 30 (CP)—Observer Charles Sword, of Toronto, was killed today when an Ontario Hydro Commission helicopter crashed near this town 50 miles south of North Bay.

Pilot Smith Pruner, 35, of Islington, was taken to Burk's Falls hospital with a fractured ankle and bruises.

Sword, 43, was a line-maintenance supervisor with Ontario Hydro. Pruner, who has been flying since 1936, has more than 1,000 hours flying time in helicopters.

The plane was reported to be one of several hunting Bruno Vannier, Sturgeon Falls insurance salesman who disappeared last Friday on a flying visit to three lumber camps.

Sqdn. Ldr. N. V. Peterson, of Trenton, searchmaster for the RCAF, said that weather conditions early today made impossible flights in search of Vannier. Ceiling was only 200 to 300 feet and six RCAF planes were grounded.

Rescue Fliers Under Red Noses

WITH COMMONWEALTH NAVAL FORCES OFF KOREA, Oct. 30 (AP)—A United States Navy helicopter recently rescued two downed Australian navy airmen from inside a circle of Communist troops deep in North Korea.

The Australians, Sub-Lieut. M. D. MacMillan of Melbourne and Observer J. Hancox of Nowra, NSW, held the Communists at bay for more than an hour after their carrier-based Firefly crash-landed 50 miles behind enemy lines. Planes from their carrier, HMS Sydney, and Royal Australian air force meteor jets flew protective cover until the American helicopter arrived.

The pilot landed the helicopter within a protecting circle of bullets from the Australian navy fighters.

The helicopter, the Australians aboard, returned safely to the carrier.

25 Veterans Of Korea On Visit To America

BOSTON, Oct. 30. (AP) — Twenty-five United Nations servicemen fresh from the Korean fighting began a two-day visit today with a roaring welcome at Logan international airport.

Aboard a transport were fighting men representing Canada, Australia, Belgium, Colombia, Ethiopia, France, Greece and India.

The Canadians are Cpl. John Roy of Montreal and PO Thomas Dawe of Vancouver.

The servicemen, little more than a week away from the battlefields of Korea, will tell of the United Nations' fight against Communism and ask for increased blood donations, more defense bond buying and stepped-up defence production.

Ottawa will be the next stop in a tour that will bring the group to San Francisco on Thanksgiving Day.

DEATH BUS—This is the crushed Greyhound bus in which seven persons were killed and 23 injured when the vehicle plunged through a railing on an approach ramp to San Francisco Bay bridge and fell 50 feet to the street below. Here, the bus is uprighted after victims were extricated.

War Heroes Of Dunkerque Go To Egypt

2 Carriers Stand By To Take Troops To Mediterranean

LONDON, Oct. 30. (Reuters) —The British 3rd Infantry Division, heroes of Dunkerque, are under orders to move to the trouble-torn Middle-East, the War Office announced today.

Strength of the unit was not revealed, but British divisions usually number between 15,000 and 20,000 men.

The Admiralty announced at the same time that the aircraft carriers Triumph (13,500 tons) and Illustrious (25,000 tons—one of Britain's biggest) are standing by to take troops to the Mediterranean if required.

The 3rd Division is the old unit of Field Marshal Lord Montgomery, now deputy supreme Allied commander in Europe. It was the last division to leave the Dunkerque beaches in 1950 and the first to land in France four years later.

Reinforcements sent to the Middle East in the last month include 3,000 men of the 16th Parachute Brigade, to Egypt from Cyprus, two RAF squadrons, from Britain to the Suez Canal zone, and 3,500 men of the 19th Infantry Brigade, from Britain to Libya.

Cut Traffic

In Cairo British troops cut traffic for five hours today on the highway between Cairo and Ismailia, British base at the midpoint of the Suez Canal.

Egyptian officials linked the stoppage with government confirmation that the Egyptians are forming underground "liberation battalions."

There was no immediate explanation from British officials for their ban, which the Egyptians said was in effect from dawn until noon.

Diplomatic representatives of the seven Arab states, meanwhile, met here today and discussed the Western proposal for a Middle-East defence pact. Egypt already has refused to join in such a pact until Britain moves out of the Suez and the Sudan.

Situation Dangerous

Britain's troops, holding tight control of the strategic waterway, were told by their commander to-

Man Fired On Brother In Beverage Room

CHATHAM, Oct. 30 — (CP) — Frank Hurst, 45, today was charged with attempted murder as a result of a shooting incident in a hotel beverage room last night. Police said witnesses told them the target was Abie Hurst, Frank Hurst's brother.

Police quoted Frank Moore as saying he saw Frank Hurst enter the women's beverage room, raise a rifle, and fire.

Frank Parker and Dorothy Allen, sitting in the women's beverage room, reported to officers that Frank Hurst came in shortly after his brother, shouted "Stick 'em up!" and fired. They said Abie Hurst ran out a back door.

Police said Frank Hurst was disarmed by Pte. G. V. Wade, on leave from Petawawa.

Dockers Handle Defence Ships

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (AP) — Rebel longshoremen scheduled a return to work today on all defence shipping. But elsewhere in the vast New York harbor their wildcat strike kept idle a record number of vessels.

The insurgent movement went into its 16th day with rebel leader John J. (Gene) Sampson announcing that the wildcatters decided Monday night to "stand united and continue the strike" against non-military cargoes.

Sampson's statement somewhat dimmed earlier hopes that a settlement was near. The promising signs had come in a statement by a New York State mediator, in the strikers' agreements with the army, and in a back-to-work vote among Staten Island longshoremen.

Customs officials said Monday night that a record 122 vessels and 132 piers were immobilized. They added that non-striking longshoremen attempted to work only one of almost a score of ships that arrived Monday.

A Rough Time

TIMMINS, Oct. 30.(CP)—Provincial Constable A. M. Shulist travelled 200 miles north by car, train, plane, boat and on foot to investigate the death of Indian James Gull. A report from Attawapiskat, near Moosonee on James Bay, said Gull had been shot and foul play was suspected. Shulist found Gull committed suicide with a shotgun after having a tooth extracted.

Children Get Chance To See Royal Couple

MONTREAL, Oct. 30 (CP).—It was a children's show in Montreal today for Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

Throughout the morning largely free of official ceremonies, the Royal couple saw—and couldn't help but hear—children, out in tens of thousands to welcome the smiling Princess and her consort on a nippy but sunny day in Canada's largest city.

There were children in the trees of Dominion Square as the Royal tourists started out on this, their first full day in the city of more than 1,000,000. There were children in Molson Stadium, in Delorimier Stadium — children everywhere.

Adults were there, too, in the crowds lining the streets of old Montreal as the Prince and Princess moved slowly along the Royal route. But the grown-ups generally were in the background, at least in the early events of the day's heavy program.

The first really formal "tour" came shortly before lunch when the Prince and Princess visited the huge east-end plant of Canadian Vickers Ltd. There they saw up-to-date sub-chasers under construction for the Royal Canadian Navy.

Dine at Chalet

They then lunched atop Mount Royal in the city-owned Chalet, from which they obtained a magnificent view of the city, with the shimmering St. Lawrence River below. Some 1,400 guests attended the luncheon.

A crowd esctimated at upwards of 10,000 cheered the Royal couple on their way in the morning from the Windsor Hotel where they had spent the night.

The day's schedule was held up briefly when the Princess took time to phone Buckingham Palace in London for a report on the condition of the King, convalescing from a lung operation.

It was held up, momentarily, too, when the Princess paused in the hotel doorway to get her brown suede shoes brushed.

The Princess, wearing a green velvet outfit, lighter green hat and brown shoes, inspected a guard of honor of war veterans—both men and women.

She stopped to talk to several of them.

Back of her walked the Duke in his naval uniform.

Mayor Camillien Houde, wearing his chain of office and a tall hat, was on hand to conduct the royal pair on the first step of the long day's program — a visit to McGill University.

As the crowd let out sporadic cheers the royal couple entered an open blue convertible car for their drive.

Blazing Gas Barge Sets 2 Ships Afire At Buffalo

BUFFALO, NY, Oct. 30. (CP)—Twelve seamen were reported dead or missing today as a result of a collision between a freighter and a gasoline-loaded barge which set three vessels afire in Buffalo harbor. The United States Coast Guard, which has reported recovery of three bodies, said nine men—six of them from the tug—are missing. It added that their bodies are believed to be in a charred mass of debris found in the cabin of the tug Dauntless.

The collision occurred about 9 pm Monday night when the steamship Penobscot, one of the largest freighters on the Great Lakes, plowed into the port bow of a barge being pushed by the tug, Dauntless.

Hero of the night in the eyes of his men was Capt. Louis Guyette of the Perobscot, 545 feet long. The 51-year-old skipper and his helmsman, Roy Richardson, 56, both of Port Huron, Mich., died in their flaming pilot house while manoeuvring their vessel away from the collision scene.

Before Capt. Guyette and his helmsman died they backed the ship away from the flaming barge and rammed its stern into a nearby dock. Sailors scrambled down a rope to safety.

Also missing are two men from the Penobscot and one of the two men aboard the barge, the Morania-130.

The last of 800,000 gallons of gasoline on the barge flamed out of existence today, 14 hours after the collision.

Launch Inquiry

The Coast Guard, meanwhile, launched a full investigation into the disaster, the cause of which could not be learned immediately.

The 6,500-ton freighter had unloaded a grain cargo Sunday. She was leaving the harbor for Detroit and Duluth at the time of the collision. The barge was inbound.

A dull explosion followed the collision. Thousands watched firemen battle the blaze during the night. The flames leaped about 300 feet skyward and swept over the barge, the tug and the fore section of the freighter.

An orange-red glow bathed the north harbor area of this Lake Erie port and was reflected for miles across the city.

The Coast Guard said at least 13 of the 40 men aboard the three vessels were injured, apparently not seriously.

India To Experiment With Birth Control

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30 — (AP)—India's poverty-stricken millions are to be the subject of history's first country-wide experiment in birth control.

Dr. Brock Chisholm, Director-General of the World Health Organization said today an educational program under the auspices of the Indian government will start soon.

The technique to be taught, he said, will be the rhythm method.

"No religious objections have been expressed," the former Canadian Deputy Health Minister reported, indicating the rhythm method does not conflict with Moslem or Hindu doctrine.

Charges Reds Not Trying Get Solution

MUNSAN, Korea, Oct. 30 (AP) —A United Nations' truce negotiator said today "we're doing our best trying to get this war settled," but the Communists are making "no attempt to get a reasonable solution."

The statement came from Maj.-Gen. Henry I Hodes, chairman of the UN truce sub-committee, during a recess in the sixth joint session at Panmunjom.

The negotiators met three hours but failed to make headway toward creating a Korean cease-fire line. Another meeting is scheduled for 11 am Wednesday (9 pm Tuesday EST).

Brig.-Gen. William P. Nuckols, UN spokesman, said:

"The Communists continued to press for their proposal which would trade indefensible territory in West Korea in the Ongjin area for important military positions along the battle front. No progress toward a solution was made."

Nothing Reasonable

At Panmunjom Hodes said the Communists "have made no trade, no offer, no attempt to get a reasonable solution."

"They say they will withdraw from the Ongjin and Yonan peninsulas. This is absolutely meaningless. It makes no difference to us and it makes no difference to them."

The two peninsulas are west of the battleline. They protrude below the 38th Parallel, old political boundary line between North and South Korea. Ongjin is cut off by water from the rest of South Korea.

The Allies want UN troops left in a defensible position along whatever cease-fire line is created for the armistice. Their latest proposal is for a 2½-mile-wide buffer zone along present battle lines. Under the Reds' counterproposal UN troops would have to retreat five to 15 miles southward.

Despite the lack of progress, Hodes said it is "too early to say we have reached a deadlock."

Assassin Stabs French Official

PARIS, Oct. 30 (AP). —France announced today that her commissioner in the Indo-China State of Cambodia—Jean Leon Francois Marie de Raymond — has been stabbed to death by an assassin.

A terse announcement from the Ministry of Associated States said de Raymond's body was found Monday in his home at Pnom Penh, the Cambodian capital. No other details were given.

De Raymond was one of three commissioners appointed to handle French affairs in Cambodia, Laos, and Vietnam, the three newly-created autonomous states of Indo-China.

Cambodia since the Second World War has been disturbed by the guerrilla activities of dissident nationalists and Communist Viet Minh bands.

Third Atomic Blast In Present Series

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Oct. 30 (AP) —The third atomic detonation in the Atomic Energy Commission's current test series—a bright glow in the sky northwest of here—went off at 7:01 am PST today.

It was the largest of the present series, which has included a baby blast from a tower and a slightly more spectacular drop from a plane.

About a minute after the flash, a column of mushrooming cloud shot up into the sky.

The light itself was white, much like a giant camera flash bulb. There was a light purple tinge at the start.

There was no shock felt in Las Vegas within the time limit necessary for sound waves normally to travel from the Yucca Flat range more than 75 miles from here.

Claxton Defends Korean Set-Up

Admits Conditions Poor But Declares Morale High

OTTAWA, Oct. 30 (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton said Monday conditions in Korea "are far from desirable" from the human welfare standpoint but that the morale of Canadian troops is exceptionally high.

"We hope, he told the Commons in reply to statements about the bad conditions under which the 25th Brigade is living, "that all our commitments there will be ended as soon as possible."

The conditions were such that the men would be asked to serve only one year before a replacement is provided.

There was no way to compare Korea with western Europe and the last war. No recreational centres in large cities could be established. No non-military groups such as the Salvation Army were operating with any army in Korea.

Use Services Staff

The armies, instead, were using services personnel. The number of Canadian welfare officers and other ranks was as great per capita as the welfare agencies had provided in Europe. There were six officers who looked after welfare matters in the brigade, all with staffs. They were aided by 13 chaplains.

Recreation centres were set up under canvas where possible. Each big unit had a welfare officer with a canteen wagon equipped with cigarettes, chocolate bars, cakes, books and other things, as well as a radio.

Mr. Claxton said the reports he gets indicate that veteran officers have never seen a formation with better morale. Only Thursday headquarters had received a letter from the 1st Commonwealth Division's commanding officer, Maj.-Gen. A. J. H. Cassels, saying the Canadians are "magnificent and always ready for anything . . and I am not just saying this to please you."

Bill Boss, Canadian Press correspondent who had been in Korea almost a year, said while home on leave that the troops morale was outstanding and that "the Patricias had an esprit de corps so real you could touch it.

"The Patricias are the finest thing the Canadian Army has ever created."

Eden Plans New Note For Egypt

Will Personally Lead UK Delegation To UN Assembly

LONDON, Oct. 30. (CP) — Anthony Eden swung into action Monday as Britain's new foreign secretary, with a zest matched only by his 76-year-old chief, Winston Churchill. Eden, 54, came to immediate grips with the Iranian oil crisis, the Egyptian troubles and Western defense problems.

He summoned Sir Francis Shepherd, British ambassador in Tehran for talks aimed at reopening negotiations on the future of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co., now idle under Iranian control. He also:

1. Decided that he personally would lead the British delegation to the General Assembly of the UN, opening in Paris Nov. 6.

2. Discussed with Walter Gifford and Rene Massigli, US and French ambassadors here, the program for his western policy talks in Paris with State Secretary Acheson and French Foreign Minister Schuman.

3. Called in his advisers to study the Sudan's appeal for appointment of a UN advisory body in Khartum following Egypt's proclamation of Farouk as King of the Sudan.

Arranges New Note

4. Arranged for a new British note to Egypt, which may suggest fresh avenues of ending the crisis over the Suez Canal and Sudan.

Eden is also thinking of recalling Sir Ralph Stevenson, the Cairo envoy, to discuss the sporadic shooting relations between Britons and Egyptians. The Egyptian crisis arose when Egypt junked its 1936 defence pact with Britain and voted to annex the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

Eden found time for a "handing over" talk with Herbert Morrison, foreign secretary in the defeated Socialist government, and meetings with a string of foreign diplomats, including the ambassadors of Brazil, Chile and Turkey and the foreign minister of Peru.

THAR'S URANIUM IN THEM THAR HILLS! — First discoveries of uranium in Chile's fabulous "Valley of the Moon," above, were announced by President Gonzalez-Videla. Geologists of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, working with the Chilean Development Company, made the important find. Large-scale investigations will follow in this mineral-rich northern desert area, which produces a third of all copper consumed by U.S. industry—500,000 tons a year. Photo shows South America's biggest copper mine at Chuquicamata, in the Valley of the Moon.

Drunk Jailed Four Months

With two prior convictions against him on the same charge, David Peters, 36, 283 Armour Rd., pleaded guilty to a charge of being intoxicated in a public place and was sentenced to four months in the Ontario Reformatory at Mimico by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in police court today.

After Peters pleaded guilty, Magistrate Philp first sentenced him to three months in county jail. Peters then asked for a reformatory sentence. "I'm an alcoholic," he said.

Convicted on a written plea of guilty, Douglas Lomax, 264 Hunter St., was fined $10 and $2.50 in costs.

Charged with having liquor at a place other than their residence, Ted Thomas, Norwood, and Fred Mountney, Burleigh Falls, entered written pleas of guilty and were fined $10 and $2.50 costs.

On the same charge, Thomas L. Haddlessy of Norwood and Raymond E. Duff of North Monaghan township were each fined $10 and $7.50 in costs. Both entered written pleas of guilty.

Roger Vossen, Norwood, entered a written plea of guilty on a charge of consuming liquor in a place other than his residence. He was ordered to pay a fine of $15 and $2.50 in costs or in default 15 days in county jail.

On his written plea of guilty, Hubert Allen of Lakefield was convicted on a drunk charge and fined $10 and $7.50 costs.

Stock Prices Hold Firm On Exchange

TORONTO, Oct. 30 — (CP) — Stock market prices held firm on morning gains in early afternoon dealings. Industrials opened strongly in continuation of yesterday's late upswing.

Papers and liquors benefited most from increased support as individual issues posted gains ranging from fractions to more than a point. Utilities and miscellaneous industrials drew firm support while agricultures, constructions, steels, refining oils and banks showed gains and losses in balance. Foods and retail stores weakened.

In base metals Consolidated Smelters jumped $2 while Hudson Bay added $1.50. Cassiar, East Sullivan, Quebec Copper, Sherritt-Gordon and United Asbestos showed advances to 20 cents.

Anglo-Canadian, Canadian Atlantic, Calgary and Edmonton, Devon-Leduc, Model Oil, Canada Southern, Central Explorers, Security Free and Western Homestead posted gains to about 25 cents in western oils.

Senior golds edged upward. Kerr Addison, Teck Hughes and Wright-Hargraves climbed while Lake Shore weakened. Juniors were mixed while prospects held firm and holding companies strengthened.

District Tops All Province In Sales Gain

Peterborough district including Victoria and Haliburton counties leads all other Ontario districts in its gain of Canada Savings Bond sales over last year, a report from Toronto headquarters revealed today.

The total reported as of Friday, was $2,074,250, which represents 104.52 percent of the total sold in the district last year.

William Reid district bond sales organizer in Peterborough also heads the list of salesmen with a percentage of 105.54 percent sales in comparison with 1950.

The district which ranks second in its increase in sales over last year in Lennox, Addington, Frontenac, Leeds and Grenville counties. Third is Dundas, Stormont and Glengarry. In short, Eastern Ontario leads the way. And final totals are not in yet.

Last year's total sales in the Peterborough district amounted to $1,984,450.

Children Get

Meantime from all over the city crowd of spectators, especially children, were converging on the route with the Princess' 75-mile drive will follow.

Fill Stadiums

Special buses brought school children to Molson Stadium on Mount Royal and to Delorimier Stadium. On the way the children practised the songs, French and English, that they have been learning to give the Princess a welcome.

Air Marshal W. A. (Billy) Bishop, VC, was among the veterans reviewed by the royal couple outside their hotel. The Duke paused to speak to him of his First World War service. Bishop was Canada's ace fighter pilot in that war.

McGill University buildings and grounds were a riot of color—fraternity colors, faculty colors, college colors in flags, streamers and pennants.

From McGill's historic arts building the Princess' standard was flown.

Students lined the driveway cheering and applauding as the royal couple's car moved slowly along.

The Princess and the Duke signed their names in the convocation register of McGill as part of the official ceremony.

Enthusiastic Welcome

The royal couple then moved on to Molson Stadium and to the huge athletic field there to be greeted by thousands of Montreal's English-speaking school children.

It was an ear-splitting reception by the youngsters. The Princess and her husband drove slowly around the track bordering the field and the uproar from the stands was continuous, outdoing anything a football game has brought.

There were an estimated 22,000 boys and girls in the stands.

The royal car travelled the full circle of the track, as close as possible to the packed stands.

Wildly Cheered

From Molsom Stadium the royal cavalcade moved on to another tumultuous gathering at Delorimier Stadium in Montreal's east end.

More cheering thousands lined the route. The cavalcade swung from Sherbrooke Street down Delorimier Avenue and entered the big baseball park from the southeast entrance.

More than 30,000 of Montreal's English and French-speaking school children roared a welcome as the royal car moved into the stadium grounds.

Princess Elizabeth and the Duke mounted a dais and the children sang God Save the King in French.

Many of the children were dressed in distinctive uniforms of their schools.

In the centre of the field 400 boys and girls, dressed in white and blue, drew up in ranks forming the letter "E" and "P".

Behind Schedule

The cavalcade was running behind schedule and at Molson Stadium a scheduled program of square dancing, music and singing had to be eliminated. The time lag was then 20 minutes.

As the royal car came by the press enclosure at Molson Stadium a large group of photographers tried to get pictures, but they were unable to do so because of school children in front of them.

Afterward high school students said RCMP on duty told them to get in front of the photographers and block out picture-taking.

At Delorimier Stadium the royal car circled the field, to the continued ovation from the youngsters, before moving out and heading east towards the huge shipbuilding plant of Canadian Vickers farther out in Montreal's east end.

More thousands from the east end, mostly French-speaking, and from south shore suburban communities just across the St. Lawrence river stood along Ontario Street and others to acclaim the royal visitors.

Drew Attacks Communists For Blast At PM

OTTAWA, Oct. 30 (CP). — George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, Monday belted Canadian Communists for a "villanous attack" on Prime Minister St. Laurent and the government. He asked Speaker Ross Macdonald to consider what action should be taken.

Rising on a question of privilege in the Commons, he brandished a pamphlet issued by the Labor-Progressive party which charged that Mr. St. Laurent and the government is sending Canadian troops to "Nazis in Europe" at the behest of "United States bankers, industrialists, profiteers."

The pamphlet was headed "Who Wants War?" It bore drawings of arms clenching a Nazi symbol and the dollar sign, both dripping blood. There were pictures of Hitler, Goering and Goebbels, and St. Laurent, President Truman, Gen. Eisenhower and Gen. MacArthur.

Mr. Drew, his request overshadowing the ensuing throne-speech debate, turned the pamphlet over to Mr. Macdonald with the suggestion that he consider "the course which should be followed in regard to this circular."

Promises Consideration

Mr. Macdonald said he would consider the matter carefully.

Mr. St. Laurent did not comment but he later obtained the copy of the circular from the clerk of the House and studied it.

Mr. Drew did not indicate what action he wanted taken, but he is thought to have had in mind the now rarely-used parliamentary power to call the author of an offending article to the bar of the House for trial and sentencing. As the highest court in the land, Parliament has this power.

One paragraph read by Mr. Drew said:

"They are putting guns in the hands of the Nazis again. They are arming the Japanese militarists. Who are doing this? The United States, bankers, industrialists, profiteers. St. Laurent and Pearson agree to send Canadian troops to Nazis in Europe."

(Mr. Pearson is External Affairs Minister.)

Calls It Slander

Terming the statements "villainous slander" Mr. Drew said they reflected on every member of the House who had approved the course the government was following in sending troops to Korea and to the North Atlantic armies in Europe.

Regardless of party, no member could overlook "a challenge to the government of Canada as an institution and to the integrity of the Prime Minister as head of the government."

He said the pamphlets are being circulated to immigrants newly arriving in this country, people who would make "excellent" citizens but some of whom came from countries "which have not the traditions of freedoms which we accept as a matter of course." The impact of the document on those people must be considered.

$15,000 Fire Damages Hotel

NEW LISKEARD, Oct. 30 (CP) —Firemen from New Liskeard and nearby Haileybury Monday night brought a stubborn fire in the Grand Union Hotel here under control after battling the blaze in a blinding snowstorm for three hours. The fire was confined to the kitchen and a dining room at the rear of the main building. Damage was estimated at $15,000. No one was injured.

Firemen used ladders to rescue a man from his third-floor room in the front of the hotel. They said he was warned of the fire but ignored the warning and went back to sleep.

Fire started in the laundry room of the cement block, 30-room hotel, built in 1905.

Backed Into Car

In pulling away from the curb on the north side of Brock St., Monday afternoon, Vincent Cegbar, 160 Hunter St. E., reported to police he backed into a car parked behind him. Little damage was done.

Constable Cecil Bowyer investigated.

Pleads Guilty, Fined

Convicted on his written plea of guilty, Richard H. Wakefield of North Monaghan township, was fined $10 and $2.50 costs in police court today on a charge of careless driving.

Council To Meet In New Chambers

First meeting of the City Council in its new chamber will be Thursday evening at 7:30 p.m. That's another little date for the municipal annals.

This meeting is being advanced from next Monday, and although the announcement does not mention any reason, there is a holiday season in the offing, and that incidence may have something to do with the city hall date switch.

The hunting season opens next Monday. Some of the members of the Council, including Mayor Swanston, become infected with its spirit of taking off to the woods for 10 days or so, and in that influence other things are suspended.

November is the month of municipal nominations, followed by elections during the first week of December.

Members of the Council whose terms are running out are: Aldermen P. J. Anglesey, E. C. Braund, J. A. Dewart, T. D. Miller, and H. F. Waddell.

Mayor Swanston has publicly stated his intention of retiring from the municipal service at the end of the year, and Ald. Waddell has declared himself as a prospective candidate for the mayoral position in 1952.

Ald. T. D. Miller remarked to the Examiner recently that two or three of the aldermen might possibly decline to seek renomination, but there is no definite news on that point around the city hall.

day that "we will stay until the Egyptian government returns to its senses."

The British military chief, Gen. Sir George Erskine, said the situation is "dangerous" and asked his troops to handle it "with firmness and a minimum of bitterness." He added that "necessary steps have been taken to maintain our position."

Both the traffic ban and Erskine's order followed admission by the Egyptian interior minister, Fouad Serag El Din, that underground "liberation battalions" are being formed to drive British forces out of Egypt. He denied reports that the government is furnishing arms to the irregular forces.

The British road barrier apparently was designed to break contact between main groups of the battalions and any members of them who might be inside British lines.

CGE VISITORS

Vice-President K. J. Corkery of Toronto, vice-president of the Canadian General Electric Company, was a visitor at the city hall last night, accompanied by Mr. J. E. Girven, works manager. Mayor Swanston suggested to them that possibly they might be interested in the general type of office building that Eastwood Construction Company turned out for the city.

Captain Saved Them

An 18-year-old deckhand, with tears streaming down his cheeks, paid tribute to the heroism of Captain Guyette and his helmsman.

"The captain saved us, the captain saved us!" screamed Jimmy Hassette, shipping for the second time aboard a Great Lakes freighter.

Edward Myes, 57, a watchman on the Penobscot and an old hand on the lakes, described his skipper's heroism.

"The old man and Roy stayed in the tower, put her in reverse and sent her back toward the Dock. They were both dead when we rammed the dock. I tied a line and about 12 of us slid down it.."

The bodies of Guyette and Richardson were found in the forward deckhouse.

Stanley Keilbaso, 62, of Chicago, third mate of the Penobscot, was on the bridge with Guyette and Richardson when the collision ocurred. He said he saw the barge and warned the others that it was going to cross the freighter's bow.

But the crash came before the Penobscot could change course. The freighter plowed into the side of the barge just back of the smaller vessel's bow.

In the brief moment before the explosion, which may have been caused by a spark from the friction between the two vessels, Guyette had time to order all smoking stopped and portholes closed.

This too was credited with saving lives since many of the crew could have been burned by flames shooting through open portholes.

The top of the 230-foot barge apparently was lifted by the force of the explosion, witnesses said. The flames engulfed the vessel and spread across the oil slick surrounding it. Many of the Penobscot's crew leaped into the water and were pulled to safety.

Montreal Hopes To Outdo Rival For Princess

MONTREAL, Oct. 30—(CP)—Lusty Montreal, Canada's biggest city, today whipped up what it hoped would be the biggest and loudest welcome ever for its Royal visitors.

Striving to outdo rival Toronto's huge reception earlier in the Royal tour, the metropolis planned to carry Princess Elizabeth and Philip through 75 miles of streets and run them through nine events on this first full day of their tour here.

Already, it had given them a taste of its bilingual enthusiasm. An estimated 500,000 onlookers cheered the Royal pair on their first appearance here Monday after their arrival from the west by plane.

Through it all, rotund Camillien Houde, Montreal's perennial mayor, will be their escort.

The mayor ushered them into Montreal Monday from the airport where they landed from North Bay late in the evening after earlier visits to Port Arthur and Fort William.

Of the estimated half-million who saw them driving in their first appearance last evening, between 50,000 and 100,000 were jampacked into Dominion Square, the big space before the old Windsor Hotel where the couple are staying.

The crowd, shouting beneath a brilliant tracery of electric lights festooning the square, let out salvos of cheers as Elizabeth and Philip appeared on a balcony. It demanded a return engagement loudly and insistently, until it got one from the smiling Princess and her consort.

The people milled around the square and the side streets about the hotel until early this morning, cheering the pair on their way to a National League Hockey game, seeing them back into the hotel with the same uproar and hanging about long afterwards in the hope of one more glimpse.

Report Clears Health Unit Of Councillors' Charges

COBOURG, Oct. 30. (ENS) — The Northumberland and Durham Counties Health Unit was being operated efficiently and the cost of running it was not out of proportion to the results being achieved. Furthermore, criticisms expressed at the June session in regard to the health unit, did not stand up under the light of investigation.

The foregoing was the essence of a report given at the opening of the fall session of counties council Monday afternon by the counties board of health.

It will be recalled that at the June session, a member of council, Reeve W. Roche of Port Hope, said that he had been informed that a health unit nurse had changed the feeding formula which had been prescribed for a child by the family doctor.

Another council member, Reeve R. McCann, Brighton, said that he had been advised that the Minister of Health for Ontario had declared that health units were not returning full value for the money expended. Accordingly at that session, council delegated the counties board of health to look into the matter of the cost of running the health unit to see if it was out of proportion.

Reeve Dr. J. W. Wright of Millbrook read the report at the opening of the fall session and in the resolution accepting the report, the counties council complimented the health unit.

In going into the matter the board of health sought to learn if the work done by the unit was of value to the community and if it was done in the most efficient and economical fashion by the present type of organization. It was realized that many of the accomplishments of preventive medical services are difficult to measure in terms of dollars and cents. For example, constant vigilance on the part of public health staffs may prevent outbreaks of disease in a community, without citizens being aware of the danger. However, one aspect of the work, that of immunization, could be seen in plain figures. For example, since the health unit was formed in 1945, there have been 50,000 immunizations carried out and if these were paid for, even at the rate of $2 each, this would amount to $100,000.

Under the old system of individual boards of health with staffs untrained in public health work, the cost to the 24 municipalities in Northumberland and Durham counties would be $23,200 and only for part-time work. With the health unit doing the work for the same municipalities on a full-time basis, by personnel trained in public health work, the cost would be $10,860 more per year.

The report said in part:

"The following quotation is taken from a press report on the last meeting of counties council. One member of the council said: 'He had been informed that, after the family doctor had drawn up a baby's feeding formula, the health unit nurse sometimes told the parent to give the opposite diet to that recommended by the doctor.' In this case the name of the doctor concerned was mentioned by this member of the counties council and the doctor was contacted and enquiry made. He, in a letter, made the following comments: 'This is to advise you that I have had no knowledge of any of the staff changing any formula for babies or taking any responsibility for any line of treatment. I may say that I am well pleased with the work of the Health Unit.'

"The following quotation is also taken from a press report of remarks made by a member of council at the last meeting of the Counties Council: 'The Minister of Health told us up at Toronto that he couldn't think that we were getting value for our money from health units.' The members of the board of health made an appointment with the Minister of Health on July 12 and at this conference the Minister indicated that he had not made any statement of the type referred to in the press report. He also indicated that it was the wish of the Dept. of Health that the work of the health units should be extended and noted that this health unit was carrying on with two medical officers whereas the normal estimated requirement in relation to population would be more than this."

In reviewing the work of the health unit the report pointed out that the cost of preventing disease was much less than the cost of hospitalization and treatment when the disease occurred. The tuberculosis program carried out by the health unit staff was of inestimable value to the citizens of these counties.

The supervision of infants and pre-school children had contributed much to reduce the death rate among babies. The supervision of school children has resulted in an increasing number of physical defects being corrected at a much earlier age of the school child.

"In regard to expenditures generally, the Board would invite attention to the fact that the per capita expenditure by the county on behalf of the health unit for the last five years has been as follows—1946, 60c; 1947, 67c; 1948, 61c; 1949, 62c; 1950, 58c.

"In the opinion of the Board the only feasible way to reduce expenditures would be to decrease the staff and the activities of the health unit and to do this below the present level laid down by the Department of Health for health units in Ontario, would not only impair the efficiency of the unit but would also endanger the assurance of receiving grants in aid from the provincial and federal governments.

"It is the opinion of the board who have had the opportunity of appraising and supervising the work of the staff, that the health unit is of definite value to the people of the counties of Northumberland and Durham."

Reeve Roy Dodge of Cobourg said that the report would open the eyes of many who didn't realize the good work that was being done. Reeve Art Wartman of Percy township agreed.

Eng. Rotary Club Sends Greetings

With Mayor Max Swanston and Mayor George Chamberlain of Peterborough, England attending as head table guests, Monday's Rotary luncheon was highlighted by an exchange of greetings between Rotarians in the two Peterboroughs.

Mayor Chamberlain, an honorary Rotarian, presented Sid Black, president of the local Rotary club, with a pennant from the Rotary Club of Peterborough, England.

A letter from Rotarians in Peterborough, England which Mayor Chamberlain brought with him was read by President Black.

To reciprocate the greeting, President Black gave Mayor Chamberlain an ash tray made here which he asked Mayor Chamberlain to present to the Rotary Club of Peterborough, England, on behalf of local Rotarians.

Alderman E. V. Martin, former Mayor of Peterborough, England, who accompanied Mayor Chamberlain here for the opening of the new city hall, was seated at the head table and was also presented with an ash tray.

Pallbearers at the funeral of James Duncan Cameron, 571 Gilmour St., were Ernest Lee, Alex Ellis, Don Chamberlain, G. A. Macdonald, James Juby, Arthur Cummings.

Mr. Cameron, for more than 50 years a member of Peterborough Lodge 155, AF and AM, died Wednesday after a lengthy illness. He was also a member of the Corination Chapter, Royal Arch Masons, and Moore Preceptory, Knights Templar.

A Masonic graveside service was held with the Rev. H. A. Cotton, St. Andrew's United Church officiating, with the other principals being Ernest Lee, Alex Ellis and Alex Anderson.

The funeral service was at the Comstock funeral home with Mr. Cotton officiating. Burial was in Norwood cemetery.

Conferences Important

TOKYO, Oct. 30 — (AP). — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway told an international gathering of mayors today that conferences such as theirs hold "great significance for the future of American-Japanese relations and the prospect of lasting peace in the Pacific." Attending the conference were mayors or representatives of all leading Japanese cities and US Pacific seaboard cities.

Civil Defence Has Use Against Natural Disasters

A well organized civil defence organization is as necessary to combat "act of God disasters" as it is to protect civilian populations in wartime.

This conception of civil defence and its positive value in the everyday life of the community was given by Dr. Harold Worton in a luncheon address to the Peterborough Rotary Club in the Empress Hotel Monday.

A veterinary with Peterborough Department of Health, Dr. Worton based his remarks on his impressions of the civil defence school at Connaught Ranges, Ottawa, which he attended recently together with Murray Metcalfe, assistant city engineer.

"It is the wrong conception to regard civil defence only as a means of combatting attacks in wartime," said Dr. Worton. Four of the best civil defence organizations in Canada are in the Fraser Valley, Winnipeg, Cabano and Rimouski, he continued. "They regard civil defence as being really important because of their experiences with fires and floods."

Help In Fire

"Wouldn't it have been of value in our disaster if we had men trained in rescue work who knew what to do?" asked Dr. Worton referring to the fire on George St., in which four firemen lost their lives on May 19. Dr. Worton emphasized that in using this as an example, it was not meant as criticism.

Reworking the accepted definition of public health, Dr. Worton defined civil defense as "the art and science of preventing disease, protecting life and promoting physical and mental efficiency through organized community effort, particularly in time of disaster."

In outlining the course taken by himself and Mr. Metcalfe, Dr. Worton paid tribute to the instructors who he said "must have been hand picked. They knew what they were talking about and could impart their knowledge to others. In my opinion there is no one who would not benefit by taking such a course."

The school is under the direction of Canada's Civil Defence Co-ordinator, Maj. Gen. F. F. Worthington, and is training civil defence instructors who will return to their communities as instructors who will pass on the information they have gained to local civil defence workers.

Three Phases

The course touches on the three phases of modern warfare, atomic biological and chemical attacks and is divided into two sections, a general course, taken by Dr. Worton, and a course in rescue work which Mr. Metcalfe studied. The general course is further divided into two parts, Dr. Worton said. First there is instruction in the theory and fundamentals of all the subjects, then there is an opportunity to gain practical experience in the application of these theories.

Civil defence workers are not expected to take the place of firemen, but if a man has a fire in his own home he should know how to handle it, said Dr. Worton in pointing out another peacetime value of civil defence training.

"Civil defence is actually self help," concluded Dr. Worton in summing up his remarks.

In thanking Dr. Worton, Alderman John Dewart, chairman of Peterborough's civil defence committee, said, "Civil defence is aimed at the protection of our homes, something everyone should be interested in. It is too late when disaster strikes, we have to do our preventive work beforehand."

"The active aid of every citizen in the community is needed. We are trying to build on a firm foundation here," Mr. Dewart said.

Although it is difficult to find workers who are interested, Mr. Dewart said that the initial step here is to train about 30 workers as a nucleus of civil defence workers and then go on to an even greater number.

Several representatives of the Peterborough civil defence committee attended the luncheon as guests.

Dr. Worton was introduced by Dr. R. A. Kelly.

Louis Indecision Halts Settlement

CHICAGO, Oct. 30 — (AP) — Joe Louis' possible compromise settlement of income-tax indebtedness today appeared delayed indefintely because of his reluctance to announce his retirement from the ring.

John T. Jarecki, collector of Internal Revenue for Northern Illinois, said a compromise is possible if Louis intends to quit fighting and proves inability to pay his full back tax.

"You can't get blood out of a turnip," Jarecki said. "The glamor is worn off Louis now. He is through (as a boxer)."

Jarecki declined to disclose the amount owed by the former heavyweight champion for 1947 and 1948. Unverified reports were that it was about $100,000.

The 37-year-old Brown Bomber, flattened in the eighth round by Rocky Marciano in Madison Square Garden Friday night, decided not to announce his retirement plans Monday. He called off a scheduled press conference. Louis is to leave New York Nov. 10 to make a boxing tour of Japand and will not announce any positive decision until his return.

Car Crashes Truck Carrying Livestock

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 30 — (ENS)—A dozen hogs, a cow and two people received a shaking-up, but otherwise escaped uninjured on Monday afternoon, when a truck carrying livestock to a community auction sale at Hoard's Station was struck by a car in this town.

Alvin Anderson, driving a truck owned by D. M. Laver of Warkworth was driving east on Centre street, when a car driven by 77-year-old William J. Ford of Campbellford came out of a side street and struck the livestock-laden truck. No one was injured but the front of the auto received damage amounting to about $300. Chief Constable Geo. H. Hardy investigated.

OAC Grad Tells Of Fellowship

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 30 — (ENS)—A graduate of Ontario Agricultural College, Everett Biggs, Rotarian from Brampton, Ontario, addressed the Monday noon luncheon of the Campbellford Rotary Club. Mr. Biggs was among those honored by Rotary when he was sent to do post graduate work in economics at the University of London, England, under a Rotary Foundation Fellowship.

These fellowships were formed as a result of a request of the late Paul Harris before his death. Mr. Harris was the founder of Rotary International. His request stated that any memorial to him should take the form of some way or means of promoting international understanding. Accordingly, the Paul Harris Memorial Fund was started and added to the Rotary Foundation Fund. This money is now administered by five trustees who use it to give educational fellowships to students to study abroad.

Purpose of this plan is to further international understanding. When accepted, a student is sent to England, the US or to any other country of his choice. There he is taken under the wing of the local Rotary club. He has many calls upon his time, as he is expected to create a favorable impression of his native land as well as to study the ways and living conditions in the place where he is a student. He must keep in touch with the sponsor club, with the district governor of that district, and with Rotary International.

Since 1947 Rotary fellowships have totalled 284. "This may not seem like a large number, but think of the effect in 25 years as Rotary sends perhaps 3,000 student ambassadors of goodwill to the four corners of the earth," said the speaker.

The speaker was introduced by Harold N. Carr and W. A. Hogle voiced the thanks of the local club.

Joseph Kelly Buried

The funeral for Joseph Kelly, 338 Stewart Street, who died on Friday was held Monday morning from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. J. C. Rutherford, to St. Peter's Cathedral. Celebrant of the mass was the Rt. Rev. Monsignor P. P. Butler. Also in the sanctuary was the Rev. V. G. McFadden.

Pall-bearers were David Ahearn, J. J. Ahearn, William Ahearn, Arthur Armstrong, Jas. Holland, Edward Foley. Burial was in St. Peter's Cemetery. Graveside prayers were said by the Rev. J. Hickey.

Trinity Church Omemee Celebrates 75th Anniversary

OMEMEE, Oct. 30 (ENS). — Trinity United church congregation celebrated the 75th anniversary of the opening of their church edifice Sunday. The Rev. E. W. Rowland of Peterborough was guest speaker.

In the morning Mr. Rowland took for his text, "What mean ye by these stones?" In recalling achievements of the past, he quoted, "We take off our hats to the past but we must take off our coats to the future." His [illegible] theme was "But none of [illegible] things move me, neither count I my life dear unto myself, so that I might finish my course with joy."

Special music was furnished by the choir, supplemented in the morning by a male quartette from Bethel composed of Clifford Faulkner, Harlan McCarroll, Charlie Wellman and Sherman Harrison, and a solo by Sherman Harrison.

Fifty years ago Mr. Rowland received his licence to preach on the recommendation of the Quarterly Board who met in this church. He also was its pastor from 1923 to 1928, during which time church union was effected. It gave him great joy he said, to conduct services in his home church on such an occasion.

He recalled many interesting facts and experiences of his younger days related to church life in Omemee, and spoke of the zeal of the church workers which inspired so many young men to enter the ministry from both the Methodist and the Presbyterian congregations.

The former Methodists who built the present church have a long church history dating back at least to 1843. The oldest records available begin with 1854 but a reference in 1868 to the death of William Woods states that he had been on the quarterly board for the quarter of a century, which proves earlier records are lost. The name of the village was then Metcalf. At a quarterly board meeting held in Metcalf Wesleyan church in 1854 when the Rev. J. Musgrove was circuit superintendent, and his assistant the Rev. L. Vanderburg, the following stewards were appointed: William Cottingham, William Beaty, Thomas Matchett, William Guthrie, Isaac W. Reid, Robert Jones and Thomas Trotter, recording steward being William Cottingham.

A resolution was passed that the minister be allowed, for table expenses £35, for wood £5, for horse feed £10, for moving expenses £3 10s, for travelling £1, for rent £3 10s, for quarterage £50; total, £108. Class leaders recorded that year were William Wood, John McNealy, John Switzer, John Morgan, Isaac Rea, Henry Sherin and Robert Jones. Each class leader was required to collect funds from his group, the amount each leader was to secure being stipulated by the church board.

Renamed in 1857

In 1857 the village took the name of Omemee. The Metcalf circuit became known as the Omemee circuit. By the 1858 records we learn that there was a village newspaper. The Omemee Warder, for in it was published a certain address presented to the Rev. Wm. Binder when he left the circuit. In 1861 money began to be reckoned in dollars and cents.

Camp meetings were recorded and circuit tea meetings. The Omemee circuit had several outside appointments. There were seven of these in 1876. Local preachers made it possible for each appointment to have a service. In 1878 there were 11 local preachers on the circuit. Before a candidate was recommended to the ministry he was made an exhorter.

Mr. Rowland told the congregation Sunday of one of his experiences as an exhorter. It was said to him by a church official: "Now you are an exhorter, I want you to go to the Orange Line and take the service the Sunday after next." With fear and trembling he prepared his first sermon and preached it, taking as his text, "Ce are the light of the world." After the service an elderly lady remarked: "If little Eddie Rowland is ever going to be the light of the world he will have to turn his wick up."

Opposed Bishops

In 1882 the church went on record as opposed to the appointment of Bishops.

In 1900 the minister's salary was raised to $800 where it remained until 1912 after which there were substantial raises quite frequently.

Thirty-three ministers have had charge of the circuit since 1854. Since the present church was dedicated in 1876, they are: the Revs. R. Godfry, J. A. Chapman, E. Barrass, J. C. Wilson, C. W. Walch, Wm. Johnson, C. L. Thompson, Newton Hill, E. Roberts, Geo. Brown, Jos. Locke, R. McCulloch, R. Burns, J. F. Chapman, J. W. Down, John G. Lewis; Mr. Stillman, E. W. Rowland, J. T. Blanchard, C. S. Reddick, F. G. McTavish, R. M. Patterson, V. E. R. Zufelt.

Churchill's Minority Government

It is the usual consolation of the losers in a close election to accuse the winners of being a minority government, and the supporters of Labour have been quick to make that gibe against the Conservatives. And there is no effective reply to such a taunt, except to say that the recently defeated Labour government was also a minority government. Such a situation leads us once again to consider the crude nature of the electoral system which exists both here and in Britain.

* * *

Our system exaggerates the success of the winner. In the British general election of 1935, for instance, the Conservatives polled only 53 per cent. of the votes, but they won 70 per cent. of the seats; Labour, at that time, got only 25 per cent. of the seats for 38 per cent. of the votes. This position was reversed in 1945, when Labour, with only 48 per cent. of the vote had 61 per cent of the seats, and the Conservatives, with 40 per cent. of the vote, had 33 per cent. of the seats. And this system is extremely hard upon minority parties. For instance, in the 1950 election, the Liberals had only one member for every 290,000 votes they polled, whereas the two large parties got a member for every 40,000 votes; in that election the Liberals polled 9.4 per cent. of the vote and received 1.4 per cent. of the seats.

* * *

The system of voting originated long before party politics, which emerged at the end of the seventeenth century; before that time each electoral district—which meant some natural local community, with its own interests—chose a man to go to Parliament, and he was usually the local landowner. With the coming of party politics and contested elections, it was soon clear that the voting system was basically unfair. In the nineteenth century it was pointed out by several political scientists, of whom John Stuart Mill was the most eminent, that the system was unjust, and particularly toward minorities, who deserve some representation in a true democracy.

* * *

Several European democracies have carefully devised voting systems which provide proportional representation, and take care of the interests of minorities. But such systems rarely provide strong and stable governments. This is the argument used against them in Britain and in Canada. And it is a fact, of course, that the present electoral system could only be changed by the dominant political parties; they will not change it, because it favours themselves. They argue, also, that it provides strong governments, and that this is better than mathematically perfect justice.

* * *

In the 1950 election, and the election of last Thursday in Britain, however, this system of voting has not provided strong governments. Mr. Attlee could not continue with his small majority, and it is a question whether Mr. Churchill will be able to do any better. When a party has a very small majority—and even with full Liberal support the Conservatives have a small majority—every man has to be in the House whenever there is a vote. This puts a heavy strain on men who have businesses and professions to attend to, and who must expect also to spend some time with their families and in the pursuit of happiness. Mr. Churchill's victory is an uneasy one, and at a time when Britain needs a strong government she has nothing of the sort.

Chamber Music for Peterborough

Last evening listeners to CHEX heard the first in a series of three broadcasts which the local trio directed by Mr. Cecil Searles is giving in the music appreciation series sponsored by this newspaper. The broadcast was of the Trio No. 5 in D Major by Beethoven; next Monday night at 9:30 p.m. the broadcast will be of Mendelssohn's Trio in D Minor; the concluding broadcast, on November 12, will be of Schubert's B Flat Trio. The Examiner is very happy to present a local chamber music group in three broadcasts of great music in a form which we feel is unjustly slighted. Mr. Searles' trio is making an excellent reputation for itself, and during the latter two weeks in November goes on a tour of several Ontario towns under the auspices of the Department of Education.

The trio for piano, violin, and violoncello is a particularly warm and pleasing musical form in which many great composers have written some of their most attractive and thoughtful music. It has not the austerity of the string quartette, for the piano gives it richness of texture. It is capable of the greatest nobility, as in the slow movement of Beethoven's "Archduke" Trio (the B Flat Major). But trios are not heard as often as quartettes or solo performers, and in bringing three trios to the attention of local music lovers this newspaper feels that it may be bringing a revival of interest to some, and to others a new and splendid musical experience.

Old Soldier Fades

From the beginning of the Korean war General MacArthur was loudly touted for President. This spring when the General was removed from his high commands and returned in triumph to the United States, the cry "MacArthur for President" became a national shout. It seemed certain that he would become the Republican candidate, if he could be persuaded to accept the nomination. It seemed that his popularity and prestige were so great that he would be elected. That was in April.

Six months later—yesterday—quiet corners of Canadian and American newspapers carried the quiet announcement from some town in Wisconsin that General MacArthur will not become a presidential candidate. An inconspicuous District Attorney in the town was prepared to bring General MacArthur's name before the Republican National Convention. One of the General's assistants rejected the offer for his chief.

In the six months General MacArthur has fallen from a national figure commanding the adulation of seven million New Yorkers who turned out to see him drive down Fifth Avenue. He has fallen through a stage of political oratory across the country, when thousands hung, rather loosely, on his words, to a name which is honoured but unsung. His significance is now entirely in the past. Public popularity is fickle and reputations unstable; they ripen and explode like puffballs in the course of one short season, particularly in the United States, it seems. Her greatest national hero of April is a forgotten man in October. General MacArthur told Congress the bitter truth when he said: "Old soldiers never die; they just fade away." Is it gall and wormwood to him that he has faded so soon?

Korean Canadian Casualties

In the reportedly heavy fighting of the last several weeks, three Canadians were killed in action and nine wounded. This is revealed in the 68th casualty list published since Canadians began to take part in the Korean war. The total casualties to date have been 396, of whom 87 were deaths, 275 wounded, and 32 "injured in action." Presumably this last category refers to men injured by other than enemy action. We are very happy that Canadian casualties have been so light. The small total confirms what we suggested in an editorial last week—that Canadian action in Korea has been neither heavy nor prolonged. In both the last war and the Great War only one battalion suffered in one day losses heavier than the Canadian Brigade has had in nine months.

By comparison with the Canadian casualties, American casualties are heavy. The total up to October 5th was 15,163 dead, 62,105 wounded, 10,672 missing and 172 captured. It is gratifying—and an indication of good morale and discipline—that the total of Canadians "missing" is only two. It is a tiny fraction of the total Canadian casualties of 392. The Americans report 10,672 missing. It must not be presumed that a majority of them have just wandered off and are staying in hiding out of harm's way. Most of the missing American men are so listed because it is not yet known whether they have been captured, wounded or killed. The Canadians have not been in as many heavy engagements as the Americans; it is the confusion during and after battle which runs up heavy lists of "missing."

Not Trans-Canada Yet

The Supreme Court has ruled that highway traffic touching two or more provinces of the United States is under the control of the Federal Government. This judgement may speed provincial agreements on the Trans-Canada. The provinces of Nova Scotia and Quebec have so far refused to enter into any contracts with Ottawa on the Trans-Canada highway. Quebec has felt that if it agreed to joint financing of the Highway within its boundaries (Ottawa is paying half the construction costs under agreements with other provinces), it might lose some jurisdiction over Quebec highways. If the Supreme Court decision stands, it will have lost, in theory at any rate, much control. The decision may be appealed, for the case on which judgement was given was in the courts, two years ago, before appeals to the British Privy Council were abolished.

Quebec is justifiably proud of its major highways, and it has enough money to build more of them without Federal assistance. It therefore wants to keep its highways proudly provincial. But as railways and canals and air transport are Federal matters, so are through roads. The Trans-Canada is a national necessity and there must be no gaps in it, through either Quebec or Nova Scotia.

Sheridan: Genius Of Drama

By
J. C. TREWIN
(Dramatic Critic of "Illustrated London News" and "The Sketch", London

IT is 200 years exactly since the birth of one of the most perennially popular dramatists in the English language: the Irish-born Richard Brinsley Sheridan, an actor's son who wrote, within the space of a few years, the comedies of The Rivals, The School for Scandal, and The Critic.

The first and second of these are the best-known. Indeed, "malapropism" (a word coined from the name of a character in The Rivals) has passed into general use, and in the drama there is no more familiar passage outside Shakespeare than the Screen Scene from The School For Scandal. For 170 years Sheridan has been acted more often than any writer since Shakespeare himself.

His descent does something to explain his versatility: he was a superb orator and talker as well as a playwright. His grandfather, the witty and talented Dr. Thomas Sheridan, was for many years a friend of Dean Swift. His father was a notable elocutionist and actor, in Dublin and later in London; and his mother, Frances, who died when he was 15, had success as both a novelist and a dramatist.

✧ ✧ ✧

RICHARD BRINSLEY SHERIDAN, born on October 30, 1751, in Dublin, went to Harrow School, and when he was 20 lived with his father in Bath, the flourishing spa in the West of England. A few years later he was a married man, having eloped with the beautiful Elizabeth Ann Linley and fought two duels with "Captain" Mathews, her admirer. Hence, we may suppose, the germ of the comedy of The Rivals, produced at Covent Garden in January 1775, complete with its duels in Bath.

✧ ✧ ✧

LATER, Sheridan, flamboyant, charming, improvident, always intellectually brilliant, became manager of Drury Lane, one of the two most famous theatres in Britain. By the end of October 1779, when he was only 28 he was the author of three comedies, produced with flashing success (after one brief set-back) that established his name permanently among the great British dramatists. It was remarkable that, after The Critic and its irresistible bubbling wit, Sheridan wrote no more for the theatre—with the single exception of a heavy translation of Kotzebue's melodrama, Pizarro, in 1799. He had a new world to conquer as a politician; but when he died in July 1816, at the age of 65, and was buried in Westminster Abbey, it was clear that Sheridan the playwright would be remembered long after Sheridan the Parliamentarian.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE 18th century was a thin period in British drama. In its middle years the stage was soaked in sentimental comedy, very little of which has survived. Then Oliver Goldsmith's She Stoops To Conquer (1773) brought a new freshness, and the three major works of Sheridan completed a quartet of plays that now stands in the history of the theatre as a mountain range rising sharply from the damp, level plains of the 18th century stage.

The Rivals, at first, was a failure. It lasted for two nights at Covent Garden. Sheridan, undeterred, promptly sat down and rewrote the piece: it was reproduced ten days later, and this time the celebrated William Woodfall, of The Morning Chronicle, was gracious enough to say: "The Rivals will now stand its ground". It shines with comic vivacity; it has an intricate but most cunningly-developed plot, And two of the characters, Mrs. Malaprop with her rare ability for twisting and misinterpreting the language, and Bob Acres, with his stream of genteel oaths, will never fail to delight any audience.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT is generally agreed now that The School for Scandal is Sheridan's masterwork, and that May 8, 1777, must be remembered as a great night in the English theatre. It is said that applause was so loud and prolonged at the end that a man in the street outside took to his heels in fright, fearing that the building would crash. The comedy is about an elderly bachelor who married a young wife; about the two nephews—one a rake, the other a rogue—of a rich merchant from India; and about the machinations of the gossiping group, the "school for scandal," of which Lady Teazle was a member. But no tracing of plot can give much indication of the vigour and style of the comedy, shaped with all Sheridan's sense of the theatre and illuminated throughout by his assured sense of character. The piece reaches its zenith in the Screen Scene, so-called because everything depends on the screen behind which Lady Teazle is hiding from her husband in the rooms of the hypocrite Joseph, and which Charles Surface throws down, revealing her. It is hard to explain to those who have not seen the play just what dramatic intensity is implicit in the two short sentences:

Charles Surface: Lady Teazle, by all that's wondeeful!

SHERIDAN'S third comedy has been played less than the others, but lately—thanks to the splendid Old Vic revival of 1945—it has taken new life. This is The Critic; or, A Tragedy Rehearsed, acted on October 30, 1779. Sheridan was burlesquing the manifold absurdities of the tragical stage, and the whole piece was, and is, a riot of farcical invention.

Sheridan was always indolent. It had cost him much trouble to finish The School For Scandal in time for production. And here again, with The Critic, he left things to the last moment. Two days before the opening performance the final scene was unwritten. King, the leading actor, who played Mr. Puff, managed by a trick to lock Sheridan into a room at Drury Lane and to keep him there, soothed by two bottles of claret and anchovy sandwiches, until the manuscript was complete. (Tradition has it that, 20 years later, Sheridan went one worse during Pizarro, and on the first night was actually completing the fifth act while a distracted cast was performing the fourth.)

Sheridan's other plays matter less. They are the fragment called The Scheming Lieutenant; A Trip to Scarborough, which was an adaptation of Vanbrugh's comedy, The Relapse; and the libretto of a comic opera, The Drama. He lives now in his three great comedies which have made him secure in the hearts of every playgoer.

✧ ✧ ✧

HIS political career was a blaze that finally flickered out. He held Ministerial office; he was prominent at the trial of Warren Hastings, first governor-general of British India; he was a firm friend and adviser of the Prince of Wales, later King George IV. But in 1809 Drury Lane Theatre, on which he had spent so much, was burned down; he lost his seat in Parliament a few years later. Excluded both from Parliament and the theatre, his affairs crumbled, he was arrested for debt, and his last years were spent in miserable circumstances. Ironically, the nation gave him a magnificent funeral; and Richard Brinsley Sheridan, by virtue of his three comedies one of the great dramatists of all time, now lies buried in Westminster Abbey.

(This bicentenary article has been supplied The Examiner by The British Council.)

Sir Laurence Olivier as Sir Peter Teazle and Vivien Leigh as Lady Teazle in "The School for Scandal" by the great playwright Richard Brinsley Sheridan. Sheridan was born 200 years ago today. His life and works are discussed in a special article in our Third Column on this page.

Night Train To Seoul

By FRANK ROBERTSON In Korea

NOBODY knows the number of people living in Pusan, Korea's temporary capital, but all too clearly it is far too many, perhaps by half a million or more.

A walk through its twisting streets is a trying exercise that calls for the skill and agility of a person attempting to fend off a swarm of attackers with one hand tied behind his back—a true enough simile since if you know Pusan you carry one hand behind you whenever you are abroad, placed firmly over your wallet pocket.

There is little of the colourful Orient about Pusan. It is a grey, sooty city, built fairly recently—as these things are measured—by the Japanese.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE overcrowding is emphasized by dirt, the odour from open sewers, and by the persistent importunities of professional beggars and hordes of youngsters aggressively offering to shine shoes, change money or arrange introductions. Prostitution lately has become widespread in Korea; a local newspaper announced a few days ago that there were 55,000 prostitutes in Seoul and its province, an area still little more than half resettled.

Whole blocks of Pusan are out of bounds to Allied troops, marked so by garish yellow paint splashed across shopfronts and telephone poles. I ventured across the line once, but was quickly picked up by military police. My destination in the forbidden area had been the Korean United Nations Association. Military police are everywhere in Pusan, white and negro. As in any war they seem more officious than those stationed closer to the front, but they have their problems.

The crime rate is high. Much of Pusan's heavy civilian motor traffic runs on stolen Army petrol. Most of the decrepit civilian taxis have jeep tires. Hundreds of jeeps are stolen every month, many of them reappearing boldly marked with the name of an organization that more than likely does not exist. After all, when you have half a hundred organizations known by such names as UNCURK, UNKRA and UNCACK, who dares to question the ownership of a jeep marked, for example, UNLACK?

In Pusan, the old story about a driver who had his watch snatched from his wrist while signalling a turn has been revived, and in this climate it is readily believed. Robber bands of eight or ten roam by night, and they do not hesitate to set upon United Nations troops.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT is a relief to get aboard the night train for the twelve-hour trip to Seoul. There are berths in an ancient American Pullman car for the privileged, but you line up to draw your sheets and blanket and sign for them in true Army fashion. The sheets always bring comment; for many on the train it is the first time in nine months or a year that they have enjoyed such luxury.

The up train is quiet. Coming down from Seoul it carried men bound for home who filled the night with exuberant noise. But the passengers are interesting. There is an Ethiopian, a tall rangy young man, reserved and completely apart, conjuring up a picture of silent young warriors swinging tirelessly across a broad plain. There is a young Filipino oficer who speaks with Latin gestures and insists upon calling you sir. The boisterous group of Canadians across the aisle is headed back for the front, just released from hospital. And there is an American doctor, with two nurses, returning north to join another south-bound hospital train.

The doctor is young, and new to the East. He cannot understand how so many people in Pusan remain alive; by his count, they should all be dead from a multitude of diseases. He tells of detecting leprosy in the face of more than one passer-by in the crowded city. He is indignant, too, because the Korean Government charges so much for the use of its railways by the hospital trains.

The train runs smoothly through the night, the machine-guns mounted for protection is silent. Korean Communists evidently lack the initiative of their Chinese counterparts, for this all-important line never has been disrupted by sabotage or attack. We pull into Seoul right on time.

✧ ✧ ✧

SEOUL lies in the sombre middleground between front and rear, a part of each but belonging to neither. But the tortured face Seoul shows to the world bespeaks nothing but war. Ruins lie as they lay six months ago; no reconstruction work is being done; no tidying up.

I drove a young official, a native of Seoul who had just returned from Pusan, through the streets looking for a building he wished to show me. We spent half an hour looking for the right turn-off; all the familiar landmarks were gone. My friend should have known the way well enough, for the building we were seeking was his old school.

Although no rebuilding is being done in Seoul, water and power have been partially restored by the Army, and, as a result, an occasional tram-car trundles through half-empty streets. There is a strangeness about these trams that puzzles you until you realize that never before in Asia have you seen a streetcar that was not bulging with people. These, with only a few persons aboard, look forlorn and purposeless, out of place among the military traffic that rumbles endlessly through the tired city.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE Korean people seem to lack purpose, too, these days. Tiredness and a degree of hopelessness have weakened the high resolution of a year ago, and this has been further corroded by bitterness. My young Government friend, a true patriot, summed it up this way:—

"What else do you expect from us, you who now are so free with your easy criticism? When the war ended you came in and set about wiping out all vestiges of Japanese influence. Then you gave us a constitution we didn't understand and were not ready for, and sat back ready to criticize our first mistake. Now you want us to work hand-in-glove with the Japanese again on the one hand and on the other you are trying to reach a settlement of the war that will leave our country hopelessly divided. Shouldn't we be bitter?"

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Simeon and Levi are brethren; instruments of cruelty are in their habitations. O my soul, come not thou into their secret; unto their assembly, mine honour, be not thou united: for in their anger they slew a man, and in their selfwill they digged down a wall. Cursed be their anger, for it was fierce; and their wrath, for it was cruel: I will divide them in Jacob, and scatter them in Israel. (Gen. 49: 5-7.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Now before the feast of the passover, when Jesus knew that his hour was come that he should depart out of this world unto the father, having loved his own which were in the world, he loved them unto the end... Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that receiveth whomsoever I send receiveth me; and he that receiveth me receiveth him that sent me.

When Jesus had thus said, he was troubled in spirit, and testified, and said, Verily, verily, I say unto you, that one of you shall betray me. (John 13: 1, 20, 21.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And he came out, and went, as he was wont, to the mount of Olives; and his disciples also followed him... And while he yet spake, behold a multitude, and he that was called Judas, one of the twelve, went before them, and drew near unto Jesus to kiss him.

But Jesus said unto him, Judas, betrayest thou the Son of man with a kiss? (Luke 22: 39, 47, 48.)

✧ ✧ ✧

When the morning was come, all the chief priests and elders of the people took counsel against Jesus to put him to death.... Then Judas, which had betrayed him, when he saw that he was condemned, repented himself, and brought again the thirty pieces of silver to the chief priests and elders, saying, I have sinned in that I have betrayed the innocent blood. And they said, What is that to us? see thou to that. And he cast down the pieces of silver in the temple, and departed, and went and hanged himself. (Matt. 27: 1, 3-5.)

✧ ✧ ✧

For godly sorrow worketh repentance to salvation not to be repented of: but the sorrow of the world worketh death. (II Cor. 7: 10.)

INTERNATIONAL WATERWAY

While Britain, France and the United States plan a Middle East defence system, based on co-operation between the Western Powers and Near East States, Egypt has declared her intention to abrogate the 1936 Anglo-Egyptian Treaty, which provides for British military and air bases in the Canal Zone (see inset), and for the defence of Egypt by British forces until such time as Egypt is militarily strong enough to defend her territory effectively by her own power. Because the Suez Canal has become an international waterway—the bottleneck of the free world's supply routes—it calls for international defence. Under the new plan Egypt is to be invited to participate with Britain, France, the United States and Turkey in a Five-Power defence pact which would supersede the 1936 Treaty.—(Bip Pares map, copyrighted)

Italian Doctor Seeks Mate In Peterborough

Here's a chance for all you girls looking for romance. But you'll have to act right away. One of the girls of our office has already seized the opportunity.

An Italian doctor wrote to the Examiner this week asking to have an ad inserted in which he is seeking contact with some of you charming Peterborough girls. His letter and answer that is already speeding toward him are printed here. As we said before, here's your chance.

Dott. Alberto Gorgoni
Via Montavideo N. 20
Rome, Italia.

Rome, October 18, 1951.

Examiner
Peternoro, Ontario.

Please let me know the amount necessary to publish for a day and for four consecutive insertions the following advertisement.

"Attractive gentleman 35 university degrees wishes to correspond with young lady or ladies object matrimony, please write to Alberto Gorgoni — 20 Montevideo —Rome, Italy—

I thank you for your kind collaboration—

Very truly yours,
Alberto Gorgoni.

Peterborough, Ont.,

October 25, 1951

Dr. Alberto Gorgoni,
Via Montavideo N. 20,
Rome, Italy.
Dear Dr. Gorgoni:

I read your letter in last night's paper. I'm really very shy and also not in the habit of writing to strange men, especially ones who live in Italy. But I was so excited to have an opportunity to correspond with a man who lives in Italy that my feelings overcame my usual modesty and here I am writing.

It is even more exciting that you live in Rome. I remember studying all about Rome in ancient and medieval history at school. But I guess it has changed a lot since those times. I have also seen a lot of pictures in magazines and at the movies of Rome and they always thrill me much more than the ones shown of London or Paris. I'd love to go there some day.

That's about all I know about Rome or Italy except that I heard of your famous Italian wine, but of course I've never tasted any of it. I don't believe in girls drinking, do you? But getting back to Italy and Rome I would really like to know about it especially if an intelligent man like you would tell me.

I guess I should tell you something about myself. I'm 5 feet 4 inches tall and weigh 115 pounds. I have light brown hair and blue eyes. If you answer this letter I'll send you a picture. I like dancing and good times, but I also like to read books. I guess you like to read too when you've got university degrees. I never went to university, but I would have liked to, especially when I meet people like you who know so much. But then I haven't met you yet.

There is one thing I would like to ask you. How did you come to pick Peterborough to send your letter to? I've been wondering about that ever since I saw your letter in the paper. Do you believe in fate? Some people say its silly to, but sometimes I wonder. But I guess there are a lot of girls in Canada my age who are fascinated by older men from other countries. I guess I forgot to tell you how old I am. Well I'm 19, but my friends tell me I look much older, especially when I'm dressed up.

I read an article in a magazine the other day that said difference in age doesn't matter too much in marriage if the two people love each other enough. And of course I won't marry anybody I don't love. But I guess I am beginning to sound a little bold.

I've got a boy friend, but we're just good friends. I don't think I could ever marry anybody his age. He's only 21. I like men who have more "savoire faire" as they would say in France.

I'm so glad you speak English, because I dont know any Italian. Would you tell me a few words. If I knew some I could really impress my friends.

Well I guess you will think that I ramble a lot in letters. But as I said before I really don't know how to write a letter like this, not ever having done it before. So I guess I will close, hoping that you won't think that I'm awfully bold and that you will write me soon.

Your new friend,
(Miss) Mary Ann Jones.

P.S.—Please send me your picture.—M.A.J.

Horses Prefer Eating Fish At Slave Lake

EDMONTO (CP) — John Kaasa of Edmonton has proof that at least two horses in the Northwest Territories prefer eating fish to hay.

The horses owned by a store operator in the Great Slave Lake region will still eat hay, but they'd rather have the fish.

Kaasa, a Minnesotan of Norwegian extraction, is a camera enthusiast who has spent a large part of the last 6 years travelling through the northwest in search of unusual subjects for still and movie cameras.

He returned here with his prize movie of the fish-eating horses.

"The temperature was about 50 or 60 below when I saw the horses," Mr. Kaasa said. "I had two 'still' cameras along but both froze up. So I took movies."

Has Evidence

He produced a photo from the movie series and sure enough two big, white horses were shown eating, with apparent gusto, a pair of fish.

"This fish-eating is sort of a habit with the horses—like smoking," Mr. Kaasa said. "They can't get enough. When the Indians hang out their fish for drying and curing, the horses will come along, pull them down and eat them."

Commercial fishing is a major industry on Great Slave Lake so the horses never face a shortage of fish.

"Headache?.. take a Disprin"

Why DISPRIN? Because DISPRIN is soluble and substantially neutral. When taken in water as recommended, it enters the stomach as a true solution and not as undissolved particles. It is therefore less liable to cause stomach discomfort.

DISPRIN is readily absorbed. Because it definitely dissolves (not merely disintegrates) DISPRIN permits speedy absorption and gives fast relief.

DISPRIN is palatable. Even children will take it readily.

DISPRIN REG'D ...FOR PAIN RELIEF

SAFE SPEEDY PLEASANT

Science Progresses

For 50 years we have used little white tablets — acetylsalicylic acid — for relief of pain. Today this familiar pain-killer is available in a new form without the disadvantages of acidity, insolubility and bitter taste. It is called 'DISPRIN' and is sold at druggists everywhere.

'DISPRIN' is available in Bottles of 26 tablets or Handy Pocket Folders of 8.

OHA Senior "B" Schedule To Commence On Nov. 9

The Petes and Eagles open their OHA senior "B" group schedule on Nov. 9, the Eagles having a home game. The list runs through until Feb. 22 with semi-finals and finals, both best-of-five affairs, following. A winner for provincial playdowns must be declared by March 15, according to Frank Buckland of the OHA, who drew up the schedule.

Kingston has two entries, the same as Peterborough, and the Queen's team will play four-point games with Petes and Eagles in order to cut down on some of the long trips. The other Kingston entry, sponsored by Nylons, has not been named yet. Belleville Hawks make up the fifth squad. Home games here will be Mondays, Wednesdays or Fridays. Following is the schedule:

Nov. 9—Petes at Belleville, Queen's at Eagles.
Nov. 12—Petes at Queen's.
Nov. 14—Kingston at Eagles, Queen's at Belleville.

Guelph, Marlies In 1st Place Tie In Jr. OHA Race

By The Canadian Press.

That old argument whether a team can win more games with a strong offensive display, or a good defence, won't be settled if you look at the teams on top of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A standings.

Guelph Biltmores, with Ken Laufman, Ron Murphy et al, believe in scoring more goals than the other guy. They've scored 52 as compared to 28 against.

Toronto Marlboros, on the other hand, appear to be believers of the "strong defence" class. They've tallied 28 but have been scored upon only 16 times.

But both are tied for the league lead, each with 12 points. Marlboros, however, have a game in hand.

Pacing League

As can be expected, on the basis of their goals scored, Guelph sharpshooters pace the league in scoring. According to official statistics released Monday, Laufman is top scorer with 24 points, made up of six goals and 18 assists.

Murphy's 12 goals and 11 assists for 23 points are good enough for second while Chuck Henderson and Andy Bathgate follow with 18 and 16 points, respectively.

Don Head of Toronto Marlboros is setting the pace in the net-minding department. Head is tied with Marv Edwards of St. Catharines and Les Binkley of Galt, each with one shutout, but as the best goals-against average. He allowed 13 goals in six games—an average of 2.17.

Four Men Tied As Top Scorers

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (AP). — Rudy Migay, Pittsburgh, Steve Wochy, Cleveland, and Pat Lundy and Jackie Hamilton, of St. Louis, are tied at 12 points apiece for the American Hockey League's individual scoring leadership today.

Migay, star centre of the unbeaten Hornets, has collected four goals and eight assists. Wochy has nine goals and three assists, Lundy has six goals and six assists and Hamilton five goals and seven assists.

Migay's eight assists tops the play-making department and Wochy's nine goals the goal-getting field.

Pete Durham, rookie Indianapolis defenceman, is the league's most-penalized player with 27 minutes.

Gil Mayer, young goaltender of the Hornets, is the loop's top net-minder. He has allowed only 10 goals in seven games for a 1.43 average. Goalies Ralph Almas of St. Louis and Emil Francis of Cincinnati are tied for the lead in shutouts at one each.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Football around here will be fading soon from the sports scene. It's a short season at best. St. Peter's are still in the running and PCVS seniors will go a few weeks yet, probably getting a crack at COSSA finals 'gainst the Niagara district winner. They're having a return tilt this weekend in Belleville. The junior PCI-ers are out of the race but wind up the schedule in Lindsay on Saturday. ORFU grid Orfuns are out of the hunt, too. Still have a game listed at East York on Saturday, but that may not be played since it has no bearing on the final standing whatsoever. Better save what money they can.

* * * * * *

Orfuns have been a tough-luck team the last couple of seasons. Drop a few heartbreakers to be squeezed out of the picture and lose some big gates. They can't get out of the hole. Rugby football is the most expensive sport, with equipment coming high. Though they did get a break when D. A. McGillis gave 'em a set of smart new parkas recently. We're sorry for the players and also for the hard-working executive of: Dr. R. Chenoweth, Mr. McGillis, Dr. W. Preston, Jeff Ginrod, Dr. D. Aiken, Stan McBride, Gord Young, Dave Wilson, Harv Bamforth, Harry Yudin, Bud LaBranche, etc. Team dropped two they should have won this late lamented season, one early to Orillia and the last one to Cobourg.

Opens A Week Friday

OHA senior "B" schedule is published tonight. Opens Nov. 9 and runs through — with a slight break around Christmas — to late Feb., playoffs following immediately. First and fourth clubs meet in one semi-final bracket and second and third in the other. These and the group finals are best-of-five sawoffs, winner being ready March 15 to hit into provincial playdowns. No Allan Cup or senior "A" nonsense about the group this puck campaign, so no reason for a team to toss a series. As mentioned previously, Queen's games here are four-pointers. Frank Buckland, local OHA members, drew up the schedule, and those interested should clip it out for future reference.

* * * * * *

If your boy is 10 years old and interested in skating or hockey, start him off in school or peewee hockey play. As soon as he can skate, give him a stick and shoo him off to a rink—when, as and if ice is available here. They can't start too young to learn Canada's national winter sport. The formative years slip around rapidly and they should be showing signs of future greatness even in juvenile ranks. It's a great game, taking up some six months of the year, a healthy and robust sport, and it provides a good future for many fellows. But don't let the lads waste too much time. If they're going to make pro company, they'll have to do it young.

Young Players In NHL

Detroit Wings' average age is 24.3 years and Toronto Leafs would have an average of 24.9 but for 37-year-old Turk Broda. Bruins average 27. Glen Skov of Detroit is just 20, yet Hawks have one a year younger in Fred Hucul. Average age this year of an NHL player is 26.1 years, a slight increase over a year ago. Players past 30 are considered veterans in the fast-skating game of hockey dished up today. Some defencemen last pretty well in the big time and a goalie with good legs and eyes can stay in quite a spell; but age takes its toll of them all, particularly forwards, in the present slambang brand of puck play. Your peak age in hockey now is about 26.

* * * * * *

The old senior ORFU which flourished just before the war when Montreal Nats, Sarnia Imps, Balmy Beaches and Peterborough were in it, appears ready to fold, according to various reports. It's been struggling along with all clubs losing money in recent years and was ready to collapse at the end of last season. McMaster University was inveigled in this semester but announces it won't be back. Windsor Royals took a financial shellacking and Beaches are having trouble with coaching, players and lack of mazuma. Only Sarnia—a rapidly growing city and always a grid hotbed—seems able to carry on. Cost of imports and competition with Big Four and college games make it tough on the ORFU seniors. Football is an expensive game, and the season is too short.

Senior Schools Tie

Confederation and Central seniors of the Public School Soccer League battled it out at Riverside to a scoreless draw. The well-matched squads pressed for that big point in vain right to the final whistle, as Hotston and Gray both shone in the nets. Merrett and Ferguson stood out for the southenders, while Naish, K. Hum and Patterson went best for the midtowners. Teams:

Confederation: Hotston, Hamilton, Whitehill, Linsey, Merrett, Griffin, Chamberlain, Parnell, Ferguson, Little, Trotter, Bailey, Steele, Brown, Wood.

Central: Gray, Matthews, Brown, Craymer, Patterson, Naish, Tranter, P. Hum, D. Justic, K. Hum, Dunford, J. Lustic, Kelly, Findlay, Harrington, Sorrie, Robbins.

Referee, J. Barnard.

TIGER-CAT STOPPED — Ottawa's John Wagoner holds for dear life, stopping Blake Taylor, Hamilton Tiger-Cat halfback, during the game at Ottawa Saturday, won by the Roughriders 13-9. Riders rushing to help are outside wing Bob Simpson (60) and middle Bob Gain (52). Hamilton's Spider Gibson (77) looks on. The victory gave Ottawa sole possession of first place in the Big Four, breaking a three-way tie.

Richard, Lach Leading Scoring Race

MONTREAL, Oct. 30 (CP). — Detroit Red Wings today are comfortably settled in first place in the National Hockey League.

Winners of last year's regular schedule but knocked out of the playoff picture by Montreal Canadiens, the Wings now have 11 points from five victories and one tie.

In second place are the Habitants, with nine points—four victories and a deadlock.

Boston Bruins follow with three victories, three defeats and a tie for seven points, one more than Chicago Black Hawks and Toronto Maple Leafs. New York Rangers are in the cellar.

All clubs have played seven games, except Canadiens who saw action nine times.

In Monday night's games, Montreal slaughtered the Rangers 6-1. At Detroit the Red Wings and Toronto battled to a 2-2 draw.

Shares Top Spot

With his pace-setting number of goals, seven, and three assists, Maurice Richard now is leading in the individual scoring race, sharing first place with a veteran teammate, Elmer Lach.

Lach has two goals and eight assists, the latter a mark for this season.

Two points behind is linemate Bert Olmstead with one goal and seven assists, while Boston's Adam Brown follows with four and three for seven points.

Terry Sawchuk, Detroit net-minder, continues to set the pace in the goalies' division. In seven games he has had only eight goals scored against him for an average of 1.14 a game.

Sawchuk is the only goaler with two shutouts to his credit.

Canadiens are the most penalized club with 94 minutes, 20 more than Boston.

Two players share the title of "bad boys" with 18 minutes in the penalty box. They are Montreal's Bernie Geoffrion, a rookie, and Boston's Gus Kyle.

City Carpetball

Next week's schedule: Orphans 16 vs. Moose 9, Fire Hall 13 vs. Red Patch 10 Legion 6 vs. Legion 11, St. George's 12 vs. Quakers 7, Legion 8 vs. Glens 1, SOE 5 vs. Legion 2, 2nd Armour 3 vs. LOL 14, Legion 4 vs. Fire Hall 15. Orphans is substituting for Legion 16, and is skipped by Charles Joyes (phone 5807); for Glens, contact H. Clapham at 5682.

Results at Legion: Legion 8 defeated Red Patch 10 in two 13-5 and 9-7, taking the second in the last two frames; Moose beat Quakers 8-7 but the latter scored a big five next game to win 13-9. Firemen 15 downed Glens 21-11 and 15-9.

At the Citadel, Legion 11 won 8-4 from the Sons but the latter edged out a 9-8 win next game. At the fire hall, the Scouts lost twice to the Smoke-eaters 10-9 and 16-6. Three others were defaulted, Legion 16 to Legion 2, Legion 6 to St. George's 12, and Legion 4 to LOL 14.

All skips are called to an emergency meeting at two pm sharp Sunday, Nov. 4, at the Orange Hall. The meeting will last only half an hour.

Members who have completed books of tickets, phone 4464 and they will be picked up with the cash. Keep selling them. More may be obtained from any executive member. Standing to October 27:

Zorra, Layton At Brock Tonite

Lord Athol Layton, the big, aggressive Briton, will oppose Zorra, the French Tarzan, in the main wrestling bout at the Brock tonight. Two of the best-built men in sport and two top-notch matmen, their bout here a couple of weeks ago was such an outstanding clash that they were re-matched by public demand. Zorra, with his amazing footwork, figures to give the judo-chopping Layton, with the English octopus specialty hold, a stern and exciting test.

Chief Suni War Cloud, the Wasak tribe Indian, will meet Toar Morgan in the semi-final. Lou Sjoberg will oppose Flying Pat Flanagan in the opener.

HER CHAMPION — Heavyweight Rocky Marciano, of Brockton, Mass., is served breakfast in bed by his proud wife, Barbara May, in a New York hotel. Rocky drew nearer to a shot at the title when he kayoed ex-champ Joe Louis in their Madison Square Garden clash.

McGarry Appointed Coach Of Beaches

TORONTO, Oct. 30 (CP). — Paul McGarry, manager of the Balmy Beach Football Club for the last three years, has been appointed coach of the Toronto entry in the Ontario Rugby Football Union for the remainder of the season.

McGarry's appointment Monday followed the dismissal last Friday of Art West, who handled the team since the start of the season.

Rumors that the club was disbanding and would not go into the ORFU finals against Sarnia were emphatically denied by McGarry Monday night.

Canadiens Belt Rangers In 6-1 Triumph, As Leafs and Wings Tied

By The Canadian Press

Players shared the National Hockey League spotlight with Royalty Monday night. Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh saw their first complete hockey game. It turned out to be a runaway as Montreal Canadiens belted New York Rangers 6-1 before the Royal couple and 14,048 cash customers in Montreal. Meanwhile, Toronto Maple Leafs fought to a 2-2 deadlock with Detroit Red Wings in the only other scheduled game. The tie cost Detroit one point of their lead; the second-place Canadiens climbed to within two points of the Wings. Leafs moved into a fourth-place tie with the idle Chicago Black Hawks.

Floyd Curry highlighted the game in Montreal, scoring three goals in the middle period. Maurice (The Rocket) Richard fired a pair, bringing his season total to seven and his NHL service total to 299.

Ken Mosdell accounted for Canadiens' first goal. It came only 15 seconds before the period ended and erased the one-goal lead set up earlier by Reggie Sinclair of Rangers.

Attentive Audience

Princess Elizabeth followed play intently, but Philip was more demonstrative. He scanned his program often and at one time pointed out Richard to his wife. He laughed while joining the applause for goals and seemed highly amused when Canadiens' Ross Lowe sent Don Raleigh of the Rangers tumbling almost over the boards, and again when Richard and Steve Kraftcheck almost came to blows just before the game ended.

Detroit's tie snapped a four-game winning streak, and came from the only club that has beaten the Wings in their seven starts this season. It was old reliable Max Bentley who gave Leafs the deadlock when he blasted the puck past little Terry Tawchuk with eight minutes left in the game.

Leafs took a 1-0 lead in the second period on Jim Thomson's long try which was deflected in by Sid Smith. Three minutes later Tony Leswick outfought goalie Al Rollins for rookie Alex Delvecchio's rebound, poking the puck home from close range, to tie the score.

Later in the second, Delvecchio set up Glen Skov with a perfect pass, Skov converting for a 2-1 lead.

Bentley's shot in the final frame was a deflection goal. Bill Juzda made the shot from the blue line, Bentley turning it over Sawchuk's shoulder.

Canadiens will make their initial appearance on Toronto ice when they meet Leafs Wednesday night, the only game scheduled.

Frost Promises New Deal To Aid Mining Municipalitie

By The Canadian Press

A new tax deal that will boost the revenues of northern mining municipalities was promised Monday night by Premier Frost in an Ontario election campaign speech in the gold-mining town of Timmins.

The adress was the first during a swing that will take the premier to most settled parts of the province.

E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario CCF leader, told a Fergus gathering that a CCF administration would expand and reorganize the Agricultural College at Guelph.

Liberal Leader Walter Thomson, speaking at Belleville and Madoc in Eastern Ontario, repeated his pledge to cut the 11-cents-a-gallon gasoline tax by three cents and said tax reforms by a Liberal government would lower the cost of living.

Premier Frost said a soon-to-be-issued report of a special committee will contain proposals for an improved system of distributing mine taxes to the mining towns. Later, he explained to reporters that the proposed change in allocation of the taxes will not mean an increase in the rate.

Paid For Service

The mining towns have long pressed for a redistribution of the taxes. In most cases, the mines are outside municipal boundaries, so that the municipality gets no taxes directly from them, although it provides services for workers who live in the town. Even mines within a municipality are not subject to ordinary property taxes but are taxed by the province, which in turn pays to the municipality.

Mr. Frost said the proposed change will mean that a mining municipality will get payments in relation to services provided. It would result in "very large increases in the income of mining municipalities and will help the municipal taxpayers."

Mr. Thomson said a Liberal government would reduce the cost of living by cutting taxes. One of the first steps would be to slash three cents from the present 11-cents-a-gallon gasoline tax. Farmers would use tax-free gasoline as would operators of municipal vehicles driven within their own municipality.

"We must bring taxes down," he said. "We've got to stop or we're going over the cliff into bankruptcy.

Belongs To Municipalities

"The province cannot grab everything and then dole it back in grants. Every cent that reaches Queen's Park belongs to the municipalities."

He urged that municipal government be "given back to the municipality."

Mr. Jolliffe also criticized the government over taxation, accusing it of increasing its surpluses at the expense of provincial subsidies and forcing municipalities to raise their tax rates. He repeated his party's pledge of an "emergency subsidy" to municipalities—equal to 10-per-cent of their 1951 revenue—to "help them hold the tax line."

He pledged his party, if elected, to expanding and reorganizing the facilities of the agricultural colleges. They were efficient and well-administered, but were insufficient to keep Ontario abreast of the great modern advances in the science of agriculture.

The Ontario Agricultural College, the Ontario Veterinary College and the Macdonald Institute were called upon to render services more diversified than those provided by any other college or university.

Rescue 3 Children

TORONTO, Oct. 30—(CP)—Three small children of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Pawlett were rescued from their flaming home Monday by older children who ran in and pulled them out. The three rescuers were Harry Guyatt, 14, Norman Rockall, and Ron Lee, both 12, students at a public school across the street from the Pawlett home.

HAPPY HEARTS — Princess Elizabeth, surrounded by admiring crowds, smiles for a group of wounded veterans during the Royal couple's visit Sunday at the Canadian Joint Air Training Command at Riyers, Man. The wounded veterans, including Sgt. Bill Raithby of Goderich, Ont., on the stretcher were specially transported from Winnipeg's Deer Lodge military hospital after being by-passed during the Royal couple's visit to the prairie capital.

MP Asks Duties Taken Off Books, Boost Reading

OTTAWA, Oct. 30 (CP). — R. R. Knight (CCF, Saskatoon) said Monday in the Commons the government should encourage serious reading in Canada by removing duties on good books.

Speaking during resumed debate on the Speech from the Throne, the 59-year-old former Saskatoon school teacher said the government should make a start on the establishment of a national library. He also suggested an extension of federal aid to education.

Mr. Knight said that taxes and duties now pushed the cost of good books beyond the reach of the average Canadian. University students also could ill afford to pay the imposts placed on necessary reference books.

Refers To Report

He referred to the report of the Massey Commission on Arts, Letters and Science and congratulated the government for having made a grant of $7,000,000 to Canadian universities. This was in line with a recommendation of the commission.

The grant, an acknowledgment of the fact that the quality of education is a national concern, would help to provide better teachers for the junior schools where the bulk of Canadians receive their education.

He added: "It is my opinion that it would be in the national interest for the federal government to proceed now to devise the best method to subsidize general and high school education to the end that the quality of education might be improved generally and that there should be some degree of equalization of educational opportunity to all Canadian children."

- Railway level crossings to be abolished by three-way plan.

TO CONSERVE OUR RESOURCES

- Forest wealth preserved as part of vast conservation program. 20,000,000 trees provided annually by Government nurseries.
- Canadian manufacture of forest products rather than export of raw materials.
- Development of mining resources—including huge iron deposits—aided by Government action.

TO PRESERVE GOOD GOVERNMENT

- Lowest provincial taxation in Canada.
- Provincial credit at an all-time high—eight consecutive balanced budgets.
- $100,000,000 in municipal grants to relieve local taxpayer.
- No provincial sales tax—no provincial income tax.
- Good relations maintained with Federal and all other Governments.

Campbellford Citizens . . .

False rumours are being circulated in your town; that if government stores are voted in it will only be a short time until a beverage room is established.

THIS IS NOT TRUE

The Liquor Control Act clearly states that a Beverage Room cannot be established for at least 3 years and then only by a 2/3 majority vote at the polls.

YOUR AFFIRMATIVE COMMITTEE WILL NEVER SUPPORT A BEVERAGE ROOM

Not one Beverage Room has been established in any Ontario town since 1935 as a result of voting for legal control.

Algae Here To Stay In Kawarthas

Resort Operators Ask Solution; Weather Blamed

Algae, the green curse of the Kawarthas, was the first and foremost problem in the minds of more than 80 district resort operators and their wives at the all-day session of their third annual conference on Monday.

From the number and tone of the questions fired at experts of the department of lands and forests, of health and to engineers of the Trent Valley system, it was evident that the green scum situation had raised their ire considerably.

They demand a method, at once, for getting rid of the nasty situation. And even when its cause was explained at length it was evident that a great many operators were not enlightened. Nor were they willing to tolerate it any longer, for any reason.

President Jim Jones of the Lakefield Chamber of Commerce headed the panel on the algae discussion. He called on A. Rankin of the department of health who explained briefly that this form of plankton occurred when water temperatures were suitable and also with the degree of penetration of sunlight in water. Mr. Rankin also suggested that an excess of domestic sewage "might" be the cause and that the release of partly-treated sewage into the Kawarthas would not retard the growth of algae.

Special Problem

To Dr. W. K. Harkness chief of the wildlife division of the lands and forests, fell the brunt of attacks. He started off by explaining that all water, both salt and fresh, contained plankton but that conditions in some areas created a great deal more of it than in others. The Kawarthas, he said, were a very special and local problem.

Here, the run-off from agricultural lands stimulated the fertilization of algae. The increase of settlement in towns, cities and resorts—that stepped up the sewage disposal in waters—was also a fertilization factor. And the most unpredictable factor of all was the weather — summer heat and sunlight. The only good point about the algae situation, said Dr. Harkness, was that areas rich in plankton growth were the most favourable for fish producing.

Was there an immediate solution for clearing the Kawarthas of green scum?

Yes, said Dr. Harkness, but only in small bay areas where a log boom thrown across the water surface would arrest surface flowing plankton, and, the application of copper sulphate solution. However, it was pointed out, this treatment would have to be done under government supervision and would not do the remainder of large water areas any good. An excess of treatment would also kill all fish life.

Here To Stay

It appeared, in summarization, that algae was here to stay and if man could control sewage seepage and run-off water problems, the weather, which he could not control, remained the deciding factor.

The second most important talk of the conference was the operation, and some of the many problems, that face the workings of the Trent waterway system. It was given by engineer Charles Hirst. He pointed out that $5,000,000 worth of Hydro electric power was developed annually in Trent powerhouses and to produce the required waterheater millions of water acres were controlled by 70 dams.

The Trent engineers must also work co-operatively with all lumber operations and summer cottage colonies. To the latter class the maintenance of fairly constant water levels was a great problem, especially when it had to be dove-tailed into the requirements of lumbering and hydro operations.

Just On Trial

Two young boys found themselves locked in the women's cell block Monday afternoon during open house. They blamed their companion for closing the corridor gate on them. A patient constable unlocked the gate and gave them a mild warning. When one of the constables asked Chief Constable John Thompson if some of the more boisterous children shouldn't be restrained, the chief said only if they made a nuisance of themselves or showed signs of doing damage. "It's open house," he said.

5,000 Citizens Inspect New City Hall

Five thousand citizens, most of them taxpayers, strolled through the city hall Monday night admiring its attractive appearance, utility and arrangement. That figure was an estimate of the large number of people who looked in on the gift to them of the splendid building that is the bequest of their one-time mayor, the late W. G. Morrow.

Several of the speakers at the opening ceremony Friday referred to the munificence of this inheritance, and Mr. J. G. Hungerford of the National Trust Co., the executors of the will, said he could not find in Canada any record of a gift for a similar purpose approaching in its amount the bequest of Mr. Morrow to the people of Peterborough.

The reality of a long series of slowly moving and developing events spread out before the men and women who leisurely made their way through the shining corridors and past the offices, then upstairs to the council chamber, which surpasses the expectations probably of all but those who were engaged in the planning.

Machine Room.

They even wandered into the machine room, a soundproof annex to the general office where various details of accountancy, including mechanical writing of the tax bills, are carried on.

All the members of the staff and of the women's study group on civic affairs acted as guides. Mr. Charles Allen was at the Crone organ, and coffee and cakes were served.

For the information of the citizens it may be mentioned that the final financial stage and report of the building of the city hall has not yet been completed. Nor is it known here yet what will be the exact amount of the funds which will be paid to the city by the National Trust Co. in their fulfillment of the terms of Mr. Morrow's will. His bequest was directed toward the cost of the building, and the city assumed the cost of site plus furnishings.

Money For Site.

The City Trust Commission has provided the sum of $125,000 from their accumulated reserves to be used in the buying of the land in city hall block .Total cost of that item of site cannot yet be determined until expropriation of part of the property is disposed of. It is still before the courts.

The amount of the contribution from the City Trust is correct at $125,000 instead of the larger sum which was recently published. However, it is understood that the Commission has a backlog of $50,000 which they have wished to hold for any present emergency but that otherwise it will be made available to the site purchase.

Many young men and their wives were noticed in the stream of visitors last night. The doors were opened at 7.15 o'clock instead of 7.30 because at that time there was a line-up of people four or five abreast extending from the main entrance down and around the corner of George and Murray Streets.

The afternoon visitors were also numerous, and the public is reminded that the same arrangements are in effect this evening from 7.30 until 9 o'clock.

The only variation will be the absenec of Mayor Chamberlain and Alderman Martin and their wives from Peterborough, England.

They left this morning at 8 o'clock for Ottawa on the invitation of Mayor Charlotte E. Whitton who has prepared an interesting program for this afternoon and Wednesday. The guests are returning here on Thursday.

Grand Jury Brings In Three True Bills In Criminal Charges

Motor Manslaughter Hearing Begins In Trial Of Gladys Long Charged In Death Of 10-Year-Old Boy

The first four Crown witnesses were heard before noon today in trial of Gladys Long, 43, Montreal, charged with motor manslaughter, dangerous driving, and failing to remain at the scene of an accident. Miss Long is alleged to be the driver of the car that on the afternoon of June 9 struck and killed 10-year-old David Sanderson as he was pushing his bicycle up the side of Highway 7, slightly more than a mile and a half north of the city. The boy was found on a rock, 21 feet east of the paved surface, and 77 feet north of where his slightly damaged bicycle was found.

Sanderson was pronounced dead by Coroner Dr. Herbert Young when the coroner arrived at the scene of the accident. In court today he said death was caused by head and brain injuries the result of a heavy blow.

Miss Long, defended by T. J. Carley, KC, assisted by I. E. Weldon, KC, pleaded not guilty on all three counts of the indictment.

A further charge of drunken driving was previously adjourned to Nov. 6.

When the assizes resumed today before Justice W. F. Spence the Grand Jury brought in "true" bills on each of the three criminal cases they were charged to hear.

Mrs. Thompson

Mrs. Lillian Thompson, 35, Howden Ave., will stand trial on a charge of murdering her husband by shooting him with a .22 calibre rifle last August 25. It is still not a certainty whether this trial will go on because Mrs. Thompson had a baby a week ago.

Melville Wood, 21, Harvey St., also had a "true" bill returned against him. He faces trial on two counts: Motor manslaughter arising out of the death of Lorne Russel, 21, Oshawa, fatally injured as he walked north on Highway 28 last June 29; and a second charge of dangerous driving.

A third charge of drunken driving was previously adjourned to Nov. 20.

Two of the Crown witnesses in the Long trial were photographers Morris Duke and Stanley Bright, Lindsay, who identified photographic exhibits of the locale of the accident and the damage to the Long car.

Dr. Herbert Young sand he ordered Sanderson's body taken to Civic Hospital for post-mortem X-rays of the head and neck. He said the boy had a fractured skull and possibly a fractured neck.

There were some scratches on his face, but no body bruises; and there were no other bones broken.

OPP Corporal Joseph Hanson, in charge of the investigation, said he was called to the accident at 3:10 pm, and he found the body of Sanderson on a rock, 21 feet east of the east edge of the highway. The damaged bicycle was 77 feet south and some six feet from the east edge or the highway.

Bicycle Tracks

There were bicycle tracks on the gravel surface, east of the highway, leading up almost to where the bicycle was lying. Bits of glass were scattered on the highway for 553 feet, most of it in the east lane.

Later that night, with Lindsay police, Cpl. Hanson went to 8 Adelaide Street in Lindsay and found the Long car parked in the driveway. The right front fender was damaged, the right front headlight was broken, and a chrome strip from the front of the car was found inside.

At 9 pm he had a conversation with Miss Long in company with her solicitor, Mr. Weldon. She was then arrested by OPP Constable Pollard and cautioned.

She made no statement, Cpl. Hanson said.

The trial was resumed at 2:15 pm, with Mr. Carley cross-examining Cpl. Hanson.

About 30 witnesses have been subpoened by the Crown, and the trial is expected to last two days.

Low Rate Ends On Food Parcels Sent To Britain

Special low postage rates on Canadian gift food parcels to Britain are being wiped out, effective next Jan. 1, Postmaster Harry White said today.

Without estimating the number of parcels that go through this city's post office anually, he said he expected that a large number of people in Peterborough would be affected.

The difference that will have to be paid amounts to 50 cents on a 20-pound food parcel being sent as a gift. The special rate was $2; the new rate is $2.50.

The special rates were originally introduced to give concessions to Commonwealth mailers similar to those enjoyed by the US public because of the economic cooperation agreement. With suspension of ECA, the basic reason for the reduction in rates no longer exists.

Mail To Servicemen

At the same time, the Postmaster General's Department in Ottawa announced new low rates for mail going to servicemen serving under General Dwight Eisenhower in Europe.

These rates will be effective for wherever Canadian army and air force personnel may be stationed in Europe.

Effective immediately, parcels for the Canadian forces in Europe will get a special rate of 15 cents a pound up to a limit of 10 pounds. They must be addressed with the number, rank, unit of the servicemen, and sent to CAPO 5050 or 5051, care of the postmaster, Montreal.

Ordinary parcel rates to Europe are generally much more than 15 cents a pound.

The department also said that the 10-cent Canadian air letter, addressed in the same way, may be used on letters to any Canadian forces on the continent of Europe. Otherwise, the 15-cent Canadian air letter must be used.

Part of Canada's 27th Brigade already is en route to Germany, and an RCAF fighter squadron will leave soon to form part of the Western European defence forces.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

LAST CHANCE.

Today will be the last chance to see the exhibits of paintings by Calgary artists at the public library, Librarian William Graff reported that the exhibit will be taken down Wednesday.

COAL BOX BURNS

About $30 damage was caused to a coal bin Monday night at the rear of the home of Harold Vollans, 421 Wellington St. Some rags or other rubbish somehow ignited in the bin and burned out one side.

NAMED TO COUNCIL.

Named to the Dominion Council of the Canadian Jewish Congress at their ninth biennial convention in Montreal was Mrs. Irving Moldaver, Homewood Ave. She was one of more than 300 elected to the council from the ten provinces.

NEW MOON

The new moon may be briefly visible in the west tonight. There are two others on the calendar before the year is out. One is on Nov. 28 and the other on Dec. 28. The new crescent follows the hunters' and the harvest moons of autumn.

MARMORA VISITORS

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Neath of Marmora, formerly of Peterborough, England, met the official party from the Old Country city Monday afternoon at city hall open house. Mayor Chamberlain and Alderman Martin met other former residents of their city during the afternoon and evening, and were pleasantly surprised at the number from Peterborough.

Duffy Switches To Liberals, PCs Astonished

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 30.—Some pre-election wrangling is going on in this lakeshore city over the nomination to the Liberal candidacy of Angus Duffy, former sergeant-major with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

Progressive Conservatives in the city say they are amazed, surprised and astonished. One referred to Duffy's "four or five years" in the PC Party. Duffy said he was a member until 1946, not long after his discharge from the army.

Duffy said he once attended Conservative meetings, but withdrew when he found "they didn't know where they were going and they weren't progressive at all."

Said P-C Sandercock, MPP in the last House: "I certainly thought he was one of our boys, although I know he was never an officer of the party here."

Ran For Office

Gerald Hyde, until recently P-C Party secretary here, said: "The Liberal candidate was a paid-up member of the Conservative Association....and he was defeated once when he ran for the vice-presidency."

Monday night, Duffy's connections with the Liberal Party were solidified in the public eye by his appearance on the platform with Liberal Leader Walter Thomson.

Duffy will be remembered by a number of Peterborough men who were once Hasty-Pees, as a tough sergeant-major. The Duffy Club—a veterans' organization—in Peterborough is named for him. Duffy is also president of the Hasty-Pees Association.

Operating Table Presented To Tuberculosis Hospital By Peterborough Assoc.

WESTON, Oct. 30. (Staff)—A $2,100 operating table was officially presented to the Toronto hospital for tuberculosis, Weston, Ont., by the Peterborough county tuberculosis association on Monday afternoon. The presentation took place in the operating room of the Weston sanitorium where the table was installed early in the summer.

Representatives of the Peterborough TB association and members of the hospital staff watched as James M. Heffernan, president, presented the cheque for the table to E. C. MacLeod, president of the hospital board of trustees.

"A few months ago the Peterborough association decided to do something for the Western sanitorium and we decided that this gift of an operating table would be the best contribution," Mr. Heffernan remarked during the presentation.

In his words of appreciation to the Peterborough association, Mr. Macleod called the gift a noble contribution to the important work carried on at the hospital.

"This efficient and modern table is the best gift your association could have made to us," he said. "And I would like to extend to you and your association the heartfelt thanks for your kind and generous contribution."

Appreciation for the table was also expressed by Dr. C. A. Wicks, superintendent of the hospital.

"The Peterborough association is well known for its work at this hospital," he said. "This is only one of many contributions you make. Your association also provides us with a grant that makes it possible to publish our san paper and also carry on important rehabilitative work."

Following the presentation, one of the staff doctors demonstrated the table's distinctive features.

Fully Adjustable

The table is adjusted to any height or position by a system of gears which are operated by the attending anaesthetist. Attachments include various clamps which hold patients firmly in any position. Other attachments which make the surgeon's job easier are swinging arm instrument tabels.

The presentation ceremonies were only a small part of the day's agenda covered by six members of the Peterborough association.

Leaving Peterborough early Monday morning the group drove first to Sunnybrook hospital, Toronto. Here TB patients from Peterborough and district were visited by every member of the group.

From here they went to Weston where eight patients from the home county were visited.

The afternoon also included a complete tour of the san. Even the children's building was visited with members of the group stopping to watch children at play and working at various hobbies.

Justice Spence WelcomedToCity

Justice W. F. Spence, making his first appearance in Peterborough as a circuit judge, was welcomed to the city Monday afternoon by F. D. Kerr, KC, senior member of the Peterborough Bar.

In the formal speech opening assizes Mr. Ker rrecalled that he knew Justice Spence's father, the late Senator Spence, as a personal friend.

Mr. Kerr also invited Justice Spence to visit Peterborough's $750,000 city hall and the $4,500,000 Civic hospital. By doing so, suggested Mr. Kerr, he could see the contribution the present inhabitants are making to the city and county. The court house, where the assizes are being held, is a monument to the enterprise of Peterborough's forbears.

Justice Spence instructed the 13-man grand jury on their duties. But first he gave them a brief history of the grand jury system.

The Grand Inquest in medieval times was the predecessor to the Grand Jury. The present body's task is much like that of the Grand Inquest, he said. They return a "true" or "no" bill.

But the Grand Inquest came to a decision on the basis of their own knowledge. They accepted hearsay and unsworn evidence and then came to their own conclusion.

The Grand Jury listens to testimony given under oath and according to the strict rules of evidence.

The task of the Grand Jury, said Justice Spence, is not to decide the guilt or innocence of the indicted person but whether or not he should stand trial.

Also the Grand Jury has a right to inspect every institution in the county maintained in full or in part by public funds.

He then explained the indictments and the Grand Jury retired to bring in "true" or "no" bills against:

Lillian Thompson, 35, Howden Ave., charged with the murder of her husband.

Gladys Long, 43, Montreal, charged with motor manslaughter, failing to remain at the scene of an accident, and dangerous driving.

And Melville Wood, 21, Harvey St., charged with motor manslaughter and dangerous driving.

Wallet Missing

Hockey practice proved a bit expensive for Roy Armstrong, 19, of 517 Stewart St., Sunday afternoon.

After practicing with the IOOF junior team, at the Civic Arena, Roy discovered his wallet, containing six dollars and valuable papers, including his driver's licence was not in his pocket when he changed back into his street clothes.

A watch in another trouser pocket was still there.

The loss was reported to team manager, Len Symonds.

Young Driver Wrecks Car

A record may have been set in Lindsay this week when a 15-year-old Lindsay boy was fined $10 and costs on a careless driving charge while a second charge of dangerous driving was dismissed by Magistrate E. A. Gee.

OPP Constable Ray Lawson testified that on October 14 he was called to the western town limits where he found a car resting against a tree. Damage to the car amounted to $1,000.

He added that the boy's car had nicked a four-foot-square checkerboard, cut off a service club sign on a steel post and another sign on a six-inch-square post before hitting the tree.

The boy received a bad cut along the left jaw.

The youth told the court that he had "blacked out" and couldn't recall anything until he came to in the hospital.

His mother said that the heater in the car had recently caused her to become sleepy shortly after it was turned on.

Drunks Fined In Police Court

Charged with being intoxicated in a public place, Keith Dunning, 21, of 281 Park Street North pleaded guilty in Police Court on Monday and was fined $10, and $2.50 costs.

Charged with being intoxicated in a public place, David Burpee, 116 Sumner Street, Oshawa, pleaded guilty, and was fined $10, and $2.50 in costs.

On a written plea of guilty, Albert Leahy, 56, of RR 10, Peterborough, was ordered to pay a fine of $10, and $2.50 costs, on a charge of being intoxicated in a public place.

Charles Lowery, 67 Rehold Avenue, Toronto, entered a written plea of guilty on a charge of being intoxicated in a public place, and was also fined $10, and $2.50 costs.

Miss Ann Taylor, 23, of 128 Hazlitt Street, pleaded guilty to a charge of consuming liquor in a place other than a residence, and was sentenced to one month in county jail. On July 16 of this year, Miss Taylor was convicted of being intoxicated in a public place.

UN To Thresh Out Plans For Pouncing On Aggressor

PARIS, Oct. 30 (CP).—Plans for pouncing on aggressors will be threshed out at the sixth United Nations General Assembly.

Russia is expected to wage a stiff verbal onslaught against western power proposals for a UN military authority scheduled to come before the Assembly opening here Nov. 6.

Two major considerations underly the western powers' determination to have plans laid in advance in the event of future aggression:

1. To avoid the lack of organization noted when the North Koreans attacked South Korea.
2. To insure that no Russian veto can stop UN action against an aggressor. When North Korea began the Korean war, Russia was in the midst of a general walkout from all organs of the UN over the question of Chinese Communist membership. Thus the Security Council at that time was free to go ahead with its anti-aggression plans. The next time with the Soviet back in its seat, things might be different.

The anti-aggression proposals come out of the collective measures committee created by the last Assembly. Canada is a member of the group and, as one of the first UN members to provide armed forces for the organization has helped frame the proposals.

Major Provision

A major provision of the plans is for the UN to work in times of aggression in close co-operation with regional defence organizations — such as the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Under the proposals, a regional defence organization might even take charge of the military operations in the name of the UN.

The executive military authority of the UN could be set up by the security council—where the veto prevails—or by the General Assembly—where nobody has a veto.

The mi' y authority could be one sta' a group of countries.

In the Korean war, the unified command is in effect the United States government alone. The UN Security Council gave the US the authority to set up the command in its name and to name its commander.

Some UN officials see in these collective security proposals the means whereby the UN will become the world security body visualized when the organization was formed. They say the steps are among the most important the UN has considered.

Tone Being Held After Columnist Row

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 30—(AP)—Actor Franchot Tone was booked on suspicion of battery early today after columnist Florabel Muir said he spat in her face.

Miss Muir said Tone approached her table at Ciro's restaurant and "stuck out his hand as if in greeting. He said 'hello,' and 'how are you'. I thought he had come over for a chat. But he was apparently angry about something—I don't know what."

She quoted him as saying "I'm so mad I could spit in your face. As a matter of fact I will." Miss Muir said she slapped him and he kicked her in the shin.

The column item to which Tone objected was not disclosed.

Report Arrest In Fire Inquiry

QUEBEC, Oct. 30 (CP). — Le Soleil reported Monday that one man has been arrested and released by Montreal district provincial police in their investigation into destruction by fire of the SS Quebec.

The Quebec daily newspaper reported that provincial police arrested a man a few days ago, but released him after questioning. The newspaper said the inquiry is being continued.

The SS Quebec caught fire a half-hour out of Tadoussac, on the St. Lawrence River 120 miles below Quebec, in August, 1950.

Three Montrealers and four United States citizens, among 400 passengers aboard the ship, perished in the fire.

A court of inquiry into the fire brought in a report recommending police investigation. The court's conclusion was that a "criminal hand" figured in the blaze.

Can Produce Both Guns, Butter In Canada, Businessmen Believe

By FORBES RHUDE

QUEBEC, Oct. 30 (CP)—With co-operation and understanding between government and business, Canada should be able to produce both "guns and butter," D. L. Morrell, general manager, said today in his annual report to the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

The report, also signed by F. J. Cunningham of Montreal, chairman of the chamber's executive council, was presented at the opening session of the chamber's three-day annual meeting.

Reviewing the last year, Mr. Morrell said over-all conditions in Canada have been resting on a foundation of vigorous capital expenditures and an unprecedented volume of export trade; and along with these, the $5,000,000,000 three-year defence program.

"The effects of this program," he said, "are creating problems, and these will be accentuated as defence production picks up.

"In order to raise the necessary revenues and to reduce inflationary pressures, the federal government has sharply increased taxes. Consumer credit has been restricted, non-essential building discouraged and bank loans generally tightened.

"These steps were designed to strike at the root of inflation by 'siphoning off surplus purchasing power.' However, the effect has not been altogether what was expected.

"Higher taxes have prompted demands for higher wages. We have all the outward appearance of spiralling inflation at the very time when world commodity prices have fallen to the July, 1950, level . . . Unfortunately, this was created for the futile panacea of price controls.

"The overstocking by consumers, and in some cases the consequent over-production, earlier this year in anticipation of government action is in slow process of correction. However, restrictive taxes and credit policies tend to retard readjustments and provike a few scattered pools of unemployment which are as anachronistic as they are locally disturbing.

"At the moment, Canada is shifting from a peace economy to a partial war economy. Certain sacrifices would seem to be in prospect for 1952. The defence program is just emerging from its inventory stage. This preliminary development has necessitated heavy spending in the United States without compensating purchases by the United States in Canada.

"Business men feel that many of the shocks might have been cushioned. Nevertheless, they believe that in 1952 when the defence program is meshed into the economy, financial and economic policies can be based on actual rather than anticipated requirements."

Urges $200 Grant

TORONTO, Oct. 30—(CP)—Stanley W. Martin, chairman of the accounting section of the Ontario Hospital Association, Monday suggested an annual grant for schools of nursing on the basis of $200 a student. Delegates to the Association's 27th annual convention also heard C. J. Telfer, a director of the Ontario Department of Health, explain the provincial hospital policy. He said that Ontario's hospital program represented an expenditure of $115,000,000 in the last five years.

To Aid Indians

TORONTO, Oct. 30—(CP)—A new organization for the development and preservation of Indian arts and talents called the Toronto Indian Club has been formed at the central YMCA here. Besides furthering the cultural advancement of its members, the club hopes to established a social meeting centre for North American Indians living in Toronto and district.

Family Evicted

BRAMPTON, Oct. 30—(CP)—A family of five, including three children, was evicted Monday because the landlord wouldn't instal a sanitary sewer in the home. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Claridge and their children, the oldest a three-year-old, had occupied the house for four years. It was condemned by the County Health Unit.

MR. MARCEL TREMPE . . .

Mr. Marcel Trempe, at 31, is the father of three small boys of pre-school age. Mr. Trempe and his pretty brunette wife live in a smartly furnished upper flat at 1651 Lajoie Street, a pleasant suburban avenue in Trois Rivieres, Quebec. Mr. Trempe is a laboratory technician working on production controls in the Wayagamack paper-making plant, a job he has held for ten years. He is one of more than a million Canadians who save regularly with Canada Savings Bonds.*

Mr. Trempe, I understand you are a regular purchaser of Canada Savings Bonds. Why do you buy them?

They're all for my boys, later on.

Did you buy your bonds at work? I mean from deductions from your pay?

No, I bought them from my bank. I transferred the money from my savings account into Canada Savings Bonds. I always work to a budget for the sake of my family; that is, so much is for living expenses, so much for clothing, and so much for recreation and vacation, and so much for savings. I think Canada Savings Bonds provide the best way to save. I paid cash for my bonds and they are there, safe, for when I need them.

Do you figure they will come in handy in case of sickness in the family, or perhaps to help you in your old age?

Not for me. I have the hospital plan for sickness and accident protection, and the old age pension plan, too. No, I have all that. My Canada Savings Bonds are all for my boys, for their education. The interest from the bonds will help with the expenses of ordinary schooling, and then the bonds themselves will provide the money for the boys to go to university. I want them to have the best, and with the bonds, I am budgeting for it now.

NOW BETTER THAN EVER

Canada Savings Bonds—6th Series—mature in 10 years and 9 months from date of issue and bear ten 3½% coupons. The first coupon covers 1 year and 9 months and is payable on August 1st, 1953; subsequent coupons come due August 1st yearly thereafter until maturity. If cashed before August 1st, 1953, simple interest is paid at 2% per year, calculated monthly. If held to maturity the overall yield is equivalent to 3.21% per year. The limit for holdings in any one name is $5,000 in the 6th Series. The bonds are cashable at full face value, plus interest at any time at any bank in Canada. They are registered in the owner's name. They are non-assignable and non-transferable.

Envoy Of Canada Dangerous Winspear Warns

QUEBEC, Oct. 30 — (CP) — Francis G. Winspear, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, today warned Canadians that less fortunate peoples of the world may regard them as the Marie Antoinettes of this age.

He recalled that the French Queen, when told that the people had no bread, is supposed to have said: "Let them eat cake." He added:

"Marie Antoinette and her courtiers were the privileged people at the time of Louis XVI. Canadians are the wealthiest people of the world today, probably bearing numerically no greater ratio to the seething Indians and Chinese and Japanese and millions of other world citizens, than did that handful of aristocrats to the population of France...

"You might point out that the aristocrats and courtiers of that day were exploiting the very people around them who were starving, and that they had not created wealth by their own initiative and hard work, whereas we Canadians, a pioneer nation, have not been a parasitical growth developing as a result of other people's misfortunes.

Important Difference

"This is a very important difference, but it is a difference which is hard to impress on those who are less fortunate than we, and it is a difference on which it would be foolish to rely.

"We would not be discharging our responsibility by simply dividing our wealth. In the first place, there wouldn't be enough to go around to materially assist the standard of living of less fortunate people, unless that wealth is continually developed and expanded and unless facilities are continuously improved and operated to the best advantage.

"The ultimate solution to an improved standard of living in all parts of the world is increased production, production for use, and encouragement to produce, save and invest, incentives to develop efficiency and benefit by technical and managerial experience."

PRINCESS AT THROTTLE — Princess Elizabeth drove the 315-ton Canadian National locomotive of the Royal train for 14.4 miles from Yates to Peers, Alta., on the journey from Vancouver to Edmonton. Here the Princess receives instructions from the regular engineer, A. McPhail of Edmonton. The Duke of Edinburgh—who previously had driven the Royal train for part of the journey in Ontario—was fireman while the Princess was at the throttle.

Embargo On Meat Exports Suggested By Canadian MP

OTTAWA, Oct. 30 — (CP) — The federal government was told Monday that an embargo on Canadian meat exports to the United States and larger loans to farmers for production improvements could help to reduce the cost of living in this country.

The suggestions were made in the Commons during a four-hour resumption of the debate on the speech from the throne.

Leon Balcer (PC-Trois Rivieres) said that as long as the government allows meat to be exported to the United States the people of eastern Canada will pay unreasonably high prices for their meat. Their only alternative was to go without or to eat horsemeat.

Mr. Balcer, speaking in French, said that if an embargo was placed on exports to the United States western beef producers would still be able to make a reasonable profit on their sales in eastern Canada.

Maurice Boisvert (L-Nicolet-Yamaska) said that to increase food production the government should extend farm-improvement loans to agricultural producers in larger amounts and at lower interest rates.

Howie Meeker (PC-Waterloo South) in his maiden speech, called for higher pensions for war veterans and action to bring down the cost of living.

F. D. Shaw (SC-Red Deer) said the Canadian people wanted parliament to deal with the cost of living before anything else. He said the public is beginning to feel that it is being taken for "a tax ride". That sentiment was being expressed across the country.

Mr. Balcer said that because of the high costs mothers had to perform miracles with the diets of their children. It did not make sense when beef from the Argentine could be purchased more cheaply in eastern Canada than western beef.

The United States had obtained some success with a system of selective controls and it was time the Canadian government took some action.

The Canadian government was boosting prices by overtaxing the people. The heavy tax on cigarettes was an invitation to smuggling.

Mr. Balcer said he had been informed by the RCMP that seven out of 10 Canadian smokers now were using American cigarettes, most of them smuggled into this country.

Canadian tobacco growers, tobacco shops and manufacturers were hard hit by the heavy taxes.

US Army Set For A-Games

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Oct. 30 — (AP) — US military observers flocked into Camp Desert Rock Monday for atomic army manoeuvres.

The normal camp population of 5,000 soldiers was swelled by the influx of nearly 2,000 men representing every branch of the service.

The troop manoeuvres with atomic weapons support are to be held later this week, probably Thursday, under the direction of Major-Gen. William B. Kean, former commander of the 25th Infantry Division in Japan and Korea.

Test directors of the AEC, obviously well satisfied with Monday's spectacular medium bomb drop, came into Las Vegas for a good night's rest and returned to the Yucca flat test site this morning.

While nothing was said officially, it is believed that the army might set up another dry run test for the troops today before throwing in the baby, or medium, A-bombs—or whatever else the nuclear scientists have up their radio-active sleeves.

If you were a bee, you could, as bees do, use your wings as a fan to cool the house. But while bees are busy ventilating, they can't be gathering honey. So hives with aluminum roofs (ten to fifteen degrees cooler) make bees more efficient. Some day aluminum houses may do the same for housewives.

Aluminum is an ideal insulator for hives — and homes. This is one of a dozen reasons why the demand for aluminum is growing so rapidly, and why we are building new plants and powerhouses to make more aluminum. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

Sorority News

XI IOTA CHAPTER

Mrs. Jack Doughterty, Wallis Drive, was hostess Monday evening for a model meeting of XI Iota Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, which was observed by three rushees.

The rushees, if it is their decision to join the Sorority, were invited to a preferential tea this coming Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ian McRae who has been social sponsor of the Sorority. A banquet at which the new members will be guests is to be held November 19th, and the arrangements for this are in charge of Mrs. Joseph Hiland.

Plans for a Sadie Hawkins type dance to be held in late January were discussed. Miss Norma Shaughnessy will be chairman of a dance committee and will make further announcement at the next meeting.

Cultural topic at this meeting was given by Mrs. Hugh Redmond. She read the interesting history of the Currier and Ives prints which are so frequently seen on Christmas cards and displayed a large collection of the prints in color.

Mrs. M. Caccavella introduced the speaker.

The entertainment opened with a welcome song to the rushees. A skit, presenting the basis of sorority membership, was written in humorous vein by Mrs. M. Caccavella and presented by Mrs. Robert White, Mrs. B. Brown and Mrs. Caccavella.

The evening was called a "Musical Depreciation Nite" and highly entertaining were the Lawrence Tibbett operatic number "Barber of Seville," pantomimed by Miss Shaughnessy, and Al Jolson's Dixie music, pantomimed by Miss Jean Cox.

Lovely refreshments were served by social convener Mrs. Ray Kearns and assistants.

Doris M. Hannon Bride Of Thomas Monteith

Mark St. United Church was decorated with yellow and white carnations and palms for the wedding at two o'clock Saturday afternoon of Doris Marie, daughter of Mr. Arthur Hannon of Norwood and the late Mrs. Hannon, to Thomas Monteith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Monteith of Peterborough.

The Rev. B. A. Morwood performed the ceremony and wedding music was played by Mrs. Cecil Searles, organist.

White satin and Chantilly lace trimmed with pearls fashioned the bride's gown and she wore a fingertip veil of silk illusion caught to a hand-beaded tiara. She carried a bouquet of red roses. Given in marriage by her father, she was attended by Mrs. Herbert Rusaw as matron of honor and Miss Sadie Monteith as bridesmaid. The attendants' frocks were of satin and net in green and pink and they wore chapel length veils of matching color caught to wreaths of orange blossoms.

Mr. Ralph Hannon attended the groom and ushers were Herbert Rusaw and Robert Monteith.

The reception was held at the bride's home at Norwood. Her step-mother received the guests, wearing a grey crepe dress with wine hat and red rose corsage. The groom's mother assisted, attired in navy blue ensemble and also wearing red roses. Guests were from Omemee, Peterborough and Norwood.

For travelling the bride chose a navy suit and accessories.

After a short trip the couple will live at 507 Aylmer St.

Marie Adams Weds Elson F. Patterson

All Saints' Anglican Church, decorated with white and pink chrysanthemums, was setting on Saturday for the marriage of Frances Marie Adams to Elson Frederick Patterson. The ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. M. P. Poole.

The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Adams of Peterborough and was given in marriage by her father. She wore a two-piece dress of robins' egg blue vlevet. The short jacket had long tight sleeves and a small round stand-up collar and the waistline was emphasized with dainty shirred pockets and a slight flare at the back. Her hat was a white feathered model and she carried a white prayer book topped with gardenias.

Miss Fay Adams as bridesmaid for her sister wore a dress in the same style of copperearth velvet and a matching feather hat. She carried a nosegay of light bronze and yellow 'mums.

The groom, who is son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Patterson of Warsaw, was attended by his brother, Mr. Roy Patterson. The ushers were Bart Grainger and Donald McNabb.

Soft organ music was played throughout the ceremony and signing of the register by Miss Margaret Flowers.

The reception of guests took place in the church parlour. The bride's mother was wearing a dress of navy crepe and Chantilly lace and a hat of navy velvet. Her corsage was of pink carnations. The groom's mother wore brown silk faille with a dark green velour hat and her corsage was yellow 'mums.

Friends of the bride who served the refreshments were the Misses Peggy Patterson, Joan Stock, Doreen Whitmore and Marilyn Pomeroy.

When the bride and groom left on a motor trip east and through the United States, the bride was wearing a wool dress of deep purple trimmed with lighter purple and a matching velour hat and had black suede accessories.

On return they will live in Peterborough.

Former Cavan Girl Wed In Hamilton

A wedding of interest to Cavan relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Percy B. Seymour of Hamilton, formerly Cavan, was of their daughter Rachel Jean who became the bride of Lyle Allan Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam A. Smith, Hagersville, in Delta United Church, Hamilton, in a double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Charles Tilbury.

The bride wore a period gown of brocaded satin trimmed with white fur and her long embroidered veil fell from a headdress of white ostrich tips. Matron of honor was her sister Mrs. Gordon W. Penrose, wearing a delphinium blue velvet period gown with matching headdress trimmed with ostrich tips. Miss Barbara Farnan and Miss Marjorie Hunt were in burgundy velvet with matching headdresses. The bride carried red roses and the attendants bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums. Little Mary Lou Dixon, niece of the groom, was dressed in burgundy velvet with matching bonnet and carried yellow pompoms.

Groomsman was Clarke Smith and the ushers were Robert J. Seymour and Hugh Smith, brothers of the bride and groom.

A reception was held at the Rycroft Inn with the bride's mother receiving in a gown of teal blue with a navy hat and accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses. The groom's mother wore plum marquisette with accents of black and her corsage was yellow roses.

Leaving on a trip to the eastern States, returning by Quebec and Ottawa, the bride wore a suit of beige with black trim and carried a black topcoat.

Does Pearls Good To Be Worn To Bed - Experts

LONDON—(CP)—"Is it true that it will increase the beauty of my pearls to sleep in them, or is it just an old wives' tale?"

An odd question, but one that jewelers are frequenlty being asked nowadays as fashion has brought pearls—real, cultured and imitation—into such wide popularity.

Though a traditional belief, it is none the less true. Not only can you wear your pearls when sleeping, but you can bathe with them—either in the sea or in the bath-tub. The old custom has a sound foundation in scientific fact.

Real pearls contain oil which tends to dry out as time goes by. By contact with the human skin they have the power of absorbing oil from the pores and replacing that which is lost. In many cases the oil from the skin enhances a pearl's beauty and it gains in lustre.

Gets Natural Gloss

In the case of cultured and imitation pearls, a leading London manufacturer who is also a pearl expert had this to say:

"Human contact puts a natural gloss on the stone, in just the same way as an oyster does, and very often the pearls look better after 20 years than when they are new. They can easily be cleaned by washing in soap-suds and the only thing which can harm them is any kind of acid."

Some of the latest types of imitation pearls made in Britain are known as "ivory quality" and are probably some of the best ever produced. Each pearl is manufactured separately and carefully selected for matching color and size before being made up into the fashionable styles of the day.

Delay Operations When Nurses Quit

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (AP). — Surgical operations have been suspended except in emergency at Kings County Hospital in Brooklyn—one of the city's largest—because of a shortage of nurse anaesthetists, it was learned yesterday.

The action was taken Oct. 19, after two of the hospital's remaining seven nurse anaesthetists quit for higher-paying jobs after the city took no action on a request for a $600-yearly raise. Originally the hospital had 12 nurse anaesthetists.

Trip To Boston Follows Nuptials Landregan-Heath

The marriage of Joyce Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Heath of Peterborough, to Donald Allan Landrigan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert William Landrigan of Penetanguishene, was solemnized Saturday morning at the Sacred Heart Church by the Rev. Gerard Sullivan.

Bouquets of fall flowers decorated the altar table. The music was played by Mr. Heribert Michel and during the signing of the register Mr. D. Hurtibuise sang "On This Day."

Given in marriage by her father the bride was gowned in white slipper satin and Chantilly lace. An overskirt of satin fell into a long, lace-trimmed cathedral train and the bodice was finished with a yoke of lace. The long pointed sleeves were trimmed with pearl buttons with rhinestone centres. Her fingertip veil was caught to a tiara of seed pearls and rhinestones and she carried a cascade of American beauty roses.

Bridal attendants were Miss Winona Roscoe and Misses Teresa and Gloria Heath and Lois Berry was flower girl. They were frocked in turquoise and yellow taffeta, designed similarly to the bride's gown and they wore pearl tiaras and elbow length gloves to match the gowns. The flower girl carried a little basket of flowers and the attendants had bouquets of baby 'mums.

Groomsman was Francis Heath and the ushers were Wilfrid Sexsmith and Byron Heath.

The reception was held at the Club Aragon where the bride's mother received attired in a grey suit and matching accessories and wearing a corsage of red roses. The groom's mother wore a two piece brown ensemble and matching accessories and had a corsage of yellow tea roses.

On their wedding trip the couple will visit Boston and New York. For travelling the bride wore a brown gabardine suit and had a rose topcoat and matching accessories.

MR. AND MRS. ROSS ALTHOUSE, of Norwood, the bride formerly Miss Barbara Cuthbertson.—D. W. Audas Photo.

Althouse-Cuthbertson Rites

NORWOOD (ENS)—A pretty autumn wedding took place in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Norwood, on Saturday afternoon of Barbara Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil H. Cuthbertson, to Lloyd Ross Althouse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Colin H. Althouse, all of Norwood. The minister, the Rev. R. D. Duncansop, performed the ceremony.

Mauve, yellow and white 'mums decorated the church. Wedding music was played by Mrs. John Rogers and during the signing of the register Mrs. Wm. Garden Jr. sang "Because".

The bride's gown of white satin was made with a high Victorian neckline with lace collar and had lace insets in sleeves coming to points over her hands. The skirt fell into a long train. Her fingertip veil was of Chantilly lace and was caught to a pearl-studded tiara. She carried a bouquet of American beauty roses and baby white 'mums. She was given in marriage by her father.

Miss Jean Hylslop, maid of honor, and Miss Jacquelyn Rogers, bridesmaid, were frocked alike in yellow and mauve brocaded taffeta and each wore a bonnet of her dress material and mittens. They carried nosegays of mauve and yellow carnations.

Mr. Howard Scott was the groomsman. Ushers were Kenneth Cuthbertson and Lionel Althouse, brothers of the bride and groom.

The reception was at the bride's home, her mother receiving in a gown of plum corded satin and hat of black velour and wearing a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother was wearing wine faille and a black velvet hat and she had a corsage of white carnations.

For her wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Cleveland, Ohio, the bride chose a cocoa brown suit and topcoat of natural shade camel hair and she wore dark brown accessories. Her corsage when going away was of pink carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Althouse will live in Norwood.

DOROTHY DIX

Make Peace Regret Can Come Too Late

DEAR MISS DIX: Why is it that people always repent too late? I know an elderly man who recently lost his wife. He was heartbroken and can talk of nothing but how lovely she was, what a wonderful mother, etc. What he has forgotten, apparently, is that he made the poor thinks life one continuous round of misery. He was bad-tempered, profane, stingy, even abusive Perhaps that is why there are so many lonely old men and women in the world. In youth they were so selfish, temperamental and miserly they couldn't keep friends. Do you agree?

EMMA J.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your friend's case is, unfortunately, not unusual. Oftimes the loudest mourners at a wake are those who through ill treatment contributed most to the deceased's passing. Nelectful children can weep torrents of tears over the grave of a parent for whom they hadn't bought a gift in months and for whom they seldom had a spare moment or kind word.

Dorothy Dix

No greater peace can come to a soul than to put a loved one to his eternal rest, secure in the knowedge that in life he knew no default of love or devotion.

Don't Wait

Why wait, readers, for regrets until it is too late to ease your own conscience? Life is uncertain; who knows when the last chance for atonement will come?

Begin now to put yourself at peace with the world. Make up petty quarrels with your neighbors; be reconciled to members of your own family to whom you have not spoken perhaps for years. If the distance between you is too great for a meeting, a telephone call or letter will work wonders. Be kinder at home, look for reasons behind your mate's irritability. Illness or business troubles he doesn't want to bring home may lurk behind the scowl that greets you. Be patient with him.

Husbands, be more considerate of your wives. As full and satisfying as the job of bringing up children is, it can also become very wearying. Money for a new hat or piece of furniture, an unexpected trip to the movies, a few flowers bought just because you loved her, will send the spirits of any wife soaring to the skies.

Remember the old folks at home! Don't let them get lost in the shuffle while you concentrate all efforts on the generation you are raising. In a few years you'll be in the old guard yourself.

Take your charity a little farther afield from home. Don't be sparing with kindness to those about you. To be at peace with the world is a great gift, and you can bestow it upon yourself!

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 23 and have been going with a gentleman 31. He is in love with me, treats me with every consideration and is very kind. He wants to marry, but although I have been seeing him for a month, I am not in love with him. I appreciate his thoughtfulness, and admire, but do not love him. Should I give him a chance to win my love by continuing to go out with him, forget him or marry him just for his good points? R. P.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: First of all, a month is scarcely time to become acquainted much less to fall in love. Love doesn't always come at first sight; sometimes it takes quite a bit of coaxing. Since your friend is endowed with so many admirable qualities, why not be frank with him? Tell him you haven't known him long enough to love him, but that you admire him and enjoy his company. If he is satisfied with the possibility of winning you, continue the friendship.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a girl friend who is very dear to me. My mother will not let me go to her home because several of her uncles have died of tuberculosis and her father is said to have it. My mother lets her come to my home (not too freely) and I can't tell my friend why I can't visit her. As I'm only 14 I like to have fun with girls my own age.

DORIS

ANSWER: In order not to jude the case too harshly, your mother should have a talk with your family doctor on the situation. If his conclusion agrees with mother's, why not tell your friend frankly why you cannot go to her home? Illness is something no one can help and your mother's concern for you certainly shouldn't be held against either of you.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Hallowe'en Party Hints In Special-Purpose Menu

Note: I did a switch today. This menu usually appears on Wednesday but I had some ideas for Hallowe'en that I wanted to air, and unless you see them today there is small chance of eating their results tomorrow.

I've busted out into poetry again!

Such a "clevaire" little gem too!:

When witches shreik all good friends dance
Old folks may hobble and young ones prance
But let no one miss, by possible chance,
A party at Hallowe'en.
You may wear weird clothes and eat strange food,
But let everyone be in festive mood,
For you can be very gay, yet fairly good
At a party on Hallowe'en.
Okay, Okay—I know how you feel—I'l get on with the food.

Hallowe'en Supper Menu

Curried Eggs and Mushrooms in Patty Shells (see notes)
Glazed Carrots
Spook Salad (see notes)
Orange Ice
Witches' Hats
Cocoa or Coffee
OR
Individual Pumpkin Tarts with Whipped Cream Faces

Directions: For the Curried Eggs and Mushrooms in Patty Shells saute 1 tablespoon chopped onion in 2 tablespoons margarine gently for 5 minutes, then blend into them 2½ tablespoons flour. Stir in 1 cup hot water until thick. Add 1 tablespoon curry powder and ½ teaspoon salt. Add 1½ cups mushrooms which have been sauteed for 3 or 5 minutes in 2 or 3 tablespoons margarine or butter, 3 hard-cooked eggs sliced. Add ½ cup cream or rich milk to make of consistency to serve; heat through over boiling water. Serve in patty shells.

Spook Salad

The charm of this salad is due to the facial expressions you make. On cupped lettuce leaf place two halves of canned peaches round side up. You make one smiling; the other frowning with the corners of its mouth turned down. Use blackberries or purple grapes for eyes. They "bug" out and look scare-y and stare-y. A bit of pimiento or red apple peelling will make the mouths. These are quite effective if they are cut into saw edges at the top side. Use a whole clove or an apple seed for a nose. Pipe soft cream cheese at the top for hair.

Witches' Hats

This is very popular with the young ones—even teen-agers. It actually is an ice cream cone turned upside down on a cookie but no witchier looking thing could be imagined.

The hat is made by using an ice cream cone for the crown and a very large cookie (usually a large ginger snap) for the wide brim. Crown and brim are covered with chocolate icing. Just before serving the cone is filled with chocolate ice cream and inverted on the cookie. These must be served and eaten at once. The cook's fingers are covered with icing when she is finished, but the fun is worth it.

What's Right?

You are riding on a city bus with a friend.

WRONG: Discuss mutual acquaintances, mentioning them by name.

RIGHT: Realize that it is not polite to discuss people by name when your conversation is likely to be overheard.

Robt. Taylor's Career Given Hypo

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 30 (AP).—Robert Taylor's career, which resumed none too strongly after his return from the navy, is slated to get what the trade calls a hypo.

It's a high-powered injection, too. His studio has such faith in his draw that he is coming out in $12,000,000 worth of pictures That's the studio's figure and it could be correct.

The big item is "Quo Vadis," which MGM says will cost $8,000,000 before it brings in a nickel.

The other two are quickies compared to that one. Even so, they—"Westward the Women" and "Ivanhoe"—cost over $2,000,000 each.

Taylor doesn't seem overawed by the ponderous product, but he did indicate that he is much happier about his career than he has been in years.

Not Happy

"I wasn't exactly happy with the pictures I had after I got out of the navy," he remarked. "I thought 'Undercurrent' was a good picture. 'Ambush' was a good western and I liked 'Devil's Doorway' although it didn't seem to make much money. ('The Bribe' and 'The High Wall') were not so good."

His last five pictures have been made away from the studio, in England Italy and various parts of the rugged west.

No Time Off

"I thought I would have some time off on 'Ivanhoe,' which I just made in England," he said. "But when I was still on the boat, they messaged that they had gotten all the scenes without me out of the way and could I start to work immediately? I told them, 'Sure, just slap a wig on me and I'll be ready to go.' And that's just what they did."

Taylor said he would like his next picture to be a modern story filmed in good old Culver City. But that's not a requisite.

"Anywhere they want to send me, I'll go," he said.

Anywhere, apparently, except the premiere of "Quo Vadis." When the subject came up, he said he would try to be out o town, ill or otherwise absent wher the big blowoff for the epic take place.

Must Try Again

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 30—(AP)—Gloria King doused her husband with a glass of water Monday and stormed out of court still married to Sheppard (Abdullah) King III, the ex-marine who pines for the Egyptian desert and a belly dancer, Samia Gamal. She gave an explosive finish to an annulment petition hearing. District Judge Ewing Boyd set a new date of Dec. 10 to hear Gloria's petition asking an annulment on the grounds she was too intoxicated to remember the marriage.

6—In Memoriam

GENGE—In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Lorne, who passed away October 30, 1946.
He has gone, but his voice re-echoes,
His face that is now unseen,
His smile that was all sunshine
Is now but a lovely dream.
In our memory when we are lonely,
We close our eyes and see
Him sitting there in vision
Just like reality.
—Always remembered by Mom, Dad, sisters and brothers.

McILVENA—In loving memory of our dear daughter, Ferena, who passed away October 30, 1940.
Her thoughts were all so full of us,
She never did forget,
And so we think, that where she is,
She must be watching yet.
—Sadly missed by mother and daddy.

7—Cards of Thanks

The family of the late Joseph McGarrity wishes to thank St. Joseph's Sisters, Sisters of the House of Providence, Monsignor O'Sullivan, Father Greenan, Father O'Sullivan, Monsignor McCauley of Lindsay and all who offered sympathy and spiritual offering cards during our recent sad bereavement.

We wish to express our gratitude to Rev. R. B. Herrington, Keene, Mather and Son, funeral directors, Keene; Comstock Funeral Home, Peterborough and all neighbors and friends for their sympathy and kindness at the time of the death of our mother, Mrs. Mary Lavina Pimmett Johnson. — Melville H. Pimmett, Otonabee township and Mrs. Lilace Mabel Johnson Thickson, Bowmanville.

I sincerely wish to thank the Sisters and nurses of St. Joseph's Hospital, Rev. B. S. Morwood, and all kind neighbors and friends who helped in any way during my recent bereavement in the loss of my dear brother. —Miss Grace Galloway

High-Grade Iron Ore Off Hamilton Beach

HAMILTON, Oct. 30 (CP) — Purple sand and magnetite grain, says Chairman Ellis Corman of the Hamilton Harbor Commission, are proof enough for him that there's an iron mine off nearby Van Wagner's Beach.

He says development of the deposit might save Hamilton's steel industry thousands of dollars.

Mr. Corman said today that waves blown up by a northeasterly wind throw piles of purple sand on the beach. A magnet dropped in a purple patch comes out covered with bits of iron ore—about the size of iron filings used in science experiments at school.

Mr. Corman said the ore is magnetite, a high-grade ore that produces the world's best steel.

"That purple sand has been piling up here with every northeasterly gale," said Mr. Corman. "That . . . indicates that the iron deposits lies in a north-easterly area. It just seems to be that no one has ever bothered about it."

Russian Spy Admits Spying On Sweden

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 30 (AP)— A Swedish navy officer testified in court today he has worked since 1946 as a spy to aid Russia in preparing plans for a possible invasion of Sweden.

The officer, Ernst Hilding Andersson, 42, admitted he has been a Communist for 35 years. He is on trial on charges of military spying for the Soviet Union.

Andersson also admitted he spied against Britain.

He told the court he supplied the Russians with detailed information of possible invasion areas along the coast of north Sweden, and on the exact strength and state of preparedness of naval bases at Stockholm and Karlskrona.

Executive Beaten Into Unconsciousness

HAMILTON, Oct. 30 (CP). — Albert L. Shinn, 36-year-old printing company executive, was beaten into unconsciousness Monday night by three assailants who jumped him in a west-end alley as he was getting out of his car. He is in fair condition in hospital with head and chest injuries.

Police, unable to interview Shinn because of his condition, believe he was robbed of a "considerable amount" of cash.

The three men pulled him out of the car, punched him and then "put the boots to him, kicking him in the head and chest."

Obituary

MRS. EDITH HANNAH KENYON

Mrs. Edith Hannah Kenyon, the former Edith Law, died Monday in a Toronto hospital. She was 82. Her husband, George Kenyon, was at one time organist at Knox United Church in Peterborough.

Mrs. Kenyon was born in Halifax, England.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. A. I. Butcher (Olga) of Peterborough, a son, Kingsley, of Toronto, two sisters, Miss Lillian Law, Brooklyn, NY, Mrs. Agnes Shoesmith, Plymouth, Mich., and a brother John C. Law of South Africa. There are nine grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

The body will be resting in the Comstock Funeral Home after the arrival of the CPR train at 11:40 a.m. on Wednesday. Service will be held at the funeral home at 2 pm, the Rev. Walter Gilling officiating. Burial will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

Algae Here

The Trent system, said Mr. Hirst attempts to balance all demands made of it. It knows that it cannot please everyone but tries to be just.

Does Fine Job

Biologist Charles Weir of lands and forests, who congratulated the Trent engineers on doing a splendid job at all times reminded the audience that without the system there would be yearly spring flooding and summer drought. And no fishing at all.

Managing director Doug Oliver of the Canadian Tourists Association was luncheon guest speaker. He reviewed the problems confronting his 133-member association which is constantly striving to improve the lot of tourist business for the resort operator.

The Kawartha group supported a resolution to see what the CTA could do to extend the tourist season by having Labour Day celebrated on the third instead of the first Monday in September. Mr. Oliver said that negotiations with the Canadian Congress of Labour and educational authorities were promising.

Expecting an even greater tourist influx into Canada in 1952, unless there is a sudden world tension situation Mr. Oliver reviewed many ways in which operators could "get the tourist to tarry,"—serve distinctive Canadian foods, developed local history and handicrafts and to pay United States money premiums promptly, each class he described as "smart public relations."

Spending Traced

James Fraser, chairman of the conference and manager of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, opened an afternoon discussion period. He said this year was the first time that the spending of US dollars in Peterborough could be traced in bank clearing house figures. They reported to him that in the three-month summer period $860,000 in American funds had been cleared. This figure, he thought, was conservative because it did not take into consideration the earlier and later seasons of the tourist spending year.

Assistant to the deputy-minister of travel and publicity, Al Venn, showed a department slide film on the expenditure of American tourist funds in Ontario. It was well received and arrangements were made for district showing throughout the coming winter months. Col. Douglas Crowe of the same department stressed the public health situation in connection with resort operations, and showed a comprehensive graph on the "peaks and lows" of tourist population in the province. In the past summer, it showed that the accommodation peaks were July 4, 12, the absolute high around August 24. Col. Crowe praised the type of accommodation now being offered by Ontario's 258 motels and recommended their patronage to Canadians as well as to visitors.

Inspector J. S. Cruikshank, RCMP, Toronto, cleared up many points on the privileges and restrictions of Americans bringing cigarettes, outboard motors and house furnishings into the province. He showed that American camp operators in Canada were not permited to use their vehicles in the business of running their resorts.

Fishing Rules

The four-county drift fishing clause was the last subject discussed at the conference. It was chaired by Dr. Harkness. He started off by saying that the people in the Kawarthas were more favored by special regulations than any other group in the province.

A report was asked by various members of the audience about the progress in having the drift-fishing clause resconded. Dr. H. H. McKay produced figures promptly showing that a questionaire issued by the Lands and Forests Department last spring were less than 50 per cent. answered by various associations, clubs and federations to whom it had been addressed.

In conclusion, it seemed that although nearly every sport fisherman was demanding that drift fishing be done away with, the results were too scanty for the department to arrive at a fair solution.

It was arranged by Mr. Fraser to recanvass those groups who had not filled in the necessary form so that some agreement might be reached by officials at the earliest possible date.

Accept Invitations To Pearson Dinner

LONDON, Oct. 30 — (CP) — Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and General Lord Secretary of State for Commonwealth Relations, have accepted invitations to a dinner tonight in honor of Canada's External Affairs Minister, Lester Pearson, it was announced today.

The dinner will be given by L. Dana Wilgress, Canadian High Commissioner, and Mrs. Wilgress at the commissioners' offical residence in Upper Brook Street, Mayfair.

Help Too Late

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Oct. 30 — (AP)—"Send someone quick—this guy has a gun in my back," a 35-year-old taxi driver radioed to his dispatcher just before he was shot and killed by his passenger Monday. The driver, Robert Clauss, died en route to hospital with four bullets in his body. His assailant got away.

Mrs. D. L. Gordon Dies At 82 Minister's Wife

Mrs. David L. Gordon, wife of the Rev. D. L. Gordon, died today at her home, 39 Manning Ave. She was 82, and the mother of the Rev. Dr. D. Bruce Gordon of Trinity United church.

She and her husband celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on January 2 this year, after a life of serving churches across Canada. Mr. Gordon was minister at Fernie, BC, in the province of Quebec, and other places.

Mrs. Gordon was born in Port Colborne, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Porter (she was the former Anna Augusta Porter), and has lived more than two years in Peterborough. The Gordons came here from Guelph.

Surviving are three sons: Dr. Stuart Gordon, of Toronto; Kenneth B. Gordon of Amherstburg, and Dr. Gordon, in Peterborough. There are two sisters, Mrs. Maude Bruce, and Miss Clara Porter, both of London, Ont., and three brothers, Charles of Toronto, James of Vancouver, and William of Perdue, Saskatchewan, as well as three granddaughters.

Funeral service will be at the Comstock funeral home at 11 am Thursday. The Rev. H. G. Douglas of Knox United church and the Rev. A. A. Mathews of George St. United church will officiate. Burial will be in Agincourt cemetery at about 3:30 pm. Mr. Gordon was minister at Agincourt church from 1918 to 1929.

Reduce Charge Man Fined $50

After hearing the evidence, Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, reduced a charge of drunk driving against George Behe of Scarboro Junction to driving while impaired and fined Behe $50 and $8 costs in police court today.

Behe pleaded not guilt to the charge of driving while intoxicated.

Jack Nurse, 17, of 1 Lansdowne St., testified that Behe had stopped his truck on the south side of Highway 7 the night of October 23 and forced him to pass on the right side.

Nurse said he turned his car around a short distance down the road and returned to see what was wrong. As he approached the truck from the east, Nurse said the driver, whom he identified as Behe, got back in his truck and drove off.

Nurse said he told OPP Constable Thomas Armitage about the incident. Constable Armitage arrested Behe just east of Norwood.

Weaved On Road

Constable Armitage told the court, the truck Behe was driving weaved from side to side three times while he was following it and that Behe had the smell of alcohol on his breath and was unsteady on his feet when he stopped him.

Behe said he was driving from Scarboro to Renfrew the night he was arrested. He admitted drinking a glass of beer in Newcastle and two pints in a Peterborough hotel but denied being intoxicated.

"We haven't any direct evidence that this man was intoxicated," said defence counsel W. J. Arthur Fair, KC. "It was a case of extreme fatigue," said Mr. Fair, "coupled with his arthritic condition and a stoppage in his speech. There was no liquor in his truck. He was not boisterous or objectionable. In fact all the elements considered to indicate a drunken condition are missing," he added.

"Trues Ambassador" Mackenzie Retires

LONDON, Oct. 30 (CP)—Retirement of Sir James Moir Mackenzie, one of the best-known "trade ambassadors" between Britain and Canada, was announced today by the Federation of British Industries.

Mackenzie, 66, joined the federation in 1919 and rose to be deputy director-general. Associated from the start with commonwealth trade, he represented the federation at the Ottawa conference in 1932 and accompanied the British purchasing mission to Ottawa in 1939.

Convicted of Murder

GOLDFIELD, Nev., Oct. 30 — (AP)—Saloon-keeper Cedric Cole was convicted Monday of killing John Karlheim by spiking his gin with potassium cyanide. The 66-year-old bartender was accused of poisoning Karlheim July 8 so the way would be clear for him to woo Karlheim's 49-year-old wife, Morrela. The plot fell apart, the prosecution said, when Morrela accidentally drank from her husband's glass and also died.

Retains Seat

LONDON, Oct. 30 (CP). — A cousin of Gordon Conant of Oshawa, former Liberal premier of Ontario, retained his seat in the House of Commons in last Thursday's British election. R. J. E. Conant, a Conservative, won in Rutland and Stamford constituency, polling 17,580 votes to 15,127 for T. G. Bradley, Labor.

Liked Visit

Despite the seriousness and discomfort of the disease they are suffering, these youngsters were all smiling and seemed overjoyed to see people from the outside world. This appreciation of visits was also very evident in the adult patients.

Afternoon tea and dinner were served to the Peterborough group at the Weston san.

Monday's visit was not an unusual event for the memebrs of the Peterborough association. The association's executive secretary, Mrs. R. J. Ward makes periodic visits during the year to every san in the province where there are patients from Peterborough county. These visits are much more than brief social chats. The patients have problems which they talk over with Mrs. Ward and she is often able to help them by looking after personal business matters for them.

In addition other members of the association make regular visits to the various sans.

Send Parcels

In between visits the association helps the patients feel they have not been forgotten by sending parcels of fruit and other treats.

"We feel that these visits are one of the most important aspects of our work," Charles Elliott, vice-president of the association, said. "In this way, we are able to show the patients that the people back home are always interested in their welfare. The visits seem to do wonders for the patients' morale."

Another aspect of the hospital treatment in which the Peterborough association takes an active part is the rehabilitation of patients. Special grants from the association go towards the employment of a rehabilitation worker at the san. He studies the individual cases to find how best they can spend their time at the san—either in preparing themselves for their life when they are discharged or in hobbies that will make the time pass faster.

Discusses Plans

Before a Peterborough patient is discharged he talks over his future plans with a member or members of the association. The association tries to find him employment which he likes and which will also not be injurious to his health.

"We have had wonderful co-operation with the majority of Peterborough industries in this respect," Mr. Elliot said. "We are often able to place discharged patients in the industries where they were employed before going to the san."

The Peterborough association takes a personal interest in the 28 patients from the city and county that are in six different sans in the province. The sans are situated at London, Hamilton, Kingston, Toronto, Gravenhurst and Weston.

The group that went to Toronto and Weston Monday were: Mr. Heffernan, president; Mr. Elliott, vice-president; Mrs. Ward, secretary; Fred R. Revoy, Mrs. Wallace Shearer and C. J. Ray.

Four Badly Injured As Car Overturns

WINDSOR, Oct. 30 — (CP) — Four persons were injured seriously today when their automobile went out of control and overturned in a ditch near Tecumseh.

In "critical" condition are: Moisse Tessier, Tecumseh, driver of the car; Alfred Tessier, Tecumseh, brother of Moisse; Irme Tessier, Tecumseh, father of the injured brothers; and Vivian Deschaine, Windsor.

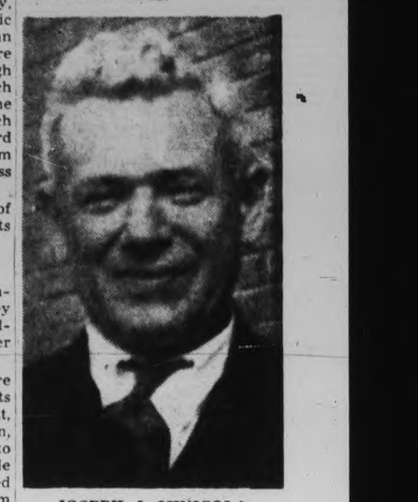
J. H. LaRush Buried



Funeral services were held Saturday at 3 p.m. from the Duffus Funeral Home to Christ Church, Omemee, for Joseph Henry LaRush, who died Oct. 24, in Bowsman, Man.

The Rev. C. Richmond officiated. Burial was in Keene cemetery.

Pallbearers were Stanley Miller, Fred LaRoche, Harold LaRoche, Nelson McConnell, Kenneth Bell and Ernest Bell.

Joseph Minicola Funeral Held, Popular Musician

Joseph J. Minicola, bandmaster of the Warkworth Community Band, and choirmaster of St. Peter's Cathedral here for 30 years, was buried Monday. Many of his friends were present for the requiem mass celebrated by the Rev. G. Weiss.

JOSEPH J. MINICOLA

Mr. Minicola's musical career in Peterborough began when he joined the 57th Regiment band as cornetist in 1903 at the age of 15. At the age of 29 he was appointed choirmaster of St. Peter's and in spare time directed a Lindsay choir.

Before the Second World War, he was choirmaster at Renfrew Cathedral and at the start of the war joined the band at Fort Frontenac, Kingston.

Organized Band

After several years of semi-retirement he was asked to aid in the organization of the Warkworth band in 1949. Since then, his work in the musical field has mostly been centred in Warkworth.

Funeral service was from the Anglesey funeral home to St. Peter's Cathedral, where Father Weiss calabrated requiem mass. In the sanctuary were the Rt. Rev. P. P. Butler, and the Rev. F. M. Grant. Burial was in St. Luke's cemetery, Downeyville, where graveside prayers were said by the Rev. V. G. McFadden.

Pallbearers were J. Thompson, of Warkworth, Charles Thirnbeck, Alfred Pepe, Joseph Calleghan, Victor Minicola and John Sabatino.

Request Refused To Continue Working

KITCHENER, Oct. 30 (CP) — A request that deferments be granted 15 municipal employees who reach retirement age at the end of this year was turned down by Kitchener council last night. Council unanimously passed a pensions committee recommendation putting them on pension.

A number had asked for deferment on grounds payments under the recently-established city pension plan are not adequate.

Coal Wagon Horses Bolt, Driver Injured

Joseph Kearns, Lindsay, remains in serious condition in Ross Memorial Hospital.

He received a fractured pelvis bone when crushed by a coal wagon he was driving. Kearns had just left the wagon when the horses bolted. He tried to grab the reins but fell; one of the wheels rolled over him.

A wedding party, with car horns blowing, was believed to have caused the horses to bolt. No charge has been made yet but the investigation is completed.

Druggists Discuss Retail Price-Fixing

OTTAWA, Oct. 30 — (CP) — Representatives of the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association today conferred with Justice Minister Garson on the government's proposed legislation against retail price-fixing.

Details of discussions were not disclosed, though it was understood that the association argued against the banning of resale price maintenance practices.

Representatives of the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association conferred with Mr. Garson last week.

Narrow Escape

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 30 (AP) —A bystander waved frantically at a nine-year-old boy walking along the railroad track Monday. A train was bearing down on the boy. The boy waved back. Then the train struck him. Surprised hospital attendants said the condition of the boy, Dickie Stasna, wasn't even serious—a broken arm and a lump on the head.

500,000 Buy Bonds

OTTAWA, Oct. 30 (CP) — A total of $157,000,000 worth of Canada Savings Bonds has been sold to almost 500,000 Canadians in the first two weeks of the current campaign, the Bank of Canada reported today. This was an increase of $20,000,000 over sales in the first two weeks of last year.

Assaulted Son In Family Fight Father Fined $5

"Put me on suspended sentence," said James Murduff, 61, of 211 Prince Street, in Police Court Monday, after Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, had listened to Murduff's protest of a suspended sentence of one year, and changed it to a fine of $5, and $9.75 costs, when Murduff was found guilty of striking his 17-year-old son in the neck with a stove lifter.

"Oh no," replied Magistrate Philp, and told Murduff the alternative was 10 days in jail.

"Regularly, every six months, your family appears in family court," said Magistrate Philp. "If you can't get along with your family, why don't you find another place to live."

The charge alleging that Murduff struck hiss on William during a family quarrel was originally heard in family court.

Children's Evidence.

Murduff pleaded not guilty to the charge, but was found guilty on the evidence of his 15-year-old daughter Joan and son William.

The charge arose out of an argument between the son and daughter over which radio program they were to listen to during a Sunday afternoon.

In an attempt to quell the disturbance, Murduff said he went into the room. Murduff said he tried to prevent the radio from being knocked off the table. The son William and daughter Joan testified he had threatened "to smash it."

Both the son and daughter said the father swung his fist first. The son William then connected with his father's jaw.

Continuing the argument in the kitchen, the son was struck in the neck with a stove lifter in his father's hand. There were still marks on the boy's throat.

Acidental

Murduff denied striking his son intentionally. "If I did, it was accidental," Murduff declared. "At the angle we were at. I don't think my arm was long enough to reach him."

"Who am I to believe?" Magistrate Philp asked Murduff.

"I never struck that boy or made one pass," declared Murduff.

"If Your Worship believes the evidence indicates an assault and can draw that inference or believes it to be of such a minor nature as to not warrant a conviction, I leave it to your discretion," said Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw.

"I find you guilty," said Magistrate Philp, and refused to change the penalty back to suspended sentence when Murduff complained about the fine.

Triple Deaths

IONIA, Mich., Oct. 30—(AP)—The sexton of a cemetery coolly completed a double murder and suicide Monday at his farm home after telling the coroner to wait outside. The sexton, Stanley Gilmore, 59, killed his 55-year-old wife and six-year-old grandson. He then shot himself to death.

Discuss Resignation

OTTAWA, Oct. 30—(CP)—The executive committee of the Canadian Congress of Labor met here Monday to confer on the situation emerging from the resignation of Pat Conroy as secretary-treasurer of the Congress. The meeting was preliminary to a meeting today of the Congress' executive council.

First To Go

OTTAWA, Oct. 30—(CP)—An Army ordnance officer Lt.-Col. Robert T. Bennett, 33, of Ottawa was named Monday as the first Canadian to go to the new Atlantic Pact defence college in Paris. For six months, beginning in November, he will study with 50 other Army, Navy and Air Force officers from the 12 member countries in a school set up on the orders of Gen. Eisenhower.

Believed 21st Victim

NEW WESTMINSTER, BC, Oct. 30—(CP)—Albert Gaspard, 60-year-old prospector, appears to have become the 21st victim of "Lost Creek Mine". A five-day search for the missing prospector made by RCMP Constable John Dowsett and veteran guide Stan Zepesky ended in failure Monday.

IN CANADA ONLY 18 MONTHS, 12-year-old Ingrid Rajski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rajski, won first prize in the Bethany public school oratory contest on Friday night. In the Manvers township finals, she placed second, and will go to Blackstock to compete in the Durham county contest. She and her parents came to Canada from Germany in 1950.

Immigrant Girl, 12, Wins Bethany Speaking Contest

BETHANY, Oct. 30 (ENS) — Pupils of Bethany school held their annual public speaking contest in the town hall Friday evening, with Hope Rayson of the board of trustees as chairman.

Ingrid Rajski, 12, a pupil in grade eight, was the first prize winner in the senior group of contestants, giving her the right to compete in the Manvers township finals, where she placed second. Her topic "Our Princess Elizabeth" was remarkably well delivered deserving special commendation.

Ingrid is a new Canadian citizen, immigrating to Canada from Germany with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rajski only 18 months ago.

Her teacher, Mrs. Orlo Wright, says her progress in school work has been outstanding. When Ingrid came to Bethany, she knew nothing of Canadian language or customs. But her speech Friday was delivered in faultless English without a trace of accent from her native land.

June Wright, also a grade eight pupil was awarded second prize in this group. Her topic was "The Peterborough Examiner — Your Local Newspaper."

Joan Morton, a pupil in grade seven was placed third. She spoke on "The History of Velvet."

Other contestants in the senior group were Gayle Bristow who spoke on "The Village of Bethany," Phyllis Bristow, "My Trip To Lindsay Fair," Murray Smith, "The Woodchuck" and Muriel Shackleton, "The First Train in Canada."

Paul Pomeroy won first prize in the grade four group of contestants. His topic was "Billy Whiskers and His Kids."

Poems were recited by the pupils in grades two, three and four. Brenda Rowan won first prize in this class with her poem on "Trains." Other contestants in this group were Donna Durham, "Looking Glass Pussy," Leone Smith, "October," George Scott, "Indian Children," Sally Coburn, "I Am Hiding," Donald Smelt, "A Goblin."

Leone Jordan, grade three pupil of Miss Velma Thexton was an easy winner of first prize in her group. Her poem was "My Shadow." Second prize went to Wallace Cooper, who recited "I Met A Little Elf Man." Others in the group were Tommy Rayson, "October," Bruce Wright, "About Tools," Dianne Bigelow, "The Nut Tree," Donald Scott, "Once I Saw A Little Bird."

Sharon Capstick, Allan Smith, Larry Lamb, John Jackson, Dianne Mulligan, Jane Fallis, Sharon Bigelow and Melvin Smelt, all in the beginners' class, also had a share in the program, each reciting a nursery rhyme but beginning with the approved speech procedure "Mr. Chairman, Honorable Judges, etc." Their efforts were equally good and all were awarded a picture coloring book.

Other items on the program were piano selections by Leone Jordan and Dianne Bigelow; tap dance by Leone Smith; two vocal duets by Gayle Bristow and Phyllis Bristow, "Santa Lucia" and "There's a Bluebird On Your Windowsill;" an acrobatic exhibition by June Wright.

The judges were Mrs. Robert Sisson, Mrs. Carleton Patton and Mrs. P. Sargison.

The Rev. T. S. Gault distributed the prizes and commended the pupils for their excellent performances.

Tie Boy 5 To Bed Mental Test Asked

WINDSOR, Oct. 30 — (CP). — Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bover, who tied their five-year-old son to his bed, were remanded Monday for mental examination.

Magistrate J. Arthur Hanrahan said their action indicates they are "brutal people" or "so mentally low as to be incapable of assuming the responsibilities of parents."

Two policemen said they looked through a window October 2 and saw a small boy tied securely to a bed, his arms bound by his sides with heavy twine.

Shot Pogo, Fined $10

PORT CREDIT, Oct. 30—(CP)—The man who shot Pogo, the tame Mallard duck that loved chocolate bars and soft drinks, Monday was fined $10 or 10 days. James K. MacDonald, who pleaded guilty to a charge of discharging firearms in the town limits, shot the duck recently while it was swimming near the mouth of the Credit River.

10 Families Homeless

MONTREAL, Oct. 30 — Ten families were left homeless Monday night when a two-alarm fire caused considerable damage to an apartment house in Montreal's west end, just a block away from the route taken by the Royal cavalcade en route here from Dorval airport. No one was reported injured.

Members Equal In C of C Despite Size

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Meeting in Quebec this week is the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. Sometimes called a "parliament of business men"; sometimes called a "grass roots" organization.

It is called a "grass roots" organization because it has in it not only business men from big cities and big industries, but business men from hundreds of small communities, and hundreds of small enterprises.

It is a voluntary federation of more than 700 Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce in all 10 provinces.

Each board or chamber has only one vote and, in making chamber decisions or policy, the vote of Zeballos, BC, or Tatamagouche, NS, is as big as the vote of Toronto or Montreal.

There are also corporate memberships—memberships of individual companies—some 2,200 of them; they can pay their membership fees and they can express their opinions; but they have no vote.

Some 600 delegates from across Canada are attending the present annual meeting—the summing up of a year of work and a time in which to formalize plans for the year ahead. Long before meeting time, most everything that is to come up has been threshed out before hand in the boards and chambers across the country; it only awaits a final discussion.

12 Months Work

The men who take office each year commit themselves to 12 months of work which will take them away from their own business for long periods.

For instance, Francis G. Winspear, of Edmonton, president for the last year, has in that time visited large cities and small communities in all the provinces—has travelled from the 49th parallel to the Arctic Ocean; from Vancouver Island to Newfoundland.

After this look at the Canadian scene, Mr. Winspear had the following to say today:

"Mr. Average Canadian is the second wealthiest man in the world; he is four-fifths as wealthy as his neighbor to the south; two and one-half times as wealthy as the average Englishman; probably eight or nine times as wealthy as the average Russian; maybe 200 or 300 times as wealthy as the average citizen of Japan or India or China. Mr. Average Canadian is a man of vast existing and potential wealth."

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal Canadiens, who scored two goals Monday night and teammate Elmer Lach, who picked up two assists, remain in a two-way tie for first place in the individual National Hockey League scoring race.

Richard leads the league in goal-getting and Lach tops the roster in assists.

Teammate Bert Olmstead assisted on a goal in the same game to gain sole possession of second place.

Adam Brown of Boston Bruins, whose team was idle Monday night, is alone in the next spot.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Suzanne Morrow of the Toronto Skating Club has been chosen to represent Canada at the Olympic world's figure skating championships this winter, it was announced last night at Ottawa.

Charles H. Cumming, secretary of the Canadian Figure Skating Association, said Miss Morrow, three-time Canadian champion and runner-up last winter for the North American title, was chosen Saturday at the annual meeting of the association in Toronto.

The Olympic skating championships are to be held at Oslo, Norway, with Paris the site of the world's championships.

Possibly four or five other Canadian representatives will be chosen at the Canadian championships in Oshawa, Jan. 17-19, Cummings said.

The 1952 Ontario open golf championship will be held in Toronto, it was announced Monday at a forum arranged by the Ontario Golf Association. No definite date or course has been selected. The forum was opened by Major Payne, G. F. White, and Bill Franklin, Kitchener.

Outside wing Vince Mazza and quarterback Bernie Custis of Hamilton Tiger-Cats Monday night were nominated by their team mates for the Jeff Russell Trophy, awarded annually by the Big Four Football Union to the player most valuable to his team and the most sportsmanlike.

S. C. Burns of Hamilton was chosen president of the Ontario Amateur Basketball Association at its 31st annual meeting during the weekend at Hamilton. N. W. Leeson of Merriton, is secretary-treasurer.

Willie Mays, Negro centrefielder for the New York Giants, probably won't be going into uniform after all. His draft board meets today at Birmingham, Ala., to consider the result of his pre-induction examination last week. An authoritative source who could not be quoted by name said Willie probably would be classified 4-F. This source says Mays, a 20-year-old high school graduate, failed to pass his aptitude test.

At London, Mrs. J. B. Walker's Gayowen, an unpredictable three-year-old colt, maintained its role as favorite for the Cambridgeshire stakes at a bookmakers' callover of odds Monday night. The mile and an eighth race will be run Wednesday at Newmarket. An Irish hospital sweepstakes is based on the result.

The price on Gayowen lengthened from 9 to 1 to 19 to 2. John Read's Salamat became a clear second favorite at 100 to 8, down a point from the previous 100 to 7 listing at the last callover Thursday. Fastnet Rock was third choice at 100 to 7.

At Buffalo, NY, the chairman of the State Senate Finance Committee said Monday he would introduce legislation in January to repeal the State "Blue Law" against Sunday foot racing. Senator Walter J. Mahoney, Buffalo Republican, made the announcement as he criticized the arrest Sunday of Otto Utzig of Buffalo, charged with violating State law by conducting foot races on Sunday.

Hollywood Actress Maharajah's Wife

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Oct. 30 — (Reuters). — Nancy Valentine, 23-year-old Hollywood film actress who claims to be secretly married to the Maharajah of Cooch-Behar, landed at Southampton Monday on her way to India for a formal wedding. After the second wedding, which is to take place in Calcutta December 6 or 7, Miss Valentine will be officially recognized under Indian law.

The vivacious blonde actress from New York met the 36-year-old Maharajah in Hollywood four years ago and "fell in love immediately." The following year she visited India as his guest and while in Cooch-Behar, West Bengal, she claims, they were secretly married in accordance with Brahmin rites. She then returned to Hollywood.

The Maharajah went to America two months ago and urged her to go back with him to India for the formal wedding.

The actress plans to wear European clothes all the time in her Calcutta apartment. "But I think it will be full Indian dress for the wedding," she said.

Predicts Victory

PALM SPRINGS, Calif., Oct. 30 (AP).—Don Budge, the old tennis readhead, predicted rather cautiously today that the United States Davis Cup squad will score a clean sweep over Australia. Budge, who is helping whip the team into condition here prior to its departure Nov. 3, has it figured this way: "I think both of our singles men should win agianst Ken McGregor of Australia. After Tony Trabert and Ted Schroeder play a little more together they should have a 50-50 chance against McGregor and Frank Sedgman in doubles."

Sees Little Chance Olympics In USA

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 30 (AP) —J. S. Edstrom, 81, president of the International Olympic Committee, says Los Angeles' chances of holding the 1956 Olympic games are slim.

The Swedish engineer visited John J. Garland, an American Olympic committee member, on Monday to discuss the games to be held next year in Oslo and Helsinki.

He denied reports that Australia will have difficulty in getting ready for the Olympics in 1956.

Interest throughout Europe has been stimulated, Edstrom reported by Russia's decision to compete in the games for the first time next year.

"Russia's satellite states, Bulgaria, Rumania, Poland and Czechoslovakia had ignored our communications until Russia made its announcement. Almost immediately we received long telegrams of acceptance from them."

Last 2 Ridings Report, Majority Still 18

LONDON, Oct. 30 (AP)—Final figures for Britain's Oct. 25 general election gave Prime Minister Winston Churchill's Conservatives a slim 18-vote margin Monday over all other parties in House of Commons.

analysis of the results showed the Conservatives received 13,721,346 votes, or 48.05 per cent of the total cast. The Labor Party total was 13,911,582, or 48.72 per cent. The Liberal Party won 723,595 votes, or 2.53 per cent of the total.

In the election last year, the Conservatives and their allies had a total vote of 12,475,750, or 43.25 per cent of the total, compared to the then victorious Socialist total of 13,265,726 votes, or 46.17 per cent. The Liberals then polled 2,637,089 votes, or 9.15 per cent.

The last two of the 624 districts which voted Thursday — two isolated Scottish constituencies—reported Monday.

The Argyll district gave the Conservative, Major Duncan McCallum, a majority of 11,266 over his Labor opponent. The Western Isles district again went Socialist, electing M. K. Macmillan by a 1,330 majority.

A district election will be held in the Barnsley area of Yorkshire on Nov. 8 to complete the 1951 House of Commons. Barnsley voters did not poll on Oct. 25 because the Socialist candidate for parliament died after nominations were closed.

The total vote in the election reached 28,555,492, as compared with the record of 28,770,176 set in the February, 1950, election.

Remember When—

Vince Dundee won a 15-round decision over French-Canadian Lou Brouillard for the world middleweight boxing championship at Boston 19 years ago tonight. Brouillard had held the title only two months since knocking out Ben Jeby, and Dundee himself lost it within a year to Teddy Yarosz.

Housing Comes First

OTTAWA, Oct. 30 — (CP)— George Burt, President of the Ontario Federation of Labor (CCL) said Monday night that if the CCF gets its way the St. Lawrence Seaway will take second place to housing. "First things first," he said at an Ontario election campaign meeting.

Vote Down Proposal

TORONTO, Oct. 30—(CP)—City Council Monday night voted down a proposal to seek legislation barring Communists from membership in municipal elections. The committee on legislation suggested that Communism should not be suppressed but fought in the open.

PANORAMA OF WAR—United Nations troops of the 1st Cavalry Division occupy trenches on top of a recently-secured hill in Korea. The ridge shows the scars of war, evidence of the heavy artillery barrage which blasted it for days.

Douks Keep Prison Figures At Record Level

OTTAWA, Oct. 30 — (CP) — Canada's federal penitentiaries this year housed a record number of prisoners—4,817—but the total would have been lower than 1950 except for Doukhobor trouble in British Columbia.

The annual report of Maj.-Gen. R. B. Gibson, Commissioner of Penitentiaries, tabled Monday in the Commons by Justice Minister Garson, showed that admissions in the fiscal year ended March 31 last totalled 1,951 men and 49 women compared with 1,996 and 30 women in 1950. This put the total penitentiaries registrations 77 above the number for March, 1950.

The penitentiary population, said Commissioner Gibson, "would certainly have been less than last year if it had not been for 90 male Doukhobors who were admitted to the British Columbia penitentiary following uprisings in the Kootenays.

Of the 1,951 males, 1,461 or 74.88 per cent had criminal records. The 1949-50 percentage was 74.85. Seven hundred and thirteen or 36.54 per cent had been in penitentiaries before while 490 were first offenders.

Word Of Warning

The report contained a word of warning by Gen. Gibson about using statistics to get a clear and accurate picture of Canada's penitentiaries.

Satistics could not tell the whole story in the welfare field, he said, because they dealt with individual human behavior. The effectiveness of correctional work, he said, "can finally be measured only by the results of such work as interpreted by its impact on individual human lives.

"Quantity is not an effective measure of interpreting human behavior. The quality of the service rendered to individuals is the only valid criterion. Behind all the statistics lie the individual human beings who are the component parts of such studies."

It was not enough to say a man had not returned to prison. It was more important to know about the life he was leading after release; also his contribution to society.

Prepared For Business

TOKYO, Oct. 30. (AP)—Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida said on Monday Japan will open an agency in Shanghai for trading with the Chinese Communists if the Reds request it. He told a parliament committee on treaties that the Reds have not asked for such an agency.

Has New Turbine

NEWCASTLE, England, Oct. 30 —Reutersa) — The world's first merchant ship to be powered by a gas turbine, the 12,000-ton British-built shell tanker Auris, left Monday for Tampico in the Gulf of Mexico after successful trial runs.

Injunction To Close St. Catharines Plant

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 30 (CP) —Employees of the McKinnon Industries Limited plant here said Monday night that notices have been posted in the factory that certain departments will close down during the next few days due to an injunction obtained by W. W. Walker, a florist.

Mr. Walker obtained the injunction against the company after a legal battle which took the case to the Privy Council in England. Mr. Walker claimed that fumes from the McKinnon foundry damaged his orchids.

The company, largest single employer of labor in St. Catharines, was ordered to stop giving off the fumes by Nov. 1.

The company notices said an appeal has been made to the Supreme Court of Ontario to extend the deadline.

Demands French Defence College

OTTAWA, Oct. 30 — (CP) — Leon Balcer (PC-Trois Rivieres) Monday renewed in the Commons a demand for establishment of a French language defence college in Quebec.

The 34-year-old lieutenant in the Royal Canadian Navy during the Second World War said that French-speaking Canadians should be given the same privileges as English-speaking Canadians.

Speaking in French during continued debate on the speech from the throne, Mr. Balcer said that recently the defence department opened a school in Quebec where French-speaking navy recruits were to spend six months to learn English.

On completion of their course they were to go on to an English-language training camp. They would start there as ordinary seamen along with newly signed English-speaking recruits. He could not understand why the French-speaking recruits could not be trained in French naval units.

A French-language defence college would assure French Canadians of an opportunity to compete for the righ-ranking posts in the defence forces. At present, few of the top posts were held by French-Canadians simply because they were not given the same training opportunities.

Army Study Period

OTTAWA, Oct. 30 (CP)—Fourteen of Canada's top-ranking army officers will hold a two-day study period at the Canadian Army Staff College at Kingston, Ont., some time in December, it was announced Monday. Conducted by the chief of the general staff, Lt.-Gen. G. G. Simonds, the study period will be attended by commanders and officers of general rank from both the active force and the supplementary reserve, along with certain advisers from army headquarters.

Princess Stays Overtime In North Bay

By JOHN LEBLANC

NORTH BAY, Oct. 30 (CP)—Britain's Royal travellers came early and stayed late in North Bay Monday.

A stiff tail wind blew the plane bearing Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip into this Northern Ontario city a half-hour ahead of schedule. The visit was supposed to last 30 minutes. It stretched to 83 minutes before they took off for Montreal on the last leg of an 1,100-mile flight.

The big, blue-and-white sign set up in this city of some 18,000 population read:

"Cheerio, Lillibet and Phil."

And it was cheerio throughout a three-mile tour of streets lined with cheering thousands from the surrounding area. One eight-block stretch was lined with 13,000 school children.

Quints Presented

The Dionne quintuplets and 500-pound Jack Garland, Liberal member of parliament for Nipissing, were presented to the Prince and Princess at the airport.

Marie, Annette, Cecile, Emile and Yvonne Dionne, now 17, spread out in a line for the Royal visitors, each of whom spoke to the girls in French. The quints then presented a group photograph of themselves to the Princess.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne and the quints' five-year-old brother, Claude, also were presented. The five other Dionne children had to look on from behind a wire fence 15 yards away.

At the cenotaph, they received North Bay's gifts—a beaver hat for Philip and beaver mittens for Elizabeth—and signed the civic register.

Hallowe'en Frolic Night For Juvenile Set Members

By The Canadian Press

While their elders look on apprehensively, as they always have done, the younger element is getting ready to pull all the old tricks in Wednesday night's celebration of the historic festival of Hallowe'en.

All across Canada in late years more and more organized events have been arranged to keep the youngsters happy and at the same time out of mischief. Police chiefs from Newfoundland to British Columbia have issued their annual warnings that vandalism will not be tolerated.

Typical of this year's "defence" preparations was the statement of Police Chief Walter Mulligan of Vancouver. He told the police commission there that his men have been instructed to help ensure "good clean fun" on Hallowe'en, "but they have also been ordered to take any necessary steps to stop vandalism—fast."

The more extravagant pranks that startled citizens of old, especially in rural areas, appear to have died out anyway. But the old cry of "shell out" will see houses and stores beset by hordes of children in weird garb, while older celebrants gather at dances and parties.

Ancient Festival

It's one of the world's oldest festivals, the eve of All Saints Day in honor of all saints known or unknown.

The date was set as November 1 by Pope Gregory III during the eighth century, and the vigil has been kept on the eve of this date ever since. Actually the date had significance centuries before that. The ancient Romans and Druids long ago set the day aside as a festival of thanksgiving for the harvest.

In olden times it was generally believed the night was the one when supernatural influences prevailed. The following day—Nov. 1—is still called the "Vigil of Saman" in some parts of Ireland, Saman being the Lord of Death. In Scotland and England Hallowe'en was long observed by fireside revelries which were chiefly concerned with divination of the future.

Now its a lively booster for business, particularly in nuts and candies, pumpkins and masks and costumes. And the wise housewife, in city or village, has a store of goodies ready for doling out to the hobgoblins who will come to her door in the fond belief they can't be recognized as the youngsters from up the street.

Sees Seaway Good Business

DETROIT, Oct. 30—(AP)—A Milwaukee city official said Monday the proposed St. Lawrence Seaway would bring about "the same economic tidal wave on these shores as the opening of the Panama Canal in 1914 created on the West Coast."

Harry C. Brocker, director of Milwaukee's Port Commission, made the statement at a meeting of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Seaway Association.

One of the results of the project would be a heavy population influx and growth of industry in the Great Lakes region, he said.

Brockel said about 100 cities on the Great Lakes have harbors but only two—Milwaukee and Toronto—have developed them to handle heavy shipping. Two others—Detroit and Toledo, O.—have taken "preliminary steps" by forming port commissions, he added.

"Unless the rest start doing something soon," Brockel asserted, "they'll have to sit by in five or 10 years and watch the trade go past."

Society Bride Of 9 Days On Warpath Finds Husband Already Has One Wife

DETROIT, Oct. 30—(AP)—A week ago Detroit's society pages told of the marriage of Mary Jane Barrows and Robert J. Rousseau.

The wedding was one of the bigger social affairs in fashionable Grosse Pointe Park.

Monday, 27-year-old Mary Jane, a crestfallen bride of nine days, sued for annulment. She accused her husband of having another wife.

And the woman who claims to be wife No. 1 said she would seek a warrant charging Rousseau with bigamy.

Virginia Budd-Jack Rousseau, 24, brunette, said she married Bob, 29-year-old son of a Detroit manufacturer, last July. A baby, Denis Marie, was born three weeks ago, she said.

Virginia said thle marriage took place at Angola, Ind., where the two had gone to Tri-State College where a romance had been kindled.

New Swiss Discovery
for Eczema, Boils, Psoriasis, Leg Ulcers

The discovery of one of the main causes of skin diseases is bringing new health and happiness to thousands of people. Science has established that the lack of highly unsaturated fatty acids in nutrition reduces the natural resistance of the body and leads to skin disease.

After 10 years of research a Swiss Chemist, Dr. W. Schmitz, succeeded in extracting from pure vegetable oils highly unsaturated fatty acids in a hitherto unattained purity of 99% and therefore named F "99". Only in this purity can it be so readily absorbed into the blood stream. F "99" is not a synthetic drug but a concentrate of natural and nutritive substances and is absolutely harmless. In severe cases medical advice should always be taken.

Illustrated F "99" Booklet Containing all the interesting facts concerning F "99" can be obtained free of charge from any Druggist Diva Laboratories, Dept. PE-14 156 Bathurst St., Toronto 2B, Ont.

Waves On Superior 50 Feet High As Gale Hits Lake

SAULT STE. MARIE, Oct. 31. (CP)—A gale with gusts of hurricane force raged across Lake Superior today. Shipping was stopped in the upper lakes. The gale, reaching 75 miles an hour at times, was centred about 100 miles north of North Bay, the Toronto Weather Office said. The tug Lachine had engine trouble Tuesday night and had to cut adrift the barge Krupp, the owners of the two craft said. Today, the Captain S. D. Secord radioed she had taken the barge with 15 men aboard, in tow.

Earlier a ship passing through the Sault canal said it intercepted a radio message saying the barge was in "sinking condition."

The gale began in earnest about 2 am winds from 32 to 38 miles an hour blew in southern parts of the province.

Some snow was reported in the north.

Waves on Lake Superior were reported to be 40 and 50 feet high.

No Ships Locked

Officials at the St. Mary's Falls canal here issued a warning no ships would be locked until the wind dropped. Water was being washed over the lock walls by huge waves and high water. Visibility as poor, with blowing snow.

Temperatures as 32 degrees this morning.

Aside from the Krupp, no vessel was reported in distress. All had plenty of warning of the storm. Upbound lake vessels dropped anchor between the Sault and Whitefish Point instead of daring Lake Superior.

Scheduled air service was not interrupted by the gale this morning. Trans-Canada Air Lines said their flights west would operate on time.

At the Sault, the wind last night whipped the highest water on record against the plant of Great Lakes Power Company. It blew out a 1,500-kilowatt transformer with a great flash.

Property damage in the storm was said to be in the thousands of dollars, mostly from flood damage.

Power and light services to the city were interrupted for about 20 minutes.

Conservatives Name Morrison House Speaker

LONDON, Oct. 31 (CP). — Winston Churchill's Conservatives elected one of their own number as speaker of the new House of Commons today in the first contest for the office since 1895.

The winner was W. S. Morrison, 58, a former minister of agriculture. The outcome cut the new government's over-all majority from 18 to 17, since the speaker is traditionally neutral.

A group of Labor party insurgents precipitated the contest over the speaker. The vote was 318 for Morrison and 251 for the Labor candidate, Maj. James Milner, 62, was deputy speaker in the old House.

The contest plainly meant that the Labor party intends to fight the new government on every conceivable issue, just as Churchill's followers fought the Labor government when it was in power.

In a speech to the House before the voting began, Prime Minister Churchill accused Labor of renegging on an original agreement to let Morrison take office unopposed. Churchill asserted this agreement was made Monday.

Unexpected Word

He said Labor unexpectedly sent word Tuesday they must either have Milner as speaker or a Scottish Conservative, Sir Charles MacAndrew, in place of Morrison.

Former Prime Minister Attlee, now leader of the opposition, denied that he had committed his party to support Morrison.

Attlee said he consulted his party members after informal talks with Churchill and was instructed to submit Milner's name, with MacAndrew's as an alternative. MacAndrew has had considerable experience as a substitute speaker in the past. Attlee said Labor considered that both the Scot and Milner had better claims on the chair than Morrison.

The MPs assembled amid indications that the Churchill government plans a vigorous retrenchment program to cut back public spending.

The first step was taken Tuesday night when Churchill and his ministers announced they were slashing their own salaries. Churchill will take £7,000 a year instead of £10,000 and his ministers dropped from £5,000 to £4,000.

Will Investigate Rebel Strikers

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—(AP)—Federal labor officials are investigating the vast New York Port strike to see whether rebel longshoremen have violated the Taft-Hartley Act.

The National Labor Relations Board launched the probe late Tuesday after receiving a complaint from the New York Shipping Association, an employers' group.

In the meantime the wildcat walkout entered its 17th day, with the insurgent AFL stevedores still in virtual control of the world's largest harbor. Their strike also has hit other east coast ports.

Several cracks appeared in the strike front Tuesday. However, roving pickets apparently plugged all the gaps by nightfall, leaving only military docks working normally.

Explosion Traps Twelve Miners

KAYFORD, W. Va., Oct. 31 — (AP). — An explosion trapped 12 men three-quarters of a mile inside the big Truax-Traer Coal Company's United No. 1 Mine near here early today.

The State Mines Department rushed all available inspectors and rescue teams to the scene, 35 miles southeast of Charleston.

A report from the mine said rescuers were inside. There was no word from them immediately.

A Mines Department official said the first reports indicated coal dust exploded between 1 and 3 am.

It was West Virginia's second coal mine disaster in 16 days. Ten men were killed October 15 at the Trotter Coal Company's mine near Morganston.

Prison Authority Col. Meighen Dies

VANCOUVER, Oct. 31 (CP).—Col. William Meighen, 73,of suburban Burnaby, noted Canadian prison authority, died Tuesday at the wheel of his automobile when it collided with another vehicle and crashed into two stores in New Westminster.

Col. Meighen, a brother of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, former Prime Minister of Canada, had held warden's posts at several Canadian penitentiaries.

He served as warden of the British Columbia Penitentiary from 1935 until 1946 when he retired. Before coming to the coast he was warden of Stony Mountain Penitentiary in Manitoba.

Medical authorities said Col. Meighen may have suffered a heart attack.

British Troops Seize Pt. Said Road

Troops Take Control After Egyptians Limit All Traffic

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 31. (CP) —A British army spokesman said today British troops have seized the road and rail bridge outside Port Said, at the Mediterranean end of the Suez Canal and are operating it "without interference or trouble."

The bridge was seized Tuesday by a Cheshire regiment patrol after Egyptian authorities "refused to keep it open more than 50 minutes every day," the spokesman said.

The Britons also seized an Egyptian government girls' school at Ismailia for use as a school for British servicemen's children. Seizure followed Egyptian closure of all British private schools in Ismailia, the spokesman said.

He reported there were no other incidents in the canal area, from which Egypt seeks to oust British troops guarding the waterway.

Disperse Demonstrators

Reports from Port Tewfik, near Suez, said 200 Egyptian police dispersed hundreds of striking dock workers who shouted anti-British slogans and ripped down several British flags and ran up the Egyptian colors in their place. No casualties were reported.

But Gen. Sir George Erskine wooed Egyptian workers to stay on their jobs with the British forces through slips stuck in their pay envelopes today.

About 35,000 Egyptians got the notes assuring them they would be protected, housed and fed if they stuck.

"We know many of you have been ordered to leave your jobs after you are paid and some of you have been threatened in various ways," Erskine said.

One of the chief Egyptian methods of applying pressure has been to threaten to cut off supplies of Egyptian labor, fresh food, and water.

Russia Warns Arabs Leave Pact Alone

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 31 (Reuters).—Russia has told the Arab governments she will consider it an "unfriendly and even hostile act" if they join the western powers' Middle-East defence command, diplomatic circles here revealed today.

Russian legations in the Arab capitals are reported to be watching with great interest the attitude of the Arab states—particularly Syria, Lebanon and Iraq — towards the four-power proposals.

These countries, feeling more exposed to possible Russian aggression, are thought anxious to enter into a defence arrangement with the United States, Britain, France and Turkey.

Russia has already told the Arab governments that any defence arrangements "should be made in collaboration with Russia."

DE WIN' SHE BLEW A HURRI-CANE and bowled over a billboard today on top of two parked cars on the west side of Aylmer between King and Sherbrooke Sts. The foreground car is owned by Norman Hunt of 260 Aylmer St., but the owner of the rear car was not identified by the time a construction company removed the sign. Slight dinting to top sof hoods and roofs was the only apparent damage —(Examiner Staff Photo).

Winds Topple Sign Boards On Two Cars

Chilly westerly blasts which started whipping Peterborough and district early today, uprooted and toppled two big sign boards on two parked cars at 9 am on Aylmer St. near King St.

Since dawn the squalls had swirled dust around the CNR station and increased in intensity until they reached a climax by lifting the two 60-foot signs from the standards. No one saw the signs fall until after a grinding, ripping noise echoed throughout the neighborhood.

The cars, one owned by Norman Hunt, 260 Aylmer St., and the other unidentified, were parked just east of the large advertising billboards. The wind lifted the signs neatly on the front of the cars and partly over the tops.

Damage Light

Damage to both cars was slight. Fred Russell, Peterborough representative for the billboard company, said that luckily there were only two cars parked there at the time. He has seen as many as six parked in the open space in front of the signs.

"Sometimes I can hardly work there, the cars are packed in so tight," he said.

During the past month the signs were raised slightly higher, partly because vehicles are parked there.

No damage was reported anywhere else in the city or the district by the utilities commission, the Bell Telephone Co., city or provincial police.

Reds Submit New Proposal Almost Duplicate Of UN

MUNSAN, Korea, Oct. 31. (AP)—The Communists today submitted a new proposal for a Korean cease-fire buffer zone almost the same as that demanded by United Nations' negotiators. The only important difference appeared to be the status of Kaesong, former site of truce negotiations. The Reds want to keep it. The Allied proposal would take it away from them.

The sudden change in the Communist position brought on a wave of optimism that the buffer-zone question would soon be settled. That has been the big stumbling block in armistice negotiations.

The Reds submitted their plan unexpectedly. It was outlined on a detailed map. They handed it to a UN sub-committee in a rain-sodden tent at Panmunjom.

The Communist proposal was based on their version of the current battle line. Negotiators call it "the line of contact." The buffer zone would be 2½ miles wide.

The UN command has insisted that the line be based on the battle front. The current allied proposal is for a buffer zone 2½ miles wide.

Modified Plan

Originally the Reds demanded a buffer zone on the 38th parellel. Last week they modified their plan to a demarcation line running five to 15 miles south of the battle line.

Fighting almost vanished from the ground front Wednesday. Only action reported in the US Eighth Army's communique was a one-hour fight between a company of attacking Chinese and UN troops southeast of Kumsong on the central front. The Reds were beaten back.

Wednesday morning negotiators argued over what should be done about Kaesong.

The current allied proposal departs from the battle line to incorporate Kaesong and the hills just north of it. UN negotiators say they are important as a gateway to an invasion route toward Seoul, former South Korean capital.

The Reds want Kaesong, apparently for the same reason. They also want it because it has become a symbol during truce negotiations and because it is within Communist lines.

Blast On Ship Kills Two Men

GRINDSTONE ISLAND, Que., Oct. 31 — (CP). — An engine-room explosion Tuesday night sank the Panamanian ship Transept with the loss of two lives. Killed were the chief engineer and an oiler.

Eighteen members of the crew were rescued.

(In Montreal, shipping sources said their information was that the Transept was abandoned on Tuesday night and had sunk.)

Those saved were picked up by the British ship Ottinge, reported now to be heading for North Sydney, NS.

The Transept, a tanker, left Montreal two days ago for Halifax. It was understood here that the explosion occurred about 9.30 pm Tuesday night in the Gulf of St. Lawrence off the Magdalen Islands.

The ship has been trading up and down the St. Lawrence River all summer. She had apparently called at Chatham, NB, a while before the explosion.

Borden Major Wins $140,000 In Irish Sweeps

TORONTO, Oct. 31 (CP). — A Canadian Army major at Camp Borden and a resident of the Northwest Territories won major prizes today in the Irish sweepstakes on the running of the Cambridgeshire stakes in England.

Maj. E. F. Hersey held a ticket on the winner—Fleeting Moment. When the 28-to-1 shot came down in front it meant $140,000 for the major who is stationed at the big training establishment some 75 miles north of Toronto.

Sources in Toronto were uncertain about the identity of the winner from the Northwest Territories. They said the name was J. Bibee but that they didn't know the address or whether the winner was a man or woman. Bibee held a ticket on Denizen, which finished second. The ticket was good for $56,000.

Maj. Hersey is commanding officer of the Royal Canadian Armored Corps at Camp Borden.

The 45-year-old soldier, born in Fredericton, has been an army "career man," pioneering in the work of radio communications in the Arctic.

He said today he cannot recall when he bought the ticket. He found it stuffed behind a picture in his wife's dressing room.

J. Bibee, with a ticket on the second horse, Denizen, is believed to live in Whitehorse, Yukon.

Chunk Of Concrete Just Misses Princess

MONTREAL, Oct. 31 (CP). — An accident today came close to marring the last of the functions arranged for the Royal tour of Montreal when a chunk of concrete crashed to the verandah of Queen Mary's Veterans' hospital close to where Princess Elizabeth had been standing.

The Princess moved away only about one minute before.

The chunk of concrete broke away from a parapet and came crashing to the ground.

Man Making Charges Resigns Post

Padbury Replaced In All Offices In Ontario Command

TORONTO, Oct. 31. (CP)—The Canadian Legion's Ontario Command has decided against seeking a public inquiry into charges one of its officials recently levelled against Sunnybrook Veterans Hospital here and Westminster Veterans Hospital in London, Ont. At the same time as it announced its decision Tuesday night, it made public the resignation of the official concerned, Arthur Padbury of St. Catharines, from all provincial offices of the Legion.

The Command said Mr. Padbury, who made the charges as chairman of the Provincial Service Bureau, was sincere but misinformed.

He will be succeeded by Dr. J. A. Phillips of Cornwall as Provincial Service Bureau chairman, G. M. Fitzgerald of Orangeville becomes chairman of the special pensions commitee and McIntyre Hood of Oshawa will be public relations chairman.

A command statement issued by Patrick Biggs, the Legion's provincial secretary said the Command dissociates itself from most of the charges made by Mr. Padbury in a speech at St. Catharines Sept. 27. It said Mr. Padbury's speech was not sanctioned by the Command.

Sausage Mill Treatment

Mr. Padbury alleged that veterans in the Sunnybrook and Westminster hospitals received "sausage mill" treatment, that "an unprecedented number" of suicides had occurred recently at Sunnybrook and had not been investigated and that Sunnybrook was a training ground for university of Toronto medical students.

Mr. Biggs said that, as suggested by the special pensions committee which Mr. Padbury directed, the regional director of the Veterans Affairs Department has been given the responsibility of investigating complaints of individual veterans or veterans' organizations.

The Command had found that all cases of suicide at Sunnybrook prior to last July were investi-

Begin Inquiry In Harbor Blast

BUFFALO, NY, Oct 31 (AP)—A United States coast guard board of inquiry has begun a full-scale investigation, into a lakes vessel collision Monday night that turned into the worst maritime disaster ever to happen in Buffalo harbor.

Capt. H. C. Moore of the coast guard arrived Tuesday night to head the probe.

The disaster happened when the barge Morania, laden with 800,000 gallons of gasoline, was rammed by the Great Lakes freighter Penobscot. The tug Dauntless and the freighter caught fire when the Morania exploded and burst into flames.

Ten seamen were believed dead. Three bodies have been recovered. Two of them were identified as those of Capt. Louis Guyette, 51, skipper of the Penobscot, and Roy Richardson, 56, helmsman of the steamer.

Fight Juvenile Delinquency

Alberta Revamping Law Enforcement Setup

EDMONTON, Oct. 31 (CP)—The Alberta government is revamping its law-enforcement setup to deal more efectively with juvenile delinquency.

The plan has two major aims: To provide a more efficient means of bringing juvenile offenders to justice, and to expand facilities for the rehabilitation and re-education of youthful delinquents. Steps taken or proposed include:

1. Reduction in the juvenile age of boys from 18 to 16.

2. Transfer of jurisdiction over juvenile delinquency and the juvenile courts from the department of public welfare to the attorney-general's department.

3. Establishment in Edmonton and Calgary of special police squads to deal with juvenile problems, particularly after 6 pm and during weekends.

The idea fo the special police squads is preventive and educational. A greater number of arrests is not one of its aims. Men assigned to the special sections will be interested in youth work. Visits will be made to dance halls, cafes, pool halls and other places where young people congregate.

To prevent neglected children or youngsters within the scope of the Child Welfare Act from coming into contact with the hardened element, detention homes will be used exclusively to hold juvenile delinquents charged with specific offences.

Washington Society In Dither

Puts On Best Bib 'n Tucker For Princess

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—Official Washington put on its best bib and tucker today to greet Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

And in spite of possible showers, thousands of men and women planned to join in the streets in the Capital's televised welcome for the British Royal couple on their first visit to the United States.

President and Mrs. Truman and their daughter Margaret headed the list of government officials, foreign diplomats and other dignitaries meeting the Princess and her handsome husband on their arrival by plane from Montreal at 4 pm EST.

Television and radio networks set up coast-to-coast coverage of the event.

A 21-gun salute was to touch off a rapid-fire succession of receptions, dinners, and other ceremonies. The first: A reception by some news correspondnts as soon as the couple had a chance to freshen up and sample American-style tea.

The Royal couple are guests of the President at Blair House during their 45-hour visit.

Use Gold Table Service

Tonight at 8 pm EST there is a Presidential dinner—very formal, limited to about 20 guests because of cramped dining space in the Truman family's temporary residence. The gold table service, and the blue-bordered china bought by Franklin D. Roosevelt, will be used.

Afterwards there is a reception for some 100 persons — Supreme Court justices, cabinet members, other high officials and their wives.

Then the Princess and her consort will be free to retire to their adjacent two-room - and - bath suites (one pale green, the other peach) and rest for a second round of official entertaining on Thursday.

This is the first visit of British Royalty to Washington since the Princess' parents, the King and Queen, came here in 1939. And you don't have to be pro-British to see that the Capital is curious and somewhat impressed.

Society On Tiptoe

Society pages have been breathless for days with details of the big, formal doings, such as Thursday's reception for 2,000 at the British Embassy. All members of Congress, as well as representatives of business, labor and other groups, have been invited.

Even the people who will see no more of the Royal couple than a glimpse from the curb are talking about them in cocktail lounges and morning coffee sessions.

Simple chit-chat: What would you say if you were introduced to the Princess? Answer: "How do you do?" would be socially correct. What's the ancestry of the Duke? He was a Prince of Greece and Denmark, of Danish and German blood, British by upbringing.

Since Princess Elizabeth isn't a reigning sovereign, but only next in line, the official welcome isn't quite on the Royal scale—no flags in the streets, no presentation of keys to the city.

Otherwise, she and her husband will get the fullest VIP (very important person) treatment, including early dismissal of most government employees so they will be on the streets when the Royal motorcade glides past.

Highlights of the Royal visit, besides those already mentioned, will include wreath-layings at Mount Vernon and the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier Thursday; a dinner for the Trumans at the Canadian Embassy on Thursday night; and a round of sightseeing, followed by a call at the White House, just before they fly back to Canada early Friday afternoon.

Tito Pledges Co-Operation

Will Support, But Not Join Atlantic Pact

BELGRADE, Oct 31 —(AP)—Premier Tito of Yugoslavia said today he is willing to co-operate with—but not to join—the Atlantic pact and said the west could count on him as a friend in the event of a third world war.

Tito, wearing his marshal's uniform, met with 125 foreign and local newspapermen in a four-hour press conference, his largest and longest since becoming chief of state, and answered a barrage of questions.

These were some of his answers:

He supports the rearmament of western Germany.

He warned repeatedly that there is danger of war, but said the people should "not despair" of preventing it.

He felt that the future of strategic Trieste on the Adriatic "probably will be discussed directly, very soon, between Yugoslavia and Italy."

Tito said the Atlantic pact was "a logical consequence of Soviet policy." As a result of that Russian policy, he added that there could be no neutrality on the part of a European country in the event of a third world war.

"On all questions of economic and cultural relations, on all questions of international affairs that do not conflict with Yugoslavia, we will be willing to co-operate with the countries of the Atlantic Pact," Tito said.

House Told No Action On Pamphlet

St. Laurent Decides To Ignore Communist Attack

OTTAWA, Oct. 31. (CP) — The case of the Communist smear died quietly in the Commons Tuesday. Prime Minister St. Laurent said he is going to let the common sense of the Canadian people assess a "vicious" Labor-Progressive party attack on himself and the government.

He did not, he indicated to George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, contemplate legal action against the author of a Labor-Progressive pamphlet which linked his government with Nazis and alleged that American "bosses" were dictating the government's plans to send Canadian troops abroad.

Mr. Drew, who had drawn the pamphlet to the government's attention Monday, suggested libel action against those responsible for the circular and said he hoped Tim Buck, Labor-Progressive leader, would be found "more successfully than he was last time." Buck was hunted by the RCMP early in the Second World War.

The question of the circular arose as the sitting opened when Speaker Ross Macdonald, to whom Mr. Drew had addressed himself Monday, told the opposition leader he could find nothing that he could do about it.

Resume Discussion

Later, the chamber resumed discussion of a series of railway bills, gave them second reading, and sent them to a special, 31-man house committee for detailed examination.

The measures implement some of the recommendations of the Royal Commission on Transportation.

Discussing the Communist smear, Mr. St. Laurent indicated no legal action would be taken if grounds were found to exist. Such actions were impractical.

As for Mr. Drew's suggestion that people had been thrown into concentration camps for less, the prime minister said that Canada "fortunately" was not at war and those laws which allowed the internment of certain people were not in effect.

"This country is still functioning as a free country and it is very difficult to use the powers of a government or the processes of the courts against any political party and be sure that the line will be drawn and maintained at the proper place."

PART INDIAN

The Indian population of Canada, approximately 140,000, constitutes roughly one per cent of the total.

Most Powerful Cancer Weapon Now In Operation

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 31 (CP)—The world's most recent and most powerful cancer weapon went into operation Tuesday on its first patient.

Two simple movements — the setting of an electric clock dial and the flick of a switch—marked the unofficial opening of the cobalt 60 beam therapy unit, known as the cobalt bomb.

In the specially-constructed treatment room in War Memorial Children's Hospital, the patient, immobilized by a plaster cast, felt nothing. All that was heard was the two-second hissing of an air pump which opened the "shutter" of the huge unit. Then powerful gamma rays, 10 times the strength of radiation from the Victoria Hospital cancer clinic's biggest X-ray machine, penetrated deep to the malignant growth within the patient's body.

The turn of the switch releases electricity to the "shutter" air pump.

Based on Calculations

Treatment is based on calculations made by the diagnosing doctor who determines the amount of radiation the patient must receive. The figures are turned over to a physicist, Jack Brown, who works out the physical details of treatment.

Details usually involve making a body cast of the patient and using it to determine the angles of treatment and the field of radiation. By means of the hollow cast and long wires, the exact angles are worked out. The physicist knows exactly at what spot in the patient's body the tumor is located and by transferring this to the hollow cast, and inserting the wires through walls of the cast and the tumor points, the direction from which radiation should enter the body is calculated.

The unit resembles a small cement mixer suspended several feet above the floor on an electrically-controlled stand. Within it is a small core of radioactive cobalt which emits gamma rays.

gated and reports made to the deputy minister. All the deaths were reported to a coroner. The department had planned such safeguards as window bars and locks in certain sections of the hospital.

The Legion has never disapproved of advanced methods of treatment and experiments in medical science at Sunnybrook, said Mr. Biggs.

"Indeed, it has on many occasions paid tribute to the direct results obtained for all humanity by the medical findings at this hospital."

No experiments were made on veteran patients without full consultation of the doctors and the full knowledge and permission of the patients.

As for the charge that medical students treated Sunnybrook patients, Mr. Biggs said Command has been assured by Veterans' Affairs Minister Lapointe that all internes have one year's experience in a recognized public hospital before joining the Sunnybrook staff.

Mr. Biggs said, however that in several isolated cases, "the personal attitude of certain junior members of the staff at Sunnybrook has not been all it might have been in the way of tact or psychological approach."

Dead 5 Weeks Man Winner Of Big Lottery

VANCOUVER, Oct. 31—(CP)—Frank Matthews, 27, of Vancouver, killed five weeks ago in a traffic accident, was Tuesday named a winner of the $14,000 first prize in an Australian lottery.

He held the winning ticket in the Queensland State lottery, valued at 6,000 Australian pounds.

Mrs. Florence Mathias, a lonely widow, wept when she heard she might share the winnings of her dead stepson in a lottery, known by tragic coincidence as The Golden Casket.

Mathews and his fellow construction worker, Harvey Schwartz, 30, died from injuries suffered when Mathews' car rolled off the Vancouver Island Highway on Sept. 24, near Campbell River.

To Share Money

In the dead man's effects, passed on to his sister, Mrs. F. C. Willander, of Burnaby, was found the lottery ticket.

Mrs Mathias, deaf mute, indicated some of the money would go to pay Mathews' funeral expenses.

She and Mathews' stepsisters, Mrs. Willander and Thelma Mathias, are the only heirs to the money when and if it is released by the Australian Govenrment.

Australian foreign exchange regulations forbid export of currency to Canada and other dollar areas.

Mathews, Second World War RCAF veteran, was employed by the BC Bridge and Dredging Company near Campbell River.

Naval Chief Retires

OTTAWA, Oct. 31 (CP)—Canada's naval chief of staff, Vice-Admiral H. T. W. Grant, 52, is retiring and will be succeeded by Rear Admiral E. R. Mainguy, 50. Announcement of the shift is expected to be made shortly, after cabinet approval. Vice-Admiral Grant has piloted the navy through most of the post-war period and had a distinguished fighting record in two wars.

Dollar Down

MONTREAL, Oct. 31 — (CP)—The American dollar today opened at 4½ per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, down 1/8 from Monday's close. That is, it took $1.04½ Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.92⅝, down 5/16 from Monday.

No Possession, Court Dismisses Liquor Charge

Possession may be nine-tenths of the law.

However defence counsel Gordon H. T. Farquharson won an acquittal for his client in police court today by arguing that she did not have even one-tenth possession of a case of beer, even though she had insisted to two constables that the beer was hers.

Charged with having liquor in a place other than her residence, Mrs. Alma Ronco, 251 Lake St., pleaded not guilty.

Both constables Sherman Keliele and Wilfred Perry testified that Mrs. Ronco had told them the case of beer which was found in her brother-in-law's car was hers when they had been called to 251 Lake St., the night of September 30 to quell a disturbance.

Shielding

In the witness box, Mrs. Ronco admitted telling the officers the beer was hers, but said she did so to "shield" her brother-in-law who is on the interdicted list. That afternoon, Mrs, Ronco said she had given her brother-in-law the money for a case of beer but had never seen any beer until the officers removed the case containing 12 full bottles, (the other 12 had been consumed) from the brother-in-law's car.

Arguing that his client was not guilty because she did not have possession of the beer, Mr. Farquharson claimed that the "offence was aimed at people having liquor in a place other than their residence."

The accused said in the witness box the beer could have been hers and admits giving her brother-in-law the money for the beer," replied crown attorney Walter Howell. "If she was endeavoring to prevert the law, she should expect to take the consequences."

Magistrate Philp did not agree with Mr. Howell's submission that possession could be inferred from ownership and dismissed the charge.

New Pats Arrive At Korean Port

SEOUL, Korea, Oct. 29—(Delayed) — (CP) — A headquarters company and a further rifle company of the First Battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry reached a Korean port today.

The men were met by Lt.-Col. Norman Wilson-Smith of Winnipeg and Maj. George Flint of Montreal, second in command of the Patricia's second battalion. The second battalion, which has been in Korea almost a year, is being relieved by the incoming troops.

Commanding the riflemen who arrived today was Maj. Jack George of Edmonton who led the Second Battalion's "Charlie" company into action earlier this year. He returned to Canada in April as an instructor.

After a brief reconditioning course, the newly-arrived Canadians will join elements of the Patricias' First Battalion who until now have been under command of Lt.-Col. Jim Stone. Col. Wilson-Smith is expected to assume command soon from Col. Stone.

Official forecasts issued by the Dominion public weather service at 9.30 a.m. today:

Synopsis:

Much cooler air from Western Canada surged into Southern Ontario early today. At Windsor and Toronto the mercury dropped 11 degrees in one hour with the arrival of the cold air. An energetic storm centre moved across Kirkland Lake region this morning and will continue a northeastward motion across Quebec tonight. Strong northwesterly winds behind this storm caused gales on the Great Lakes and pushed the cold air into Southern Ontario. As a result of this storm snow with considerable drifting is reported from most northern regions of the province.

The snowstorm over Northern Ontario will diminish in intensity tonight and only light snowflurries are forecast for Thursday in these regions. Over Southern Ontario freezing temperatures are indicated for tonight and a sunny but cool autumn day is forecast for Thursday.

Regional forecasts valid until midnight Thursday:

Lake Ontario, Niagara regions, Toronto and Hamilton:

Cloudy, except for a few sunny intervals, clearing late this afternoon. Clear tonight and Thursday. Much cooler. Winds west 30, diminishing to 15 this evening, light Thursday. Low tonight and high Thursday at Trenton 25 and 45, St. Catharines and Toronto 32 and 45, Hamilton 30 and 45.

Summary for Thursday: Sunny. Little change in temperature.

Haliburton region:

Cloudy, with a few showers this morning, clearing this evening. Clear tonight and Thursday. Much cooler. Winds west 30, diminishing to 15 tonight. Low tonight and high Thursday at Killaloe 25 and 45.

Ability To Drive Not Impaired Magistrate Finds

A charge of driving while his ability was impaired against Thomas W. Douglas, 464 Somerset St., W., Ottawa, was dismissed in police court today by Magistrate W. R. Philp.

The charge was laid Tuesday night, following an accident at Aylmer and Lansdowne Sts., when Douglas who said he is a chauffeur for Defence Minister Brooke Claxton was involved in an accident with a car driven by John E. Pierce, 425 Rose Ave.

Douglas pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Driving south on Aylmer St., Douglas turned right on Lansdowne St., and collided with the left rear door and fender of Pierce's car which was travelling east on Lansdowne St.

Smelled of Beer

Constable William G. Scott investigated and testified that Douglas smelled strongly of beer and "showed signs of drinking." Constable Scott said a witness had informed him that Douglas had thrown a beer bottle out of the car after the accident. This bottle together with another which Constable Scott found in the glove compartment of Douglas' car was produced in court.

"I don't think his driving was impaired," John Pierce, driver of the other car told the court. "His speech was normal and he was in a normal condition as far as I could see."

"The obligation is on the Crown to show there was impairment," said Magistrate Philp in dismissing the charge.

Stronger Support On Stock Exchange

TORONTO, Oct. 31 — (CP) — Stronger support today in early afternoon dealings pushed stock market prices from early declines. Irregular opening support held industrials mixed and trendless but weakness developed within the first hour.

Refining oils, sparked by the $1.50 jump of Imperial Oil, showed the strongest advance. Interest in the stock followed reports that the company was considering offering 2,700,000 additional shares to stockholders. Papers and banks dipped sharply.

Trading slowed as volume for the first three hours shrunk to 990,000 shares.

Western oils made little headway in penny dealings. Anglo-Canadian, Jupiter, Devon-Leduc and Redwater-Piccadily edged upward while Canadian Atlantic, Pacific Petroleum and Selburn eased.

Base metals traded irregularly. Consolidated Smelters added $2 while other leaders including International Nickel, Quemont, United Keno Hill and Waite Amulet slipped fractions.

Senior golds were weak. Four issues posted losses ranging to the $1.75 dip of McIntyre-Porcupine while two showed slight gains. Secondary issues showed little trend.

Montreal Gets Good Look At Royal Pair

MONTREAL, Oct. 31—(CP)—Cosmopolitan Montreal fell, too.

Like the smallest hamlet, Canada's largest city yesterday capitulated to Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

The welcome accorded the heir presumptive to the throne and her consort perhaps lacked the vociferousness of Toronto or the exuberance of the west. But it was sincere and spontaneous as the Royal couple moved slowly on their 40-mile drive around Montreal Island.

The day was given over wholly to seeing and being seen.

It was the Royal couple's first day in the city where they first touched Canadian soil Oct. 8 before beginning their Canadian tour. They had arrived from western Canada Monday but there was time then only for the formal presentation ceremonies at the airport and a hockey game at night. Tuesday was the people's day.

Behind Schedule

In a 12-hour day that right from the start ran behind schedule, the Prince and Princess:

Toured McGill University; drove around Molson stadium to the cheers of more than 20,000 children; received the acclaim of tens of thousands of children in Delorimier stadium; saw the Canadian Vickers shipbuilding plant in operation; lunched at the chalet on the top of Mount Royal; visited the University of Montreal; toured the big Canadair Ltd. factory and were received officially at the city hall.

They were to have returned to their Windsor hotel suite at 6 pm before attending the City of Montreal's dinner in the evening but it was not until 7:20 that the Royal couple entered the hotel to the cheers of thousands assembled in historic Dominion Square.

Throughout the long day, generaly sunny but with a nip in the air, they had ridden in an open convertible. The car with the plastic top, used in the west during inclement weather, was driven behind them, unused.

Leave For Washington

Today, they take off for Washington and a two-day visit with President Truman. The morning is free of public engagements until they depart at 1:30 pm by air from Dorval airport.

They will spend this afternoon, Thursday and most of Friday in the United States capital, returning to Montreal Friday afternoon to begin a two-day holiday in the Laurentians.

Mayor's Party Guests Ottawa Fair

The regal and colorful atmosphere of tonight's opening horse show of the 1951 Ottawa Winter Fair at the Coliseum will be enhanced by the present of Mayor G. R. Chamberlain of Peterborough, Northamptonshire, England, who will attend in his robes of office.

Mayor Chamberlain—chief magistrate of one of the oldest cities in England—will be accompanied by the Lady Mayoress and Alderman E. V. Martin, and Mrs. Martin, who is a councillor.

That is a quotation from the Winter Fair publicity which features the attendance of the visitors from Peterborough, England. They left here Tuesday morning and are returning Thursday.

The Peterborough group will be accompanied by Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa who will wear her chain of office for the occasion.

The visitors with the mayor of Ottawa will occupy the guest box. Others who will be in that box will be Hon. George Dunbar, Minister of Municipal Affairs, and Mrs. Dunbar; Dr. George Hooper, president of the Ottawa Fair and Horse Show, and Mrs. Hooper; Don Morrow, MLA, and Mrs. Morrow; R. G. T. Hitchman and Mrs. Hitchman, and Mrs. Justice Forsyth of the Supreme Court of Ontario, who will be a guest of Mayor Whitton.

The Ottawa news item mentions the fact that the Old Country visitors have been in Peterborough "where they took part in the official opening of a new $750,000 City Hall."

"This afternoon the visitors saw the "largest gathering of junior farmers ever held in this country."

"A total of 375 boys and girls from farms in 11 counties of eastern Ontario will be in the show ring taking part in the Eastern Ontario Championship Calf and Swine Club Show.

"The visitors will also see the record exhibits of horses, cattle, sheep, swine, poultry, fruits, flowers, seed and food products. It will be a familiar setting for the visitors as their city is an important centre for the manufacture of agricultural implements and situated in a rich agricultural section of England.

Peterborough is an ancient city. It grew up around a Benedictine monastery founded in 655 AD. The present cathedral was consecrated in 1237 AD. The city has a population of about 55,000."

Missing Boy Found Exploring Basement

COBOURG, Oct. 31—(ENS)—When four-year-old Johnnie Cleary, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Cleary of Roseneath, disappeared for two hours yesterday afternoon while visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bailiff of Roseneath, mother and grandparents had an anxious time. Because of the presence of a well nearby and a swamp, they became worried and started a search. The provincial police were summoned too, and Corporal Douglas Wilson and Constable L. Erskine headed for the scene. However, in the meantime, Mrs. Cleary found her son doing some exploring in a shallow basement under the house.

Bancroft Church 55th Anniversary

BANCROFT, Oct. 31 (ENS)—The fifty-fifth anniversary services were held in St. Paul's United Church, Bancroft on Sunday. The Rev. Thomas Wallace was guest speaker at both morning and evening services when all the churches of the charge worshipped at Bancroft. Special music was provided during both services by the choir under the direction of Mrs. Ray Watson, organist and choir director.

The Rev. Thomas Wallace, now retired and living at Greenbank, Ontario, was pastor on this charge 40 years ago.

Monday evening the anniversary turkey supper was served in the church basement by the women of the Afternoon Auxiliary.

Hallowe'en Bombers

WINTHROP, Mass., Oct. 31 — (AP). — "Hallowe'en bombers," who left a number of householders choking from sulphur fumes on their doorsteps were hunted by police Tuesday night. Police said several householders reported that the raiders rang doorbells, then released a white flash and then a strong smell of sulphur."

Ripley Estate

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP). — Robert L. Ripley, creator of the "Believe It Or Not" cartoons, left a net estate of $558,368 at his death in 1949, an estate tax appraisal showed Tuesday. Ripley's will named as beneficiaries his brother, Douglas, of Mamroneck, NY, and his sister, Ethel Davis of Burlingame, Calif.

United Counties Holds Final Meet

COBOURG, Oct. 31—(ENS)—Routine business occupied the attention of Tuesday's meeting of Northumberland and Durham Counties Council who are holding their fall session here. The final session of the year used to be held in December but it was felt more convenient to hold it in November and some years ago was changed.

This year the men had deer hunting, plus provincial election in mind and the session started this week, in October.

Council received a letter from the sheriff of the counties which drew attention to the fact that the cost of living bonus for civil service employees was now $35 a month and that in view of the salaries paid the jail employees consideration should be given to a cost of living bonus of $35. It was referred to the finance committee.

Resolutions from various other county councils were referred to the appropriate committees. Tribute was paid to John Finlayson, sanitary inspector of the Northumberland and Durham counties health unit. Reeve R. W. Nicholls of Darlington Township said that Mr. Finlayson was a credit to the health unit.

Harry Deymman crown attorney for the counties, who attended a special short course at Chicago and whose attendance was paid by the council, outlined the information obtained at the course, which he said would be of considerable assistance to him.

Four from Canada, attended, being the deputy attorney-general for Prince Edward Island, an inspector of the RCMP for PEI, a member of the attorney general's staff from British Columbia and Mr. Deyman.

Counties road superintendent Jack Jordan in presenting his road report, pointed out that the re-organization of the road network would be the answer to the administration problems. Mr. Jordan said that plans had been drawn for the $20,000 bridge over the Factory Creek at Cobourg but that it was not known when the steel would be available. The department pays 80% and the counties the balance, the bridge having been taken over temporarily into the counties road system.

Under the new grouping, District No. 1 will be made up of roads number 57, 1, 4, 63, 59, 17, 14 and 5, which respectively will be Bowmanville to Highway 7A; Road 4 to Taunton; Bowmanville to Tryone; Road 57 to Ontario Boundary for both 63 and 59; highway 7A through Caesarea and through Nestleton to Janetville; Highway 7A through Nestleton to Highway 35 and county road extensions in Bowmanville. This will total 54 miles.

District No. 2 will comprise 53 miles, being Road No. 21 from Road 4 to Orono-Highway 35; No. 9—Highway 35 to Highway 28; No. 8—Newtonville to Kendal; No. 65, Highway No. 2 to Elizabethville; No. 10—No. 2 highway Hope-Cavan and county roads in Port Hope and Newcastle.

District No. 3 will comprise 45 miles being road 10 from Hope-Cavan boundary—Victoria county boundary; No. 16—from Millbrook, Highway 28, No. 16A from Millbrook to Pontypool; No. 60—Road 16A to Highway 7A; Road 58—Road 10 to Highway 28; No. 13 and 34 from Highway 28 to the Otonabee river and county road connecting links in Millbrook.

District 4

District No. 4—30 miles made up by Road 18 from Cobourg to Alderville; No. 9 Highway 28 to Road 18 and extension in Cobourg. District 5 is made up of 40 miles of road, being No. 25 from Colborne to Norham; No. 23, (Shelter Valley)—Highway No. 2 to Castleton; Road 22 from Highway 45 through Centreton to Castleton; No. 27, from Morganston to Cramahe-Brighton boundary; extension in Colborne.

District 6—Road 25 from Norham through Warkworth to Hastings; Road 28 from Norham to Highway 30; No. 61 and 62, from Highway 35 through Burnley to Warkworth; No. 35 from No. 28 to Highway 30; No. 31 and 38 from Campbellford to Hastings County Boundary; extensions and connecting links in Hastings and Campbellford, Healy Falls and Allen's Mills bridges.

District No. 7—Road 30 from Wooler to Hastings County boundary; No. 27, from Cramahe-Brighton Boundary to Highway 30; No. 26, from Brighton to Wooler; No. 64 from Brighton to Carrying Place; county road extensions in Brighton; Trenton suburban road for a total of 38 miles.

Expenditures on the counties road system to Sept. 30, 1951 totalled $351,818.76, less credits of $56,361.55 and less balance for 1950 of $10,496.03 for a total of $282,961.18. Among the larger items were frost boils, washouts, holes—$41,070; resurfacing and gravel patching, $23,396.97; grading, etc., $21,802.35; construction, $65,494.05; maintenance, $175,018.32.

E. F. Marsten, district highways department engineer, complimented the counties for their paving program which will reduce maintenance costs and also lauded the townships for their road work.

Kinsmen Club Hallowe'en Party

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 31 — (ENS)—Last minute plans of the Hallowe'en shell-out party at Edgewater Park on Wednesday evening, were completed at the Monday evening meeting of the Campbellford Kinsmen Club. It is believed this year's party will be as successful as its predecessors.

Canvassers reported that merchants of the town were very generous in their financial support of this annual event.

The club decided to hold a prospective members' night November 26, when a special program including a film has been arranged. This event will be held at Edgewater Park.

Rotarian, Dr. W. W. Baker addressed the club to solicit their support in formulating a local hockey league, including youngsters from Campbellford and district. He asked the club to purchase jerseys for one team to represent the club, and to appoint a representative to the governing board. Kinsmen agreed to do this, and will name their man at the next regular meeting November 12.

Thomas J. Craighead, retired Campbellford merchant, was guest speaker, and told the members of his trip last year to the British Isles. He made special reference to Scotland. He said he visited the scene of the Battle of Bannockburn and other historic spots, including the birthplace of Robert Burns. Edinburgh Castle and the homes of Walter Scott and Andrew Carnegie were other places of importance visited by Mr. Craighead. Kinsman Dante Pace thanked the speaker at the conclusion of his remarks.

Two new members were accepted into the club on Monday evening. The are Glen Taylor, barber, and John Hill, banker.

US Farm Prices Up

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP) —Prices of farm products ending a seven-month decline, rose about two per cent in the month prior to Oct. 15, the agriculture department reported Tuesday. Cotton and dairy products showed the biggest price advance, and there were declines for cattle, fruit, chickens, corn and wool.

Young Adults Club Hallowe'en Party

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 31 — (ENS)—A Hallowe'en lunch of pumpkin pie and coffee rounded out the annual Hallowe'en party of the St. John's Young Adults Club, after members spent an enjoyable evening of games, contests and sing songs.

Prizes for the best disguises went to Walter Elliott, Muriel Heagle, Mel McKeown and John Bull. Enid Hay was the winner of a contest conducted by Mrs. D. M. Smith.

After a few songs conducted by Ruth Thompson, a program in charge of Jean Archer was presented. This included a vocal solo by Gaele Meyers, a humorous reading by Anne Palliser, two vocal solos by Muriel Heagle and a piano solo by Anne Nicholls.

Thornton Waters conducted a short devotional period.

Political Opinions And Independent Newspapers

The Stratford Beacon-Herald has announced that in matters relating to the forthcoming Ontario election it will be neutral; it will report fairly what all parties say, and in its editorials it will "be wholly objective, for purpose of clarification and explanation only." This statement has brought upon the Stratford paper an editorial rebuke in the Ottawa Journal. It is not the duty of a newspaper, says the Journal, to sit on the fence, but in many cities where there is only one newspaper, that is the usual course. The Journal declares that it is "convinced that the honest expression of a newspaper's views, reached not on caprice but on considered judgement, is something of importance to the public, and it should not lightly be discarded in favour of a fence-sitting policy." We agree with the Ottawa paper, but we know the predicament of the Beacon-Herald, as well, for we are in a similar situation.

* * *

In all but a few large cities in Canada, there is only one daily paper. This is because, in these days of costly production, only big cities can support two papers. It is also because the public no longer likes the paper with a sharp party bias, and we can name only five in Canada at present. Most papers say what they think and they do not think along straight party lines. (We say nothing of those papers, too numerous by far, which never fatigue themselves with thought and are content to express, belatedly and dully, what they believe to be the opinions of the majority of their readers.) The Journal, though Conservative in its general tone, has said some very harsh things about the Conservative party during the last ten years. The Winnipeg Free Press and the Montreal Star, usually Liberal in opinion, have flogged the Liberals more shrewdly than any Tory paper. Newspapers of any character are no longer content to tag along after a party, like a dog slinking behind a gypsy caravan.

* * *

As for the so-called "independent" papers, they occupy a position which we think the Journal fails to understand; they are much nearer to their readers than the few big city papers, and many of their readers simply do not believe in their independence or objectivity. Nor, we may say, do the big city papers, when they deign to take notice of these smaller publications. The Examiner, for instance, has been an independent paper since 1921; but it was a Liberal paper before that, and great numbers of our readers still maintain that it is a Liberal paper; they are strengthened in this opinion by one or two big city papers which occasionally mention us as part of what they call "the kept Liberal press." Just who keeps us, we have yet to discover, but that is the phrase. And we may say that, however complimentary we may be toward Conservative statesmen and Conservative policies—and we have, on the whole, said more good than ill of them—we shall probably continue to be looked upon as a Liberal paper, for the memory is short for kind words, but bitterly tenacious of words of criticism.

* * *

It is our policy, however, not to shove political doctrine of any sort down the throats of our readers through our editorial columns. Regarding the present Ontario contest, we said a few days ago that its outcome was a foregone conclusion, and we cannot work up any sweat over it. Mr. Frost's government, which we have consistently supported as we supported Mr. Drew's before, will undoubtedly be returned, with a somewhat smaller majority. We shall sound no trumpet for Mr. Thomson, whose expressed policies do not impress us.

* * *

We do not imagine for an instant that this declaration will decrease our reputation for inveterate Liberalism. Undoubtedly, next time we breathe a faint criticism of the Toronto Conservatives, somebody will be in our office, pounding the desk and roaring that what Peterborough needs is another paper. And we shall tell him, as we always do, to start one and try his luck.

* * *

We suggest to the Journal that it can afford luxuries of extreme opinion which are impossible for its smaller contemporaries. It can be as Conservative as it pleases—perhaps more Conservative than it really feels—because it knows that the Citizen is always on hand to correct the balance. We in the smaller cities have to remember that both sides of every political dispute suspect us of being either against them or lacking in zeal for their support; we must also remember that the staircase reaching toward our office is shorter than those marble flights which lead to the Pompeian splendours of the editorial offices in Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto and Vancouver.

Canadians To Leave Korea?

The Minister of National Defence is under fire from Opposition people because Canadian troops in Korea are not getting enough soft soap and movies, it seems. Perhaps they are not getting quite as much personal and civilian service as the American troops—they are under British Commonwealth direct command—but we are sure that their numerous American comrades-in-arms over there are, with typical generosity, sharing their own creature comforts. The fact of the matter is that there are not enough Canadian formations, nor is the combat area big enough, to permit Canadian authorities to set up civilian welfare groups such as Y.M.C.A. and Salvation Army services. On the whole the Brigade (only one battalion of which has seen significant action; that is the Princess Patricias) seems to be well provided with welfare officers in uniform. It has six who look after their material welfare, with staffs, and 13 chaplains to attend to their spiritual as well as material needs. They have recreation centres under canvas and canteen wagons which distribute cigarettes, chocolates, cakes, books; and they have radios. And their term of service out there is only one year.

The most interesting part of Mr. Claxton's reply to questions in the House of Commons was this: that although conditions in Korea are "far from desirable" . . . "we hope that all our commitments there will be ended as soon as possible." Mr. Claxton did not seem to be referring to the possibility of peace in Korea. Is he indicating that the Canadian Korean brigade will be brought home, and that the entire overseas energy of Canadian armed forces will be concentrated in Europe, to which the 27th Brigade is about to be despatched? It is an interesting speculation.

Watch On The Nile

The British 3rd Infantry Division is being moved immediately to the Middle East, to reinforce infantry and paratroop brigades already standing by the Nile. The British are not going to succumb to the Egyptian threats nor put up with the violence which is disrupting traffic on the Suez Canal and disturbing Cairo, Alexandria and Ismailia on the canal.

King Farouk of Egypt who last week had himself crowned King of the Sudan, is in a weak position, militarily, financially and diplomatically. Britain is in a strong position. She has the troops, ships, guns and planes. The Egyptian soldiers are poorly trained and have traditionally no skill or will to fight efficiently. Egypt has a large sterling balance—held in London. Without it, or American dollars, it would be crippled financially; and the American government strongly sides with Britain in this matter.

Diplomatically, the 1936 Anglo-Egyptian Treaty has five years to run. Under it Britain was permitted to station 10,000 troops and 400 pilots in the Canal Zone; and the two nations were to share in the government of the Sudan territory. Egypt has abrogated this treaty. Britain will not accept the tearing-up of the Treaty, although she has made alternative proposals, whereby the Canal Zone would be policed by international forces.

This show of strength in Egypt is not an outcome of the British elections and Churchill's resumption of the Prime Ministership. The decisions to stand firm were taken by the Attlee Government. Whatever British Government was in power Britain's position demands such action as has been taken. Of all the foreign regions of the earth where western influence must continue to prevail, there is none more important than the Canal Zone. Fortunately, this importance is recognized by the rest of the western world; Britain will not have to stand alone.

The situation is not simple. Even though Britain has the men and equipment the Arab populations in the Middle East are restive. That kind of racial-religious fever cannot be allayed by the show of a powerful flag.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Fifty British Columbia ducks are ill after eating the mash from a still. They'll need a quack doctor.

Mr. Churchill was elected on Thursday, announced his Cabinet on Saturday, and Parliament will meet on Wednesday. That is an example of political dispatch which Canada might regard with envy.

The oddest comment we have seen on the British election results was this sentence in a Canadian Press despatch from London on Monday: "The London Stock Exchange which has long prayed for a Conservative Government, today greeted Churchill's victory with a display of general weakness." The Exchange flabbergasted that prayer has been answered?

North Africa And Strategy

By A. V. SHERMAN

ONE result of the significant development in weapons and logistics since 1945 has been to increase the importance of the North African littoral to European defence. In face of the weight and speed of modern weapons, the European continent continues to "shrink", and for some years yet Western military planners have to reckon on the possibility of a Soviet thrust over-running areas which in former wars would have been bases. The defence of Europe, therefore, comes to depend on support from extra-European bases, from which counter-offensives could also be launched if necessary.

Fortunately the Mediterranean has "shrunk" in time and space. From Libyan bases jet aircraft, flying 200 miles an hour faster than piston-engined fighters, can operate over Yugoslavia, Greece and Bulgaria while from French North Africa their combat area includes Italy and most of France. And all European airfields are accessible to troop-carrying and cargo aircraft from North Africa.

Yet at the same time the North African coast remains safe from attack by armies not enjoying overwhelming naval and air superiority.

✧ ✧ ✧

EGYPTIAN intransigeance and Britain's loss of Palestine have given Libya new strategic significance. During the last war Libya constituted a Westward extension, strategically, of the Suez Canal Zone, on which it was based, whereas now it forms an eastward extension of Morocco's Atlantic coastline. Four good ports on the Atlantic coast of Morocco, which stretches south west for 700 miles from the Pillars of Hercules, push their rail links through Algeria, and Tunisia as far as the Gulf of Gabes, on Libya's borders, where a tarmac road system, now being overhauled carries on as far as the Nile Delta.

✧ ✧ ✧

AS the last war showed, Libya can serve as training ground and reserve area for whole armies, provided its lines of communication are safeguarded.

At Port Lyautey, in Western Morocco, the Americans have built a terminal for their transatlantic flights, whose giant C.74's fly in from the Azores with heavy loads. Besides their four air-bases in Morocco, the Americans are enlarging Wheelus Field, their Transport Command base near Tripoli.

North Africa's strategic potentialities can be effectively exploited only if over-all policies are adopted to tackle the area's political problems and economic weakness. Libya's problems are relatively straightforward; it needs economic aid to help maintain its million inhabitants, develop its natural resources, and pay its civil servants. Britain and America hope to maintain their present relationship with the Libyan Government by which they are granted the use of military bases there in exchange for economic aid, and hope to sign treaties to this effect with the independent Libyan Government which will emerge from the elections due to be held within a few months.

✧ ✧ ✧

AT present a dangerous current of xenophobia is growing in Libya, encouraged by Arab League activity, and might later result in a Persian-style avalanche of anti-British fanaticism (even though this would eventually be detrimental to Libya's interests), unless it is countered by more up-to-date social, political and propanganda methods to maintain the good will which Britain earned in liberating the territory from Italian misrule.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN French North Africa a real modus vivendi between French settlers and Arabs has yet to be found. The territories' full economic development is thwarted by the French politique de peuplement i.e. the policy of settling as many Frenchmen there as possible for political reasons, giving them preferential treatment against the Arabs, who are thereby kept at a low standard of living with mass unemployment.

As a result, agricultural production has failed to keep pace with population growth, and Algeria, formerly a wheat exporter, now has to import wheat. This is due mainly to the poverty and backwardness of the Arab cultivators, who obtain less than half the yield per acre of the French settlers, to whom substantial credits and technical aid are granted. If the Arabs were helped, too, Algeria could again achieve a food surplus, saving shipping and port facilities, improving the standard of living and reducing political frictions.

North Africa needs industrial development, for which it possesses the raw materials, both to raise standards of living and to create a pool of skilled labour from which military needs might be met. Until now industrialization has been delayed partly by French customs policies designed to keep the territory as a market and raw materials base for French industry, partly because the colons, big French farmers, complained that industrial employment opportunities would raise wages and make their labourers 'too independent', and partly because the territory has not accumulated sufficient investment capital.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE political situation is such that the Nationalists and the French administration use up most of their energies in fighting each other. The Arabs resent their state of economic and political inferiority in a country where they constitute over ninety per cent of the population; their language has been deprived of official status, all education and administration in Algeria being carried out in French, and naturally they resent the heavy-minded bureaucratic police regime; which believes that by being tough towards a "few agitators" it can permanently solve the national question.

This situation has led to a real danger that in the event of war, especially if it began with a Soviet advance into Eastern Europe, the Communists would begin partisan uprisings. French confidence that "Communism is weak among Arabs" ignores the elasticity of Communist tactics, which depend on exploiting nationalist sentiment rather than converting the masses to Communism. They could probably form a "National Liberation Committee", with one or two nationalist and religious figureheads, while Communists control of the movement could be ensured by tactics now familiar from use in Europe and Asia.

Such a movement could effectively paralyse aid to European defence at a vital moment. So long as the Nationalist leaders are in prison or exile, or so long as they despair of any peaceful solution to offer their people, few Arabs would oppose the uprising with a good heart; yet the French are relying on Algerian and Morocco troops.

While the French, spurred by Egyptian developments, are now hoping to win British backing for their North African policy, Algerian and Tunisian Nationalist leaders have not yet given up hope that British and American advice may persuade the French to permit a peaceful solution before it is too late.

The Atomic Challenge

(CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR)

NEWS that Soviet Russia has exploded a third atomic bomb faces America and the west world with a challenge to keep ahead in the production race on these weapons. Even more seriously, however, mankind is faced with a challenge so to develop the moral and peacemaking forces of the world that resort to such instruments of destruction may be restrained.

That this hope is not altogether fatuous or impossible is intimated in at least two areas of experience. One of these is the realm of chemical warfare. The other is the field of international mediation and arbitration.

To take the latter first, it is commonly observed by cynics that while world opinion may prevent small nations from going to war with each other, it is less effective against major powers. Yet the size of disputes settled by peaceful intervention shows a steady growth over a period of decades, and, as in the rise of courts for individual justice, there is every reason to expect this trend to continue.

One reason poison gases have not been much used in warfare is that they are known to be available to both sides in most large-scale conflicts. Thus the likelihood of retaliation has to be weighted with the facts that the conditions under which gas warfare has devastating effect are limited. Further, any nation initiating such attacks would incur a deep abhorrence among non-participants.

It takes a high degree of industriousness to insure, in the atomic arsenal, that the non-Communist nations will have the power to discourage military attack by fear of reprisal, considering the great Russian preponderance of armed manpower in Europe.

Indications are that the United States holds a long lead on atomic bomb design and manufacture, both as to number and size of bombs stockpiled and as to varieties developed for use on differing types of targets. For several months it has been public knowledge that the United States has some kind of tactical as well as strategic A-weapons—that is, bombs or rocket warheads which may be used against troop concentrations in the field.

Yet experts and the best-informed laymen warn against thinking of the atomic bomb or any other new weapon as a miracle device which will take the place of armies and navies or make all other weapons and defences obsolete. A tactical A-bomb, for example, would be virtually wasted against widely or even normally dispersed forces.

Militarily the doctrine of balanced forces is as sound as ever it was. There must be land, water, and air arms for a variety of functions, and each strong enough to carry out its mission.

Similarly there is intense need for attention to an equally valid doctrine of balanced forces in the whole orbit of international relations. Arms are by no means the only factor in that sphere.

Letter To The Editor

CONSCRIPTION IN SOUTH AFRICA

Sir: I have just come upon a letter in which Mr. C. W. Holman, writing to the EXAMINER, seeks information on conscription in South Africa (and other Commonwealth countries.) In the circumstances, a brief description of the situation in South Africa may be of interest to your readers.

In terms of the South African Defence Act of 1912, every citizen of European descent "shall be liable between his seventeenth and his sixtieth year (both included) to render in time of war personal service in defence of the Union in any part of South Africa." There is no legislation for compulsory service outside South Africa, and it is the policy of the present Government to maintain this position. "The law on this point will remain the same", said the Defence Minister a few weeks ago, "and South Africa will rely on volunteers for service outside her borders. There is greater unity on this point than ever there has been before, and it is unnecessary for the Government to introduce legislation on the question of service outside South Africa in time of war."

South Africa's record suggests that conscription for service overseas is, in fact, unnecessary. In the last world war (when there was far less national unity on foreign policy), the country's volunteer army accounted for more than 10 per cent. of the population—by 1943, one in every three men of military age was in the armed forces. And it is interesting to note that between 60 and 70 per cent. of the servicemen were Afrikaans-speaking.

Thus no change in the method of recruitment of forces for overseas service is being contemplated, but there is under consideration an important development of peace-time training. According to legislation amended in 1922, every citizen of European descent between the ages of 17 and 25 is liable to undergo peace-time training. The maximum training period at present allowed is 80 days' continuous, and 26 days non-continuous training over a period of four years. But on September 5 last the Defence Minister said that legislation providing for one year's continuous training for men of this age group might be introduced; and that, if passed, the youths would probably be allowed to choose the year in which the training was to be done.

Another recent (announced October 4) development of importance is the creation of a Defence Manpower Board. Chief function of the Board will be to advise the Government on the most economical and balanced use of the country's manpower in time of war, so as to endeavor to ensure that South Africa will be able to meet its internal and external obligations without causing disruption of the country's economy.

Yours Truly,
A. W. STEWARD
South African Government
Information Officer

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Issachar is a strong ass crouching down between two burdens: and he saw that rest was good, and the land that it was pleasant; and bowed his shoulder to bear, and became a servant unto tribute. (Gen. 49: 14, 15.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Ye have sown much, and bring in little; ye eat, but ye have not enough; ye drink, but ye are not filled with drink; ye clothe you, but there is none warm; and he that earneth wages earneth wages to put it into a bag with holes.

Thus saith the Lord of hosts; Consider your ways. (Hag. 1: 6, 7.)

✧ ✧ ✧

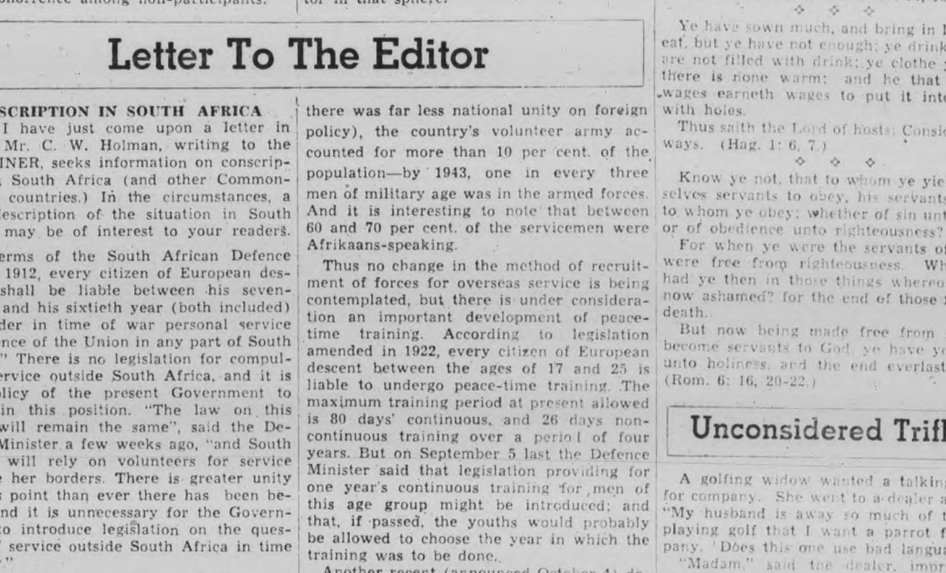
Know ye not, that to whom ye yield yourselves servants to obey, his servants ye are to whom ye obey; whether of sin unto death, or of obedience unto righteousness?

For when ye were the servants of sin, ye were free from righteousness. What fruit had ye then in those things whereof ye are now ashamed? for the end of those things is death.

But now being made free from sin, and become servants to God, ye have your fruit unto holiness, and the end everlasting life. (Rom. 6: 16, 20-22.)

Unconsidered Trifles

A golfing widow wanted a talking parrot for company. She went to a dealer and said: "My husband is away so much of the time playing golf that I want a parrot for company. Does this one use bad language?"



"Madam," said the dealer, impressively, "with this bird in your house you'll never miss your husband."

✧ ✧ ✧

He was enlarging on the dangers of certain foods, and with a dramatic gesture he pointed an emphatic finger at a rather harassed-looking and inoffensive listener and demanded: "What is it? We all eat it at some time or another, yet it is the worst thing in the world for us. What is it, I say? Do you know?"

It appeared that the little man did know, for he replied in a husky whisper: "Wedding cake!"

West Germans Very Uneasy Over Nazi-Like Party

FRANKFURT, Germany, Oct. 31 — (AP). — West Germans are uneasily watching the growth of a political party that wears the frightening face of Nazism.

The federal government hopes to have the party abolished as unconstitutional. Many states ban its leaders from speaking publicly. In others, party rallies are prohibited.

But the Young Socialist Reichs Party keeps plugging away, raucously promising to restore "the many good features of Nazism."

The SRP was founded 18 months ago by a disgruntled Rightist in the West German Parliament named Fritz Dorls. He bolted his own Deutsche (German) Party and teamed with Count Wolf Westarp to create the SRP. Westarp was an obscure politician.

Growth was slow at first, but the organizers kept working. Soon Reichsfront Guards, who looked and acted like Nazi storm troopers, took charge at party rallies.

Couldn't Squelch Party

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government managed to outlaw the Reichsfront because of its bully-boy tactics but the Chancellor was unable to squelch the party. No party can be banned in West Germany by government edict alone, so the new federal constitutional court is being asked to rule on the SRP's legality.

In two appearances at state polls, the SRP scored startling results.

Last May it won 16 of 159 parliamentary seats in Lower Saxony, getting 366,790 of the 3,330,566 votes cast (11 per cent). In October it won eight of 100 parliamentary seats in the little state of Bremen, with 25,813 of the total of 339,830 votes (7.7 per cent).

Widens Operations

Now the SRP is steadily widening its operations. In the industrial Ruhr, organizers are carrying on word-of-mouth campaign. Members in strong local groups are carrying the program to young coal miners.

Leaders decline to divulge the present membership of the Socialist Reichs Party. Early last year Westarp said there were at least 30,000. Party membership is no gauge of what the SRP can do at the polls, however. Hitler's Nazis never claimed more than 1,500,000 party members when the Reich's population was 75,000,000.

Car, Truck Tangle

A Smith Transport truck, driven by James Grant, 41, Lindsay, was in collision Monday night with a stake-body truck, driven by Mrs. Kenneth Lancaster, RR 1 Indian River. Both trucks were going east on Highway 7E. About half a mile west of the Indian River turn Mrs. Lancaster started to make a left turn at the same time as the transport driver decided to pass. The result was a sideswipe collision that did $75 to the transport and $150 to the stake-body truck. OPP Constable Tom Fitzpatrick investigated.

Davies-Hearst Quarrel Settled

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP). — Former actress Marion Davies and officials of the Hearst Corp. announced Tuesday they had settled all matters between them out of court.

The announcement said that Miss Davies, longtime friend of the late publisher, William Randolph Hearst, "has relinquished all rights she may have to act as voting trustee for the stock of the Hearst Corporation."

It added that Miss Davies has "every faith in the intentions and abilities" of directors and executives of the corporation, who include Hearst's sons.

The association between Miss Davies and Hearst dated back to her film career in the 1920's, when she appeared in Hearst-controlled film companies. He once credited her with aiding to his aid with $1,000,000 during the depression and saving him from financial disaster.

Ottawa Will Play Host To 26 Vets From Korea

OTTAWA, Oct. 31 (CP). — Twenty-six fighting men from nearly as many countries will be dined and toasted here Thursday as a cross-section of the unique UN army making war for freedom in Korea.

The cabinet, the city and the military will join in a welcome to a group of wounded veterans brought to this continent for a tour that is meant to demonstrate the unity and scope of the UN forces.

Cpl. Jean Raymond Roy, 25 of Montreal, a section leader with the Royal 22nd Regiment in Korea, is the lone Canadian in a group also representing the United States, United Kingdom, Australia, Korea, France, Thailand, Greece, the Netherlands, India, Ethiopia, New Zealand, Norway, Belgium, Turkey, South Africa, Colombia, the Philippines and Luxembourg.

Another Canadian, navy PO Thomas Dawe of Nanaimo, BC, remained in the US with the rest of the group of 40 to 50 men brought back. The 26 men coming here by plane from New York at 11 am Thursday will leave Friday morning for Buffalo to resume their tour of the US. Ottawa is the one Canadian stop.

The party will be greeted by high-ranking officials on arrival and will tour Ottawa in private cars before a luncheon in the House of Commons given by Defence Minister Claxton.

From 2 pm until 4 pm the servicemen will tour the Commons, attend a parliamentary session, and meet the press. They will visit the National Gallery later in the afternoon.

At 6 pm service officers and military attaches will be hosts to the veterans at dinner and at 9 pm they will appear on the stage of an Ottawa theatre. Major-Gen. E. L. M. (Tommy) Burns, deputy minister of veterans' affairs, will introduce them.

Certain No Chance Of US Steel Strike

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 31 — (CP).—The wages of steel workers in the United States may rise and the price of steel may also go up, but there won't be a strike under any circumstances, Charles E. Wilson, US defence mobilizer indicated Tuesday.

At a news conference before speaking at the dedication of a huge new steel works here, he said that "the security of the nation depends" on steel and the government will take all necessary steps to avoid any possible walkout. He admitted the possibility of wage increases, and said they would inevitably be followed by an increase in steel prices.

There might be a temporary over supply of certain kinds of steel next year, but "unless the whole economy is going to collapse—and I don't think there's any danger of it—it's going to take all the steel the steel companies can make to keep us going."

Port Arthur Girl Wins Scholarship

TORONTO, Oct. 31 — (CP) — Rachel Mair Morgan, 17-year-old Grade 13 student at Port Arthur Collegiate, Tuesday night was awarded a $500 educational scholarship offered by the Ontario Hospital Association.

Rachel, a daughter of a Baptist minister, wrote on "What Our Hospital Means to the Community." There were 2,000 entries.

Second and third prizes were scholarship awards of $300 and $200 and went to Helen Geiger, of Kitchener, and Huguette St-Laurent, of Ottawa, respectively.

Three other contestants, Barbara McMullen, of Lindsay, Ingrid Ancevitch, of Oakville, and Francis Nadeau, of Sarnia, were awarded special mention.

Honorable mention went to Isabel L. Huehn, Hanover; Clarabeth Mahaffey, Guelph; Betty Wylie, Southampton; Lois O'Brien, Brantford; Marilyn Anne Marmino, North Bay; Shirley Mooder, Parry Sound; and Helen Smith, Kincardine.

Have Choice To Make

QUEBEC, Oct. 31 — (CP). — Charles E. Tailor-Made Bombs Can Halt War—Writer

BOSTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—William L. Laurence of The New York Times, a leading newspaper authority on the atom bomb, said Tuesday that tactical "tailor-made A-bombs" can be manufactured by the tens of thousands and "will make war impossible."

Laurence, the only newspaperman to witness the first A-bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, told the Boston Advertising Club:

"Tailor-made A-bombs capable of wiping out a pillbox or a division of troops will make war impossible.

"The strategic A-bomb has prevented World War III and now a new tactical weapon is winning that war without our having to fight it."

Laurence added: "Concentrations of masses of troops will be just suicide with these new weapons."

Two Teen-Age Girls Found In Halifax

HALIFAX, Oct. 31 (CP)—Two teen-age girls who left home "on the spur of the moment" were in custody of welfare officials today, seven days after they disappeared from their Sarnia homes.

They were picked up at Lantz Siding, 30 miles from here, Tuesday, by RCMP officials. Their parents are expected to arrive today to accompany them home.

The girls, Marie Simpson, 15, and Ruth Ann Greaves, 13, said they decided to "play hookey" while walking to school after lunch last Wednesday. They hitch-hiked to Kingston, and then decided to continue on to Sydney Mines, NS, where Marie has relatives.

Edmonton puckists will represent Canada at the Olympics in Oslo next February. Applications had been received from St. Francis Xavier University, Winnipeg, Edmonton, Trail, Noranda, Cornwall and Smiths Falls. The CAHA picked Edmonton because it had represented Canada in the 1950 world championship games in Europe. All players must be able to take an oath they had never competed for money or any other substantial reward. They'll be absent from the country about four months to take part in the games and in an exhibition tour which helps pay expenses. The Olympic Committee of Canada will have to arrange to pay upkeep at home of wives and families of married players.

We've seen no report on what Oslo, Norway, is like. But a brief description in a bulletin appears on Helsinki, Finland—behind the Soviet Iron Curtain—where the summer Olympics will be held in 1952. It says: "Helsinki is a small modern town with a deep-water harbor and open sea front. The population is a little over 400,000, most of whom live in large blocks of flats. There are very few private houses in Helsinki, and only four hotels, to be increased to seven in time for the Games. There are a number of good restaurants, cinemas and four theatres of the National type." Wonder how the Communist and western officials and teams will get on together there.

Re The Minor Puckists

PMHA officers this year are: President, Don Smedmor; vice-prexy, Ray Harding; secretary, Buster Whitton; treasurer, Bill Jordan; in charge of refs and protests, Jack MacNamara. There's a 7.30 a.m. drill tomorrow for Olmstead's bantams; and these evening practices: SPS bantams and midgets at six, Trojan bantams and midgets at seven, IOOF juves at eight, Otonabee Wolves and midget Marines at nine, Lakefield juveniles at 10, and the juvenile Marines at 11. Also a 7.30 a.m. workout Friday for Trojan juves. Teams having morning practices must get the arena key the previous night, and must clean off the ice after the workout. The minor puckists will be playing each Thursday night, starting shortly.

Mat referee Bert Maxwell is a house dick in the Royal York, and last night at the Brock he must have thought the house had fallen in on him. Several times. Ditto with Athol Layton and sundry others. After Zorra the French Tarzan got through mopping up things. He was a very angry Frenchman, indeed, at being gypped out of the final fall in the main go with Layton. So he nearly ruined Athol, did likewise with his nibs' manager Gerald, really ruined the ref, and slammed several other wrestlers—who rushed to the rescue of the ref—around plenty ere they could cool him off. Many of the large crowd of fans tried to get into it later, going after Layton, but the latter got in a few licks, too, and the police broke it up. A wild and woolly affair. The Chief took the semi-windup o'er Toar Morgan, while Pat Flanagan won the prelim from a guy named Lou.

These Petes have been signed by Jim Ellis: Jake Wade, George Steele, Don Floyd, Stan Groshak, Bob Wyatt, Chum Fryia, Fred Garvey, Ted Collins, Junior West, Dean West, Jack Mortimer, Gus and Earl Leonard, Dean Wasson, Arn Dugan, Curly Mason, Drake Jopling, Ron Horton, Ray Harding, spare-goalie Byers, Trombley and a defenceman from Kirkland Lake, who arrived in town in time to beat he Nov. 1 deadline for OHA imports. It rather looks from this list as though the Petes were loaded with puck talent a week before the senior "B" schedule is slated to open. The team finished strong last spring till they met Owen Sound in Allan Cup "A" playdowns.

Ike Hildebrand currently is tied among fifth-place AHL scorers, counting eight points for Cleveland Barons in seven games played, whilst serving 10 minutes in penalties. Don Ashbee is with Buffalo in the same loop but his scoring mark isn't shown in the last bulletin received. Nor is Nit O'Hearn shown as having played goal yet with Syracuse. Gordie Bell being between the pipes for this team in all seven league contests. Red Sullivan graduated from Hershey to start this season with Boston Bruins and he is expected to stay up in the higher hockey company. St. Louis leads the AHL with Providence next, then Cleveland, Indianapolis, Pittsburgh, Hershey, Syracuse, Buffalo and Cincy.

Taking No Chances

SARANAC LAKE, NY, Oct. 31 (AP)—The Chamber of Commerce and Ski Club are going to buy this winter sports mecca just what it needs—a snowmaking machine. Although this Adirondack village usually gets more than its share of snow, the village fathers are taking no chances. So the chamber has decided to share the cost of the $5,000 machine with the Saranac Lake Ski Club.

Fight Mob Enjoys Society Lunch

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Oct. 31 (AP)—Residents of this sedate city of millionaires were totally unaware of it, but what is roughly known as the fight mob from downtown invaded its quiet precincts Tuesday.

The occasion was what the society pages might record as an intimate luncheon held in honor of Mr. Art Aragon by his close friend, Mr. Irving Berman, of North Ruxbury Drive.

Actually, it was a publicity affair, because Mr. Aragon is an excellent prizefighter and the event was staged to ballyhoo his coming title bout with the world champion, Jimmy Carter, of New York, Nov. 14.

Berman, a young man who built a coat with padded shoulders into a small giant of the men's clothing industry, literally threw open his doors for the occasion, and it's a good thing he did. The way the fight mob crowded in, they might have torn the things off the hinges.

As it was, the social produced no incident of note. No one so much as dropped a teacup, a beer bottle or anyone else, and it proved, if nothing else, that Roxbury Drive can conduct itself every bit as politely as Main Stree

Good Entertainment

And the hours spent at the palatial, pastel-peach mansion were divided among:

(1). Photographers calling on Aragon to flex his muscles. The golden boy acquiesced against a background of such elegant fixtures of the estate as a swimming pool, Berman's private $8,000 gymnasium, and a couch in the living room, a creation that extends some 25 feet, not counting where it curves off to the south.

(2). A tour of inspection of the host's wardrobe room, with its collection of five dozen sports coats. All gay. (Good material, too).

There was a suggestion that Aragon pose from the diving board, but two men, promoter Carl Eaton and publicity chief William Miller, demurred. "There will be no pictures relating to a dive," they said firmly.

"Besides," whispered Miller, "I'm not sure if Art can swim."

Catcher Says Dressen Created Ill Feeling

BOSTON, Oct. 31 (AP). — Manager Charlie Dressen of the Brooklyn Dodgers was cited as the object of the ill feeling of "many major-league baseball players" Tuesday night, by George (Birdie) Tebbetts, Cleveland Indians' catcher.

"We all were glad when Dressen blew the National League pennant in the playoff series with the New York Giants," Tebbetts said in a speech to the Massachusetts Association of Insurance Agents.

"Dressen showed lack of sympathy and understanding for his players, as well as poor sportsmanship several times during the past season," Tebbetts said.

Dressen was not available for comment.

D. Martin Hits 339

D. Martin of Marines rolled a high single of 339 this week in the Girls' City Bowling League at Duffus', as high three went to J. Castle of Marines with a 751 effort. Marines led teams with 3220 pinnage and 1237 for top game. M. Thompson's 713 took the 710 blind score prize.

Marines blanked Sevenaires for the only shutout of the evening, which saw some keen bowling. Other decisions were 2-1 wins for Cardinals over Curtin's, Black's over Arcos, Bond's against Aces, and Collis over Dickson's. Besides Marines, team totals were: Black's 3052, Bond's 3048, Arcos 3032, Cardinals 2956, Aces 2868, Collis 2755, Curtin's 2737 and Dickson's 2537.

IT'S ALL READY—Workers at Toronto's Varsity Stadium unload 30 burlapped sections, each weighing 410 pounds, which go to make up the already famous tarapulin to cover the playing field for the Grey Cup. Purchased by the Canadian Rugby Union, it is expected the new covering will prevent conditions on the field which existed last year.

Here And There In Sports

By The Canadian Press

Paul McGarry took over Tuesday as coach of the Balmy Beach football team, Toronto entry in the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union. But seven of his players had quit.

Checking out were Ed Fisher, captain, of the runners-up in the ORFU race this season; Red Gillan, the team's kicker; second-string quarter Don Hatt; ends Andy Gilmour and Bob Hendry; and lineman Tony Horvath and Vince Warhirst.

McGarry, team manager for three years, said the seven demanded that Art West, fired last Friday by the club executive, be reinstated as coach.

"I told them the executive had made a decision and wouldn't back down, McGarry said.

Charles Lawson, president of the Big Four Football Union, said at Hamilton Tuesday night that extra playoff games, if needed, will be arranged after the regular schedule winds up Saturday.

The season ends with the first-place Ottawa Rough Riders playing Toronto Argonauts at Toronto and Montreal Alouettes at Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Rough Riders, who have 14 points, are assured a playoff spot. Toronto and Hamilton are deadlocked in second place with 12 points apiece However, wins for Toronto and Hamilton could result in a three-way tie for first.

Eddie Sawyer, the one-time college professor who managed the Philadelphia Phillies to their first and only National League pennant since 1915, signed a new three-year contract Tuesday and promptly announced that, except for two stars, his players are "available for a profitable deal."

The exceptions, Sawyer said, are pitcher Robin Roberts and outfielder Richie Ashburn, both of whom had great seasons despite the Phils' slump to fifth from their 1950 pennant pace.

A prediction that there will be four major leagues before 1960 was made Tuesday by Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International League. He credits a plan advanced by Ford Frick, new baseball commissioner, with making his solution of continued complaints by top minors a probability. Frick's solution was offered during a six hour meeting of the major-minor council shortly after the world series, when the Pacific Coast League insistently demanded the right to be exempted from the draft.

George Weiss, the man behind the scenes in the New York Yankees' great string of championships, has signed a new long-term contract as vice-president and general manager of the world baseball champions, it was announced Tuesday.

Walter S. Woods, 75, "Sunday school pitcher" of the big leagues, died Tuesday at Portsmouth, NH. The former hurler for Chicago, Pittsburgh and Louisville of the old National League refused to pitch on Sunday. He told team owners he would quit before playing on that day.

During his 17 years in baseball Woods never pitched a Sunday contest.

A Boston jury Tuesday awarded Wilbur Cowan $28,000 in his damage suit against the Eastern Racing Association, operators of Suffolk Downs race track, and two Boston policemen. Cowan, 40, of Springfield, Mass., sued the association and the two policemen for $50,000 each, contending had had been beaten at the track Aug. 11, 1945.

The Detroit Baseball Company Tuesday night announced completion of negotiations for sale of the Toledo, O., franchise in the American Association to a syndicate for a price "in excess of $160,000." The syndicate is composed of Danny Menendez and Oscar Salenger of the Hollywood Club in the Pacific Coast League and Kenneth and Robert Close, Toledo businessmen.

CRU Finally Gets Tarpaulin After 101 Weeks, 23 Interviews

By JACK SULLIVAN

TORONTO, Oct. 31 (CP)—Almost 101 weeks (give or take a day), two Grey Cup finals, 23 interviews, 18 letters and $12,000 of the Canadian Rugby Union's money later and look what happens: a tarpaulin arrived Tuesday to protect Varsity Stadium ground from mud, rain and snow—or a combination of all three—for the afternoon of Nov. 24.

That's the day when every football fan from Edmonton east to Montreal (although the Alouettes aren't directly concerned this year) probably will offer up a fervent prayer that the two teams fighting for the historic trophy will at least be recognizable to the 27,000-odd Varsity ticket-holders. That is Grey Cup day, the biggest on the country's sports calendar.

The tarp is a $12,000 bundle manufactured in Canada on orders from the CRU showing that the rugby union at least is doing its bit to prevent a repetition of the 1949 and 1950 classics when the players zigged and zagged, slipped and slopped through mud and water. After the first few plays, the fans—particularly last year—weren't sure whether they were watching water polo or football.

With so much fuss and fury about the 1949 and 1950 playing conditions, the union made its decision to invest in the tarp last March.

After the 1949 spectacle, when Calgary Stampeders lost 28-15 to Montreal Alouettes on treacherous patchwork of ice-coated and sun-melted strips—the yipes from Calgary about the playing conditions were heard across Canada. Then, last year, when Toronto Argonauts showed they were better mudders than Winnipeg Blue Bombers (they won 13-0) on a morass of slop and water, the yipes turned into full-throated roars for action.

Green Sox First To Get Trophy

LINDSAY, Oct. 31. — Sutton Green Sox, 1951 champions of the Tri-County Baseball League, will be the first recipients of the new Richard Butler Trophy at the sixth annual banquet in the North York village, Friday.

Richard (Dick) Butler, Lindsay councillor and sportsman, is the donor of the new cup which will replace the smaller original which was presented when the league was formed in 1946. The Green Sox will receive the new silverware and crests while the 1950 champs and this year's finalists, Stouffville Red Sox will be presented the Carling Sport Trophy.

The Rev. Thomas Wallace of Greenbank, a veteran baseball enthusiast in the district for many years will be guest speaker at the 1951 windup dinner. Election of officers for the coming season is also on the slate.

Alan McFater Scores Third Round TKO

TORONTO, Oct. 31 (CP)—Alan McFater, 23-year-old Toronto lightweight, Tuesday night scored a third-round technical knockout over Ronnie Harper of Logan, W. Va., before a slim crowd of about 1,500. The bout was stopped at the end of the third with Harper bleeding profusely from a gash over his right eye.

McFater, 141, held a big edge when the Ontario Athletic Commission doctor ruled that Harper could not continue. The American weighed 141¾. McFater opened the cut in the second round and belted the spot with left hooks throughout the third.

Stamford-PCVS Expected To Meet In COSSA Finals

The stage was set Tuesday afternoon for the Central Ontario Secondary Schools Association championship game.

Unless PCVS' Garnet and Greys completely collapse in the next two games and unless Stamford loses to the weak opposition from the Georgian Bay district, Stamford will be playing PCVS in the senior COSSA on November 17 at Morrow Park.

Stopped cold in their Red Feather bid last Friday by Hamilton Cathedral, Stamford returned to their undefeated ways Tuesday in the Falls by walloping Niagara Falls Collegiate, 29-2 to clinch the peninsula title.

Opportunists, Stamford scored two first half majors on two Niagara Falls fumbles. Stamford's Fred Ruish opened the game from the kickoff over the Falls' line for a point, followed shortly by a Falls' fumble deep in their own end, Stamford's Doug Rapelije dropping on the ball for the major.

Score Another

The Falls' Renzetti booted a single in the second but a fumble by the Falls' on their ten-yard line put Stamford in scoring position. The Stamford plungers were held back but after a short Falls' kick roared back on passes to score Scobie on a quarterback sneak.

The Falls' continued to make Stamford look like any other team in the third, completely outplaying them. Renzetti booted the final Falls' point.

Stamford's Orange and Black revived in the fourth for three TDs. Ruish began the parade after grabbing a blocked kick and running 75 yards to score. Washington and Miller promptly added two more after Washington had made long runs.

Peterborough has two more games before they enter the COSSA finals. Only a miracle can keep them out.

Coach Goulding's Garnet and Greys meet Red Townsend's Belleville Collegiate's crew Saturday and then the league finishes a week Saturday at Morrow Park against Oshawa Collegiate's Combines. PCVS has scored easy victories over both teams this season.

Zorra Drops Main Bout But Beats All Comers In Furious Mat Windup

Excitement reached its highest peak of the pro wrestling season last night at the Brock after the main bout as a big crowd milled around a boiling ring. They were cheering Zorra, the loser, to the limit as he knocked the daylights out of Lord Athol Layton, his manager Gerald, Referee Bert Maxwell and three big prelim grapplers who came in trying to stop the mayhem. Mob action spread along the runway to the dressing-rooms as a flock of fans tried to tear apart big Athol, the latter cuffing some of them en route, and police finally breaking it up.

Bert Fooled

Layton was awarded the final fall in eight minutes when Maxwell—who had been kicked previously accidentally by Zorra — thought he was kicked again by the same party. What happened was that the French Tarzan had softened up his ludship and then picked him up far a spin, but one of Layton's feet caught the pudgy referee on the chops and down went Bert. Zorra meantime finished the airplane spin and had Layton pinned five or six seconds. But Maxwell got groggily to his feet and awarded the fall to Athol.

That tore it. The maddened Frenchman went berserk for minutes then. He knocked Maxwell kicking, jumped Layton again, threw Gerald around, took another whack each at Layton and Maxwell and slammed into three wrestlers, in civvies, who climbed in to stop the massacre. He broke loose from them several times to take another crack at Athol, but the weight of numbers finally forced him to call a halt. He was cheered to the echo by the fans for his overtime efforts against odds.

Evened It Up

Zorra had won the second and equalizing fall in 14 minuntes with an airplane spin and slam after a series of plain and fancy kicks (his specialty) and some hard smashes. Earlier he had a good edge on the round with flashing footwork but later Layton punished him plenty in the corner with fists and judo slashes. However, the Frenchman faked injury and got an overconfident Athol coming into a corner, Zorra then ripping into him like a tiger to soften him up for the fall as the crowd nearly raised the rafters. It was a redhot round after some nifty matwork to open it up.

Layton, who scaled 258 pounds, and was taller than the 227-pound Frenchy, got the initial fall in 18 minutes with his "English octopus" grip, following some judo slashes to the jugular and plenty of roughing along the ropes. Zorra played it cleaner at that time and was faster, besides exhibiting some smart work with his flying feet. They were both speedy, well-built and experienced matmen, and dished up the best grappling seen here so far this season. Both were warned at times by the referee, with Layton getting the finger more often for failure to break clean along the hemp.

The Chief Won

The semi-final saw Chief Suni War Clour, 227, a winner when Toar Morgan, going 246, was counted out of the ring. He was on his feet and could have been back before the count of 10 but took too much time. He was angered at the call and the wrestlers mixed briefly after the gong. It was wild and woolly just before the windup as they lit into each other hard. The dancing, war-whooping Indian proved a wily scrapper to make his rougher (and unpopular) opponent miss many attacks. Both were almost counted out once on the floor after a furious exchange of fists. Toar favored a half-nelson and hair-tug which Maxwell missed consistently.

Popular Pat Flanagan earned the prelim bout in 24 minutes with a reverse full leg nelson and shoulder stand. He scaled 228 to Lou Sjoberg's 241 but proved as lively and tricky as usual. Lou was full of illegal tactics and tossed Pat out of the ring early, but Pat came back and demonstrated an illegal grip on the ref—who roared angrily — as the large crowd roared in delight. Lou was hoisted out of the ring later and Pat hopped Maxwell to knock Lou flying again as he tried to return. They slugged it out with fists in wide-open action shortly before the final fall, which Flan worked in smart fashion, to earn plenty of applause as his hand was lifted.

Ahead of Ghosts

OSHAWA, Oct. 31 (CP)—Oshawa Red Raiders defeated Ryerson Tech of Toronto, 34-6 here Tuesday night in an Eastern Conference ORFU intermediate game. The win moved Oshawa into first place ahead of Cobourg Galloping Ghosts. The big scorer for Oshawa was Jimmy Lorene with four touchdowns.

Kitchener Drops 4th In Row Bows To Biltmores 5-4

By The Canadian Press

Followers of St. Catharines Teepees and Kitchener Greenshirts of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League must have strange feelings today. The feelings vary, especially from the ones they harbored two weeks ago. Kitchener, the newest entry in the OHA junior circuit, started out like a house on fire, in marked contrast to the Teepees. Things have taken a sudden turnabout.

Greenshirts, after taking their first five games, Tuesday night dropped their fourth straight contest, 5-4, to Guelph Biltmores, while Teepees won their third in a row, defeating Oshawa 5-3. St. Catharines managed only a tie in its first six outings.

Elsewhere in the junior league, Galt Black Hawks moved into third place by downing Waterloo Hurricanes 8-4.

Mercurys Win

Bob Gillson's netminding and Andy Grant's three-goal output sparked Owen Sound Mercurys to their second straight win, 8-0 over the Brantford Redmen, in one of two OHA Senior A league clashes. Hamilton Tigers eked out a 6-4 triumph over Sarnia Sailors in the other senior contest.

Biltmores triumph broke a two-way deadlock between Guelph and Toronto Marlboros for first place. Marlboros, idle last night, meet Spitfires in Windsor tonight.

Bill McCreary sniped a pair of goals for Guelph with others going to Ron Murphy, Chuck Henderson and Ken Laufman. Laufman, the league's top point-getter, figured in all five Guelph goals.

Red Ingoldsby, Duke Edmundson, Orv Tessier and Austin hit for the Greenshirts.

Free-For-All

A free-for-all, with less than a minute left in the game, highlighted the Teepees-Oshawa duel in St. Catharines. Only four minors were meted out, however.

Singles by Brian Cullen, Chuck Marshall, Pierre Pilot, Frank Martin and Gord Myles accounted for the winning margin. Fred Etcher, with a pair, and Bob Holden scored for Generals, who maintained a firm grip on ninth place in the standings.

Sensational netminding by Lavi Puola kept Galt from winning in a walkaway. Neil McDonald, with two, and singles by Tom Fyles, Jim McBurney, Pete Conacher, John Sleaver, Ken Wharram and Mike Buchanan gave Galt the nod.

Charlie Brooker clicked for a pair for the losers while John Wood and Caron added singles.

Gillson blocked 30 shots, including 15 in the middle period to record his shutout. Besides Grant, Joe Ripku, with two, Buck Forslund, Tommy Burlington and Ray McCallum, wih one each, scored for Owen Sound.

Leads Hamilton

Fred Pankoski led Hamilton to its home-ice win over Sarnia, scoring two goals. Others went to Bud Kemp, Ab Conick, Polly Miocinovich and Frank Liscombe.

Liscombe scored after Coach Norm Tustin removed goalie Ralph Titam in the closing stages of the game in favor of an extra forward.

Don Emms paced Sarnia with two goals. Jim Wilson and Harry O'Connor potted one each.

Maurice Richard Hopes To Set Scoring Record

By The Canadian Press

At the rate Maurice Richard is scoring goals this year—seven in nine games—its conceivable the trigger-tempered Montreal Canadien winger will ring out 1951 as the greatest marksman the National Hockey League has known in its 34-year history.

Nudging the 300-mark with nine NHL seasons under his hockey belt Richard has only 25 more to pop in to break the 324 record set in a 15-year stretch by poison Nels Stewart with the old New York Americans and Montreal Maroons and Boston Bruins.

Canadiens, including tonight's only scheduled game against the Maple Leafs at Toronto, have 25 more games to play before Dec. 31. And barring injuries or a highly-improbable slump, the Rocket should be fitted for size about now for the "greatest scorer" crown.

Canadiens will be shooting for more than a first-place tie with Detroit Red Wings when the red, white and blue shirted players step on to the ice at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens. One goal for the Rocket would make him the second player in NHL history to reach the 300-mark, also set by Stewart.

And it would be particularly gratifying to Habitant fans if the big one came tonight against Montreal's perennial rivals—and on Toronto ice. It's almost a certainty that linemate Elmer Lach and Bert Olmstead, the highest-scoring trio in the league, will feed Richard at every opportunity so that he may hit, or even surpass, Stewart's 300-mark tonight.

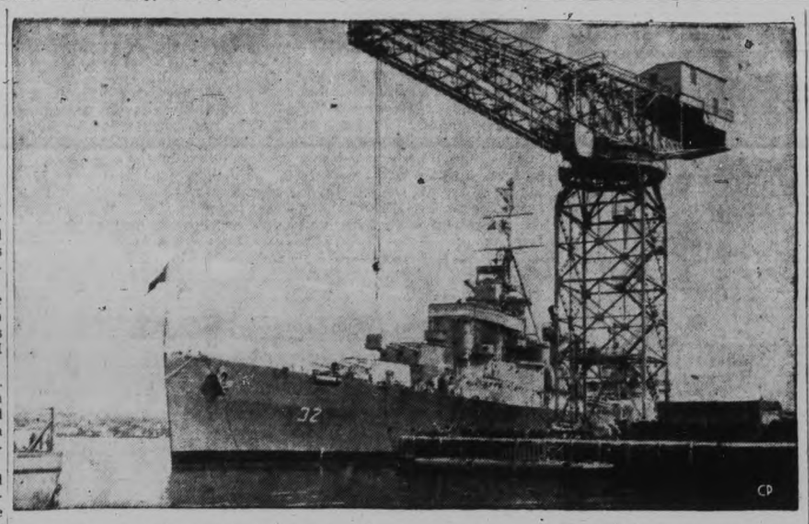
Wins Divorce, Sinatra Alibi Out With Boys

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Oct. 31 (AP). — Nancy Sinatra won a divorce from her crooning husband Tuesday without mention of his travelling com[illegible] Ava Gardner.

In fact, the dark-haired wife and mother testified that Sinatra explained his prolonged absences from home with the old alibi: "I was out with the boys."

Superior Judge Orlando H. Rhodes granted the divorce on grounds of cruelty just a year and a month after she had won a previous decree of separte maintenance.

She testified that Frank had asked her many times for a divorce, presumably during the crooner's international headline chase of the sultry Miss Gardner. The 31-year-old wife said she balked "because I wanted to be sure he knew what he was about."



Worried About Health

Hollywood sources have reported that Mrs. Sinatra finally gave in to Sinatra's pleas when she feared for his halth. His emotional state became apparent in a series of squabbles with reporters and photographers who tried to chronicle his international romancing.

Judge Rhodes approved a property settlement wherein Mrs. Sinatra will get 33 per cent of the singer's income up to $150,000 annually and 10 per cent when it goes over that figure. The settlement disclosed that the crooner earned $367,000 from January 1 to August 31 of this year, making her take roughly $72,000.

Mrs. Sinatra gets custody of the couple's three children, Nancy 11, Frank Jr. 7, and Christina 3.

Sinatra already has filed for a Nevada divorce. He and Miss Gardner romanced during his six weeks required residence in Nevada, and now are in New York City where Sinatra appears on television. Sinatra said he had "absolutely nothing to say."

DATE WITH ROYALTY—HMCS Ontario loads supplies at her berth in the naval dockyard at Halifax as she prepares to leave to carry out duties in connection with the Royal visit. The 11,000-ton cruiser will transport Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh from Charlottetown to Sydney, NS, and to St. John's, Nfld., during November 9 and 10.

Exclude All Newspapermen From Washington Functions

By PAUL SCOTT RANKINE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (Reuters)—Although Princess Elizabeth is visiting Washington as a Princess of Canada, newspapermen are excluded from all functions organized by the Canadian embassy here during the Royal visit, according to the official list of arrangements issued by the White House Tuesday.

The 12-page document describes in detail the arrangements being made by the United States government and the British embassy to enable press, radio and cameramen to attend the greeting ceremonies at the national airport, a press reception at the Statler Hotel, wreath-laying ceremonies at the Arlington national cemetery and George Washington's tomb, a sight-seeing tour and the reception at the British embassy.

Opposite the announcements of all the Canadian embassy functions are the grim statements:

"No newsmen, no pictures."

"No pictures. Newsreels and still men will remain with the motorcade and return with the parties to Blair House."

"Wire service pool will arrive with the Princess but will not enter the residence."

Said Too Small

The Canadian embassy, which is large by Washington standards, is declared by Canadian embassy officials to be too small to enable them to invite any newspapermen at all to accompany high diplomatic officials invited.

The custom in Washington in such cases is for invitations to be extended to three or four news agencies serving all the newspapers interested, but in this case the embassy refused to permit even agency representatives to be represented.

Also the Canadian embassy is not participating in the entertainment of British and Canadian correspondents arranged by the State Department and others.

There has been considerable criticism in the American and Canadian press of the tendency of Canadian government officials during the Royal tour of Canada to limit access to the Royal party to high officials and politicians only.

Hallowe'en Dance

WARKWORTH, Oct. 31—(ENS)—The students and teachers of the Warkworth high school were sponors for a Hallowe'en dance in the town hall Friday evening. About 200 atended, many being dressed in costume.

The following were prize winners as selected by members of the orchestra as judges:

Fancy dress, Mrs. Norma McCleary and Miss Wylanne Hermiston; comic dress, Graham Lester dressed as Donald Duck; spot dance, Miss Pat Mallory and Bill Phillips.

Music was supplied for dancing by the Jack Dunsmoor orchestra of Campbellford.

Clergy Heads Visit Korean Front

By BILL BOSS

SEOUL, Korea, Oct, 31 (CP)—Ranking heads of three Protestant faiths in Canada concluded today a brief tour of Canadian military installations in Korea.

They left in an Australian aircraft for Japan where they will visit Royal Canadian Navy and military units before returning to Canada in about 10 days' time.

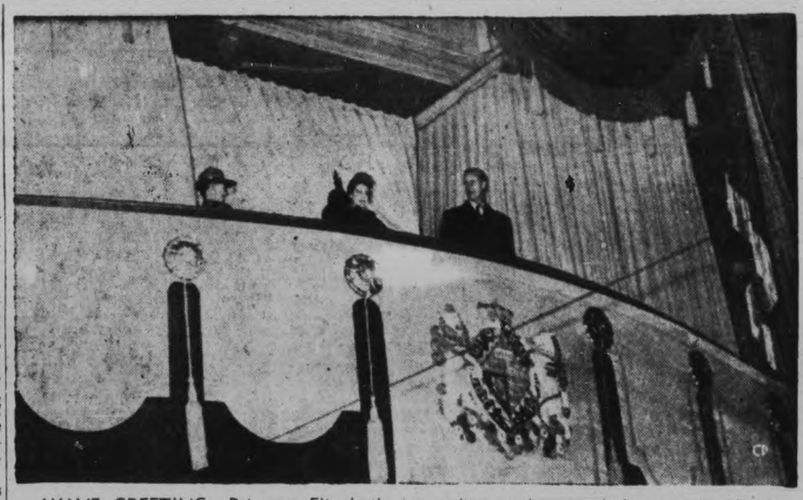
Dr. Norman D. Kennedy, moderator of the Presbyterian church, boasted in rich Scottish tones of having conducted divine service closest to the front of the trio—in gun positions of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery.

He said he found the troops "Good—but I can't say the same for Korea."

In Good Spirit

Dr. C. M. Nicholson, moderator of the United Church, who conducted a service in Seoul on Sunday night for a Korean civilian congregation besides preaching at the front to the troops, also said he found them in good spirit.

Archbishop Walter F. Barfoot of Edmonton, primate of the Church of England in Canada, said the men were "undoubtedly healthy and fighting fit. They are well-clothed, well-fed and seem to be in good spirits."



He said he would have liked to spend a longer time with the men.

All three visited company headquarters of infantry units. Members of their faiths were drawn back from platoon positions to meet them.

Body Found In Lake Thought Welland Man

STURGEON FALLS, Oct. 31—(CP)—A body believed to be that of one of two Welland men drowned in Lake Nipissing Sept. 30, Tuesday was found floating of the north shore of the lake 12 miles west of North Bay.

The body may be that of Norman Lemon or Steve Bosky. Both men were drowned on a fishing trip when their boat was swamped by choppy water. A third fisherman in the boat, Harry Norton, also of Welland, used an empty gasoline container to carry him to shore.

WAVE GREETING—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh wave to the crowds that gathered in Dominion Square to welcome the Royal couple to Montreal Tuesday. Their Royal Highnesses are standing on the same balcony at the Windsor Hotel from which King George VI and Queen Elizabeth acknowledged cheering crowds during their visit to Montreal in 1939.

Three generations agree — Five Roses original all purpose flour is best!

"Mother brought our whole family up on crisp, country-fresh home-bakings from FIVE ROSES flour and Grandma used it, too. So naturally I do all my baking with FIVE ROSES! My little ones — and my husband — can't wait to get into the cooky jar or taste pies made with FIVE ROSES — and when I bake a batch of bread, it seems to be eaten up in a minute! As soon as my little girl is old enough she'll begin baking with FIVE ROSES — making four generations!"

MRS. GORDON SHEPHARD, R.R. #1, Brigden, Ont.

"A woman has to be practical to run a home, and the first thing I taught my daughter was to use just one flour for all her home-baking . . . FIVE ROSES. For cakes, cookies, buns, pies and bread, we both find FIVE ROSES ALL PURPOSE FLOUR is economical, dependable and nutritious. I've used FIVE ROSES flour and the Five Roses Cook Book for years . . . and the quality is just as good as ever — first class!"

MRS. FRED HILL, Box 29, Charlton, Ont.

"When I was first married over twenty-five years ago, my Mother advised me if I always wanted to have success with my baking, then I should use nothing else but FIVE ROSES ALL PURPOSE FLOUR. I took her advice and have used nothing else since. My Mother has since died, but in her married life of forty-five years FIVE ROSES was the only flour she used!"

MRS. ROBERT PIKE, 187 Agricola Street, Halifax, N.S.

"My Mother has used FIVE ROSES ALL PURPOSE FLOUR ever since I can remember . . . used it for every home-baking need. In my own kitchen, too, I depend on FIVE ROSES' even texture and fine-milled quality for sure, nutritious results every time!"

MRS. ALPHONSE BOUCHARD, St. Charles Barromée, P.Q.

A woman has to be practical to run a home

Nearly every day we receive letters from families who have used FIVE ROSES FLOUR for generations. These letters give us much interesting information and suggestions . . . as well as many compliments on the fine quality and even texture of FIVE ROSES. Particularly in times of rising costs, more and more women are turning to home-baking their own pies, pastries, cookies and bread . . . and through the years the most practical flour has been FIVE ROSES, Canada's original all purpose flour. You'll find FIVE ROSES dependable and nutritious as well as economical, I'm sure. Why not try some, soon?

If you have any suggestions or comments, please drop me a line and join the long list of FIVE ROSES friends.

Yours for better home-baking,
Pauline Harvey.

Turner's Get Gov't Order 7,500 Flags

Totals $60,500
2nd Defence Order Received In Month

An order for 7,500 flags, according to official sources amounting to $60,500, has been awarded to the J. J. Turner Company by the Canadian defence production. It includes ensigns, union jacks and red cross flags of various sizes.

This is the second contract awarded the company during October. Early this month Turner's received a much smaller order for 75 RCAF flags, each with the RCAF crest.

The RCAF order is just about completed and more than half has already been delivered.

The order for the union jacks, ensigns and red cross flags was also received early this month and will run through to February.

Hire Help

P. S. Dallin, president and general manager, explained that the larger order has resulted in the company's hiring more help to complete the order by February. Already 10 women have been added to the staff.

Mr. Dallin added that "flags are hard to make; it's slow work, nothing like working with cotton materials."

Mr. Dallin said that the "finest English wool bunting" will be used in the order and that may slow the delivery slightly. He explained that it is difficult to receive material in large quantities.

"We can only receive so much at a time; we couldn't possibly get the full amount all at once for this order."

LEAVES IN A HURRY

Leaves were fluttering and scampering down Charlotte St. this morning before a brisk wind that paid no attention to stop signs. Many of those lively sprites recently from Elias and the other avenues had reached Aylmer St. by midmorning, tossing golden heels in their hurry down town.

COBOURG, Oct. 31. (ENS)—Three children walking on Sunday through an orchard about three miles northeast of Cobourg, just south of Highway 45 had the fright of their lives when they came upon a black bear. The animal was feeding on apples in Charlie McMahon's orchard and is believed to have come down from the Northumberland Forest a few miles northeast. The children were Judy Mottershed, age 11, of Cobourg; nine-year-old Margery Hogg and 10-year-old Bonnie Wallace of Cobourg. As soon as they saw the bear they turned abruptly and dashed out of the orchard. Later residents of that area went in with rifles but no trace of the bear was found.

Discuss Plans For Mission In Archdeaconry

Plans for a diocesan mission to be held for the Diocese of Toronto October 22 to November 4, 1952, were discussed at the 53rd annual archdiaconal conference of the Archdeaconry of Peterborough.

The conference was held Tuesday at St. John's Anglican Church with 27 clergy attending.

The plans for the mission were presented by the Rev. J. C. Clough, of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Toronto, and convener of the committee for evangelism and spiritual advance for the Diocese of Toronto.

He told how the idea of holding the mission had been proposed three years ago and had now come into fulfillment. He reported that the well-known English missioner, the Rev. Canon Brian Green will be in charge of the mission.

The Rev. Canon J. D. Paterson, Toronto, who had taken part in the Boston mission, outlined the procedure that had been adopted in that diocese.

A committee, composed of the archdeacon and rural deans, was asked to make plans for a mission in this archdeaconry with the suggestion that Canon Green spend one day in Peterborough.

The Ven. W. P. Robertson, Archdeacon of Peterborough, presided for the afternoon session, and during the session welcomed the new clergy in the archdeaconry.

The conference reassembled in the evening for choral evensong. The choirs from St. Luke's, All Saints, and St. George's churches assisted the St. John's choir for the music of the service.

The preacher for the service was the Rev. G. Parke-Taylor of Fenelon Falls.

Archdeacon Robertson was in charge of the service and was assisted by the Rev. A. A. Chote, Millbrook, the Rev. H. Hesketh, Rural Dean of Victoria, the Rev. C. H. Boulden, Rural Dean of Durham and Northumberland, the Rev. W. Turner, Bowmanville, and the Rev. G. Nicholson, Blackstock.

Expect Woman To Enter Civic Contest

Entrance of a woman into the aldermanic field at the municipal nominations, which are only 24 days away, was held as a possibility today.

So far Peterborough women, who started back in the early 1920's by electing the late Mrs. Kate Morris to the Board of Education, have never succeeded in electing a woman to the city council. In fact it is believed that there never has been a woman enter her name as candidate.

Since Mrs. Morris was first elected to the Board of Education more than 30 years ago there has continuously been a woman on that board, and on several occasions two. Mrs. Paige Rowell and Mrs. Blake Bell are at present members of the Board.

Several women's names are being mentioned with that of Mrs. Weldon Fanning and Mrs. John Hornal being the most frequently heard as candidates for city council.

Out For Mayor

Alderman Hugh Waddell one of those whose two-year term is expiring has announced he will seek promotion to the mayor's chair. Mayor Max Swanson is retiring after three years in the chief magistrate's chair.

Others whose terms are expiring are Aldermen John A. Dewart, Douglas Miller, E. C. Braund and P. J. Anglesey. Ald. Miller's name is being mentioned as candidate for mayor.

George A. Macdonald who has been a member of the Utilities Commission for 12 years will it is expected be seeking re-election. Mr. Macdonald is a former alderman and mayor.

For the Board of Education five members' two-year term is expiring. Mrs. Paige Rowell, Dr. Russell Morgan, Murray Irwin, Stanley R. Adamson and G. Wilson Craw. All of whom are expected to seek re-election.

The women's study group on civic affairs has announced that a candidates' meeting will be held on November 27 at 8.00 pm in the committee room of the new city hall. The aim of the group is to offer to the citizens of Peterborough an opportunity to meet personally the candidates and ask questions on current municipal problems.

Train Hits Man Walking Tracks

A 52-year-old pedestrian escaped with minor injuries when he was struck by a slow moving freight train on the CPR right-of-way between Aylmer and Townsend Sts., early this morning.

Wilbert Wildman, 571 New Romaine St., was walking east along the CPR tracks about 7.30 and apparently did not see or hear the approaching freight coming behind him. He is said to have walked into the side of the engine.

Wildman who works in a George St., service station was on his way to work at the time.

Dr. H. G. Carleton was called to the scene and after treating the injured man in his office for facial cuts, and burises to his shoulder, head and hand, Dr. Carleton allowed him to return home.

Constable Ed. Patterson and Jack Wilson investigated.

New Trial Ordered In Suit Against Graydon Sheldon

A split ruling Tuesday by the Ontario Court of Appeal ordered a new trial of a civil action for damages between James Pluard and Graydon Sheldon. The action arose out of a motor accident in April, 1950, when Pluard suffered crippling injuries. The jury awarded him $28,449, finding Sheldon, an orchestra leader, to be 100 per cent negligent.

Two of the three judges hearing the appeal—Messrs. Justices Laidlaw and Gibson—agreed that Mr. Justice R. I. Ferguson had misdirected the jury in the original hearing. Mr. Justice Hogg dissented, favoring dismissal of the appeal with costs.

Stuck In Snow

Pluard, at one time an acting foreman with the Peterborough Utilities Commission, was driving on Highway 7 about two miles east of Peterborough the night of April 1, 1950. His car stuck in the snow.

Getting out of the car, Pluard moved around to the front of it to flag passing autos. Sheldon's car, approaching from the rear, hit Pluard's auto which in turn hit Pluard.

Sheldon testified he was blinded by the lights of an oncoming car, and because of the oncoming auto, could not swing far enough to the left to avoid the collision.

At the court hearing, two doctors testified that Pluard was permanently injured. The plaintiff himself told the court he suffered knee injuries which would not allow him to stand for any length of time.

A skull injury still gave him headaches, he said, and a broken nose affected his breathing. In addition, a stomach injury had caused a bowel disorder.

The jury, in its findings, said that Sheldon had been driving too fast and had not been paying strict attention to his driving. They said that he did not make sufficient effort to avoid the collision.

At the original hearing, A. W. S. Greer, KC, represented Sheldon, and Alex Elliott, KC, represented Pluard. At the appeal, C. L. Dubin, KC, and R. A. Macdonald, KC, represented appellant and plaintiff.

Obituary

MISS MILDRED L. STOREY

After a lengthy illness, Miss Mildred Laura Storey, 294 Mark St., died today at her residence in her 28th year. She was born in Peterborough, the daughter of Mrs. Laura Storey and the late Frederick R. Storey.

A lifetime resident of Peterborough, Miss Storey received her education at PCVS and then worked in the CGE for 10 years in the accounting department.

For 12 years she taught in St. Luke's Sunday school in the junior department.

Besides her mother surviving are: Sisters, Mrs. S. Killingbeck (Mae), Mrs. W. Renolds (Lillian), Mrs. L. Livingstone (Hilda), Mrs. G. Pagett (Barbara), all of Peterborough; brothers, Fred H., Robert W., Sidney H., Stanley W., Clifford T., all of Peterborough and Albert of Detroit.

The body is resting at the Kaye Funeral Home until Friday at 2 pm when the service will be conducted in St. Luke's Anglican church by the Rev. Walter Gilling. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

Starting Early

HAMILTON, O., Oct. 31 (AP)—"A man is shooting up Market street." Police investigated the call and found the "man" was Ronnie Jones, 4. Ronnie, left alone in an automobile, had found a gun in the glove compartment and pulled the trigger. Only casualty was Ronnie himself. He shot off part of a finger. He was taken to hospital.

Tilco Workers Win Raises 12 to 22 Cents

The 32 production workers of Tilco Ltd. have signed a union agreement with the company giving them increases varying between 12 and 22 cent an hour, Locol 527, United Electrical Workers have announced.

Though signed Monday, this first agreement with the company is retroactive to Sept. 24. It will end Oct. 29, 1952.

Increases of 12 to 22 cents are across the board. An extra $80 in retroactive pay will be divided among seven incentive workers.

Other provisions in the contract are:

Pay for eight statutory holidays and 2½ times the normal rate if the employee works on a holiday.

Paid Vacation.

Paid vacations of one week after a year, and two weeks after three years service.

A 45-day probationary period after which the employee goes to the top of his wage range; after 21 working days the employee goes to the middle of the range.

An irrevocable checkoff during the life of the agreement.

"There are 32 workers involved and 95 per cent are members of the union," said Len Velleman, UE district organizer who assisted in negotiations. "Their solidarity and their basic understanding of 'united we stand' made it possible to conclude the agreement in a short time."

Negotiations began in August, 1951.

Members of the negotiating committee were: Ray Blondin, chief steward; Nona Sarson, shop secretary; Betty Berrardi and Doreen Turcotte.

Seek Retailer Of Horsemeat

The horsemeat question has again come into focus in Peterborough.

Tuesday's Examiner carried an advertisement of an Ottawa firm asking anyone interested in retailing government inspected horsemeat to contact them.

Should any Peterborough retailer be interested in following this through he will have to go through some civic red tape. First of all he will have to apply to the council for a license to sell horsemeat.

From here his aplication will be passed on to the board of health who will make a recommendation whether or not the license should be granted.

Before it is granted Dr. Harold Worton, food and dairy inspector with the department of health it is expected will make the following recommendation: that the retailer planning to sell horsemeat not be allowed to retail any other kind of meat.

This precaution will be recommended so that the innocent customer will not be taking home horsemeat when he thinks he has beef.

If the retailer receives his license his store will be regularly inspected as are all retail food stores to make sure that his meat and establishment meet health requirements.

Youth Awarded $5,000 By Court For Loss Of Leg

A settlement for $5,000 and costs was reached Tuesday between Dr. John J. Craig, Hunter St., acting on behalf of his son James, and Dennis Driscoll, Otonabee, acting on behalf of his son Paul.

Both youths were minors when in December, 1949, they were involved in a motor accident on the old Keen road, a mile south of Highway 7. As a result of the accident John Craig had his right leg amputated.

Graig was about to enter the left door of his car when he was struck and dragged several yards by a car, driven by young Driscoll and owned by his father.

Dr. Craig and his son, plaintiffs in the action listed for the jury sittings of the Supreme Court, claimed negligence and asked for damages.

Justice W. F. Spence Tuesday endorsed the record giving the plaintiffs a $5,000 settlement, divided as follows: $3,000 to Dr. Craig, and $2,000 to be paid into the court and which will be given to John when he reaches 21 years.

Court expenses were set at $750.

The Craigs were represented by Ralph Standish and the Driscolls by Edson Haines, Toronto.

Three actions have been listed for trial without a jury.

William A. Turney, Armour Rd. is suing Thomas Cooke, Colborne, $2,052—the principal allegedly owing on two notes given him by Cooke in payment for a garage and machine shop in Colborne. The transaction was said to have been made in April, 1945, when Cooke got the business for $2,352.

Three Peterborough people—William G. Harrison and his wife Dolly, and Ernest G. Johnston, Morrow St.—are suing Ernest E. Molone, Buckingham, Quebec, for damages caused in a car accident in Sept. 1949.

The accident was on Highway 2, two miles west of Bowmanville. The eastbound car of Molone, collided with the westbound car of Ken McCannan, Clonsilla Ave., causing the McCannan vehicle to go out of control and strike the Harrison car.

The plaintiffs were all injured and claim total of $7,500 damages. They contend Molone was negligent in his driving.

Tilford and George Love, Reach township farmers, are being sued for $15,000 by the Imperial Bank, Peterborough branch. Plaintiffs claim the brothers guaranteed a $15,000 loan made in 1949 to their brother Oswald Love, who carried on a cattle drover and construction business.

Oswald, formerly of Lindsay but now of Sault St. Marie, was unable to repay the bank loan and the brothers were held liable.

ATTEND CONVENTION.

The following members of the Civic hospital staff are attending the 24th annual convention of the Ontario hospital association being held in Toronto: John Hornal, superintendent; Miss Evelyn M. Robson, Miss E. Smedmor, Miss A. Morgan, Miss R. Muldoon, E. Shiner, Mrs. M. Solmes, Miss M. McIntyre, W. Morrison, R. A. Slute, John Marshall, chairman of the hospital board of directors, is also attending the convention.

2 Witnesses Name Woman As One Who Stopped Near Scene Of Fatality

Woman, Son Testify Saw Gladys Long Get Out Of Car, Examine Fender Short Distance North Of Boy's Body

Two crown witnesses Tuesday afternoon pointed out Gladys Long, 43, Montreal, as the woman they saw examining a damaged fender on her car, nearly 500 feet north of where 10-year-old David Sanderson was lying fatally-injured on some rocks. Miss Long is on trial at the Peterborough assizes, charged with motor manslaughter in the death of young Sanderson who was struck by a car and killed while pushing a bicycle up the side of Highway 7, more than a mile and half north of Peterborough.

The accident occurred shortly after 3 pm, June 9. Miss Long is also charged with dangerous driving and failing to remain at the scene of an accident. A fourth charge of drunken driving was adjourned in police court to November 6.

The first eight of some 30 Crown witnesses were heard Tuesday. But the key testimony was given by Mrs. Jean Green, 528 Gilmour St., and her son John, a dental student.

Mrs. Green said she was driving north on the highway that Saturday afternoon to take her son out to the Fireside service station where he was working.

Slowed For People

She saw two southbound cars parked on the west side of the highway in front of her. She was forced to slow her car to avoid hitting them and looked to see what was attracting their attention on the east side of the highway.

"I glanced to the right and saw the body of a child on the rocks," she said.

Her 22-year-old son also noticed the fatally-injured boy.

Mrs. Green said she continued up the highway, driving slowly, and came up behind a car parked in the east lane of the highway. It was near some mail boxes, which according to police measurements, were 476 feet north of where the body of David Sanderson was lying.

Looked Directly

"I saw a woman standing by the car with her hand on the right front section of the car," said Mrs. Green. "I turned out to go past and I looked over and the woman on the other side of the car looked directly at me. We were possibly 15 feet apart. She was dressed in brown.

"It was Miss Long."

"What doubts, if any, have you about your identification?" asked Crown Atorney John Bradshaw, KC.

"None whatever," replied Mrs. Green.

Mrs. Green said that as she pulled away she glanced over her shoulder and saw the broken right headlight and damaged fender. The car, she recalled, was a late model and colored a light green.

Cold Spirits

Goblins and witches will have a chilly time of it tonight. The temperature is expected to drop to 25 degrees. In all likelihood the broomstick riders will be grounded and favorite costumes will run to bears, buffaloes, rabbits and similarly warm-coated creatures. With the chilly winds, Hallowe'en roisterers will probably not be out for long tonight, but who knows what deviltry they'll be into just to keep themselves warm?

Have Good Time But No Damage For Hallowe'en

With extra regular officers and special constables on duty, Peterborough police will be "out in full force" tonight to prevent Hallowe'en hooliganism and protect property, Chief John Thompson said today.

"Go ahead and have a good time," is Chief Thompson's advice to youngsters who are looking forward to their annual "shell out" excursions but he adds a word of warning—we will not tolerate any "rough stuff" and anyone who breaks windows or damages property can expect to be prosecuted.

Chief Thompson said that the more destructive aspects of Hallowe'en hi jinks are gradually disappearing and there wasn't much damage done last year.

"However," he added "there are always a few who want to throw things through windows and it is this sort of thing that our men will be trying to prevent."

In short, police officers will not hamper any revellers who are just having a good time—but just because it is Hallowe'en doesn't mean that the laws are suspended for the night.

Conservatives Find It Hard To Change Attlee Policy

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, Oct. 31. (CP)—A fascinating period in British politics opens with the accession of the first wholly-Conservative government since 1924. Its performance will be watched with an interest accorded few previous administrations. The Conservatives have been chafing for power. Now that they are in, almost the first reaction among the faithful who worked so hard to get the Socialists out seems to be a realization that the real battle is just starting.

As some impartial observers see it, the question is whether a Conservative government will be able to enforce the tough decisions needed to bring the bloom of economic health back to Britain's cheeks. The argument, briefly, is that only really forceful measures can save Britain, but that such measures under Conservative auspices may not be acceptable to a country accustomed to what economists call the "cosy" economy of Socialism.

Publications such as the Independent Economist—and most of the financial trade journals—contend that the British economy is carrying too big a load. They say the kettle of inflation has been on the boil too long. The only way to prevent it running over, it is suggested, is to cut the food subsidies, raise bank interest rates and keep wage claims from getting out of hand.

Subsidies Cut Prices

The food subsidies, involving a government outlay of more than £400,000,000 a year, keep down the prices of meat, butter and other basic commodities. They are held to have a dangerously inflationary effect, since they enable families to spend on luxuries what they save on food.

Perhaps the Tories might like to cut the subsidies. Their speeches suggest they would. But such action is not expected because the Labor Party has succeeded in making the subsidies politically untouchable, for the time being at least.

Any bold spirits within the Conservative Party may be chastened somewhat by the knowledge that last Thursday's general election was won on a minority vote. Labor's great working-class support appears largely unshaken. Thus, Richard Austen Butler as Chancellor of the Exchequer may move cautiously in his efforts to restore Britain to financial health.

One of the few safe ways open to the Chancellor appears to be reductions in government expenditure. It is generally expected that a committee of ministers will be appointed soon to review public spending.

Says Canada Now Fighting Two Wars

OTTAWA, Oct. 31 (CP) — James Sinclair, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, said Tuesday night that Canada is fighting two wars—a cold war with the Communists and an economic war on the home front.

On the one hand she was building defences, he said in an address prepared for a free time political broadcast, "The Nation's Business," over a CBC trans-Canada network. On the other Canada was trying to show the world "that free men in a free society can find a better and happier life" than under Communist rule.

May Be Cash Crop

TORONTO, Oct. 31 (CP)—The more than 500,000 tons of waste thrown out by Torontonians annually may be converted into a "cash crop" as a soil conditioner for sale to farmers. Street Commissioner H. D. Bradley reported Tuesday that during the last 12 months 5,000 tons of leaves for which there was a ready market had been processed. This year he expected to have at least 25,000 tons for sale.

Trial Adjourned

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 31 (CP)—Trial of Arthur Grandmason, charged with the Aug. 16 $5,000 armed robbery of the St. David's, Ont., branch of the Imperial Bank of Canada, Tuesday was adjourned for one week after seven witnesses testified.

May Have New Call-Up

LONDON, Oct. 31 (Reuters) — As defence minister in his new Conservative government, Prime Minister Winston Churchill will have to decide soon whether there must be a new call-up to maintain a strategic military reserve in Britian. Conscription is at present confined to 18-year-olds.

Boost Wage Minimum

QUEBEC, Oct. 31 (CP)—Labor Minister Barrette announced Tuesday a 10-per-cent increase in Quebec province's minimum wage scales. The increase covers all Quebec's unorganized workers. Before the increase, the minimum rates of pay varied between 21½ cents an hour and 42 cents an hour.

Plane Hits Mountain

RIVERSIDE, Calif., Oct. 31 — (AP).— A military transport plane crashed and burned on the side of fog-bound Box Springs Mountain near here on Tuesday night. Sheriff's officers said the bodies of six military personnel were in the wreckage.

Reserve 14 Cabins

LIVERPOOL, England, Oct. 31 (Reuters)—A suite of 14 cabins has been prepared for Princess Elizabeth, the Duke of Edinburgh and their staff for the return voyage from Canada to Liverpool in the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Scotland.

Thorough Investigation

WINNIPEG, Oct. 31 (CP)—The The Tribune said Tuesday in a newspage story that a full-scale inxestigation is being made by federal combines investigators of the business practices of wire and cable manufacturers across Canada.

Dispute Settled

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 31 (CP)—A dispute of carpenters employed by Dickie Construction Company on the new $3,500,000 St. Thomas and Elgin general hospital, resulting in a walkout of 36 men Tuesday, has been settled and workers will return to their jobs today.

Ask Canadians Be Told Facts About Inflation

By FORBES RHUDE

QUEBEC, Oct. 31 (CP)—Mrs. W. R. Walton, Jr., president of the Canadian Association of Consumers, today urged that Canadians be told the facts concerning inflation.

Addressing the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in a panel discussion on the high cost of living, she stated:

"With government at all levels now taxing away a third of the national income, I believe that the federal, provincial and municipal government, and, in fact, all business, political and labor leaders in Canada, must be honest and courageous enough to tell the Canadian electors the economic truth in a way they will understand it."

Mrs. Walton said it is generally accepted that the current appropriation of $1,700,000,000 for national defence, although inflationary, is necessary. It is "generally accepted that the outlays to provide for all forms of social security are also inflationary."

Reduce Spending

She advocated that all governments, federal, provincial and municipal, reduce drastically their "normal" spending; that industry eliminate certain "frills" and pass the savings on to consumers.

"Consumers feel that some industries are getting more than their share by taking advantage of high consumer demand, to charge 'all the traffic will bear' . . .

"Labor also must take its share in helping combat inflationary pressures. As consumers, we are not in a position to state specifically how labor should do so, but many consumers do wonder to what extent present high prices and the inflationary conditions are due to higher wages and salaries and shorter working hours.

"I cannot help but feel that labor leaders in common with government and leaders of industry have failed to dispel the illusion of high dollar-and-cent income as opposed to real income."

Mrs. Walton stated that the CAC executive and board have come to the conclusion that over-all price control does not seem to be the right answer for curing the causes of inflation.

"Nevertheless, should circumstances make it necessary to institute any kind of control on prices, we believe that there must be control on all the ingredients that go into products, including wages and salaries."

Mrs. Walton said the CAC's membership is open to every woman in Canada and that it "is a voluntary, non-political, and non-sectarian women's organization which was sponsored by, and draws its membership from, 56 established national women's organizations."

SEE BIG ELEVATOR—Before they arrived in Canada, Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh had signified they wished to see a large Canadian grain elevator. Thompson Promises Speed Hearings Of Labor Board

By The Canadian Press

Walter Thomson, Ontario Liberal leader, says he will appoint "two or three" labor relations boards, if necessary, to speed up certification of labor unions, if his party wins the Nov. 22 Ontario general election.

Addressing a gathering of 400 industrial workers in the southwestern Ontario chemical city of Sarnia Tuesday night, he said he is determined to speed up hearings of labor unions' applications for certification as collective bargaining agents. He proposed enlarging the labor department staff to eliminate delays.

Premier Frost, still in the north, voiced determination to hold to a strong line on law enforcement. E. B. Jolliffe, CCF leader, explained to a St. Catharines political rally, his plans to building a "great number" of houses by diverting materials now being used for other purposes.

Mr. Thomson said his party's platform is aimed at satisfying both trade unions and management. The party regards collective bargaining as the key to industrial harmony. Upon election, it would move immediately to set up a successful conciliation board and would see to it that labor and management sat around the same bargaining table as equals.

Basic Right

While a member of parliament, Mr. Thomson had voted last year in favor of the principle of voluntary revocable check-off of union dues. It was a basic right to which a union was entitled.

Mr. Jolliffe, in his Lincoln riding address, also called for changes in Ontario labor legislation. He said some employers used present conciliation machinery, not as a means of reaching agreement with their employees but as "a weapon for delay" against them.

The CCF favored legislation to allow employees to go out on strike legally if conciliation proceedings were not successful after a specified time.

Regarding housing, the CCF planned to set up an "Ontario housing corporation" to build houses in large number. It would have power to ration scarce materials and enforce priorities. It would be necessary to divert materials from less essential uses.

Premier Frost said in New Liskeard that law enforcement must be equal for all. The protection the laws afforded was for everyone.

"Political influence has never entered into our enforcement and it never will. No political toll gates are operated by this government—and they never will be operated."

In North Bay, both Mr. Frost and Lands Minister Scott criticized the Liberal proposal to pay for a universal hospital care plan through increased revenues from forest operations. Mr. Scott said the Liberal plan would take $6,000,000 from Northern Ontario forests and dispose of it in southern Ontario where most of the hospitals are to be found.

"Someone who is irresponsible, who doesn't know the background of Ontario, would put a huge assessment on the forests of Ontario," said Mr. Frost.

Need Nurses But Can't Get Accommodation

TORONTO, Oct 31 — (CP) — Atom bombs occupied the attention of the Ontario Hospital Association's 27th annual convention Tuesday.

Dr. L. O. Bradley, executive secretary of the Canadian Hospital Council, told delegates to the three-day hospital convention about their part in a possible atom-bomb attack.

If Toronto were attacked, he said, the Toronto General Hospital would have to look after more admissions than are normally handled in eight months.

About 30,000 deaths could be expected in the first week after the bomb was dropped, 40,000 persons would be injured and half of them would need care.

Hospitals of every type in Ontario and border provinces would be called upon in varying degrees to aid the stricken area, he said. Dr. Bradley urged hospitals to save their old equipment for possible use in damaged hospitals.

Need Accommodation

Miss Dorothy G. Riddell, inspector of training schools for nurses, told the convention of a shortage of accommodation for student and graduate nurses.

This lack of residence space is the principal factor limiting enrolment of students in Ontario's 19 city schools, she said.

Other hospital problems were discussed by the Women's Hospital Auxiliary Association of Ontario, also meeting in Toronto.

Dr George Peacock, medical superintendent of the Kingston General Hospital, said: "We want sterling, not tin plate service — but at the same time we do not want the cost of hospitalization to become prohibitive."

He said that hospitals could do a public relations job by informing the public of the cost of hospital service and how much "their dollar often falls short of maintaining services which they enjoy."

UN Assemby Preparing New Rebuke For S. Africa

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER

PARIS, Oct. 31. (CP)—South Africa's steady refusal to bring the territory of South-West Africa under the United Nations' trusteeship organization, is due for another rebuke by the UN General Assembly. New plans will be presented at the assembly opening in Paris Nov. 6 towards settling the status of the territory—almost as large as British Columbia.

South Africa herself has for the first time submitted a proposal for altering the status of South-West Africa, a former German colony which she holds under a League of Nations' mandate issued 31 years ago.

For six years the UN has been attempting to persuade South Africa to bring South-West Africa under the UN trusteeship agreement which took over all other former mandated territories from the defunct League.

Refuse To Co-Operate

But South Africa has adamantly refused—even after the international court of justice ruled that South Africa is not competent to modify South-West Africa's internationl status.

South Africa has made some administrative changes which are regarded in some quarters as annexation of the territory, whose population of some 450,000 is largely made up of Hottentots, Bushmen and Herreros.

The Assembly itself has in the past passed resolutions hitting at South Africa's refusal to accept the majority opinion.

South Africa's new proposal was seen by experts here as an attempt to sidestep the authority of the trusteeship system. But the very offer of a proposal was seen as some softening of South Africa's stand.

Counter-Proposal

A five-member committee, set up last year by the Assembly to seek a solution with South Africa, has a counter-proposal to submit to the Assembly. The committee contends the South African plan would not provide an adequate role for the UN in administration of South-West Africa. The committee instead suggests formation of a 15-member group, including South Africa, to handle annual reports from South Africa and petitions of complaints to be passed annually to the Assembly.

British Interest In Canada Suddenly Soars

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, Oct. 31 (CP)—The Royal tour has aroused greater British interest in Canada than that inspired by any single event of recent years.

Space-short British newspapers, sometimes smaller in size than the sports section of a Canadian paper, have made the visits of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh an occasion for special feature articles on Canadian life. Editorial comment has been generous, sometimes ecstatic.

Typical of press comments is an editorial in The Times Tuesday describing the Canadian West as comprising the greatest open spaces, excluding deserts, which now exist.

Great Promise

"No lands in the world hold more of latent promise than these," says The Times. "Their possibilities of development are limitless, and when realized may sway the balance of social progress for the British Commonwealth, for North America, and, indeed, for the whole world."

Earlier, The Observer said Britons have not yet realized that what is astir in Canada is "the same industrial upsurge that produced, almost overnight, the colossal industrial might of the United States."

The News Chronicle in an article Tuesday reviewed the story of the St. Lawrence Seaway project, casting Canada in effect as an intrepid David whose independent stand had made the American Goliath sit up and take notice.

Lifford Girl Places First Among Speakers

BETHANY, Oct. 31—(ENS)—Public speaking contests have been held throughout the schools of Manvers Towhship in the past week. Contestants passing the final elimination tests were heard in Bethany Town Hall Friday evening with pupils from Lifford, Bethany and Pontypool giving their first prize speeches from these three schools.

Nancy Lowery, 12, from Lifford school, a pupil of Miss D. Mann, won first prize. Her topic was "Canada, Our Homeland." Ingrid Rajski, from Bethany school, 12, a pupil of Mrs. O. Wright, was awarded second place with her speech on "Our Princess Elizabeth."

Betty Lou Mitchell, Pontypool, a pupil of Mrs. G. Fiske, was placed third. Her topic was "Silver Chief, a Courageous Dog."

Judges were Mrs. C. Patton, Mrs. P. Sargison, and Miss Jean Coulter.

The first and second prize winners, Nancy Lowery and Ingrid Rajski will now compete in the Durham County contest to be held in Blackstock.

R. Althouse Honored By Friends At Party

NORWOOD, Oct. 31 (ENS)—A number of business associates and friends of Ross Althouse gathered in the dining room of the Royal Hotel, Hastings, for an evening's entertainment prior to his marriage Saturday to Miss Barbara Cuthbertson.

During the evening Mr. Althouse was presented with a wallet and sum of money by Herbie Owens on behalf of the gathering. Lunch was served.

Those present were Colin Althouse, Lionel Althouse, Howard Scott, Marvyn Scott, Alfred Scott, Daniel Scott, Joe Rae Jr., John Rae, Donald Rae, Porter Fife, Walter Scott, George Oitment Jr., Donald Telford, Vernon McMillen, Larry Obee, Cecil Cuthbertson, Kenneth Cuthbertson, W. P. Forshee, David Sparling, Jack Bitten, Bergen Payne, Bay Webb, Fred Baker, Dr. A. R. Atkinson, Ross Horne, Merle Spencer, Kenneth Thompson, Bob Gordon, Albert Throop, Albert Thistlewaite, John McKay, Boyd Kelly, Jack Robson, Jack Hyslop, Carl Davis, Stanley Fisher, Sam Wildman, Jack Rork, Fred Waldon, Herb Owens, Kenneth Pakenham.

Havelock WI Holds Hallowe'en Tea Party

HAVELOCK, Oct. 31—(ENS)—The Havelock Women's Institute held a Hallowe'en tea in the Council Chamber Saturday afternoon. The guests were received by the president, Mrs. H. Pollock. On the tea table were a lace cloth, gold candles in silver holders, with a lighted pumpkin in the centre. Tea was poured by Mrs. R. Jones, and serving at the quartette tables which were centred with a Hallowe'en favor were Mesdames B. Jewell, A. Holland, J. Wilde.

The home baking table was in charge of Mrs. H. W. Roche and Mrs. A. Buckland. Proceeds amounted to $19.05.

Suing Government

MELBOURNE, Australia, Oct. 31—(Reuters)—A young British immigrant pair Tuesday sued the Australian government for allegedly misrepresenting conditions under which they came here from their home in Nottingham, England. The couple, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beaumont, charged that the government "fraudulently or recklessly misrepresented" conditions and failed to carry out promises made by its representatives in Britain.

Rifle Range H & S Stages Costume Party

Rifle Range school was the scene of much laughter and merriment when the Home and School Association staged a "hard times party" Saturday evening. The small school was filled to capacity, and many and varied were the costumes worn by the guests.

Music was supplied by the community orchestra, playing square and round dances with equal skill and enthusiasm.

Costumes were judged by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Quinn; the first prize for gentlemen being won by Mr. John Bull of Campbellford, as a fetching Aunt Jemima, and first prize for ladies going to Mrs. Bill Hopgood as an attractive cow-girl.

Dancing lasted until midnight, when lunch was served under the capable direction of Mrs. R. Brinson and Mrs. J. Quinn, assisted by Home and School members.

Club Members To Attend Week-end Meeting

The 4th annual Ontario conference of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs will be held in Toronto this Saturday and Sunday, November 3 and 4, and the "call to convention" has gone out to the 70 member clubs. An official delegate and at least nine other members of the Peterborough club will attend.

"Leadership" will be the theme highlighted by the principal speakers — Dr. Lillian Gilbreth, who has combined an eminently successful career as a time and motion-study engineer, with the role of wife and mother, and Dr. Aileen Noonan, prominent Canadian educationalist and historian.

Chairman of the conference will be Mrs. Maude Cawsey Baylay, provincial president.

Advance reservations indicate that there will be a record attendance.

Legion Women To Distribute Poppies At PCVS

Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion, at a meeting Monday night in the Legion Hall, enrolled two new members, Mrs. F. Whatley, St. Mary St., and Mrs. Olive Dawson, 658 Bethune St.

Members who will distribute poppies through the Collegiate on Friday afternoon are Mrs. M. Kernohan, Mrs. A. Henshall, Mrs. A. Wade, Mrs. E. Withers, Mrs. E. Graham, Mrs. E. Dormer, Mrs. A. Gynane, Mrs. H. Druce, Mrs. H. Howell, Mrs. E. Woods, and Mrs. L. Batten.

President Mrs. A. Mason presided for business. It was decided to again hold a Christmas party for veterans' children, with assistance from the men's branch.

Mrs. Wade reported on the provincial convention at Timmins. She said Lt.-Col. Fitzgerald, provincial past president of the Canadian Legion, said it is felt the work of the women's auxiliaries is really worthwhile. Also that Legion branches have women's auxiliaries do a much better job than those without. He thanked the auxiliaries for their contributions to the University Fund.

About 355 women attended the convention, representing 245 ladies' auxiliaries in the province. It was recommended that future conventions be held in May or June. New zone commanders installed included Mrs. A. Parrington of Peterborough, commander of a zone in the locality.

For local information it was reported that Toronto ladies will be glad to call on veterans in Toronto hospitals if notified by the president.

Social events enjoyed in Timmins included a tour of the McIntyre Gold Mine and the McIntyre community hall where Barbara Ann Scott did her pre-professional summer training.

Overseas boxes drawn for at the meeting were won by Mrs. J. Walker and Mrs. Gladys Hawkins and the raffle prize was won by Mrs. E. Ritchie.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. H. Beresford and her committee.

Bartending Cut

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 31—(AP).—Women don't make good bartenders, in the opinion of a man who should know. John J. Carney, secretary-treasurer of the Bartenders' International Union (AFL), told Massachusetts convention delegates yesterday not one woman in a thousand can master the bartenders' art.

Need Public To Understand Cost Of Hospital Services

Public acceptance of hospital charges can only come with public understanding of the hospital's financial position, said Dr. George Peacock, medical superintendent of the Kingston General Hospital, Tuesday. He was speaking at a panel discussion at the annual meeting of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary Association, Ontario, at which Mrs. T. J. Lytle, Toronto, was re-elected president.

"The average person has very little conception of the cost of modern hospital services, and very few know that their dollar often falls short of maintaining services which they enjoy," said Dr. Peacock.

Hidden Costs

Many costs seem high because they are hidden, and hidden costs need explanation, and this is where the hospital's public relations job becomes important. "We want sterling, not tin plate service—but at the same time we do not want the cost of hospitalization to become prohibitive."

Reminding his listeners that on an average each family provides a hospital case every two or three years, Dr. Peacock stressed the importance of social insurance such as that provided by the Blue Cross. Missionary work of benefit to be done in learning the answers to criticisms of this type of service, he said. "Without social insurance many families will be faced with bills when they are least able to pay them."

Use by Chronics

The public should also be educated to the proper use of hospitals, he said. Many chronics are today occupying beds and taking active treatment needed by active cases. "This is not to say that chronics do not need hospitalization, but merely to point out they do not need specialized medical supervision or skilled nursing and surgical care of the extent that their present location offers. They could be accommodated in institutions where beds could be provided for $5,000, while in many cases at present they are taking up a $12,000 one.

Chronic illness is not only an old age problem—young and old, alike, become ill for long periods and need care and rehabilitaion, said Miss Pearl Morrison, superintendent of Queen Elizabeth Hospital, Toronto. She stressed the need of rehabilitation, of young people especially, through remunerative employment.

"Many chronic diseases such as polio, rheumatic fever, heart disease and diabetes occur in childhood or early adult life," she said. "Accidents happen frequently to teenagers and young adults especially—because they are so active in work and play."

"We need a rehabilitation program designed to enable the individual physically disabled, chronically ill or convalescing to live and to work to the full extent of his capacity, or to be prepared to live with his illness or handicap gracefully," she said.

Auxiliaries' Service

More than $100,000 was raised last year by the 88 auxiliaries (out of a total of 97 in Ontario) who presented reports at the current meeting. This money was spent on a wide variety of services to hospitals all over the province, and it was raised by special projects of the auxiliaries.

PRINCE OF WALES SCHOOL

The panel discussion of "Good Citizenship" featured at the Prince of Wales Home and School Association meeting Tuesday evening, was summed up by chairman Mr. John Donaldson as follows: "We have learned that good citizenship is the result of early training; that the home, the school and the church should deal with positive influences and attitudes; that love, security and unity of purpose are essential to the making of a good citizen."

A quotation from Sir Richard Livingstone, English director of education, was given by Mr. Leo Copp to express the final reckoning: "A good citizen is one who appreciates the best in as many walks of life as is possible for that individual."

Mrs. E. Thompson and Dr. M. G. McCartney were the parents in the panel and Mr. Harvie Wilson and Mr. Copp the teachers. They were thanked by Mr. Glen E. Archer.

"The Lord's Prayer" was sung by Mrs. J. Morley as a variation in the opening exercises.

President Mrs. W. E. Baggs read the Home and School Creed to remind parents of the aims. Col. R. J. Bolton, principal called the roll and introduced the entire teaching staff as they responded.

Miss Mary Harstone spoke briefly on music in the school.

Membership convener Mrs. M. G. McCartney reported 467 paid-up members and thanked teachers and room mothers for their co-operation in the recent campaign. The junior school member-ship prize went to Miss L. Leggitt's room and the senior school to Miss Oliver's room which also won the prize for the most fathers. Miss Leggitt's room won the attendance prize for the evening.

Mrs. A. Parker reported on parent education and announced the beginning of study groups.

Tea was served at the close by Mrs. A. Smith, Mrs. S. A. Bowman, Mrs. G. James and Mrs. A. Hall.

Howran-Byers

The marriage was solemnized at the Sacred Heart rectory Saturday morning by the Rev. Gerald Sullivan of Dorothy Helen Byers and Paul Ambrose Howran. She is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Byers of Peterborough and the groom is son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Howran of Bridgenorth.

A dress of white Chantilly lace and net over nylon, made on princess lines with panels of embroidery in the skirt and on the lace bodice was the bride's choice. She wore a cathedral train of embroidered net caught with orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of Bettertime roses.

Miss Marie Drumm as bridesmaid wore orchid brocaded taffea, also made on princess lines, finished with sweetheart neckline and cap sleeves. She wore a braided headdress of orchid net and carried yellow 'mums. The bride's brother Clifford Byers attended the groom.

A reception was held at the bride's home, her mother receiving a dress of navy silk fabric with navy hat and corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother wearing black and had a corsage of red roses.

Leaving on a short trip to Toronto and St. Catharines the bride wore a grey gabardine suit with navy accessories and carried a short coat in raspberry red shade. Her going-away corsage was of red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Howran will live at 27 Park St. S.

Women Of City Guide And Serve City Hall Visitors

Thousands of persons have inspected Peterborough's new city hall during open house on Monday and Tuesday afternoons and evenings. Guides wearing official badges have directed them to the rooms they were most interested in and explained various aspects of the building and equipment, and at the end of the tour they have been served a cup of tea and cookies in the mayor's parlor.

The Civic Affairs Study Group of Peterborough has been responsible for the guiding and assistance was given by all members of the city hall staff and by the police.

Mrs. M. J. Swanston, wife of the present mayor, has been responsible for the team-room and has been assisted by the aldermen's wives. The tea-pourers have been wives or daughters of ex-mayors or men prominent in the civic administration in past years.

The tea table was lovely with a white organdy cloth with raised chrysanthemum design, and the centre bouquet was of white and yellow 'mums. The silver tea service at one end was the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Eastwood of Peterborough on the occasion of the opening of the mayor's parlor. Included in the gift are a tray, coffee pot, teapot, sugar jug and tongs, cream pug and bowl for tea leaves.

The pourers on Monday afternoon were Mrs. W. G. Ovens, wife of ex-Mayor Ovens, and Mrs. B. Burns, daughter of late Mayor Buller, and in the evening were Miss Maud Rush, daughter of the late Mayor Rush, and Mrs. Frank Dawson, daughter of the late S. R. Armstrong, city clerk for 47 years, and Mrs. E. A. Outram, wife of the present city clerk.

Those presiding on Tuesday were Mrs. J. J. Turner, wife of the late Mayor John Turner, and Miss Florence Adams, daughter of the late Frank Adams, city treasurer for 33 years and former Reeve of Ashburnham, in the afternoon, and in the evening Mrs. A. A. McIntyre, and Mrs. George A. Macdonald, both wives of ex-mayors.

Serving in the afternoons was done by aldermen's wives, and in the evening they were assisted by girls of the city hall staff.

Miss Margaret Lees had charge of the guides, and those from the Study Group who served were Miss Sarah Eastwood, Miss Helen Gerrard, Mrs. V. R. Henry, Miss M. Grady, Mrs. C. Pilon, Mrs. H. Metheral, Mrs. J. Nornabell, Mrs. Louis Zachs, Mrs. T. J. Carley, Miss C. McCarthy, Mrs. D. B. Rogers, Miss M. McIntosh, Mrs. C. K. Hurst, Miss M. McCulloch, Mrs. D. R. McGregor, Mrs. G. B. Lathangue, Mrs. R. McWilliams, Mrs. J. E. Waters, Mrs. A. E. Sayers, Miss M. Stevenson, Mrs. H. M. Turner.

GEORGE ST

The C.G.I.T. of George St. United Church held a Hallowe'en party. Prize-winners for costumes were: Fancy costumes, Muriel Gibbons, Ruth Brown, Pauline Evans. Comic costumes, Ardell Smith, Marina Turner, Patsy Jobe. Original costumes, Margaret Bowman, Carolyn Lynch, Eileen Armstrong. Each girl bobbed for apples. Eileen Armstrong won a Hallowe'en word contest. A shadow show was performed. Ruth Brown read a Hallowe'en poem. Mrs. C. E. Potts told a Hallowe'en ghost.

The evening closed with lunch of candies, cookies, grapes, apples and orange drink.

Decorations for the evening were arranged by the intermediate group.

MR. AND MRS. CECIL H. BANKS, the bride formerly Edna Violetta Nelson of Warsaw.—Roy Studio Photo.

Banks-Nelson Nuptials

The marriage of Edna Violetta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Nelson, Warsaw, to Cecil Hugh Banks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Banks, Saskatchewan, was solemnized Saturday at the bride's home in a double ring ceremony by the Rev. Mr. Wright of Norwood. Wedding music was played by Miss Jean Munro.

The bride, given in marriage by her father was gowned in white satin and chantilly lace, with fitted bodice, long sleeves and full skirt extending into a train. Her veil was of nylon tulle caught to a halo of orange blossoms and she carried a cascade of red roses.

Bridesmaid was Miss Beulah Ellis who was gowned in powder blue taffeta with matching head dress. She carried a bouquet of blue and white 'mums.

Groomsman was Mr. Ray Banks, brother of the groom. A reception was held afterwards, the bride's mother receiving in a gown of taupe crepe, with a corsage of pink carnations.

The bride's going-away costume was a navy gabardine suit and navy accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses. The couple left on a motor trip to New York City.

Pains, distress of "those days" halted or strikingly relieved in 3 out of 4 cases in doctors' tests!

How Lydia Pinkham's works

It has a "calming" and soothing effect on the uterus . . . quieting the contractions (see the chart) that so often cause menstrual pain, cramps, other distress.

• Here's wonderful news for women and girls who — each month — suffer the tortures of "bad days" of functionally-caused menstrual cramps and pain — headaches, backaches, and those "no-good," dragged-out feelings.

It's news about a medicine well-known for relieving such suffering!

Here is the exciting news. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound — gave complete or striking relief of such distress in an average of 3 out of 4 of the cases in doctors' tests!

Yes! Lydia Pinkham's is scientifically modern in action!

Thousands benefited!

This news will not surprise the thousands of women and girls who know the relief Lydia Pinkham's can bring.

And it should encourage you to see if your experience doesn't match theirs...to see if you, too, don't avoid the nervousness, tension, weakness, irritability—and pain—so often associated with "those days"!

Try Lydia Pinkham's . . . get a bottle today!

You'll find Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound grand, too—for those "hot flashes" and other distresses of "change of life"!

MARY MOORE SAYS:

If You Are Expecting To Serve 50 People

Attention Mrs. B. J.: (Whose husband owns a garage and who is under doctor's orders to reduce): "Would you please send me your name and address so that I may forward a letter to you that another reader has sent to me for you?

✧ ✧ ✧

Mrs. L. asked for a repeat of the chicken salad recipe for 75 people. Instead of repeating it in the column I sent it to her in a clipping and will add her . . . "other good supper or luncheon recipes for serving 50 or 100 people. For through my work in a local church I often feel the need of such recipes and quantities." Signed Mrs. H. L.

✧ ✧ ✧

Marzetti Noodle and Hamburg Casserole (for 50 people)

Boil 4 lbs. dry noodles in 4 gallons salted water until tender. Drain. Dredge 8 lbs. hamburg meat with flour, then brown it in hotel-kitchen-size frying pans with 1 lb. sliced onions in 1 lb. margarine until the ingredients are golden but not browned too much. To the meat and onions add 3 cans kernel corn, 2 lbs. slightly sauteed mushrooms which have been sliced. Put this mixture in large casseroles in alternate layers with the noodles. Over all pour 2½ quarts canned cream of tomato soup (this is 10 No. 1 tins—10-ounce—or 2 51-ounce tins). Over top of the casseroles spread 1 or 1½ lbs, grated cheese. Salt and pepper should be added as you put in the layers of meat-mixture and noodles. Bake until this bubbles throughout and cheese melts and is golden.

Rice and Sausage Casserole (48 or 50 servings)

Ten pounds pork sausage in bulk (not in casings), 3 lbs. dry rice, 3 gallons boiling water, 2 ounces salt (¼ cup), ½ lb. finely chopped onion, 10 10-ounce tins condensed cream of tomato soup, 1 quart hot water, 1 lb. cheddar cheese. Add the rice to the rapidly boiling salted water. Cook until rice is tender. Drain and rinse. Combine the rice with the onions, soup and 1 quart water. Saute the sausage meat in 2 hotel-size frying-pans until light golden. Drain off excess fat. In two greased baking pans measuring 15" x 10" x 2" spread alternate layers of the rice mixture and the browned sausage. Grate the cheese and sprinkle it over the top. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 45 minutes. Cut into servings that are 3" x 2" x 2". This is delicious and popular and economical.

Meat and Mushroom Loaf (serves 48 or 50)

Nine lbs. ground beef, 6 10-ounce tins of cream of mushroom soup undiluted, 1½ lbs. (6½ cups) fine dry breadcrumbs, 2 cups finely chopped onions, 1 teaspoon pepper, 2½ tablespoons salt, 8 eggs well beaten. Mix all of these ingredients lightly. Pack into buttered loaf pans, and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. (slow oven) for about 1½ hours.

Note: I would like to say about the above meat loaf that it is delicious and a favorite of mine. To serve 8 divide it by six. That is, use 1½ lbs. beef (hamburg is good too) and 1 tin of undiluted cream of mushroom soup, and 1 large egg. After this has been chilled in the refrigerator (when there is any of it leftover) it slices quite well.

DOROTHY DIX

Girl Who Waits At Home Has Receipt For Happiness

Dorothy Dix

DEAR MISS DIX: I am sure there are a lot of girls who are facing the same problem that I am today, but it need not be a problem for I believe I am doing the right thing. I am 24 years old and very much in love with a soldier in army. He is overseas now. I have known Bob for a long time and I am sure I will always feel the same about him. I have all the faith in the world in him and pray every night that God will keep him safe. We agreed that it was best to wait and when it's all over we will never be separated again. It isn't easy; there are many lonely hours, heartaches and tears, but it won't be forever.

We could have snatched at a little happiness but it will be sweeter for the waiting. I'll be content; it isn't so far away to the day when he'll be home to stay.

It does have an advantage, this waiting. It's a true test of love. When I miss him more and more every day, I truly believe our love is real and sincere.

Girls, if you are faced with this problem, don't rush into something you may regret; you'll never be sorry you waited. Write to your boy often and pray for him. Don't stay home brooding and feeling sorry for yourself. Remember, he has a tougher job than you have and he isn't complaining. You have your home, your parents who are always ready to share your troubles; he has no one. Don't forsake your friends, go out with them, smile and be gay. That is what he wants you to do.—L. J.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I present this letter in full, hoping some impetuous youngsters who turn deaf ears to the warnings and advice of their elders will give careful attention to these words of wisdom from one of their own generation.

She Is Right

L. J. rightly concludes that many girls are facing the same problem today, and altogether too many of them rush for the nearest justice of the peace for a quick marriage service. To them it's a thrill to be a soldier's wife—especially if the soldier soon departs and the young wives can take up their social whirl where they left off before the wedding. It's fun, too, to have an allotment cheque each month to spend on gay clothes and a good time. A day of reckoning will come, but who cares? That's in the future.

Thank God for the integrity of most women, who like LJ, either wait for their men to come home, or marry them with full realization of the responsibilities incurred and a firm resolve to live up to every word of their marriage vows.

Those who love with a light heart—sometimes with no heart at all, it seems—are in the minority, but as anyone can see by observing life around them, they are still too numerous. Parents, clergymen, teachers — all are powerless to stop these youngsters from the heedless step they will regret the rest of their lives.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been engaged for eight months and would like to know if it is all right for my fiance to go out with other girls. When I object, he says it doesn't mean anything.

CS

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It most certainly is not all right. If he loves you enough to become engaged — which means he cares enough to marry you—you should be the only girl in whom he is interested. If he can't settle down to one girl before marriage, think how hard it will be for him to be satisfied with the same one after the wedding.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have been dating a boy I like for three weeks and he hasn't asked me to go steady yet. He's not at all bashful either. I'm beginning to wonder if he'll ever ask me.

BEATRICE.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You sure are rushing things Beatrice. Give the poor lad a chance to become a little acquainted before you go rushing off into steady company. Three weeks is mighty short knowing.

MOVIE COLUMN

Latin Lovers Tempestuous Actor Declares

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 31 (AP)—Is it true what they say about Latin lovers?

Fernando Lamas, handsome young Argentine who is a candidate for the movie mantle once shouldered by Rudolph Valentino and Ramon Novarro, answered the question:

"You mean is it true that 'Latins are lousy lovers?'" he said. "No, it is not.

"But I don't think it is true that Latins are exceptional lovers, either. I think we Latins make love in just about the same manner as non-Latins.

"In this country, you make love more calmly. You are tender and say endearing things to a woman. But Latins are hot-tempered. We grab a girl around the neck, grasp her arms until they are black and blue and shred her clothing."

Rapid Romance

I mentioned that some theorize that Latin lovers must work fast because the girls are guarded by their chaperones most of the time.

"That is true in Mexico," he commented. "But . . . in South America, at least in the southern part, the girls go out on dates alone, the same as they do in this country."

"It is the Anglo-Saxon temperament to be calm and relaxed. Very little fazes them, and they do not have the heights and depths of mood. But Latins are hot-tempered.

"This is reflected in Latin-American politics. The blood flows hot, and when people get dissatified with a regime, they want immediate action. And they get it . . . a government often does not last long, unless the head of it is systematically eliminating his opponents."

SOFT-SHELLED

The Ceylon pearl oyster, unlike those of the South Pacific, has a very tender shell.

Robert J. Hickson

The Rev. G. Weiss celebrated requiem mass at St. Peter's Cathedral Tuesday for Robert J. Hickson, Chemong Road, who died early Saturday at his residence. The Rt. Rev. Monsignor P. P. Butler was in the sanctuary.

Pallbearers were: Harold Worton, Patrick Burke, Edward English, Malcolm Cavanagh, Maitland Forsythe and Robert Beaubiah. Burial was in St. Peter's cemetery where the graveside prayers were said by the Rev. Raymond Garvey.

Donald R. Currie

The funeral for Donald Robert Currie, 500 Glengarry Ave., who died Monday was held today from the Kaye funeral home. The Rev. M. P. Poole, of All Saints' Anglican Church conducted the service.

Pallbearers were: Gus Yeates, Morris Fraser, William Brown, W. Muir, Ray Harrison, Harold Clark. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

Protest Made On Opening Of City Hall

Mayor Swanston recently received an anonymous letter signed "A number of the city's factory employees living in 'East City'."

"We wish you all every success in your future undertakings. The new city hall is certainly a wonderful looking place. We know that guests from outside our city will say we have a swell set-up. Also our own city folks are saying how nice it is.

"There is just one thing we would like an explanation of. Why was the opening ceremony on Friday? Wouldn't Saturday afternoon have been a grand time to have had it? Then the working class of Peterborough would have been able to attend. . . ."

Mayor Swanston said the letter sounded sincere, although there was no signature. In choosing a time for the official opening, the committee had to consider appointments and other engagements of people who were being invited.

Interest was particularly focussed on Hon. R. F. McWilliams of Winnipeg, and the time that was still free in his schedule toward the end of the month. The Council also sought a date that would be convenient to Mr. J. G. Hungerford of National Trust Co., executors of the W. G. Morrow will.

Mayor Camillien Houde of Montreal had accepted the city's invitation several months ago, but with the change in the time of visit of Princess Elizabeth he had at length to cancel his coming. Finally after much consulting of the calendar and of the freedom of movement of prospective guests Friday, October 26 was chosen as the date. It was a month earlier than had been anticipated at the beginning of the year, and its advancement into October had been made possible by the celerity of the work of Eastwood Construction Co.

So the opening moved into the season of still mild weather. Such is the Mayor's comment on the letter from his own bailiwick across the river.

Cellist Henry Saunders Buried In London

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 31 (CP)—Henry Saunders, noted cellist and international authority on Walt Whitman bibliography, was buried here Tuesday. He was a brother of the late Sir Charles Saunders, famous for his development of Marquis wheat.

Henry Saunders adopted music as a profession 50 years ago and played for 21 with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra. He collected books, poems and magazine articles by and about the American poet. His famous Whitmaniana, compiled during 20 years, was purchased by a United States university in 1932.

Mr. Saunders, as a private bookbinder, bound more than 3,000 books. He was also keenly interested in recording Canadian flowers in water colors. He presented his valuable collection of 2,000 insects to the Royal Ontario Museum.

Esther McKinnon

MARMORA, Oct. 31 (ENS). — The funeral of Esther Ann McKinnon whose death occurred in Toronto on Saturday, was held Monday morning from the home of her nephew, Richard Maloney, Marmora township, to Sacred Heart Church, Marmora, where high requiem mass was celebrated by the Rev. J. A. O'Neill.

Mrs. McKinnon was born in Marmora township 87 years ago and was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wolfe. She was the last member of her family. Her son Daniel McKinnon died in Toronto a week ago. For several years she had resided in Sudbury where her husband, the late John McKinnon, conducted a business. He died several years ago and since then she has resided in Toronto. Her early life was spent in Marmora.

Pallbearers were Joseph Maloney, Paul Maloney, Patrick Maloney, John McAvoy, Frank McKinnon and James McGrath. Burial was in Sacred Heart cemetery.

Ford Company To Build Oakville Assembly Plant Will Employ 4,000 People

WINDSOR, Oct. 31 — (CP) — Ford Motor Company of Canada today announced it will build 20 miles west of Toronto the largest automobile assembly plant under one roof in Canada.

The Oakville project ultimately will put together all cars and trucks turned out by the company.

At the same time, said president Rhys M. Sale, the existing assembly building—Plant 4—at Windsor will be converted into a huge engine plant. Several million dollars more will be spent to expand machine shop and foundry plants at Windsor.

Exact cost of the program, to be carried out over several years, was not announced. Mr. Sale's statement said it will be "many millions of dollars," divided about equally between Oakville and Windsor.

Floor Area 32½ acres

Floor area of the one-storey Oakville plant will be 1,400,000 square feet—32½ acres. With other buildings there, it will employ perhaps 4,000 or 5,000 persons.

"That does not mean there will be a corresponding reduction in our Windsor working force," said Mr. Sale. "We are confident our employment in Windsor will remain at a comparatively high level.

"Our long-range planning is founded upon a program that requires a greater production than anything we have had in the past."

Transfer of assembly work to Oakville will not begin for at least two years, said Mr. Sale. Conversion of Windsor's plant 4 cannot begin until then.

Most of the money spent at Windsor will go into equipment and "hundreds of new machines of the latest type. Much of it already on order.

"By establishing our assembly plant at Oakville, we are moving better than 200 miles nearer to the principal automotive markets . . .

Substantial Benefits

"We have every reason to believe there will be substantial benefits both to our dealers and to the buying public."

Mr. Sale emphasized the Oakville project does not mean Ford is pulling out of Windsor.

"We are adding many millions to our already-substantial capital investment in Windsor, and the city will continue to share importantly in the future prosperity and growth of our company."

Six Dwellings In Terrace Being Renovated

The terrace of six dwelling units on the west side of Bethune St., opposite the CNR station has been finally evacuated of tenants by Mr. Joseph Henderson for purposes of renovation and improvement.

The land was obtained in 1846 by Crown deed to the District council of Colborne, who sold it in 1857 to John Delaney for £101. That lot 10 faced on Charlotte and King streets, with the depth along Bethune St. It may be that the Delaney property was the south half of that lot. It was bought by Joseph Holmes in 1886 for $2,200, and was finally bought from William Rudkins by Michael Riley who lived on the east side of Stewart St., north of King, and was superintendent of Peterborough Lock Co.

The terrace on Bethune St. was built by James Montgomery for Mr. Riley about 1892. In later years, Mr. George Riley was a retail druggist in the store premises at the northwest corner of Bethune and King streets. Mr. Henderson in more recent years conducted a grocery store on that corner.

Second Offender Takes Month In Jail

Charged with being intoxicated in a public place and resisting arrest, Francis O'Keefe, 30, 289½ George St., pleaded guilty to both charges in police court today.

It was O'Keefe's second conviction on a drunk charge this year and Magistrate W. R. Philp ordered O'Keefe to pay a fine of $50 and $2.50 costs or spend one month in county jail.

On the charge of resisting arresting officer Arthur Beardsmore, O'Keefe was fined $25 and $2.50 costs or 15 days.

O'Keefe did not pay the fines and Magistrate Philp ruled that the two terms were to run consecutively.

Ex-Actress Marries US Navy Captain

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Oct. 31 (AP) —Former actress Marion Davies was married early today to Capt. Horace G. Brown of the United States navy.

Justice of the Peace James Down performed the ceremony.

Miss Davies gave her name as Marion Cecilia Douras and her age at 45. She said she had never been married before.

Capt. Brown gave his age as 46 and listed one previous marriage.

Campbellford Gridders Win Five Of Six Games Played

TRENTON, Oct. 31—Campbellford High School gridders kept their Bay of Quinte COSSA Senior "B" playoff hopes alive by overpowering Trenton High School, 27-10, here Monday afternoon. The victory was the fifth in six starts for Campbellford, who face unbeaten Albert College of Belleville, in their final two starts later this week.

The visitors moved in front early with Jim Jeffs booting a single point and then added two quick touchdowns. Paul Ibey broke through the Trenton line and went 25 yards for the first touchdown with John Bird recovering a Trenton fumble in the end zone for the second major score. Paul Bennett converted both to give Campbellford a 13-0 lead at the end of the first quarter.

Campbellford tallied another major early in the second quarter when Charlie Root recovered a Trenton fumble behind the goal line after Bennett's field goal attempt was wide. Bennett converted to make the score 19-0. Trenton broke into the scoring just before the half when Austin Scott gathered in a 30-yard pass from Ken Hood and raced another 20 yards for a touchdown. The convert attempt failed.

The visitors added another two points at the start of the third quarter when a safety touch was ruled against Trenton. Immediately after this, Trenton moved down to the Campbellford 10-yard line on a series of running plays and two Campbellford penalties, and from there, Leroy Wannamaker skirted the end for a touchdown, which was not converted.

Campbellford took to the air late in the third quarter, with Paul Bennett passing to Jim Jeffs for a 30-yard major score. Bennett converted to make the score 27-10 for Campbellford and that was the way the game ended, as neither team scored in the final quarter.

2 Witnesses Name

Her son corroborated her testimony.

"We pulled out to pass," he said, "and I saw a lady standing and examining the right front fender."

"Would you recognize that lady if you saw her again?" asked Crown Attorney Bradshaw.

"Yes, it was the accused."

Saw Her In Court

Mrs. Green said she did not go directly to the police but went down to police court Monday morning when Miss Long made her first appearance in court after being arrested. She wanted to double check her identification. When Miss Long was brought in Mrs. Green recognized her.

T. J. Carley, KC, defence counsel, objected that Mrs. Green did not pick the accused out of a regular police lineup. The prisoner was in a conspicuous position when she was brought into court.

Mrs. Green agreed but said she recognized Miss Long anyway.

John Green said he recognized Miss Long once on the street between the time he saw her standing at the car and when he saw her at the preliminary hearing.

Mrs. Charles Touchburn, who lives on the 3rd line of Smith township, 100 yards from the highway, also saw a car stop by the mail boxes.

Mrs. Touchburn was chatting on her lawn with a neighbor, shorly after 3 p.m. when she heard a dull thud.

"It was a thud—not a crash."

Fast Stop

"Seconds later, a light-colored car came to a fast stop on the highway, facing north. A lady driver turned around and looked back before getting out. Then she got out and looked at the right front fender, looked back down the highway, and then went back and pulled at the fender. Then she got in and drove away fast."

She said Peter Newmaster, nine-year-old companion of young David, then came up on his bicycle and told them about the accident.

Mrs. Touchburn described the woman in the car as "dark and no taller than I."

"She didn't have a hat and I don't think she had a coat. She was not young."

Resembled Accused

Mrs. Touchburn said she didn't get a good look at the woman's face but thought, that from a rear view, Miss Long "resembled" the woman in the car.

Peter Newmaster contradicted the story he told at the preliminary hearing. At the preliminary, he said the two of them were pushing their bicycles up he hill, with the bicycles on the gravel surface and themselves walking on the edge of the paved surface.

This time he said they were on the gravel and his own bicycle wheels were partly on the pavement. David, he thought, was completely off the pavement.

Six more Crown witnesses were heard Wednesday morning. None of them saw the boy actually struck, but two of them saw something hurtling through the air toward the right of the highway. And both identified the object as seeming to come from the direction of a light-coloured car.

The two key witnesses today were Esther Deyell, Water St., who was driving her car that afternoon along Highway 7, and a passenger, Eleanor Robinson, also of Water St.

Miss Deyell said she had to apply her brakes to let a "light-colored car" pass from behind and get back into the right lane of traffic. A southbound car was coming toward them.

She testified that she could not be sure of the identity of the driver. Miss Robinson said she thought it was a woman driving.

There were no cars in between the light-colored car and themselves as they started up the hill where the accident happened, both witnesses said.

Dark Object

"As the light-colored car reached the top of the hill I saw a dark object go across the sky between the right-hand side of the highway and the trees," said Miss Deyell. "It was going through the air and was silhouetted against the sky."

Miss Robinson's testimony was similar. "An object hurtled through the air, toward the side of the road, in the neighborhood of the light-colored car."

Witnesses said that when they drew abreast they saw David Sanderson lying on the rocks. They parked the car on the right-hand side of the road and went back to see what they could do.

As the car was being parked they saw the light-colored car stop in the east traffic line, near the mail boxes at the 3rd line of Smith township. They didn't see anybody get out.

Charles Touchburn, husband of a previous Crown witness, said he saw a "dark - complexioned" woman get out of her car at the mail boxes and examine the front of her car. He saw her from his front lawn where he was standing.

The next three witnesses were staff members of the Empress Hotel where Miss Long had been staying that afternoon.

Mike Minicola, bellboy, took Miss Long's luggage down to the car. She handed him the keys to open the car door. He noticed she was "tired and drowsy."

He said he didn't know if her car was damaged at that time.

Mrs. Lillian Buss, desk clerk, said she had trouble making out a telephone conversation with Miss Long.

"There was no sense in her conversation. I couldn't understand what she wanted. Three times she phoned for matches and I had them sent up."

Mrs. Buss said that Miss Long checked out sometime between 3.15 and 3.30 p.m.

"Miss Long was very unsteady on her feet. I told her how much the bill was. She had the money crumpled up in her hand. I took the bill from her and gave her her right change."

There was a strong smell of alcohol on Miss Long's breath, Mrs. Buss said. And the accused woman leaned against the desk for awhile and after she had gone out the door, leaned against the hotel window.

Appeared Ill

"Didn't you form the impression she was ill?" cross-questioned Mr. Carley.

"Yes, she looked sick and tired."

Mrs. Buss said she saw no evidence of a swelling on one side of Miss Long's face.

Clem Galvin, assistant manager, said, "She looked the worse for wear . . . I could smell alcohol."

He said he saw her walk to the door and she looked perfectly steady on her feet.

Court adjourned at 12:40 p.m.

Churchill Adds More Names To Cabinet

LONDON, Oct. 31 (Reuters) — Prime Minister Churchill announced another batch of new ministers today, naming his son-in-law, Duncan Sandy, Minister of Supply.

The posts announced were:

Secretary of State for War — Brig. Anthony Henry Head, who served on the headquarters staff of the Second Army during the last war.

First Lord of the Admiralty — James Purdon Lewes Thomas, former junior treasury minister.

Secretary of State for Air — Lord De L'Isle and Dudley, who won the Victoria Cross in the last war.

Minister of Supply — Duncan Sandy, wartime minister of works, married to Diana, churchill's elder daughter.

Minister of Fuel and Power — Geoffrey William Lloyd Petroleum minister in the wartime coalition government.

Minister of Food — Maj. Gwilyn Lloyd George, former fuel minister and son of David Lloyd George, famous Liberal prime minister of the First World War.

Minister of Transport and Civil Aviation (combining two formerly separate departments) — The Hon. John Scott Maclay, former coalition production minister.

Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster — Viscount Swinston, who has held a succession of ministerial posts and was civil aviation chief in the wartime government.

Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries — Maj. Sir Thomas Dugdale, former deputy chief Conservative whip.

The Navy, Army and Air Force chiefs will work under the general direction of Churchill, in his capacity as Defence Minister.

Lord Swinton will be the deputy leader of the House of Lords. He will also take charge of the ministry of materials for the time being.

Homemakers School For Group Leaders

A school for leaders of girls' homemaking groups in Peterborough county will be held at the Department of Agriculture office Thursday.

The school will be under the direction of Miss Jean Noble, home economist for the county with approximately 20 group leaders and assitants expected to attend.

The school will deal with the cereal shelf—a study of the nutritive value of cereals and various ways in which they may be served around the clock.

Youth Not Guilty Of Receiving Stolen Goods

James Shaw, 19, of 166 Adeline St., was acquitted in police court Tuesday afternoon of a charge of receiving stolen goods.

Shaw pleaded not guilty to the charge on October 18.

In dismissing the charge, Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, told Shaw that he did not believe his story but because there was a possibility it was true he was giving him the benefit of the doubt.

The crown alleged Shaw knew that a radiator ornament and two fender guides which Shaw purchased from a ten-year-old and a 12-year-old boy were stolen.

Shaw denied that he knew the car accessories had been stolen, claiming he had never asked the boys where they obtained them.

Removed Ornaments

The two boys testified under protection of the Canada and Ontario Evidence Act that they had taken the fender guides and the radiator ornament from a light truck parked on Wolfe St. They also said they removed two plastic shields (which are placed on the front of an automobile hood to deflect bugs from striking the windshield) from cars on Park St.

The boys said they took the ornaments to decorate their orange crate scooters but later sold them to Shaw for a few cents each.

Percy Lane, 748 Brown St., who started the investigation by reporting the loss of accessories from his truck, told the court, "I have every reason to believe those are the ones taken from my truck." Mr. Lane valued the radiator ornament at $4.50 and the fender guides at about $5 each.

"The accused bought the articles at such a ridiculous low price he couldn't help but know the boys were stealing them," said Assistant Crown Attorney Walter Howell in submitting the crown's case. "I submit, the accused is guilty of buying the goods, knowing the boys had stolen them," said Mr. Howell.

Evade Responsibility

"In my opinion, you formed the conclusion in your own mind you could evade responsibility by not asking questions," Magistrate Philp told Shaw.

"If you adopt that attitude you will find yourself in the clutches of the law again," he warned. "The crown doesn't have to show you knew in the ordinary sense that the goods were stolen. It only has to be proven the goods were stolen and in your possession a reasonable time after. Then the onus is on you to prove you acted innocently in every way—which involves more than not asking questions," said Magistrate Philp.

He added that Shaw could have expected a six month jail sentence had he been found guilty.

New Cellulose Plant Formed At Cornwall

LONDON, Oct. 31 (Reuters) — A new company called the TCF of Canada, Ltd. with a registered office and plant at Cornwall, has been formed to manufacture transparent cellulose film and other packaging materials.

Transparent cellulose film is made by viscose process. The company is closely associated with British Cellophane, Ltd., of England which will be one of its shareholders.

The majority shareholder in the new company will be Courtaulds, Ltd. Courtaulds, Ltd., of Canada, will also be a shareholder.

The new company's plant is now being built and it is hoped that production will begin by spring 1953.

The initial annual output will be about 7,000,000 pounds. Sales offices will be opened in Montreal.

Death Rate Higher

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31 — (AP).—White men and women over 50 are dying faster in the United States than in some foreign countries with lower medical standards, Dr. Louis L. Dublin, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company statistician, reported on Tuesday. Heart disease, aggravated by overeating, diabetes and accidents, probably are to blame, Dr. Dublin told the American Public Health Association.

Helpless In Robbery

NEWARK, NJ, Oct. 31 (AP).—A middle-aged, bedridden woman looked on helplessly Tuesday while two intruders ransacked her apartment and stole $200 in cash and another $200 worth of jewelry. Mrs. Emma Speranzo, 54, said the men were posing as exterminators.

Clawed To Death

MENA, Ark., Oct. 31 (AP). — A nine-year-old Mexican girl was clawed to death by a lion Tuesday night when she wandered into the animal's cage. Sheriff Hobart Hansley identified the victim as Maria de la Luez, granddaughter of a circus animal trainer.

Joins Federal Plan

HALIFAX, Oct. 31 (CP) — Health Minister Harold Connolly announced Tuesday Nova Scotia will take part with the federal government in providing old age pensions to persons in the 65-69 age group.

Demands Pressure

REGINA, Oct. 31 (CP)—Premier Douglas Tuesday night urged Saskatchewan residents to unite their voices in a mighty chorus and demand that Ottawa give farmers advance payments on grain.

NATO COLLEGE — Lt.-Col. Robert T. Bennett, 33, of Ottawa, has been elected to attend the first course at the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's Defence College in Paris The course will begin in November and continue for six months. Lt.-Col. Bennett is a graduate of a Canadian War Staff course, the United States Command and General Staff course and of the Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont.

Arrange Meeting With Scientists

MONTREAL, Oct. 31 (CP) — The Duke of Edinburgh Tuesday promised French-speaking scientists he would look into the possibility of having the British Society for the Advancement of Science hold a general meeting in Montreal soon.

The Duke, president of the British society, met members of the French-Canadian Society for the Advancement of Science at his own request.

Afterwards, a spokesman said the Duke was "very well informed on scientific development in Canada and elsewhere."

The Duke's questions and comment during the 15-minute talk indicated "a man with a very good mind, really interested in his subject and knowing a lot about it," the spokesman added.

Operating Room Boom

New Machine Helps Prevent Heart Failure

OTTAWA, Oct. 31 (CP). — A heart machine with a tiny electric pulse designed to prevent failure of the human heart during surgery, is the newest thing in Canadian electro-medical research.

It is a box-like machine with dials and switches about the size of a mantel radio. Attached is a flexible plastic tube with a wire carrying two electrodes which can be inserted in the jugular vein to touch a vital region of the heart.

By means of electrical pulsations through the electrodes, it can reactivate a heart which has stopped beating and can control the rate of heartbeat during operations—an important consideration for the surgeon.

It can do this without the necessity of opening the chest wall to get at the heart.

Scientists at the National Research Council's electrical laboratories, where it was built, stressed Tuesday that it is still in the experimental stage. But this brain-child of two Toronto medical scientists may some day have wide use in hospital operating rooms.

In addition, defence authorities are interested in it.

It was developed by Dr. T. C. Callaghan and Dr. W. G. Bigelow at the University of Toronto's department of surgery with the aid of a grant from Canada's defence research board.

Scientists in the NRC's electrical branch here, headed by Charles Pattinson, 37-year-old University of Alberta graduate, and John Hopps, 32-year-old graduate of the University of Manitoba, built the machine after the Toronto doctors told them what was wanted.

Machines for electrical stimulation of the heart are not new. But they usually necessitate cutting the chest wall to get the electrodes on the pace-maker region of the heart, the vital nerve centre which controls the action of the heart muscles.

Dr. Bigelow and Dr. Callaghan came up in 1949 with their idea for addition of a tube—called a catheter—carrying the electrodes for insertion into the jugular vein to reach the heart without the necessity of opening the chest wall.

The model built here has many refinements. It draws current from an ordinary light socket, cutting down the juice to the required, tiny strength. It contains apparatus for producing the desired pulsation. By turning a dial calibrated in heart-beats-per-minute the surgeon can quicken or slow a patient's heart to the desired pace.

The pace-maker research machine can take over the action of the heart at higher or lower rates than normal, the electrical stimuli inhibiting the normal beats.

An NRC spokesman said that the machine is now being built by a commercial surgical supply firm in Toronto and has been used in the Toronto General Hospital.

Hotelman Meets English Mayor

MARMORA, Oct. 31 (ENS) — Among those who welcomed the opportunity to meet Mayor G. R. Chamberlain of Peterborough, England, at the informal reception held in the new city hall in Peterborough on Monday afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. Horace J. Neath of the Royal Hotel.

Mr. Neath being a native of the district of Peterborough, England and one who has made annual trips across the Atlantic since taking up residency here found that the mayor and himself had much in common to discuss. He also had an interview with the former mayor of Peterborough, Alderman E. V. Martin and Mrs. Martin. Also introduced to the mayoral party was W. J. Cottrell who accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Neath.

District Young People Hold Belleville Conference

A large group of young people from Peterborough and district travelled to Belleville by chartered bus and private cars to attend the Bay of Quinte Conference Young People's Union convention in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Friday evening following registration and a banquet, films were shown of the conference camp, Quin-Mo-Lac near Madoc. This was followed by a play party, a music appreciation session and meditation.

Lloyd Starke, president of Peterborough Presbytery YPU, was chairman Saturday morning at which the first theme address was given by Dr. W. J. Johnson of Eglinton United Church, Toronto. He spoke on Religious Allergies and what to do to cure them.

Representatives at the convention divided into six commission groups for discussion.

Commission groups and leaders were: Stewardship and Training, the Rev. G. D. Young, Marmora; Faith and Evangelism, the Rev. Morley Clarke, Thomasburg; Missions and World Outreach, the Rev. E. Daniels, Hamilton; Citizenship and Community Service, the Rev. C. D. McLellan, Napanee; Recreation and Culture, Miss Glenna Wilson, Oshawa; Boys' and Girls' Work, Rev. H. W. Giffen, Foxboro.

Following luncheon, Dr. Johnson gave a further theme address on the "Use we make of life." The commission groups again met and then the annual election of Conference executive took place.

Those elected were: honorary president, the Rev. J. E. Griffith, Castleton; past president, Ken Symons, Harwood; president, Bill Piercy, Peterborough; vice-president, Eldon Guthrie, Kingston; secretary, Phyllis Parker, Port Hope; treasurer, Fred Bayliss, Trenton.

Commissions: Stewardship and Training, Mary Stewart, Peterborough; Faith and Evangelism, Madlyn Wilcox, Bowmanville; Citizenship and Community Service, Francis Jose, Newcastle; Missions and World Outreach, Grant Hudson, Lyn; Recreation and Culture, Alice Martin, Cobourg; Leadership Training, Margaret Hillis, Belleville; Publications, Jean Evans, Kingston; Members-at-Large, Loretta MacDougall, Belleville; John Mather, Perth; Bill Werry, Oshawa; Garnet Pogue, Omemee.

Nearly 400 sat down to the banquet Saturday evening at which greetings were brought from young people of the AYPA, BYPU and Salvation Army.

The Rev. Elda Daniels attended wearing a colorful Korean costume given her before she left the Korean mission field and Miss Daniels gave an inspiring talk on the Korean Christians and their stand for their faith.

Highlight of Saturday evening was Dr. Kenneth Barton's address on missions which he followed by showing an appropriate film.

A packed church Sunday morning heard Dr. Johnson preach the sermon assisted in the service by the Rev. D. McTavish and Ken Symons, retiring president.

The Sunday afternoon session began with reports of various commissions and committees. Among those giving reports were four from this city: Elinor Bird reporting on missions and world outreach; Betty Piercy on boys' and girls' work; Joe Whetung on citizenship and community service, and Bill Piercy on the YPU paper "The Quinte Broadcast."

The Rev. George Young of Marmora installed the new executive followed by a communion service conducted by the Rev. Duncan McTavish of Bridge St. United church, who later preached at the evening service.

The convention closed with a candlelight dedication service led by Madlyn Wilcox. A very large congregation of young people passed on the light from candle to candle until a complete circle of glowing candles was created followed by a recessional.

STOP THE TORY "SQUANDER-LUST"

DO YOU KNOW WHAT YOUR GOVERNMENT IS COSTING YOU TODAY?

...before it is too late!

WE have said the Tory government is extravagant. We have quoted figures and cited examples. You will rightly ask, "What does this mean to ME? Figures are such impersonal things. Ontario revenue and spending have never been so luxuriously high."

These things are true. Let us put it this way . . . a Province is like a man's home. When it is well managed and the money is wisely spent, there is enough for all. But last year, the Tories increased the Provincial debt by over $32,000,000. Everyone knows the distressing effect of debt in the household.

When we say well-managed, as Ontario would be under Liberal Government, we do not mean managed in a niggardly way by slashing essential expenses. There are many basic and inalienable rights to which you, as a citizen and tax-payer, are entitled. Good management must first provide for the needs of many kinds of people or poverty and unemployment will result.

We mean, instead, that your money will be spent wisely. The power to spend vast sums of money is a heady wine to some and it is evident the Tories have become sadly intoxicated. But it is not their money they are spending. It is yours. You are entitled to full value for your money—and you are not getting it!

What, then, must be done?

The answer, like all great and fundamental truths, is simple.

Ontario must return to a sound government that spends wisely in your interests and no other.

Through this one simple, basic principle of good government alone — one which the Tories have blissfully ignored throughout their entire term of office — millions of dollars can be salvaged and used to provide the benefits and services for which they were intended.

This, for your consideration, is the sober truth.

HERE IS THE SOBER TRUTH!

FACT	Since 1943, when the Tories came into power, the cost of government in Ontario has increased from $27 to $57 per person.	WHY?
FACT	In one year alone, 1950-51, the Tories managed to increase the Provincial debt by $32,240,919, while they claim a surplus of $26,000,000.	WHY?
FACT	Education grants have grown from $6,900,000 to nearly $30,000,000. Yet municipal tax bills remain the same. Schools are either tragically over crowded or municipalities are forced to build beyond their needs and means. For eight years, there hasn't even been a full-time Minister of Education!	WHY?
FACT	Tory new highway construction and maintenance has been a hit-and-miss disgrace, a hindrance to tourists and an inconvenience to all. Despite this, Tory Highway Department expenditures have increased 225.2% to an all time high, although of the $87,000,000 collected from motorists last year, the Tories spent only $46,000,000 on roads.	WHY?
FACT	The cost of law and order under a part time Attorney-General has soared 208.1%. Yet employment conditions are so bad only 20% of Ontario Provincial Police trained recruits remain. When investigation was demanded, the Tories appointed the Attorney-General to head the committee . . . to investigate himself!	WHY?
FACT	Ontario's forest production has increased since 1943 from $65 million to $300 million. Yet Tory program for desperately needed reforestation is only one-third that of Liberals in 1943. Despite this alarming fact, their expenditures have increased 143.4%!	WHY?
FACT	Ontario needs 150,000 dwellings. Despite generous Liberal offers to pay 75% of cost of building rental housing, THE TORIES HAVE YET TO BUILD A SINGLE UNIT!	WHY?

Walter Thomson says—

"Why, Ontario, are all these and many more Tory government operations placing such a heavy drain on your pocket? Tax revenue has doubled. The Tories will try to blame it on the cost of living. The truth is that while the cost of living index has risen to 189.7 the COST OF GOVERNING INDEX HAS SKYROCKETED TO 303.6 UNDER THE TORIES!"

Hotel Owner May Be Jailed

WINDSOR, Oct. 31 (CP)—Use of false information in obtaining a hotel liquor licence may mean a jail term for John Ferlecki, 60, proprietor of the South Side Royal York House.

Ferlecki was convicted by Magistrate J. A. Hanrahan Monday of giving false information to the Liquor Licence Control Board, and was remanded a day in custody for sentencing. The cadi indicated he was considering a jail term.

The Crown alleged that Ferlecki declared himself to be the sole owner when he applied for the licence, whereas he was not.

Dan Fedicec, Kirkland Lake meat and grocery dealer, said that in November, 1949, he became a partner when he bought a lot for $4,000 and gave Ferlecki $11,200 in cash.

He said the house opened in September, 1950, and that he left in February, 1951, because Ferlecki "didn't want a partner any more."

St. Paul's, Warkworth Marks Anniversary

WARKWORTH, Oct. 31—(ENS)—Anniversary services were held in St. Paul's United church Sunday in the morning and evening. Large congregations were in attendance at both services and the church was decorated for the occasion with ferns and 'mums.

The Rev. A. E. McCutcheon, Picton United church, was the guest speaker. In the morning his theme was "Who is on the Lord's Side?" The church choir, under the direction of Mrs. Douglas Knight, the church organist, and Mrs. Glen Hancock, the pianist, sang two anthems, "The Lord is Gracious" and "Christ Our Passover," with solo parts in the latter anthem being taken by Mrs. Jim McCleary, Miss Ina Bowen and Douglas Knight. A ladies' quartette, composed of Mrs. Don Thompson, Miss Ina Bowen, Mrs. Jas. McCleary and Mrs. Howard Wilson, sang "I Am Listening."

In the evening, the Rev. H. G. Lester was present and was in charge of the evening service, also the Rev. J. M. Ritchie of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, was present. Mr. McCutcheon was the guest speaker. He chose for his topic the words of Christ, "I Am the Light of the World. He that followeth Me shall not be in darkness," using the word "light."

The male choir of the church, composed of 16 voices, sang two anthems, "There Is Room at the Front" and "Singing Along the Way," and a male quartette composed of A. M. Smale, W. B. Baker, Richard Knight and Douglas Knight sang "Shall I Crucify Him," with Mrs. Douglas Knight, the church organist, and Mrs. G. Hancock, pianist, accompanying.

100 Attend Couple's Silver Anniversary

NORWOOD, Oct. 31—(ENS)—More than 100 friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Taylor gathered at the Legion Hall in Havelock on Friday in honor of their silver wedding anniversary.

The evening was spent in dancing to music supplied by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Roach of Peterborough, with Gerald Haig as master of ceremonies.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor were presented with a large number of gifts, the address being read by Miss Ruth Davey. During the evening several pictures were taken by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lutes. Friends were present from Norwood, Peterborough, Warsaw, Keene, Coldsprings, and Brighton.

Screen Writer Feared Drowned

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Oct. 31 (AP)—Search continued today for screen writer William Scott Darling, 53, whose wallet was found floating in the ocean Monday.

His car was parked on the beach nearby and his attorney said he failed to show up for an appointment.

The screen writer, a native of Toronto, is not to be confused with art director William A. Darling, 69, a three-time Academy Award winner for art direction.

The Associated Press erroneously listed screen writer Darling as sharing an Academy Award for scripting "Anna and the King of Siam" in 1946. Actually, it was art director Darling who won the award, and it was for art direction.

He also won "Oscars" for "Cavalcade" in 1933 and "Song of Bernadette" in 1943.

William A. Darling is retired and is living in Palm Springs, Calif.

Wm. Buttars Honored On 83rd Birthday

COLDSPRINGS, Oct. 31 (ENS)—On Sunday, four generations were present at a birthday celebration for William Buttars of Coldsprings, who is 83.

Present were his daughter, Mrs. Norman McPherson, and Mr. MacPherson, Toronto. His granddaughter, Mrs. J. W. McGeorge and Mr. McGeorge, Mrs. J. J. Gleed and Mr. Gleed, Mrs. K. McRuer and Mr. McRuer, Mrs. I. A. Brown and Mr. Brown, and Miss Ellen McPherson.

Great grandchildren who were present were Wendy, Susan and Peter Gleed, Wayne McGeorge, Anne and Jeffrey McRuer, and Janey Brown, all of Toronto. Others present were Mr. Glynn Broderick, Toronto, and Dr. Alex Hoskin, Coldsprings.

Dinner and supper was served and a family reunion enjoyed.

Emergency Step To Aid Wheat

OTTAWA, Oct. 31 (CP)—As an emergency step the Canadian Wheat Board has ordered the railways to concentrate for the next six weeks on getting milling grades of wheat to the West Coast and the Lakehead, Trade Minister Howe said Tuesday.

The action, he told the Commons, was taken so that Canada can meet commitments abroad before the close of navigation on the Great Lakes in December.

In a statement on Canada's current grain situation, which he described as "very good" over-all, the minister also said:

1. An estimated $100,000,000 will be distributed to Western farmers in the next three weeks in final payment on last year's grain crops.

2. After the close of navigation, efforts will be concentrated on those prairie areas where there is a pileup of lower grades of wheat.
